SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

I love church cookbooks. Today's recipes are from the Silver Creek Lutheran Church cookbook and I have taken the liberty of printing the names of those who submitted the recipes so you'll know where the recipes came from.

This chili has an unusual name, but it sounds good and simple, too - just right for these busy, cold fall days:

BUCK BREATH CHILI
Pearl Nelson

1 1/2 pounds ground beef with salt and pepper to taste
1/4 pound bacon, fried crisp and crumbled
2 stalks celery
2 medium cans pork and beans or chili beans
2 cans tomato sauce
1 chopped onion, browned with ground beef
1/4 teaspoon red pepper
2 teaspoons chili powder
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 green pepper

Mix all ingredients together and simmer.

Here's a substantial meal - serve with a salad and fresh bread and it will fill up a crowd:

ALMOST PIZZA
Ann Nelson

7 cups thinly sliced potatoes (3 pounds)
1 pound lean ground beef
1 (11 ounce) can nacho cheese soup
1 cup milk
1 (10 3/4 ounce) can tomato soup
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano, crushed
1 (3 1/2 ounce) package sliced pepperoni or any favorite pizza toppings
1 to 2 cups shredded mozzarella cheese (4 to 8 ounces)

Place sliced potatoes in greased 9x13 inch pan. Set aside.

In large skillet, cook beef until browned and drain off fat.

Combine cheese soup and milk in small saucepan. Cook and stir over medium heat until heated through.

In mixing bowl, stir together tomato soup, onion, sugar and oregano.

Sprinkle beef over potatoes.

Pour cheese mixture over all, then top with tomato soup mixture and sliced pepperoni or other toppings.

Cover and bake at 375 degrees for 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 hours, until potatoes are tender.

Let stand 5 minutes before serving. (Serves 8-10 people.)

This casserole will also serve a bunch - it is cooked on top of the stove:

WILD RICE CASSEROLE
Dawn Ose

2 cups wild rice (uncooked)
1/2 pound bacon, diced
3 cups celery, diced
2 cups onion, diced
1 green pepper, optional
1 can chicken rice soup
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 can button mushrooms, drained
2 pounds ground beef
Salt, pepper and garlic salt to taste

Fill a large kettle 3/4 full of cold water. Pour in rice and let come to a boil. Reduce heat to medium and let boil 45 minutes to 1 hour, until rice is tender. Drain and rinse under cold water at least 10 minutes.

While rice is cooking, dice bacon and fry until very crisp. Save all grease and add celery, onions and green pepper and saute. Add ground beef and brown.

Drain and add mixture to rice, along with bacon. Add both cans soup, drained mushrooms, salt, pepper and garlic salt to taste. Using 2 large forks, toss ingredients together, no stirring, as this will make sticky.

Cook on low heat on top of stove about 1 1/2 hours, tossing frequently to prevent sticking.

Here's a simple dish that would be great for company:

HAMBURGER STROGANOFF
Ruth Hanson

1/4 cup butter
1/2 cup minced onions
1 pound ground beef
2 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 (8 ounce) can sliced mushrooms
1 (10 1/2 ounce) can cream of chicken soup, undiluted
1 cup sour cream
3 tablespoons minced parsley

Saute onions in butter over medium heat. Add meat and brown.

Stir in flour, salt, pepper, mushrooms, and soup. Cook for 5 minutes. Blend in sour cream and heat thoroughly.

Sprinkle with parsley and serve over wide noodles.

CABBAGE HOT DISH
Margaret Restemayer

1 pound ground beef, browned and drained
1 onion, chopped
3 cups shredded cabbage
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 can tomato soup or stewed tomatoes
1 (16 ounce) can kidney beans

Place cabbage in casserole. Top with ground beef, onion, beans and seasonings. Pour soup over and bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

While Thief River Falls residents contemplate the thought of higher taxes generated with an additional school bond, we must stop and realize Minnesota is among the highest in the nation in commercial-industrial real estate taxes.

Minnesota's property-tax system relies heavily on commercial-industrial property as a source of revenue for local governments.

Commercial-industrial property and apartment buildings, for instance, have higher taxable values than homes and farms. Commercial-industrial property had the highest-class rates: 4.7 percent of any value above $100,000 and three percent on the first $100,000 of market value in 1993. This compares to one percent for the first $72,000 of value for homes.

During the same time period, seven counties and 54 cities over 2,500 in population actually lost tax base. Even more startling, 32 counties and 64 cities over 2,500 in population actually lost commercial-industrial property tax base.

Minnesota's commercial taxes are among the highest in the nation, particularly for businesses with small amounts of personal property. Since Minnesota does not tax personal property, our effective property tax ranking for commercial-industrial property varies depending on the composition of the firm's property. Minnesota's effective property tax for a typical commercial firm ranked second in the nation and for a typical industrial firm it ranked sixth, as calculated in 1991 by the Minnesota Department of Revenue.

However, for a high-tech factory, with a large proportion of personal property, Minnesota's effective property-tax rate ranked 32nd in the nation.

Hennepin county dominated the decline in commercial-industrial property values between 1990 and 1993 with $51.7 million loss and Ramsey county with a $10 million loss. Thirty Greater Minnesota counties also lost commercial-industrial property value.

A total of 64 cities over 2,500 in population lost commercial-industrial value. Again, Minneapolis dominated with a $31.5 million loss, followed by St. Paul with a $10 million loss. Other similarly situated cities included Minnetonka, St. Louis Park, Eden Prairie and Golden Valley.

Losses of commercial-industrial tax base have the effect, all other things being equal, of shifting tax burdens to other types of property, including homes and farms. These losses are critical because in the past communities with strong commercial-industrial tax bases relied on this type of property to provide a lion's share of property-tax revenues.

Local government officials have few options available to them as they confront the impacts of a shrinking property-tax base and shifts in the local tax burden toward lower-value homes. They could increase taxes on remaining properties, cut spending and manage program differently to do more with less, or seek additional sources of revenue, including increased amounts of aid from the state.

In fact, local governments with declining tax bases and large property-tax increases called on the state to use a portion of the 1994 projected revenue surplus to increase funding for property-tax relief.

Don't be the guy that killed the goose that laid the golden egg.

Sincerely,
Norm Anderson

To The Editor:

To Whom It May Concern: I don't remember if I asked your name; I don't believe I have ever seen you before today, but for some reason I remember the name of your dog..."Liconce."

I am just writing to say thank you for the hug and words of kindness while I was waiting for my best friend to come out of the vet's office for the last time. I could see what "Liconce" meant to you, so you know what "Peaches" meant to me. I will always be grateful for your kindness.

Some may think I'm a bit "touched," but only those of us who have pets and treat them with love and respect will know how it feels to lose your "best friend."

For those of you who have pets, treat them the way you want them to treat you, and they will reward you with years of love, undying devotion and hours of pleasure. My friend will be sadly missed by her family.

Again, I thank whoever you are, and I hope "Liconce" gives you the same love and joy that "Peaches" gave us for the past 14 years.

Sincerely,
Craig Wm. Lindahl

To The Editor:

Once again the only answer to the supposed woes of the public school system is to extract more money from the overburdened taxpayer. There are more solutions to "overcrowded classrooms" than just more teachers and more wasted money.

In my opinion, the school system itself is archaic, and we don't need more money to improve it. To easily cut class sizes in half, cut the school day in half and have two shifts of students. Then have a curriculum that can involve students with their parents in a learning atmosphere by giving homework that should be done together. That is a hard but sensible solution.

Or we could cut the school year into two six-month halves and have half the students go one part of the year and the other go the other part. This would even help teachers who have to find work during that long summer break. Once again the hard part would be six months of no school for students who would need caring and mentoring from their parents.

That is how easy it is to come up with ideas that don't involve wasting more taxpayer money. Why is it that I can come up with two ideas just as I sat down at my computer, but our educational leaders can only come up with the same stupid solution year after year?

Please vote no on the levy once again, and send a message to our superintendent and the school board that we will not be bullied into giving in to over-taxation. We have voted no year after year and it is time we got another idea on the agenda.

Sincerely,
John Bouchard

Student Behavior At Sports Events Shameful

A front page lead story in the Grand Forks Herald on October 22 concerned a meeting with University of North Dakota president Kendall Baker regarding behavior of some NDSU fans during the UND-North Dakota State University football game Saturday, October 18, at UND's Memorial Stadium. The meeting was probably in the wrong place with the wrong person.

It would have made more sense for the student group BRIDGES and others offended by the NDSU supporters to have met in Fargo with the NDSU president, although it is doubtful either such meeting would accomplish much. The BRIDGES group wants to change the UND Sioux nickname and logo. NDSU fan behavior, however, has nothing to do with the UND team name or logo. It has everything to do with immaturity, insensitivity and disrespect.

Foul language and bad behavior by what was purported to be NDSU students undoubtedly was both offensive and uncalled for. But it certainly wasn't an isolated situation nor exclusive to NDSU. Having attended the UND-University of Minnesota hockey series last year, we are aware the UND student section is fully capable of establishing itself in the upper echelon of group rudeness, profanity and irresponsibility. We would suspect the same to be true on other four-year college campuses, and we know it is not foreign to our own community's college and even some high school contests.

Athletic rivalries between colleges are fine as long as they are observed on a level of respect and decency. Today's college student vocabulary of four-letter words expressed repetitively at athletic contests does little to encourage support for either the students or the colleges. We tend to remember this lack of maturity and responsible behavior when we hear student complaints of tuition increases or other perceived problems which might hinder their "higher" education.

Of course, not all college students are loud-mouthed, obscene jerks obsessed with listening to themselves be offensive. Your kids, for instance, wouldn't be that way. Maybe other people's kids, but not your own. Probably the majority of students have a proper sense of restraint and perhaps most students as individuals wouldn't talk and act alone as they do in a pack of their peers at a spirited game.

We know that it detracts from the enjoyment of watching talented athletes compete on the field, floor or ice when the main activity of some "fans" is to demonstrate how loud and how crass they can be. Such behavior is shameful.

Another Standoff: More Lack Of Reason

For a month now 51-year-old Shirley Ann Allen has made fools of the Illinois State Police, holding out in her home in Roby against a siege that has cost the state nearly a half-million dollars. What heinous crime has this woman committed to command such attention? She sometimes acts "a little strange."

Allen has apparently behaved strangely enough since her husband died of cancer in 1989 to cause members of her family to seek and receive a court order for her to have a psychiatric examination. When her brother and deputies arrived at her home to "try to get her some help," she ordered them off her property. She "holed up" in her house and twice fired a shotgun with no one being injured.

Instead of doing as they were told and leaving the property, perhaps to try and enforce the order another day in another way, police undertook the 24-hour watch and established the stand-off. Tear gas was fired through the windows of her home, Allen was shot at with "beanbag" bullets intended to disable her, water and power were cut off to her home and searchlights and loud music were employed at night to deprive her of sleep. A woman was arrested for sneaking past police barriers and attempting to bring groceries to Allen's door.

Allen reportedly was an avid home canner and police speculate she has a food supply for several more weeks.

Members of Allen's family have issued a statement in support of the police. Neighbors and sympathizers have complained that it was inhumane to cut off power to a home with temperatures dropping near freezing and that police should just go away and leave her alone.

The latter suggestion is not likely to be heeded—not after the amount of money and time already expended. That would be admitting a mistake had been made. No, the siege will continue until something happens—probably bad, such as a forced confrontation or severe deterioration in Allen's physical health.

Incredibly, State Police Director Terrance Gainer says mental health experts have assured him that the 24-hour per day surveillance is the way to bring the standoff to a peaceful end.

"We are not in this woman's face," he was quoted as saying. "We are there for this woman's protection and for the protection of her neighbors."

If the mental health advisors who affirmed the siege are the same who would conduct the court-ordered psychiatric evaluation, Allen showed extreme intelligence in ordering her brother and deputies off her property. Who in his or her right mind would put himself or herself in the hands of such irrational thinkers. There should be nothing like a few weeks of isolation, harassment, sleep deprivation, dehydration, hypothermia, lack of sanitation and constant fear to improve a person's mental health.

And if firing tear gas and beanbag bullets and cutting off power and water is the way police go about affording protection, we think we would prefer to go without it.

How can law enforcement agencies get themselves into such ridiculous predicaments? And why does common sense have to be such a scarce commodity in dealing with people?

It could well be that Shirley Allen needs help, but this surely seems like a strange way to get it for her.

Local residents warned about fraud scheme

Local residents should be on the alert for someone attempting to obtain credit cards in their name.

Recently one local resident received a telephone call from a credit card company. The company was calling to verify information filled out on credit card application. The local resident had not applied for a credit card from the company. Upon learning this, the credit card company stopped the application process. Local law enforcement officials were also contacted.

Local law enforcement officers contacted law enforcement officials in Scarsdale, NY, where the credit application was filed. Officials there checked out the address on the application and learned that it was a drop box. The investigation was turned over to Secret Service officials who believe it is the act of Nigerian nationals. They believe the Nigerian nationals are obtaining information about other individuals on the internet and then applying for credit cards with the information.

Local residents are once again encouraged not to give out personal information and identification, such as Social Security numbers, and bank account numbers.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

While Thief River Falls residents contemplate the thought of higher taxes generated with an additional school bond, we must stop and realize Minnesota is among the highest in the nation in commercial-industrial real estate taxes.

Minnesota's property-tax system relies heavily on commercial-industrial property as a source of revenue for local governments.

Commercial-industrial property and apartment buildings, for instance, have higher taxable values than homes and farms. Commercial-industrial property had the highest class rates: 4.7 percent of any value above $100,000 and three percent on the first $100,000 of market value in 1993. This compares to one percent for the first $72,000 of value for homes.

During the same time period, seven counties and 54 cities over 2,500 in population actually lost tax base. Even more startling, 32 counties and 64 cities over 2,500 in population actually lost commercial-industrial property tax base.

Minnesota's commercial taxes are among the highest in the nation, particularly for businesses with small amounts of personal property. Since Minnesota does not tax personal property, our effective property tax ranking for commercial-industrial property varies depending on the composition of the firm's property. Minnesota's effective property tax for a typical commercial firm ranked second in the nation and for a typical industrial firm it ranked sixth, as calculated in 1991 by the Minnesota Department of Revenue.

However, for a high-tech factory with a large proportion of personal property, Minnesota's effective property-tax rate ranked 32nd in the nation.

Hennepin county dominated the decline in commercial-industrial property values between 1990 and 1993 with $51.7 million loss and Ramsey county with a $10 million loss. Thirty Greater Minnesota counties also lost commercial-industrial property value.

A total of 64 cities over 2,500 in population lost commercial-industrial value. Again, Minneapolis dominated with a $31.5 million loss, followed by St. Paul with a $10 million loss. Other similarly situated cities included Minnetonka, St. Louis Park, Eden Prairie and Golden Valley.

Losses of commercial-industrial tax base have the effect, all other things being equal, of shifting tax burdens to other types of property, including homes and farms. These losses are critical because in the past communities with strong commercial-industrial tax bases relied on this type of property to provide a lion's share of property-tax revenues.

Local government officials have few options available to them as they confront the impacts of a shrinking property-tax base and shifts in the local tax burden toward lower value homes. They could increase taxes on remaining properties, cut spending and manage programs differently to do more with less, or seek additional sources of revenue, including increased amounts of aid from the state.

In fact, local governments with declining tax bases and large property tax increases called on the state to use a portion of the 1994 projected revenue surplus to increase funding for property tax relief.

Don't be the guy that killed the goose that laid the golden egg.

Sincerely,
Norm Anderson
Thief River Falls

To The Editor:

To Whom It May Concern: I don't remember if I asked your name. I don't believe I have ever seen you before today, but for some reason I remember the name of your dog – "Licorice."

I am just writing to say thank you for the hug and words of kindness while I was waiting for my best friend to come out of the vet's office for the last time. I could see what "Licorice" meant to you, so you know what "Peaches" meant to me. I will always be grateful for your kindness.

Some may think I'm a bit "touched," but only those of us who have pets and treat them with love and respect will know how it feels to lose your "best friend."

For those of you who have pets, treat them the way you want them to treat you, and they will reward you with years of love, undying devotion and hours of pleasure. My friend will be sadly missed by her family.

Again, I thank whoever you are, and I hope "Licorice" gives you the same love and joy that "Peaches" gave us for the past 14 years.

Sincerely,
Craig Wm. Lindahl

To The Editor:

Once again the only answer to the supposed woes of the public school system is to extract more money from the overburdened taxpayer. There are more solutions to "overcrowded classrooms" than just more teachers and more wasted money.

In my opinion, the school system itself is archaic, and we don't need more money to improve it. To easily cut class sizes in half, cut the school day in half and have two shifts of students. Then have a curriculum that can involve students with their parents in a learning atmosphere by giving homework that should be done together. That is a hard but sensible solution.

Or we could cut the school year into two six-month halves and have half the students go one part of the year and the other go the other part. This would even help teachers who have to find work during that long summer break. Once again the hard part would be six months of no school for students who would need caring and mentoring from their parents.

That is how easy it is to come up with ideas that don't involve wasting more taxpayer money. Why is it that I can come up with two ideas just as I sat down at my computer, but our educational leaders can only come up with the same stupid solution year after year?

Please vote no on the levy once again, and send a message to our superintendent and the school board that we will not be bullied into giving in to over-taxation. We have voted no year after year and it is time we got another idea on the agenda.

Sincerely,
John Bouchard

Student Behavior At Sports Events Shameful

A front page lead story in the Grand Forks Herald on October 22 concerned a meeting with University of North Dakota president Kendall Baker regarding behavior of some NDSU fans during the UND-North Dakota State University football game Saturday, October 18, at UND's Memorial Stadium. The meeting was probably in the wrong place with the wrong person.

It would have made more sense for the student group BRIDGES and others offended by the NDSU supporters to have met in Fargo with the NDSU president, although it is doubtful either such meeting would accomplish much. The BRIDGES group wants to change the UND Sioux nickname and logo. NDSU fan behavior, however, has nothing to do with the UND team name or logo. It has everything to do with immaturity, insensitivity and disrespect.

Foul language and bad behavior by what was purported to be NDSU students undoubtedly was both offensive and uncalled for. But it certainly wasn't an isolated situation nor exclusive to NDSU. Having attended the UND-University of Minnesota hockey series last year, we are aware the UND student section is fully capable of establishing itself in the upper echelon of group rudeness, profanity and irresponsibility. We would suspect the same to be true on other four-year college campuses, and we know it is not foreign to our own community's college and even some high school contests.

Athletic rivalries between colleges are fine as long as they are observed on a level of respect and decency. Today's college student vocabulary of four-letter words expressed repetitively at athletic contests does little to encourage support for either the students or the colleges. We tend to remember this lack of maturity and responsible behavior when we hear student complaints of tuition increases or other perceived problems which might hinder their "higher" education.

Sustainable-ag loan applications being accepted

Minnesota Department of Agriculture is accepting applications for loans from its Sustainable Agriculture Program through Dec. 1, 1997, according to Commissioner Gene Hugoson.

Purchases and projects that help make Minnesota farms and farmers more economically, environmentally and socially sustainable are eligible for loans of up to $15,000 at a six percent interest rate. Joint projects involving several farmers are eligible for loans of up to $75,000 or $15,000 per participant.

Commissioner Hugoson praised the loan program and its borrowers, saying it has assisted scores of Minnesota farmers to improve their profitability through application of innovative sustainable practices.

"With more than $2.3 million loaned to 229 farmers since the program began," he said, "the payback record is outstanding, indicating that these are true success stories."

Eligible purchases may include items such as fencing to implement rotational grazing systems, alternative weed and soil management or fertilizing equipment, hoop houses and other low cost buildings, on-farm processing equipment for value-added products, breeding livestock and other items.

The loan program accepts applications continuously and reviews them four times a year. Applications for loans for this program cycle are being accepted through December 1. A technical review panel evaluates the applications based on potential to increase farm profitability and benefits to the environment. The next review panel meeting will be in mid-December.

For an application or additional information, contact Wayne Monsen, loan and grant coordinator at 612-282-2261 or write: Sustainable Agriculture Program, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, 90 West Plato Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55107.

Dairy diagnostic grant to help state's dairy farmers

As part of the Minnesota Department of Agriculture's continuing effort to boost the profitability of the state's dairy farmers, grants of $870,000 have been announced by Commissioner Gene Hugoson for dairy diagnostic grant programs.

Five regional dairy projects, covering all areas of the state, have been selected as grant recipients. A joint grant was also awarded to the Minnesota Forage and Grassland Council and the Sustainable Farming Association of Minnesota.

Grant recipients include: Northwest Minnesota Dairy Diagnostic Team Project, $47,000; Riverland Community College, $200,000; Central Minnesota Dairy Team Project, $304,300; West Central Minnesota Dairy Team Project, $125,000; and the Dairy Profitability Enhancement Program of Carver county, $168,000.

Each group will cover its geographic region of the state. Riverland Community College will cover the southern portion of Minnesota as well as other counties not included in the regional programs. The Minnesota Forage and Grassland Council and the Sustainable Farming Association of Minnesota jointly received $25,700 to work cooperatively with the diagnostic teams delivering information on their programs.

Appropriated by the 1997 state legislature, the grants will be used to help non-profit organizations administer one-on-one educational teams that work with individual dairy producers. The teams provide producers with helpful technological information, including sustainable agriculture methods and rotational grazing information, that can help the dairy farmer improve his or her operation.

"This funding is one of the most exciting appropriations we received at the department this year," Hugoson said. "The dairy industry is the major force behind our agricultural economy in Minnesota. This money will be used to help vulnerable producers remain profitable and to increase profitability for successful producers."

The dairy diagnostic teams will be comprised of dairy professionals, dairy extension educators and farm business management personnel. They will be trained to work with the producer to identify an operation's strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats, and then to develop an individualized program for each participant.

The producer will have direct involvement through the diagnostic teams and will have access to the latest information and technologies available to increase profitability. The program will be delivered to producers at a low cost.

Producers interested in participating in this program should contact their area dairy extension specialist or Katy Kulesa at the Minnesota Department of Agriculture at 612-215-3946 or 1-800-967-2474.

United Spring Wheat Processors set series

United Spring Wheat Processors has scheduled a series of 31 information meetings across Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota beginning on October 29, including several in northwestern Minnesota and eastern North Dakota.

"More than 3,200 spring wheat growers from the four-state region helped finance the development of USWP's business plan," states Gary Lee, president and CEO of USWP. "Now they will have the opportunity to review the cooperative's business disclosure documentation and make the decision to take an equity position in the business."

Lee says the official equity offering will be made via the disclosure documents which will be mailed to current members and made available to other growers in mid-October. The series of meetings is designed to provide additional information to potential investors, and to answer questions.

Lee said all spring wheat growers—members and non-members alike—are invited and encouraged to attend the information meetings.

"While our members will have the first opportunity to purchase USWP shares, new members will be considered if existing members do not take all the shares," he said. "Should this occur, new members would be required to pay a slightly higher share value."

USWP recently announced the general direction of its business plan, stating that its core strategy is to position the cooperative on a path to leadership in the frozen dough and frozen partially-baked products manufacturing business.

Two-hour equity information meetings have been scheduled as follows for this general area:

Monday, Nov. 10, 9 a.m. at the Fargo, ND, Holiday Inn;

Tuesday, Nov. 11, at 9 a.m. at the Veterans of Foreign Wars club rooms in Ada;

Wednesday, November 12, at 9 a.m. at the community center in Hawley;

Monday, Nov. 17, at 9 a.m. at the Ramada Inn in Grand Forks, ND;

Tuesday, Nov. 18, at 3 p.m. in the American Legion club rooms in Warren;

Wednesday, November 19, at 9 a.m. in the Marketplace in Grafton, ND, and at 2 p.m. in the city hall at Hallock; and Thursday, November 20, at 9 a.m. at Northland Inn of Crookston.

In its earlier business plan announcement, USWP said it should be able to manufacture products from the 1998 spring wheat crop, with more than five million bushels expected to be needed. Members will be able to deliver their wheat to the elevator of their choice.

The USWP plan indicates a requirement of $60 million over several growth phases and calls for $31 million in grower equity which would allow the cooperative to complete its first phase of construction without debt.

Members will be offered a minimum investment of $4,800 which represents 800 shares at $6 per share. One share provides the right to deliver one bushel of spring wheat per year. The plan allows for an average investment of $9,600 per member.

If some members choose to take less than the $9,600, others will be offered the extra shares. In the event existing members do not purchase all the shares, new members will be considered at a slightly higher share value.

Lee said the cooperative is pursuing the frozen dough and partially-baked products field because of consumer demand for greater variety in food choices, a lack of skilled bakers and the fact that the frozen dough and partially-baked products industry is not dominated by any one large player.

MN Dept. of Ag. book tells about sustainable ag project results

Minnesota Department of Agriculture's energy and sustainable agriculture program has published results from its 40 on-farm demonstration grant projects in Greenbook '97, which is now available to the public free of charge.

This year's projects included research into flame weeding of vegetables; controlled/rotational grazing of dairy, beef, pigs and poultry for lower costs and better profitability, integrated alternative production and marketing systems, variable rate fertility on ridge till and whole farm management compared to single enterprise management.

Copies may be obtained free of charge from ESAP, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, 90 West Plato Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55107 or by calling 612-296-7673.

U.S. Government Printing Office uses soybean ink

Use of soy ink by the U.S. Government Printing Office has nearly quadrupled since passage of the Vegetable Printing Act in 1994, according to the Minnesota Soybean Research and Promotion Council.

The act requires the federal government to use vegetable ink for printing when it is cost-competitive with petroleum-based ink.

During the 1995 fiscal year, the federal government used 84.5 tons of soy and other vegetable inks for in-house printing. Andy German, GPO program analyst, estimates that the government's contract printers are using an additional 1,000 tons of soy and vegetable ink annually.

MDA has funds for value added livestock ideas

Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA) has $200,000 allocated by the 1997 legislature to use for grants to assist new livestock and dairy cooperatives in developing value-added products. Grants up to $50,000 per cooperative may be made for feasibility, market analysis, product development and pre-design of facilities.

"It helps Minnesota farmers and the entire state economy whenever we can give our products additional value," says Minnesota Agriculture Commissioner Gene Hugoson. "Cooperatives have proven to be an effective way for farmers to develop and market value-added products."

Eligible cooperatives must be organized under Chapter 308A. Control and equity in the cooperative must be held by farmers who are actively engaged in livestock or dairy production. Cooperatives must also be operated primarily for the processing of livestock or dairy products produced in Minnesota by shareholders or members of the cooperative.

Initial application period closed October 15, however, more information is available from MDA by contacting Terry Dalbec at 612-215-0368 or Paul Hugunin at 612-297-5510.

Kansas is 13th in the world in wheat produced

If Kansas were a country instead of one of the United States, it would rank number 13 among the top wheat producing countries in the world.

The wheat harvest in Kansas—the highest wheat producing state in the United States—was 492.2 million bushels this year. The record harvest averaged 46 bushels per acre across the state—a 10 percent increase over the previous high of 41.5 bushels.

Compare the Kansas total production with world production estimates of 21.5 billion bushels and the state weighs in with a 2.3 percent share of world wheat production. Here's how Kansas ranks with the world's top wheat producing countries:

1. China—Estimated 1997 harvest of 4.17 billion bushels;
2. United States and India—Each with 2.39 billion bushels;
4. Russia—1.34 billion bushels;
5. France—1.29 billion bushels;
6. Canada—937 million bushels;
7. Germany—705 million bushels;
8. Ukraine—698 million bushels;
9. Pakistan—625 million bushels;
10. Turkey—606 million bushels;
11. United Kingdom—592 million bushels;
12. Australia—532 million bushels;
13. Kansas—492.2 million bushels; and
14. Argentina—466.1 million bushels.

Wheat Growers' resolutions to be decided at Ada Oct. 30

Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers will formulate its resolutions for its annual convention at a meeting to be conducted Thursday, October 30, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Veterans of Foreign Wars club rooms in Ada.

Lunch will be served at the meeting and registration costs for the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers convention November 24-25 in Grand Forks, ND, will be waived for growers who serve in the association's resolutions committee process.

Resolutions drafted at the October 30 meeting will be presented for formal adoption at the convention in Grand Forks and then submitted to the National Association of Wheat Growers for consideration.

To participate, or for more information, contact David Torgerson, Tracy Sayler or Marge Pladsen at the MAWG office in Red Lake Falls at 1-800-242-6118.

Anhydrous ammonia safety tips

Improper handling of anhydrous ammonia, an important source of nitrogen fertilizer for wheat, can have catastrophic results on farm workers. Common injuries from exposure are severe burns to eyes, skin and the respiratory tract.

Suggestions for greater safety include the following:

1. Always wear personal protective equipment. Standard equipment should be non-vented goggles, thermal-lined rubber gloves, face shield or approved respirator. In the absence of a lightweight rubber suit, a long-sleeved shirt or coveralls should be worn.
2. Keep anhydrous ammonia tanks out of direct sunlight so pressure relief valve does not have to vent.
3. Be sure anhydrous ammonia tanks aren't filled above recommended capacity.
4. Use care when handling the hose and valve so that the valve does not open accidentally. Never move the hose by handling the valve handle.
5. Bleed hose coupling before disconnecting.
6. Use care when cleaning plugged knives since anhydrous ammonia may be built up behind the plug.
7. Use emergency water supply for at least 15 minutes if exposed to anhydrous ammonia; seek emergency medical attention.

Ag markets may be affected by El Nino influence

According to Pro Farmer magazine, predictions have been made by the Climate Prediction Center and national Centers for Environmental Prediction that the phenomenon referred to as El Nino will continue in 1998.

If so, some of the things that could happen would be:

- A warmer winter and less snow in the Northern Plains.
- Drier than normal conditions in Indonesia, east Australia, most of Central America and the Caribbean. Coffee producers in Malaysia are already facing drought.
- Heavy rains in the central and eastern equatorial Pacific and from central Chile eastward across northwest Argentina, Uruguay and southern Brazil.
- Wetter than normal in the extreme southern United States and warmer conditions over the northern Rocky Mountains eastward to the western Great Lakes.

Immunization rates are up for flu, pneumonia, but many still not getting shots

Health officials say more Minnesotans are getting immunized against influenza and pneumococcal pneumonia — a common complication of the flue — but many adults still aren't getting the shots they need.

The immunization rate for influenza among Minnesotans aged 65 and over increased from 51 percent to 67 percent between 1993 and 1996, according to surveys conducted by the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH). The immunization rate for pneumococcal pneumonia among these older Minnesotans increased from 26 percent to 44 percent during the same period.

Although national data for 1996 aren't available, a national survey conducted in 1995 found that 58 percent of Americans over 65 got their flu shots in 1995, and 36 percent had been immunized against pneumococcal pneumonia. Flu shots have to be repeated every year, while a single pneumococcal pneumonia shot is generally good for a lifetime.

"We're pleased about the progress we're making in this area," said Minnesota Health Commissioner Anne Barry. "But we're also concerned that as many as a third of older Minnesotans still aren't being protected against influenza, and over half still haven't received a dose of the pneumococcal pneumonia vaccine. People need to understand that keeping up-to-date on your immunizations is a life-long process, and an important way to protect your health."

Health officials nationwide have set aside October 12-9 as Adult Immunization Week. In Minnesota, the event is being coordinated by the Minnesota Coalition for Adult Immunization. Headed by Dr. Kristin Nichol, a leading authority on adult immunization issues, the coalition includes MDH, the American Lung Association of Minnesota, local public health agencies, health insurance plans and health care provides throughout the state.

Influenza clinics are already underway at a number of locations around the state — including local health departments, senior centers, drug stores and other retail outlets. Flu shots are generally covered by Medicare, but people, who receive Medicare services through an HMO should check with their health plan before visiting one of the special clinics. HMO-based Medicare plans won't always provide reimbursement for shots given in non-HMO clinics.

October is the ideal time of year to get annual flu shots, Commissioner Barry noted, and it's also a good time for adults to catch up on any other immunizations they may need.

"It's best to get your flu shot during October or early November, so you'll be fully protected by the time flue season actually arrives," she said. "And while you're at it, you should also check to see if you've ever had a pneumococcal pneumonia shot, or if you need a booster for tetanus and diphtheria."

Your physician may also recommend shots for any of several other vaccine-preventable diseases, Commissioner Barry noted, including hepatitis A, hepatitis B, measles, mumps, rubella or chicken pox.

Flu shots remain a major focus of adult immunization efforts, however. Health officials especially recommend the influenza vaccine for people at high risk of developing serious complications from the flu. That includes people over 65, people with chronic conditions like heart disease, lung disease or diabetes, and women who will be in the second or third trimester of pregnancy during flu season.

Flu shots are also recommended for health care workers, and others who live with or provide care for people in those high risk groups. Children and adolescents should get the shots if they are taking aspirin on regular basis, for diseases like arthritis. In children, aspirin can increase the risk of a serious influenza complication called Reye Syndrome.

Recent research has also shown that flu shots can be beneficial for people who don't fit into any of these groups — reducing the incidence of respiratory illness, and time lost from work or other activities. For that reason, many people in the general population are now choosing to get flu shots.

Influenza vaccine should usually not be given to people who have had a severe reaction to a flu shot in the past, and people who are seriously ill with a fever should wait until they get better before getting immunized again until after the first trimester of pregnancy to be immunized, unless they have another condition which places them at risk of influenza complications. However, there is no reason to delay getting your flu shot because you've had another vaccination recently, or because you have a respiratory infection or some other mild illness.

The flu vaccine is reformulated every year, to protect against those strains of the influenza virus that are judged most likely to cause illness during the upcoming flu season. This year's vaccine is formulated to protect against strains that are similar to A Bayern, A Wuhan and B Harbin — although those exact strains will not necessarily be used to manufacture the vaccine.

It takes about two weeks for the vaccine to take effect. Although it's difficult to predict exactly when flu season will arrive each year, the first Minnesota cases are typically reported in late November or early December.

Symptoms of the illness can include fever, cough, sore throat, runny or stuffy nose, headache, muscle aches and extreme fatigue. Although symptoms like nausea, vomiting and diarrhea are sometimes mislabeled as "stomach flu," true influenza is primarily a respiratory disease.

Adults with questions about their immunization status should contact their health care provider. Information about flu shots or other adult immunizations is also available from local public health departments, the American Lung Association of Minnesota (1-800-642-LUNG or 612-227-8014), or the Minnesota Immunization Hotline (1-800-657-3970 or 612-623-5100). The hotline is staffed 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Floyd Hesse of rural Red Lake Falls, a World War II veteran, was one of more than 140 military veterans and their dependents to receive influenza immunization Thursday, October 16, at the Veterans of Foreign Wars club rooms in Thief River Falls. The VA hospital at Fargo, ND, provided the service with the local VFW post providing the site. Looking on are post senior vice commander Vern Reierson and auxiliary unit president Peggy Reierson.

Tips for safer Halloween given by MNDPS

Tips to help make Halloween a safe and fun time for adults and children have been offered by Ron Davis, commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Public Safety.

Some of the tips include:

- Children should trick-or-treat in the afternoon or early evening, accompanied by at least one adult. Take a flashlight and keep track of children in the group.
- Trick-or-treat only in the neighborhood or where the residents are known. Children should stay outside and not enter homes where residents are not known.
- Children should not attempt to trick-or-treat at houses where there are no lights on.
- Costumes should be light colored or reflectorized and should permit adequate peripheral vision.
- Drivers should watch closely for children crossing roadways.
- Children should not eat candy while trick-or-treating, but bring it home for inspection. Unwrapped or unsealed candy should be thrown away. If a child receives candy with a suspicious object in it, call the police.

Registration for skating lessons set October 30

Registration for the ice skating lessons offered by the Thief River Falls parks and recreation department will take place Thursday, October 30, from 5 to 8 p.m. in the basement of the Old Arena in downtown Thief River Falls.

Lessons are offered to people of all ages in the northwestern part of Minnesota with the program operated by a nine-member board and a program director.

Skaters are taught the fundamentals prescribed by the United States Figure Skating Association (USFSA). Preschoolers start in the Tot/Snowplow portion and are taught on three levels. School-age skaters start in the basic badge portion of the program and need to progress through the Basic 6 program to reach the Junior Advanced program.

At the Junior Advanced level, skaters are taught precision line, moves in the field, dance and freestyle. While still in the Junior Advanced portion of the program, skaters may join the Thief River Falls Skating Club and participate in skating competition.

The skating season is divided into three sessions:

Session I involves the annual skating clinic, five lessons and a test session. Session II consists of the regular skating season with half-hour lessons each Monday and Thursday evening. Session III involves practices for the annual ice skating show with most groups meeting for a 20 to 30-minute practice time over a five-week period.

Skaters must be involved in Session I or II to be eligible to participate in the skating show. Each session has a fee that is payable when that session begins.

Persons who have questions may contact Ila Anderson at 681-2056.

Garden Valley Education Foundation recently presented $5,000 grants to the Goodridge and Grygla school districts for television sets, video cassette recorders and wall brackets for use in student classrooms. Supt. Sal Hoffert (left) of the two districts accepted the checks from Ronald Engelstad, foundation treasurer, and expressed the districts' appreciation for the contributions the foundation has made available. Garden Valley Education Foundation was established in late 1990 by the Garden Valley Telephone Company to promote rural economic development through the use of modem telecommunications technology for educational purposes. It is funded by the company through use of unclaimed capital credits. In June, 1996, more than $22,000 was donated to the foundation. Grants have also been provided to area schools for interactive television service and internet access.

"Cozy" name retained

A bar-height counter with stools will line the walls of the adjoining poolroom.

The Cozy Corral logo is a cactus with horseshoes forming the C's of Cozy Corral. The logo will be used on a sign outside and in the off-sale area. Tan steel complemented with wood will cover the exterior walls of the renovated building.

While the near-by Third Base offers a fine dining atmosphere, the Cozy Corral is looking for a more casual clientele that will include families. The kitchen will offer a short order menu with a "good hamburger and fries" as its specialty.

Birthday and Christmas parties will continue to be held there. "We're going to be big on birthdays," Parenteau said. They plan to start a birthday calendar and send customers wooden nickels on their birthdays.

With "nothing much to do on Sundays," the new owners also plan to schedule special activities for that day. A 3.2 beer establishment for many years, the bar and grill received a liquor and off-sale license about 20 years ago. They also hold the second Sunday liquor license issued by the State of Minnesota.

Of the three partners, only Mark Parenteau will be active in the management of the business. After careers in cheese manufacturing and insurance, the Frenchman founded Oof-Da Tacos. He sold the business to his son recently, and while he could have retired, he needed to do "something productive." His partners, Morinville and Massmann, are younger and involved in other lines of work.

Kay Berbench Aitkin will be the assistant manager, and Parenteau expects to employ four or five others.

The Cozy Corral will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 1 a.m. "The only hang-out in town," it is the place where the townsfolk gather for their morning coffee.

Social withdrawal may explain the volunteers turning out to get the doors of their cozy hang-out open again, or maybe that's just the way folks are in a small town. In a telephone conversation, Parenteau told his brother-in-law in South Carolina about how people were turning out to help. "He couldn't believe it," Mark said.

The dictionary defines cozy as "warm and comfortable; snug." While the new owners kept the word for identification purposes, they can hope that it will actually describethe the atmosphere of their business. Cozy is already an apt decription of the town of Brooks where it's just natural for folks to turn out to help one another.

association is budgeting an operational loss of $13,295 but an overall ending balance of $9,560.

Individual Events

Primary operational loss for the county fair in 1997 was the Johnny Holm grandstand show which had total expense of $5,762 and attracted revenue of only $2,104, resulting in a net loss of $3,658.

The teen dance also showed a net loss, but was minor at $156 with total cost of $672 and revenue of $516.

Bingo produced a net income of $980.95, nearly identical to $981.41 a year ago.

Pedal pull and petting zoo had income of $1,100 received entirely from donations and costs of only $540 to provide net income of $560.

The annual raffle conducted by the county fair association produced revenue of $14,740 in ticket sales and netted $6,872 after expenses of $7,867. Proceeds from the raffle are used primarily to support the free entertainment throughout the fair at the bandshell.

Talent show and open class horse show had combined income of $860 and expense of $807.50 including $600 in prizes for a net income of $52.50.

Demolition derby sponsored by the Thief River Falls Jaycees had total revenue of $5,179 and netted the county fair association $1,631, a slight increase from $5,558 in 1996 and up substantially from $970 in 1995.

The beer garden operation had total revenue of $9,540 and total expense of $4,720 to provide a net income of $4,819. This amount nearly doubled the income of $2,690 in 1996 but was less than the net of $5,597 in 1995.

Bullride '97 was just a shade above break-even in 1997 with a net income of $96.09 in its second year as a county fair feature. Prize money to riders was increased by $5,000 to help attract top professional entries and the two-day event was highly successful as an entertainment feature.

Total revenue was $55,579 and total expense was $55,483, which included $10,921 in advertising that also benefitted the county fair. Bullride sponsors solicited $37,800 in donations while admissions and fundraising produced $16,288.

Expenses included $15,090 in prize money and $24,131 for grandstand acts, bucking bulls, bullfighters, barrelman, announcer and chutes, gates and arena fencing. The fair association collected and paid $1,059 in state sales taxes on bullride ticket sales.

For the 1998 county fair the sponsoring association has budgeted revenue of $161,980 and expense of $161,440 with the expectation of increasing this year's cash balance of $9,020 to $9,560.

Little Falls runningback Aaron Hennes was pulled down by Thief River Falls defensive back Trevor Lee during the first quarter of Tuesday's Section 8AAAA high school football playoff game at Prowler Field. Thief River Falls' Andy Herbott (31) and Seth Mertell (40) came up to help out on the play. The Prowlers outscored the Flyers 42-22 to move into the semifinals.

TRF, Alexandria meet tonight

Thief River Falls and Alexandria meet tonight (Saturday) at Prowler Field in the Section 8AAAA high school football playoff semifinals. Kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

Both recorded 20-point first round wins Tuesday when the No. 2-seeded Prowlers defeated No. 7 Little Falls 42-22 and the No. 3-seeded Cardinals stopped No. 6 Fergus Falls 34-14.

Alexandria is 6-3 for the year. The Cardinals opened with a 16-8 loss to Robbinsdale Armstrong, but bounced back to beat Brainerd 21-14 and St. Cloud Apollo 14-7. In mid-season, Alexandria lost to St. Cloud Tech 28-17, beat Sartell 28-17, then fell to Little Falls 24-15. The Cardinals finished the regular season with wins over Willmar 28-21 and Rocori 20-0.

Thief River Falls will bring a 7-2 record into the game. The Prowlers lost to Sartell 21-20 in the season opener, rattled off wins over Detroit Lakes 27-20 in overtime, Crookston 20-14, Virginia 40-20 and Bemidji 29-18 before losing to Grand Rapids 29-20. The Prowlers got by Fergus Falls 21-20 and East Grand Forks 14-7 in their final two regular seasons starts.

Admission is $5 for adults and $3 for students. No passes will be accepted.

Top-seeded Detroit Lakes will play host to No. 4 Sauk Rapids in today's other Section 8AAAA semifinal. The Storm shut out No. 5 Rocori 21-0 in the quarterfinals. The Lakers drew a first round bye in the seven-team field.

Championship game will be played Friday, Oct. 31, at 8 p.m. in the Fargodome.

The Section 8AAAA winner will then play host to the Section 7AAAA champion in the opening round Class 4A state playoffs.

TRF ground game beats Little Falls passing attack ...

Prowlers out-score Flyers

■ Chiodo rushes for 331 yards in 42-22 win

Both teams trotted their defensive units onto the field when the starting line-ups were introduced, but once the action began the offenses grabbed the spotlight Tuesday as the Thief River Falls running game out-scored the Little Falls passing attack 42-22 in a chilly Section 8AAAA high school football playoff quarter-final game at Prowler Field.

The first-ever meeting between the two teams produced highlight film performances by a pair of juniors – Thief River Falls running-back Wade Chiodo and Little Falls quarterback Mario Filippi. Both showed the talents that enabled them to crack the 1,000-yard barrier during the regular season as Chiodo rushed for 331 yards and scored five touchdowns on a 26-carry night, while Filippi completed 22 of 47 passes for 304 yards and three touchdowns.

Thief River Falls also got a 10-carry, 95-yard rushing effort from fullback Kyle Anderson, while Little Falls wide receiver Jason King caught nine passes for 145 yards and three touchdowns.

"They're talented," said Thief River Falls coach Jeff Mumm in describing the Flyers. "They have a lot of athletes. They're scary. The quarterback throws the ball awfully well, and that No. 12 (King) is a real force. We played a good football team."

But the Air Force was beaten by the Army, with the Prowlers racking up 477 of their 492 yards on the ground.

"Wade broke some big runs, and Kyle was just one step away a couple of times," noted Mumm. "We knew they (Flyers) would have a hard time stopping us on the ground. We've got four good backs. Right now it looks like we have a two-back offense with Wade and Kyle, but Trevor Lee and Andy Harbott are quality-type backs, too."

And they're running behind an offensive line that is providing them with the play-opening blocks – the holes the backs turn into big gains.

Chiodo and the Prowlers scored on their first snap of the game as he popped through right tackle on an 88-yard run with 4:31 elapsed.

A fumble and an interception stopped the next two Thief River Falls drives, with the interception leading to a Little Falls touchdown – a 64-yard Filippi toss to King, who was wide open behind the Thief River Falls secondary. The two hooked up for the conversion pass out of a fake kick for an 8-6 edge with 6:15 to play in the first half.

Thief River Falls met the challenge with an 11-play, 70-yard drive that set up a 1-yard Chiodo touchdown run off left tackle with 2:11 remaining. A 34-yard run by Anderson on a quick-opening dive was the big play on the drive.

The game took a dramatic turn in the Prowlers' favor on a two-play third quarter swing. Trailing 12-8, the Flyers were on the move when they faced a fourth-and-two at the Thief River Falls 31. Filippi gained just one yard on a quarterback sneak, turning the ball over to Thief River Falls. Chiodo then went 70 yards for a touchdown on the next play, squeezing down the right side-lines with 5:23 on the clock. Quarterback Chris Mumm added the extra points on a keeper for a 20-8 spread.

"That changed the whole complexion of the football game," acknowledged Jeff Mumm.

Moments later Chiodo came up with an interception to set up a 7-play, 41-yard touchdown drive. A 31-run run by Anderson took the ball to the 10, and Chiodo scored from a yard out, then added the conversion run for a 28-8 cushion with 49 seconds to play in the third quarter.

The Prowlers' breakaway runs made for some short, albeit very productive, possessions, while the Flyers' short, controlled passing game wound up creating more sustained drives. In the fourth quarter, for example, a 9-play, 71-yard drive and a 10-play, 68-yard drive both resulted in short Filippi touchdown tosses to King. But in between, Chiodo broke off a 60-yard touchdown run to maintain a 35-22 spread.

After an unsuccessful Little Falls on-side kick, Lee stepped through the left side on a 34-yard run that was followed on the next play by an 8-yard touchdown run by Wade Haviland, who broke away from a tackle near the line of scrimmage, spun around, and headed to the right corner of the end zone with 3:01 remaining.

The No. 2-seeded Prowlers advanced to the Section 8AAAA semifinals with a 7-2 record. The No. 7-seeded Flyers finished the year 2-7. "That record is deceiving," noted Mumm. "Little Falls plays in the Central Lakes Conference where they line-up every week and play outstanding football teams like Brainerd, the St. Cloud schools, Alexandria and Sartell."

Blue Devils shut out 45-0 in playoff debut

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke had trouble both on offense and defense Tuesday afternoon in a one-sided 45-0 Section 8 Nine-Man high school football playoff loss to Kittson County North.

The host Cougars, who beat the Blue Devils 25-14 during the regular season, scored on their first possession and never looked back. It was 27-0 at halftime.

"They took it to us from beginning to end," said Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Darwin Hagen. "Offensively, they ran the option well, and they played pretty solid defense. They got on a roll and it kind of snowballed on us."

The Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke ground game was limited to 87 yards on 38 plays. Quarterback Jared Eidelbes was the Blue Devils' top ball carrier with 43 yards on 19 carries. Halfback Alex Anderson, the Blue Devils' breakaway threat, was held to 19 yards on nine carries. Eidelbes was 6-for-14 passing for 80 yards.

"It was not the way you want to end the season," offered Hagen, whose Blue Devils finished 3-6.

Nordics fall to Wildcats

Marshall County Central gave up three first quarter touchdowns and was never able to challenge that early Tri-County lead as the Nordics dropped a season-ending 49-14 Section 8 Nine-Man high school football playoff quarterfinal game to the Wildcats in Karlstad.

Tri-County beat Marshall County Central by just a 20-14 margin in mid-season, but the Wildcats had a 35-6 halftime lead in the post-season rematch.

The Nordics, who were 3-2 back on Sept. 26, wound up with a four-game losing streak and a 3-6 season record.

Coaching appointments

Brian Olson has been named Thief River Falls' boys head high school swimming coach for the 1997-98 season, it was announced this week by Jim Sims, Director of Student Activities for School District 564.

Olson and Shon Thompson were co-head coaches for the Thief River Falls boys and girls programs last year. Olson gave up the title of co-head coach of the girls this fall while he pursued employment opportunities, but continued to work with Thompson, officially as an assistant.

This winter Olson will be listed as head coach of the boys.

Boys basketball coaching positions filled recently include Scott Brekke, ninth grade; Mike Peterson, eighth grade; and Jeff Johnson, seventh grade. Brekke stepped down as the Prowlers' head boys basketball coach at the end of the 1996-97 season.

All coaching positions are filled, pending school board approval, pointed out Sims.

Pioneers force extra match

■ NCTC volleyball team beats Central Lakes

A playoff-qualifying playoff between Northland and Central Lakes became a necessity Thursday when the Pioneers outlasted the Raiders 3-2 in a regular season-ending Minnesota Community College Conference volleyball match played in Thief River Falls.

Top four Northern Division regular season finishers earn MCCC state tournament spots. Fergus Falls, Vermilion and Rainy River had the top three spots locked up, but the fourth and final position was up for grabs in Thursday's dramatic regular season finale in Thief River Falls.

A Central Lakes win would have ended the Northland season. But the Pioneers pulled into a fourth place tie with the Raiders by winning 12-15, 16-14, 15-5, 15-17, 16-14.

Northland did it the hard way by overcoming a 13-10 deficit in the rally point fifth game, when a point is scored on every serve.

"It was a big win," acknowledged Northland coach Shari Olson.

Outcome of the match requires a Northland vs. Central Lakes play-off. And by virtue of a coin toss won by the Raiders following Thursday's contest, that match will be played in Brainerd Sunday at 1 p.m. Winner moves on to the state meet.

Paula Hovda had 20 kills in the Thursday win, with an eye-opening 39 percent hitting efficiency, and Rayna Benson collected 24 assists, with 40 percent of those sets leading to kills by the Northland hitters. Both played their best matches of the year, according to Olson.

Lara Hendrickson and Naomi Wilebski, a pair of Northland hitters, also impressed with their back row play that produced 22 digs for Hendrickson and 18 for Wilebski.

The Pioneers' hitting efficiency rose to 23 percent against Central Lakes after just a 7 percent showing in a 3-2 Monday loss to unbeaten division-leading Fergus Falls. The Spartans, ranked No. 4 in the latest NJCAA national polls, got by the upset-minded Pioneers 11-15, 15-11, 13-15, 15-12, 15-11.

The match featured 102 Northland digs. "We did a great job against one of the top teams in the country," noted Olson. "We did everything right, except hit efficiently."

Northland followed that emotional conference match-up with a lack-luster effort in a 15-9, 15-9 loss against the Concordia College junior varsity in the second part of their Monday triangular in the Pioneers' gym.

The Pioneers are 9-11 overall and 7-7 in the MCCC.

Mooney earns state meet spot

A seventh place finish by Becky Mooney at the Section 8AA girls high school cross country meet Thursday earned the Thief River Falls senior a spot in the 1997 state meet Nov. 1 at St. Olaf College in Northfield.

Mooney ran a 15:37 to grab the final qualifying spot in Thursday's race at Sartell. Amber Newby of Bemidji won the 4K race in 15:24.

"Becky dug deep and pulled out a state-qualifying finish," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Teri Ueland.

The Lumberjacks also had the top finisher in the boys' portion of the meet in Luke Mullranin, who covered the 5K course in 16:28.

Rob Russillo led the Thief River Falls boys with a 36th place 18:14.

Alexandria won both team titles, easily. The Cardinals finished with a 28-73 victory margin over runner-up Bemidji in the boys race and had a 57-71 advantage over second place Little Falls in the girls competition.

Thief River Falls finished 11th in the girls race and 14th in the boys event.

"The team didn't finish as strong as they would have liked," acknowledged Ueland, "but we still had a great season. It doesn't matter what the score was, to me, they're all winners."

Despite regular season-ending 43-14 loss to Mesabi...

NCTC still in playoff picture

There is life after death. The Northland football team found that out Thursday when a what was supposed to be a season-ending 43-14 loss to Mesabi was followed by a coin toss that may be used as a tie-breaker in determining the Northern Division's second team in the Minnesota Community College Conference state playoff semifinals. The Pioneers won the toss that included Mesabi and Itasca.

A Northland win over Mesabi would have locked up second place in the Northern Division behind Vermilion. A loss, it was reported, would eliminate the Pioneers from the post-season picture. However, a closer look revealed a possible three-way second place tie at season's end.

Northland and Mesabi are both 2-2 in the division. Vermilion has the title locked up with a 3-0 mark heading into a regular season-ending game against winless Hibbing today (Saturday). Itasca also finishes today – a home game against Southern Division member Fergus Falls. The Vikings have already completed a 2-2 trip through the Northern Division, tying them with Northland and Mesabi.

In head-to-head match-ups this fall, Northland beat Itasca; Itasca defeated Mesabi; and Mesabi knocked off Northland.

That would present the second tie-breaker: overall record. Northland and Mesabi both finished 2-6. Itasca is 2-5 heading into the Fergus Falls game. The Vikings will advance if they beat the Spartans. But by virtue of the coin toss, Northland is a playoff team if Itasca is beaten by Fergus Falls. Mesabi is the odd-man out.

Whoever emerges from the Northern Division second place log jam will head to Rochester for an MCCC semifinal match-up with the Southern Division champion Yellowjackets Nov. 1.

Northland and Mesabi played to a 14-14 first half tie, with the Pioneers' Tauheed Johnson scoring on a 5-yard run and an 80-yard kick-off return. The Vikings answered with a 30-yard run by Tyrone Morgan and a 7-yard Mike Pavlovich pass to Toben Jones.

The Norsemen went ahead 21-14 on a 31-yard Morgan touchdown run in the third quarter, and Mesabi then took over in the final 15 minutes, beginning with a 25-yard Pavlovich touchdown pass to Jason Carlson.

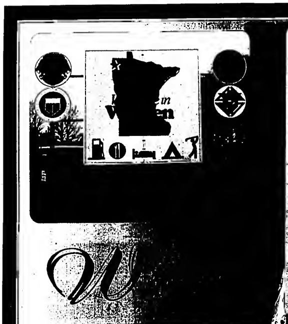
Highways 59 & 1 West 218-681-4303 Thief River Falls



Located in the heart of the Red River Valley, Warren prides itself on its quality of life. "Your Bridge to the Future" is the city's theme, and Warren believes that family is the reason that people stay and return to the area.

Warren is a safe place to live and statistics show that one is about ten times more likely to be a victim of serious crime in Minneapolis that one is in Warren. There are 20 law enforcement employees in Warren and Marshall County, and the Warren Fire Department's 26 vounteers – most with Firefighter II ratings – give the city the highest possible rating for a volunteer department.

Adding to its citizens' feelings of security is the fact that Warren's 25-member volunteer ambulance service as achieved an average response time of three minutes or less. With all of the EMTs certified by the state, qualified help is never far away.

North Valley Health Center provides Warren with a full range of medical services including a primary medical care facility with 18 acute care beds. Also offered are two family practice clinics, surgical and lab services, diagnostic imaging with CAT-scan services, physical therapy, a fitness center, home health care nursing, cardiac rehabilitation services, complete opthalmological services with retail eyewear and 24-hour emergency care.

Warren boasts a complete family-oriented recreational complex. In summer, enjoyment can be found on the 9-hole grass green golf course. There are also two tennis courts, a basketball court, indoor and outdoor horseshoe pits, five softball diamonds, paved bike trails and a rifle range. The city sponsors a summer youth program. Holiday Park is the largest in Warren's park system and features an Olympic-sized outdoor pool, 65 campsites and a play structure. Warren is also home to the Marshall County Fair and the Marshall County Historical Society whose museum and pioneer village are located at the fairgrounds. The Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary is located nearby. Winter recreational facilities include an indoor ice skating rink, cross-country ski trails, bowling and a fitness center. Local snowmobile trails are connected to the regional system.

The community also takes great pride in its educational system where students are names, not numbers. Over 70 percent of the high school graduates in the district go on to seek technical or college educations. Through cooperation with the Northwest Regional Library System, the resources of the Godel Memorial Library go far beyond the 5,000 volumes offered locally. Also located in Warren is the Developmental Achievement Center for Marshall County.

Warren offers a variety of housing options. Included are an apartment community consisting of 20 senior and 16 family units located near the Good Samaritan Nursing Home, low-rent senior citizen housing units and a modern 68-unit mobile home park. There are also homes for rent or sale. Many of Warren's older homes have retained their value through fastidious maintenance, and new homes are built with unusual attention to durability.

Churches and a wide variety of retail establishments dot the landscape throughout the city and complete the picture of Warren – a city where people take pride in their community, their neighborhoods and their schools.

Residents and friends of the Stephen community are encouraged to make their donations or pledges before January 1. The Messenger

Karlstad home again after 46 years

Karlstad - Two days after high school graduation in 1951, Rodger Lindgren left Karlstad to seek his fame and fortune – or at least a job.

After graduating from Trinity Bible College in Minneapolis, he lived in Grand Forks for awhile and then migrated back to the Twin Cities.

He married Pat Yocum from Minneapolis 29 years ago, and during a visit to Karlstad before they married, she told Rodger, "Don't you ever ask me to move here!" He never did, but when Rodger's doctor told him to de-stress his life, it was Pat's idea that they move from the Twin Cities to Karlstad a year ago.

Semi-retired, Rodger works part-time at Valley Home, and Pat has two part-time jobs. They're enjoying their new home, neighbors, the town, and their pets. North Star News

Traffic stop results in assault of officers

For a peace officer working in rural areas far from backup, a simple traffic stop can have tragic consequences. A traffic stop in Middle River early Saturday morning, resulted in a fight between officers and occupants of the vehicle, numerous minor injuries, and over $4,000 damage to a squad car. Law enforcement officers have now taken offense at the way a judge handled a bond hearing on the matter.

According to the Marshall County Sheriff's department, Deputy Jason Boman was patrolling Middle River at about 1 a.m. Saturday when he noticed a vehicle driving erratically. When he stopped the vehicle and attempted to arrest the driver, Agata M. Knap, 27, of Roseau on a charge of driving while intoxicated, two of her friends, Randall S. Olson, 33, of Thief River Falls, and Dickie L. Johnson 27, of Salol interfered Boman requested backup and was assisted by Deputy Sheriff Ron Timm. The sheriff's department alleges that Olson and Johnson poked and punched the two deputies in an attempt to prevent the arrest of Knap. Johnson later left the area, but Olson continued to interfere with the arrest.

Olson was arrested and placed in a squad car to be taken to the law enforcement center at Warren. Enroute to Warren, Olson began to kick the windows, door and plexiglass shield of the squad car. While the shield held in place, the car's windows, window frames and doors themselves were broken. The lowest damage estimate totals $4,088. At one point during the transport, the vehicle had to be stopped. Olson was sprayed with a mace and secured so that he couldn't cause further damage or injury to himself. Olson also threatened to harm Deputy Timm's wife and children.

Olson was arrested on five

Autumn Musicale features students

Robert Baca

Jazz trumpeter Robert Baca will lead outstanding instrumental students from 14 area high schools when Northland Community and Technical College hosts its 26th annual Autumn Musicale Thursday, November 6, in the NCTC theater.

Students will be attending from Thief River Falls, Marshall County Central, Greenbush-Middle River, Oklee, Norman County East, Stephen-Argyle, Lancaster, Grygla, Tri-County Central, Red Lake Falls, Clearbrook-Gonvick, Warren and Plummer.

This is the third appearance as a guest clinician at the Autumn Musicale for Baca, who has made the jazz program at the University of Wisconsin at Eau Claire one of the finest in the nation during his tenure there as Associate Professor of Trumpet and Jazz Studies. His last appearance here was in 1992.

"He is an excellent performer, teacher and communicator," said Les Torgerson, director of music at NCTC. "We are very fortunate to have him here to work with our area musicians and I know they will be glad they took advantage of this wonderful opportunity for musical growth."

Over the years the NCTC Autumn Musicale has had a number of nationally and internationally acclaimed guest soloists and conductors such as Tim Lautzenheiser, James Ployhar, Frank Bencriscutto, John Zdechlik, Craig Kirchoff, Russell Pesola, Richard K. Hanson and others.

Selected students from the area schools who are participating in the musicale, along with members of the Northland Community Band, will work with Baca during the day and perform in a public festival concert to be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Northland theater. Admission will be $2.50 for adults and $1 for students.

Chancellor Morris Anderson visits with the news media

MnSCU Chancellor Anderson makes visit to NCTC Monday

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

Two months into his new job as Chancellor of the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) system, Morrie Anderson has visited about a third of the 62 campuses under his general direction. One of those visits was to Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls Monday afternoon, October 27.

Anderson said one of the primary purposes of the visits was to find out "what we can do in St. Paul to support the institutional structure" that exists in the two-year and four-year colleges within the MnSCU framework.

"I am not concerned that people are aware of me as chancellor or even if they are familiar with the MnSCU system," he told an assembly of faculty and staff in the college theater. "But I do care deeply if people know about the institutions within the system. What we intend to do is to sell the campuses rather than the MnSCU system per se."

Anderson, a former member of the MnSCU board and a member of Gov. Arne Carlson's staff for two and a half years, is one of few people to head a major educational program who did not come out of the academic ranks. He does not consider that to be a handicap, but believes it affords an opportunity to take a wider view of the system and its objectives.

Anderson said he brings to the office of Chancellor a knowledge of public management strategies, a knowledge of the legislature and a background in leadership. He said he has made appointments to fill the need for academic leadership.

In his short time as Chancellor, Anderson said he has found no real surprises, but that he has made several observations. One is that there are individuals of extremely high caliber on the campuses of the system and another is that the funding flexibility in the system is not as great as it could be. He said he will ask the 1998 legislature for a $20 million supplemental appropriation to accomplish some of the needs he has found to exist in the program.

At the report session to faculty and staff, the Chancellor touched briefly on negotiations, saying only that he doesn't like an adversarial situation in contract resolution and that he didn't want to negotiate contracts in the public setting.

In a conference with news media representatives following the meeting with staff, he said he personally never felt that negotiations with the community college faculty was a hostile environment, despite a strike vote taken by the members. He said a tentative agreement has been reached and that he expected the faculty association to approve the agreement within the next couple of weeks.

Negotiations with the faculty of the four-year colleges in the system revolves primarily around economic concerns with very little dispute over contract language, he said.

The technical college contract is likely to be more difficult, he said, because of the historical differences in work schedules and pay scales. He said that MnSCU is "willing to be innovative" in working on that contract to achieve a means of satisfactory settlement.

Asked specifically if there are plans to close any college campuses, Anderson said that the board had adopted at least a two-year moratorium on campus closings and that he didn't forsee the necessity for such action in the near future. He indicated that some administrative consolidation may be considered to increase efficiency.

At both the staff meeting and news conference, the Chancellor

* School Districts renewing levy referendums

Five School Districts, Newfolden, Plummer, Roseau, Thief River Falls, and Warroad, in our Northwestern Minnesota region will be holding levy referendums next week.

In Newfolden, School District 441, the board of education proposes to increase its general education revenue by $345 per actual pupil unit. Ronald Paggen, district superintendent, said he doesn't know what to think of the response or lack of response by the public. He explained that they have had two mailings and a newsletter which provided information about the levy request and advertised a meeting to discuss the levy referendum. Paggen said only six people showed up for the public meeting. It's worrying, he said.

Over 70 percent of district voters, however, approved a levy increase during a referendum vote six years ago, and by a more significant margin the time prior to that. Paggen said voters have been very supportive of the district.

Plummer School District 628, is proposing to increase general education revenue by $650 per actual pupil unit. For the past 10 years, the district has had a referendum in place that has raised $125,000. Superintendent Rick Lorenson said voters are being asked to authorize another 10-year levy. This levy gives the board authority to raise $150,000 if needed. Lorenson said the district would receive about $54,100 from the state and the rest from the local tax levy.

Lorenson said the board is confident that the levy will pass. He said

Jean Matt donates Plummer Rec Center building

Jean Matt (right) recently donated a building to the Plummer School District to house the Plummer Recreation Center. The building was contructed in 1946 and housed the hardware business owned by Jean and her late husband Hubert. Mrs. Matt will be honored for her donation at an open house on Sunday, November 2 from 2 to 4 p.m. The three-year success of the rec center is largely due to the involvement of many community volunteers and the Green Thumb program. Pictured with Jean Matt are (from left) volunteer bookkeeper Bev Aakus, volunteer coordinator Betty Halvorson and Green Thumb employee Beryl Fritz.

Folks in Plummer are proud. Folks in Plummer are grateful. They have good reason to be.

Tomorrow an open house honoring Jean Matt will be held at the Plummer Recreation Center from 2 to 4 p.m. Mrs. Matt's building has housed the Plummer Recreation Center for its three years of existence. Recently, she donated the building to the Plummer School District. The open house is the community's way of saying thank you.

Built in 1946, the Matt building housed a hardware store owned by Mrs. Matt and her late husband Hubert until 1993 when Jean rented the building to a new hardware dealer. When that party didn't make a go of the business, she made the building available to the school district for the rec center.

The rec center opened in October of 1994. It is operated through the Plummer School district and governed by an 18-member board of directors which includes representation from the school board, parents, junior high and high school students and others from the community.

The center is open from 3 to 9 p.m. on school days and 6 to 10 p.m. on Saturdays. When special events take place, the hours are flexible.

Activities include pool, table tennis, air hockey and a selection of video games. The center has cable televison, a jukebox and two computers with games. Cards and games are also popular activities.

The center owns most of the equiment with the video games and jukebox provided by Jim's Game Supply. Many items have been donated, some as memorials.

Youth often study together or do homework at the tables or booths while waiting for their parents to pick them up.

Pizza, nachos, garlic bread, ice cream cones, hot chocolate, soft drinks and coffee are sold.

Special activities are sometimes planned at the center. An example is "Vikings Night." In addition to watching the game on television.

Black bear wanders streets of downtown Bemidji

Bemidji - Bemidji police received a call recently that a black bear was wandering the streets of downtown Bemidji and had broken plate glass in the door at the Headwaters Science Center.

It is not uncommon for bears to be in town in Bemidji, and a police officer said that if a bear is spotted the best thing is just to leave it alone. The Pioneer

Grygla man killed Thursday

Lyle Udeen Olson, 63, Grygla was killed in a one vehicle accident Thursday about three miles north of Grygla.

Marshall County Sheriff's department received a report of a one-vehicle rollover at 7:06 a.m. on October 30. The accident happened on County road 54 just north of the intersection with County road 55 about three miles north of Grygla.

The sheriff's department believes that the vehicle, operated by Lyle Udeen Olson, 63, Grygla, was traveling north on County road 54 when his vehicle left the roadway. It overturned in the east ditch, which had about two and one-half to three feet of water in it at the time. The vehicle came to rest on its top. Grygla First Responder Corps responded to the scene. Olson was dead at the scene.

The Marshall County Sheriff's department is continuing its investigation into the accident.

MARK BORSHEIM FOR MAYOR
★ EFFECTIVE LEADERSHIP WITH THE EXPERIENCE AND ABILITY TO LISTEN TO THE VOTER Facts About Thief River Falls And The City Council Under The Leadership Of Bob Reeve!
1. 7th Highest property taxes in outstate Minnesota.
2. Spent reserves and raised taxes to balance our current city budget.
3. Acquired the worst bond rating the city has had in over 20 years.
4. A bond indebtness of over $12 million with an additional $630,000 last week.
5. No end to placing special assessments on our taxpayer.
6. Good faith agreements to developers costing the taxpayer over $200,000
7. Avoided the wishes of the taxpayer on the depot project.
These Issues have not been addressed by Bob Reeve's leadership. I feel his lack of direction with the council and inability to listen to the taxpayers of Thief River Falls has directly affected where we are today. Do you want this to continue?
—We can no longer allow our city to spend reserves and raise taxes.
—We can no longer allow our city to bond for millions of dollars and place special assessments on taxpapers.
—We need leadership that will support the voters of Thief River Falls.
—I am that leadership, I will listen, I will keep you informed.
For A Brighter Future And A New Direction For Thief River Falls, The choice Is Clear...

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Today's recipes will be quick to fix, simple sandwiches for those candy-stuffed kiddies. They are all from the Silver Creek Lutheran Church cookbook.

Make something special out of those ordinary "dogs" tonight:

STUFFED FRANKS ON BUNS
Angeline Larson

Franks #1
1 cup grated cheese
1/2 cup hot dog relish

Slit franks open and fill. Place in bun and bake at 400 degrees for 8-10 minutes.

Franks #2
Can of baked beans
2 tablespoons chili sauce
Onion slices

Fill franks with beans and chili sauce and strip with onion. Bake as above.

Franks #3
Hot mashed potatoes
Favorite cheese

Fill with mashed potatoes and place strips of cheese over top. Bake.

Franks #4

Fill franks with hot canned spaghetti in tomato sauce and bake. (Also can use microwave to heat franks.)

These are delicious – I've used a little chopped green pepper in them too:

TUNA FISH SANDWICHES
Darlene OuChamp

1 can tuna
1 onion, diced
2 hard cooked eggs
1 cup diced cheese
1/4 cup diced pickles
1 cup salad dressing

Mix above ingredients and spread on buns. Wrap each in foil and store in freezer. When ready to serve, place in oven at 350 degrees for 15-20 minutes.

Here's a tasty, grown-up sandwich that even the kids will enjoy:

REUBEN SANDWICHES
Barbara Rodahl

1 loaf small sliced rye bread
Thousand Island dressing
Slices of corned beef
Sauerkraut
Mozzarella cheese

Layer dressing, corned beef, sauerkraut and cheese on bread. Place on cookie sheet and bake at 350 degrees until cheese starts to melt.

Who doesn't like a barbecue? And this one is so simple:

EASY BARBECUE
Lorraine Sannes

1 pound lean ground beef, browned and drained
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup ketchup
2 teaspoons dry mustard

Mix all ingredients with browned beef. Simmer at least 15 minutes before eating on buns – and it's even better the second day.

And another family favorite – add other toppings if you like, such as mushrooms, peppers, mozzarella topping, etc.:

PIZZA BURGERS
Maxine Olson

1 pound ground beef, browned, drained and cooled
1 can Spam or Prem luncheon meat
1 pound hard American cheese
1 can spaghetti sauce with meat flavor
Oregano

Grind Spam and cheese. Mix with spaghetti sauce and a little oregano and add cooled ground beef. Stir together.

Fill hamburger buns and place under broiler for a few minutes, until cheese is melted.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

As a member of the Thief River Falls City Council, I would like to reassure the residents in School District 564 that the city does have a balanced budget. I would hate to think that the $1.7 million budget deficit headline might have an adverse effect on the voters in Thief River Falls.

The vision for our community is expressed by community members through the strategic plans of the school district and city. We look for quality services in our city and schools. Many school districts in our region have voted for more money for student services. The amount ranges from $915 per student to our local effort of $77 per student.

To address class size, textbook needs and to update technology, we need to provide the additional funds for our students. Ensure stronger schools in Thief River Falls by a "yes" vote for education.

I would also like to address an issue of whether it is appropriate for the revised Thief River Falls centennial logo to be used for political purposes.

The Centennial Commission had a policy that the logo was not to be used for private profit or gain. One city employee who is a mayoral candidate had access to the city computer where the logo was being revised for a city sign. The use of this logo does not imply an endorsement for the candidate who used it.

Sincerely,
Jean Heinrichs
Thief River Falls

To The Editor:

I know what it's like, trying to get ahead. You get one bill paid off and along comes another. For example, I just finished sending my last child to daycare and I got a notice from my mortgage company. I don't have enough in my escrow account, so my monthly payment is going up $15 to cover my tax increase for 1997.

That's small compared to what I was spending on daycare, but that's only one thing. Just like most of you I try to get some money saved for this and that, but the words of a recent President come to mind: "Not gonna happen."

When I was in school I can remember in my Minnesota history class this picture of a huge computer at the University of Minnesota. It was a machine that IBM had built, and it was going to be this big thing in the future. I'm sorry to say but that future is here! Computers are everywhere—in cars, snowmobiles, tractors, grocery stores, gas stations and even schools.

Schools are not the same as when I attended them. They have many different classes and ways of teaching them.

Last week my wife and I went to conferences and were surprised to find school is an exciting place for kids to be—new teachers, different classes and new friends to meet.

But there was a down side. Kids having no textbooks for some classes, books that have to be repaired by teachers year after year, lack of enough computers to go around, sharing text books with other classes. The list could go on and on.

My kids are lucky. They're getting a fair education and enjoying it. They like their teachers, the staff, and the other kids in their classes.

We now have a superintendent who cares about the school, the kids and you as a taxpayer. Buildings and fancy equipment do not educate our kids. Teachers, educational supplies and a concerned staff do.

Yes, the referendum levy will raise your taxes if voted in. Are our kids worth it? I hope so. The school board knows that if the money isn't handled properly it will be a long time before another supplemental levy is passed.

Thanks for your time.

U.S. Shouldn't Commit To Economic Suicide Over Unproved Theory

If all the scientists in the world who have a learned opinion on the global warming theory were laid end to end, they wouldn't reach a consensus. That is a scientific fact in itself that President Clinton should take into consideration before he makes any commitments for this country during the international treaty on climate change talks in December in Kyoto, Japan.

In a speech September 9 to students at American University in Washington, DC, the President said: "Many of you who are studying this issue know that a panel of over 2,500 scientists has concluded that the climate of the earth is significantly warming in ways that will have not entirely predictable, but almost certainly destructive consequences unless we do something about it."

He went on to say that, "We could reduce (greenhouse gas emissions) 20% tomorrow with technology that is already available at no cost if we just changed the way we do things." And since he did not elaborate on how that might be done, one can expect that the claim is just that much more greenhouse gas.

Chicago Tribune columnist Joan Beck seems to have a good mental grasp on the situation in a recent column. She points out that before December 1 the President and his environmental advisors will try to convince the American people that:

"(1) Global warming is really occurring and is largely due to increased burning of fossil fuels (coal, oil, natural gas), especially in developed countries and particularly in the United States.

"(2) Global warming will have dire effects on the world, if not in our time, then during the lives of our children and grandchildren.

"(3) The United States must impose limits on its use of energy, despite the economic consequences, as part of a global agreement that would carry no such restrictions on developing nations."

While this is the story one group of environmentalists wants to sell, Beck correctly points out that "....there is no scientific, political or economic consensus on any of these points, and the United States is in danger of being held largely accountable for a danger some reputable scientists argue may not even exist."

Proponents of the global warming theory—and we are convinced it remains only theory and not fact—base their views on complex computer modeling, temperature records, meteorological observations and atmospheric theory. They are satisfied that their "information" is reliable enough to predict disaster.

In July of 1996, however, over 100 European and American scientists issued the "Leipzip Declaration," warning that there is still not scientific consensus on the subject of climate change. "On the contrary," the statement says, "most scientists now accept the fact that actual observations from earth satellites show no climate warming whatsoever."

Indeed, NASA satellite measurements show no net warming over the past 18 years.

"The temperatures we measure from space are actually on a very slight downward trend since 1979 in the lower troposphere," notes Dr. Roy Spencer of NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center.

"We've concluded there isn't a problem with the measurements....Instead, we believe the problem resides in the computer models....These models just don't handle processes like clouds, water vapor and precipitation systems well enough to accurately predict how strong global warming will be, or how it will manifest itself at different heights...."

If global warming is indeed happening, there is even less evidence to indicate that it is related to human activity, which is the basis of the treaty conference in Tokyo. And if human activity does play a role, the major producers of carbon monoxide such as India, China, Mexico and Brazil would not be compelled to reduce emissions under the treaty because they are among some 132 "developing" nations.

"The detection of human effects on climate has not been convincingly proven," testified Dr. John Christy of the University of Alabama before the U.S. Senate environmental and public works committee, "because the variations we have now observed are not outside the natural variations of the climate system."

In other words, temperature changes on earth have occurred naturally throughout history. While global temperatures have increased by about half a degree in the past century, most of the rise occurred before 1940 and climatologists believe it probably indicates a return to normal from an earlier, natural cooling.

If warming is occurring, and if human activity contributes to it, there is no assurance that global disaster will result. Polar ice caps may grow due to increased snowfall rather than melt and slightly warmer temperatures could lengthen growing seasons and cause crops to flourish in many countries. Some indications also are that any such average warming would take place in the coldest areas at the coldest times rather than the warmest areas and times. It is difficult to believe having temperatures 48 degrees below zero instead of 50 degrees below zero would create any hardship for the people of Siberia.

No less of an expert than Dr. Sherwood B. Idso, a former Thief River Falls resident who has extensively researched carbon dioxide content of the air in regard to plant growth, contends that: "...there is reason to believe that if the direct ecosystem impacts of our mechanized society can be managed successfully, we can indeed live in harmony with nature. In fact, the CO-2 emitted by our energy-consuming activities can actually enhance both the quantity and quality of life on earth."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY CAROL!
"40" & FEISTY!

As assistant to director at the Pennington County Historical Society's Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village, it was hard for me to see one of our historic buildings destroyed.

However, I saw something very good come out of it all. It took some major cooperation to help save the First State Bank sign from the historic building, and I would like to thank all involved in this endeavor. First I must thank those members of DKS Properties—Dan Drevlow and Richard Stegeman—for granting us permission to save the sign. They had to [illegible] the message on to [illegible] the demolition. A huge thank you to Leon and Brett Maddsen of Diamond 5 Construction for taking the time to carefully move the sign from the rubble. Thanks to Tom Kalinoski of Ace Rent-All for being kind enough to allow us to use a skid steer loader to move the sign to the Ace Rent-All lot until further moving could be facilitated. As for the final move to Pioneer Village, I must thank Jon Furuseth for his time and use of his equipment.

Also thanks to my dad, Dean Kaushagen, who was involved in almost the entire operation. I must also thank the Pennington County Historical Society board of directors and Pioneer Village volunteer Caryl Bugge for their support as well.

Thank you all for your help; it was greatly appreciated. The Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village now has this bit of Thief River Falls history for those who shall come after us for years to come!

Lost Bay auto drive closes at Agassiz refuge

Lost Bay habitat drive and Maakstad hiking trail at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge northeast of Thief River Falls will close on Wednesday, November 5, and remain closed until road conditions permit reopening in the spring of 1998.

Visitors may continue to observe wildlife along County Road 7, which bisects the southern portion of the refuge from west to east, and along other roads bordering the refuge.

Some of the resident wildlife species to be observed during the winter months are moose, deer, common ravens, black-billed magpies, downy and hairy woodpeckers, ruffed grouse and several other species of birds and mammals which remain active during the winter months.

Gary Tischer of the refuge staff said that the staff hopes that everyone who visited the refuge during the summer months enjoyed the plant and wildlife species observed along the drive and hiking trail.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank the area businesses for their contributions to the Ridge Runners Women's Softball team in their trip to Montgomery Alabama, on Sept. 25-28, 1997. We finished the National Tournament with a record of 3-2, ending up in 17th place among 80 teams. It was a great experience and we appreciate the support that you gave us. Thank you, also, to the many people who supported us through individual contributions, hamburgers at the TRF American Legion, and Bake Sales. We couldn't have done it without you!

To The Editor

As a member of the Thief River Falls City Council, I would like to reassure the residents in School District 564 that the city does have a balanced budget. I would hate to think that the $1.7 million budget deficit headline might have an adverse affect on the voters in Thief River Falls.

The vision for our community is expressed by community members through the strategic plans of the school district and city. We look for quality services in our city and schools. Many school districts in our region have voted for more money for student services. The amount ranges from $915 per student to our local effort of $77 per student.

To address class size, textbook needs and to update technology, we need to provide the additional funds for our students. Ensure stronger schools in Thief River Falls by a "yes" vote for education.

I would also like to address an issue of whether it is appropriate for the revised Thief River Falls centennial logo to be used for political purposes.

The Centennial Commission had a policy that the logo was not to be used for private profit or gain. One city employee who is a mayoral candidate had access to the city computer where the logo was being revised for a city sign. The use of this logo does not imply an endorsement for the candidate who used it.

Sincerely,
Jean Heinrichs
Thief River Falls

To The Editor:

I know what it's like, trying to get ahead. You get one bill paid off and along comes another. For example, I just finished sending my last child to daycare and I got a notice from my mortgage company I don't have enough in my escrow account, so my monthly payment is going up $15 to cover my tax increase for 1997.

That's small compared to what I was spending on daycare, but that's only one thing. Just like most of you I try to get some money saved for this and that, but the words of a recent President come to mind: "Not gonna happen."

When I was in school I can remember in my Minnesota history class this picture of a huge computer at the University of Minnesota. It was a machine that IBM had built and it was going to be this big thing in the future. I'm sorry to say but that future is here! Computers are everywhere—in cars, snowmobiles, tractors, grocery stores, gas stations and even schools.

Schools are not the same as when I attended them. They have many different classes and ways of teaching them.

Last week my wife and I went to conferences and were surprised to find school is an exciting place for kids to be—new teachers, different classes and new friends to meet.

But there was a down side: Kids having no textbooks for some classes, books that have to be repaired by teachers year after year, lack of enough computers to go around, sharing text books with other classes. The list could go on and on.

My kids are lucky. They're getting a fair education and enjoying it. They like their teachers, the staff and the other kids in their classes.

We now have a superintendent who cares about the school, the kids and you as a taxpayer. Buildings and fancy equipment do not educate our kids. Teachers, educational supplies and a concerned staff do.

Yes, the referendum levy will raise your taxes if voted in. Are our kids worth it? I hope so. The school board knows that if the money isn't handled properly it will be a long time before another supplemental levy is passed.

Thanks for your time.

WELCOME HUNTERS

Agassiz Refuge is open for '97 deer season Nov. 8-16

The 1997 deer hunting firearm season at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge will be held Nov. 8-16 in accordance with Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and federal regulations.

Area 203 in Zone 2 consists of Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge and the Elm Lake, Eckvoll and Mud Lac Wildlife Management Areas. This area will be open only to legal bucks. There were no antlerless permits offered for this area due to the low deer population.

Aerial deer surveys on Feb. 29, 1996 and Feb. 24, 1997 estimated the deer population at 1,300 and 450, respectively. The downward trend of the deer population the past two years is due to deep snow and cold temperatures causing a considerable high winter severity index.

For 1997, the pre-hunt deer population is estimated to be between 550 to 650 within the 131 square miles of Area 203. The pre-fawn (spring) deer density for 1997 was four deer per square mile. This is much below the pre-fawn deer density objective level of 13.5 to 16.5 deer per square mile.

Deer taken in Permit Area 203 must be registered in Zone 2. There is no check station at the refuge headquarters, but there is at least one in most nearby towns. A total of 109 deer were harvested in Area 203 in 1996. Forty-nine deer were adult bucks. Deer harvest average for the past ten years is 456. The record deer harvest in Area 203 occurred in 1992 with a harvest of 755. With two to four years of mild winters, a high harvest could once again be achieved, it was noted by refuge officials.

Except for two closed areas around the headquarters and maintenance center, the entire refuge will be open to deer hunting. The closed areas are posted with signs and are clearly marked on refuge hunting leaflets. Entrance into these areas is not permitted.

Deer hunting regulation signs with a map of Area 203 are placed at six locations on the refuge showing open roads and listing refuge regulations. Any hunter that is permanently or temporarily physically disabled and wants to use the deer hunting platform needs to contact refuge personnel at the headquarters before or during the deer season.

Within Agassiz Refuge, pre-season scouting will be allowed Friday, Nov. 7, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Gates will be closed at 3:30 that afternoon.

Hunters are reminded that construction of, or hunting from, permanently constructed tree stands is illegal. Portable stands are legal and can be placed at any height, but cannot be left overnight to pre-empt a hunting area. Spotlighting is also illegal on the refuge all year. Casting spotlights or vehicle lights from a public road onto the refuge is considered spotlighting.

Camping is not permitted on the refuge. Camping is available on adjacent state wildlife management areas where camping permitted signs are located.

Access onto the refuge by foot or vehicle is permitted after 5:30 a.m. You must leave the refuge as soon as possible after sunset. Gates on roads that will be open to vehicle travel will be opened at 5:30 a.m. All other refuge roads, trails and dikes will be restricted to foot traffic, bicycles and non-motorized carrying devises for transporting deer.

Non-motorized watercraft may be used on ditches and pools.

The use of snowmobiles, three and four-wheelers, trail bikes and other off-road motorized vehicles is prohibited on the refuge. For information on the use of off-road motorized vehicles on state wildlife management areas during the firearms deer hunt season, see the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources 1997 hunting regulations.

Hunter safety is always of special concern, pointed out refuge officials. Hunters need to be aware of other people in the area to prevent shooting accidents. Always be sure that the object being shot at is a deer. Look beyond the animal to make sure another person is not standing in the line of fire. Using a safety belt is highly recommended when in a tree stand.

The potential for hypothermia and heart attack also exists. Check ice conditions before attempting to cross any water areas. Most ditches in the area have five to eight feet of water. Hunter caution and awareness is advised.

First aid rescue equipment is on hand at refuge headquarters. If assistance is needed, contact refuge personnel at the headquarters. All hunting accidents on Agassiz National Wildlife refuge must be reported immediately at headquarters.

Deer forecast looks for weather-related decline in numbers

Deer populations have again declined as a result of the severe winter in northern Minnesota, but declines were much lower than in 1996. Overall winter losses in the northern part of the state were estimated at 10-15 percent for the winter of 1996-97, compared to estimates of 30-40 percent in 1995-96.

Firearms deer season will open Nov. 8. Muzzleloader season begins Nov. 29. Archery season began Sept. 13.

Again this fall, no antlerless permits will be issued throughout most of Zone 1. This year, some permit areas in Zone 2 will also be bucks-only. In these areas, all hunters, including archers and muzzleloaders, will be limited to bucks-only.

A total of 150,195 antlerless permits were made available for the 1997 season, a decline of 3 percent from the 154,195 offered last year and the lowest total since 1990.

Permit reductions were concentrated in northern forested areas where the effects of the winter of 1996-97 were most severe. Much of Zone 1 in northeastern Minnesota will again be bucks-only and only 2,640 antlerless permits were issued in the extreme southern portions of the zone. In Zone 2, the transitional areas extending from east-central to northwest Minnesota, permits were reduced by 22 percent from 1996.

In agricultural areas of the state, permits will be slightly higher than last year. In Zone 3 covering southeastern Minnesota, permits are up by 14 percent. In the western and southern agricultural area of Zone 4, permits are up 2 percent.

Most of Zone 1 and some northern portions of Zone 2 will be bucks-only this fall because of the severe effects of the winter on deer populations. Although some hunters suggested that the Department of Natural Resources consider closed or shortened deer hunting seasons in Zone 1 in northeastern Minnesota due to reduced deer numbers, DNR wildlife managers recommended a bucks-only restriction and limited antlerless permit quota in different parts of the zone to provide adequate protection and future recovery of the herds.

At meetings the DNR held around the state in June to discuss the issue, most hunters agreed that deer seasons should be held in Zone 1 this fall, as long as protection was afforded to antlerless deer in the hardest-hit areas. In addition, a season closure would have had very significant impacts to northern businesses that depend on the deer season for their economic well-being, and to hunters in other zones who would have seen increased hunter densities as Zone 1 hunters shifted their hunting to other areas of the state. Consequently, the DNR decided to hold the normal 16-day Zone 1 season with restricted harvest of antlerless deer.

All archers and muzzleloader hunters, as well as regular firearms hunters, are restricted to bucks-only hunting in all Zone 1 and Zone 2 permit areas that have an antlerless permit quota of zero. Also, as in the past, hunters exempt from the antlerless permit requirement to take antlerless deer (youth hunters, disabled hunters with permits to shoot from motor vehicles, military personnel on leave, and veterans with 100 percent service-related disabilities) may not take antlerless deer in zero-quota permit areas. The DNR did get authority this legislative session to offer a limited number of youth either-sex permits in bucks-only areas, but such permits will not be offered until the deer herd has had at least one year to recover.

Deer license can be purchased after the start of 1997 season

Deer licenses for all seasons (archery, regular firearms, muzzleloader) may now be purchased at any time.

Licenses purchased after the opener of the respective season will have a two-day waiting period before the license is valid. For example, a deer license purchased on the first Saturday of the season would not be valid until Monday.

It was also announced that the boundaries of permit areas 205 and 211 in the Baudette area have been adjusted slightly to provide for better management of antlerless deer harvest in the area.

Experimental $5 youth deer firearms license, without a tag, has been made permanent by the Legislature. Persons 12 to 15 years old hunting under this license must be accompanied by a licensed hunter at least 18 years of age who possesses a valid tag. Any deer taken by the youth under 16 must be tagged by another member of the youth's party.

DNR map series can help hunters locate public hunting land

Minnesota hunters have a handy tool available that will help them locate public lands in their favorite hunting areas. The Public Recreation Information Map (PRIM) series is the most comprehensive map available for outdoor recreation.

PRIM is a series of full-color maps that divide the state into 51 areas. By bringing together federal, state and county lands into one map, PRIM can make it easier to find a place to hunt. Each map covers approximately 2,000 square miles and features color-coded displays of different types of public administered lands; township, section and range lines; topography; public campgrounds, state trails, state forest roads; designated trout streams, canoe and boating routes, water access sites, fishing piers; and much more.

A comprehensive, full-color chart on the back of each area map summarizes recreational facilities of the area.

Proceeds from PRIM sales go back into the program to keep the maps current.

- Agriculture is a vital part of our community, yet it has been many years since agriculture has had a voice on the School Board. Agriculture should be represented on the School Board.
- Public support is critical to the success of our education system. Before the School District undertakes large capital projects, or new ventures, a representative and unbiased survey of the public should be conducted.

LeAnn Fallon

Fallon, Byers on soccer team at Bemidji State

LeAnn Fallon of Thief River Falls and Jenny Byers of Red Lake Falls are participating on the Bemidji State University women's soccer team this fall, according to BSU News Services.

A freshman elementary education major, Fallon is playing defender and midfielder positions for the beavers. A sophomore applied psychology major, Byers is a midfielder.

In its second season, the team competes in the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference and NCAA Division II under the direction of first-year head coach Dan Rogers.

BSU has eight intercollegiate teams which also include softball, basketball, volleyball, golf, cross country, indoor and outdoor track and tennis. There are seven intercollegiate men's teams including baseball, basketball, football, golf, indoor and outdoor track and hockey.

Tennis awards for the girls tennis team at Lincoln high school were presented by coach Sylvie Sjoberg at the annual banquet Tuesday evening in the school cafeteria. Tigershark racer takes high point off-shore trophy Tigershark personal watercraft racer Bob Surmon took the overall high point championship in the Pro Med division of the Baja Promotions off-shore race series in California.

Surmon won the Pro Mod Open class with his Black Magic sponsored Daytona 1000 at the Global Invitational at Lake Havasu City, placed third overall and won the Ironman title for running the 150-mile endurance race solo.

Prowler volleyball team advances in tournament

A 10-point service run by Taya Hunt to open the first game keyed a first round win for the Lincoln high school Prowler volleyball team in North Section 8AA tournament play Thursday evening against Fergus Falls.

It was a dominating win for Lincoln before a large and enthusiastic crowd in the home gymnasium as the Prowlers won in straight games 15-3, 15-7 and 15-1.

Tonight (Saturday) the Prowlers travel to Detroit Lakes for a semi-final match against a Laker team that beat Thief River Falls in a close five-game match in the Lincoln gym a couple of weeks ago.

"That was an excellent set of games," Lincoln coach Amy Roche said of the earlier meeting with Detroit Lakes. "It was exciting for the fans as well as the coaches and players. Our girls played really well and we believe we are capable of winning the rematch."

On Thursday Taya Hunt had a career night for the Prowlers as she was 23 for 26 on serves, scored 12 aces and led the team with 12 assists on kills. She took the ball for the Prowlers' first service in the opening game and served for 10 straight points to stake the team to an overwhelming lead.

Erica McGeary had seven assists and Lisa Dicken and Lindsay Drury each had eight kills in the three-game match.

"We hadn't played a match in about 10 days so we didn't know how the layoff would affect our play," Roche said. "But the girls obviously came out ready to play and I was really proud of their effort.

"The key was that Fergus Falls couldn't handle our serves," Roche added. "Taya had an unbelievable service total and, with the exception of a couple of lapses in the second game, everyone served well and played heads-up ball on both offense and defense.

"Now we just have to keep our level of play and intensity up for the Detroit Lakes games."

Detroit Lakes advanced to the semi-finals of North Section 8AA with a Thursday night win over Bemidji.

Callaway hunter "lost" in woods grateful for concern

(Editor's Note: For 73-year-old Duane Bellefeuille of Callaway, a grouse-hunt with his brother Dick October 16 in south Clearwater county became a somewhat harrowing experience when changes in what had been familiar terrain forced him to change his route. His delayed return resulted in family and friends reporting him missing and calling for assistance from law enforcement and the Civil Air Patrol in Thief River Falls. Following is Bellefeuille's own account.)

A thank you from that careless old man who carried neither matches nor compass.

I first hunted the "Baldy" area while on furlough in 1943, and knew the area quite well. Wind, high water and beavers have changed things greatly, and now when I tried to go southwest to our car I was being forced by a string of beaver-created lakes toward a large swamp between East Cranberry and Bungo (Hoot Owl) lakes.

I turned back on the trail to Baldy after that failed initial attempt to escape the forest, which had cost me three hours. I knew of a trail leading to a cabin northwest of Baldy, but decided not to try for it because a miss would mean constant swamp and water. The sun was bright and I wore a watch, so I decided to force my way west to the maintained Height of Land Truck Trail, knowing it to be a little less than a mile away.

I found remnants of old trails with 10-inch trees growing in them, but could not find the junction of the initial old trail I had walked and the new trail I was now on, so tackling the untracked hardwood forest west seemed the best choice. I had been through that piece of timber many times in the distant past while deer hunting. After reaching the road it would be only a walk south to reach our car parked between East and West Cranberry Lakes.

I unloaded my .22 rifle and checked the security of a full box of ammunition—which I intended to use only at dusk as a means of signaling for help—shortened up the hitch on my fanny pack which contained a grouse and a five-pound chunk of blue petrified wood which I had found, and then set out west through a tangle of downed trees felled by a powerful windstorm two summers ago.

Often pushing or tossing my unloaded rifle ahead, I climbed over or crawled under windfalls. I pushed myself through blackberry vines and hazelnut brush, moving west through everything I encountered except water—that water forcing many detours, long or short, but always irksome as I looked for a dry lead westward.

Traveling slowly, I made my way through this maze of beaver ponds and downed trees only occasionally resting for a few seconds as I sat astride a windfall. Never did I allow myself to become short of breath or my heart to overwork.

I once said, "Jesus, I can use a little help." Shortly after that I saw the road (Height of Land Trail) 30 feet ahead of me. I said "Thanks" and looked at my watch. After nearly four hours of moving "west," I had reached the safety of an established road. It was 5:45 p.m., about an hour before dark!

I walked the road something more than half a mile south toward my brother Dick's car and, to my surprise, into a search party. They had been looking for me for over three hours and at that time were awaiting the arrival of a spotter plane from Thief River Falls. That plane flew over us as we talked a few minutes after we came together. Officer Harmon told us that they would have spotted me very quickly because of the blaze orange hat I was wearing. "Shines like a beacon," he said.

I had taken a few falls, including a nasty one when both feet became entangled in vines, causing me to fall face down. But I had managed to turn my face just enough to leave me with only a minor facial scrape and no eye damage.

As a somewhat infirm 73-year-old, I feel most fortunate that the good people I am listing below care about me. Had I been injured or inert they would have found me before dark, and I am most grateful that they were well prepared for the job.

Sheriff Trandem stationed himself on a hill in the forest where he could monitor all the radios, and he then directed information to both the searchers in the forest and the patrol at the trailhead. We all thank the Dear Lord those searchers did not have to plunge deeper into that watery and broken forest, made even more treacherous by darkness.

Thank you to my grouse-hunting partner and brother Dick, and to Rob Wirtz, Detroit Lakes police officer and family friend, for the initial call to the Becker County Sheriff's office, which then notified its Clearwater county counterparts.

Thank you to the Becker County Sheriff's office, Clearwater County Sheriff Denny Trandem, Clearwater deputy Gene Harmon who helped Denny organize the impending search, Jim Tadman and dog "Neiko" of the Polk county K-9 unit and deputy Neil Illies who assisted Tadman.

My appreciation to Jim Hulteen of D & J Radio in Thief River Falls and Commander Arlo Rude of the Thief River Falls Civil Air Patrol Squadron who dispatched a spotter plane to the scene; to the six members of the Clearwater Volunteer Sheriff's Reserve who were standing by at the sheriff's office in the event they were needed; and to the Minnesota Highway Department which was prepared to send one of its infrared-equipped planes.

Another thank you to officers Tadman and Illies who restrained "Neiko" and wrestled him into a patrol car to prevent that beautiful and powerful German Shepherd from "finding" me as I stood with the group.

Thank you to my sons Dan, Doug, Joe and Paul, who searched the woods; to son Darcy and son-in-law Larry, who were on the way; to Dick's wife Marilyn, daughter Gwen and daughter-in-law Bonnie, who stayed with my dear wife Marian during the ordeal; and to Dan's wife Diane, who sprinted to me when she saw me walking south toward the search party, and then carried my rifle and fanny pack. Diane told me I had been declared "missing" in the early afternoon.

Thank you again, dear people. I love you all.

Special levies on ballot in area school districts people seem to understand that it's a small district and is operated on a bare bones budget. They also understand that it's just an extension of the current levy. The district doesn't owe anything on its building either. He added that, "we wouldn't ask if we didn't need it."

Voters in the district have been very supportive in the past, Lorenson said. The last levy referendum was approved by 82 percent of the voters.

Roseau, School District 682, is proposing to increase its general education revenue by $315 per actual pupil unit.

Without the renewal of the referendum, budget cuts amounting to about $500,000 would have to be made in future school years. "It would create quite a problem," said Herb Benz, superintendent. The funding per pupil in the district is already lower than the statewide average, Benz said.

If the levy is not adopted, program cuts will be made at all four school sites — Roseau High School, Roseau Elementary School, Malung Elementary School and Wannaska Elementary school.

Thief River Falls, School District 564, is proposing to increase its general education revenue by $234.95 per actual pupil unit. The additional revenue generated by the levy will be used to finance school operations.

This is the fourth time in as many years voters in School District 564 have been asked to approve a levy referendum for general education revenue. Over the last four years, the district has reduced expenses by $901,662.

Warroad, School District 690, is proposing to increase its general education revenue by $315 per actual pupil unit. John Reishus, superintendent, explained that the referendum would replace an expired referendum that was approved by voters four years ago. This levy referendum would be a little different, he explained. This referendum gives the board the authority to increase the levy up to $315 per actual pupil unit.

Reishus said "School district operating levies are limited by law. Current funding laws provide enough revenue to provide very bare bone, basic education programs with large class sizes. The State Legislature has provided the referendum levy as a way for local voters to decide to improve the quality of their local schools by approving a referendum levy. When the voters approve a referendum levy, the state also provides more money to the local schools. In Warroad's case, a levy of 20 cents brings an additional 80 cents from the state of Minnesota."

According to Reishus, the school district faces funding shortfalls in 1997-98 and future years due to a leveling of enrollments and inadequate state funding formulas. Due to the expected shortfalls, it is essential that voters approve the referendum levy.

School Board Elections

Stephen/Argyle, Red Lake Falls, Roseau, and Thief River Falls are the only districts holding elections Tuesday for school board representatives.

In Stephen/Argyle, School District 2856, voters are being asked to elect two representatives to fill two four-year terms. The two candidates on the ballot are Craig Haltmann, former School District 443 representative, and Gayle Stoltman, former School District 437 representative.

In Red Lake Falls, School District 630, voters will be asked to select two candidates, one for a five year-term and one for a three year term. Al Walker is the only candidate for the five year term. Mike Swendra and Robin Foster are vying for the three-year term.

In Roseau, School District 682, voters are being asked to elect two school board members for two four-year terms. The two candidates on the ballot are Duane Erickson and Teresa McDonnell.

In Thief River Falls, School District 564, voters are being asked to select two school board representatives, one for a three-year term and one for a five-year term. A total of 10 candidates, four for the five-year term and six for the three-year term, filed for the two offices. Candidates running for the five year term include Barbara Jauquet-Kalinoski, Jon Lindgren, Michael Spears and Randy Twistol. The candidates running for the three-year term include: George Davis, Ann Juhl, Vernon B. Kappes, Lyle C. Olson, Wendell Teigland, and Charles Winjum.

charges: fourth degree assault, fifth degree assault, obstructing arrest, criminal damage to property in the first degree and terroristic threats.

Dickie L. Johnson was charged with obstructing arrest and assault in the fifth degree.

Knap was charged with five counts: assault in the fifth degree, obstructing arrest, terroristic threats, misdemeanor driving while intoxicated, misdemeanor refusal to submit to a chemical test.

Olson and Johnson appeared before Ninth District Court Judge Dennis Murphy in Marshall County on Tuesday. Both defendants were released on their own recognizance.

Marshall County Sheriff Dennis Brekke was very disappointed that in view of the seriousness of the charges both men were released without being required to post bond.

Knap has not appeared in court on the charges filed against her.

BGMR beats Mahnomen for Title

First ever meeting between the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Gators and perennial football power Mahnomen resulted in a decisive win and Section 8AA football championship for the Gators in the Fargodome in Fargo, ND on Wednesday.

Coach Steve Willman credited defensive coach Tom Niebauer with preparing the team for an effort which held the potent Mahnomen attack to just 78 yards of total offense in a 28-0 BGMR shutout win. The Gators piled up 322 yards of offense—all on the ground in a punishing, time-consuming effort.

The win will match BGMR against the winner of the Section 7AA championship in the first round of the Class AA state playoff quarterfinals, probably on Friday at Middle River. The site is yet to be announced. The Section 7 game matched 9-1 Braham at 10-0 Deer River Friday, October 31.

After a scoreless first quarter Wednesday, BGMR scored twice in the second quarter and once each in the third and fourth quarters for the 28-0 final.

Richard Wockenfuss opened the scoring with a four-yard run and Daryl Wockenfuss followed with a 19-yard return of a pass interception. Andy Schenkey ran for a two-point conversion following the second score for a 14-0 half-time lead.

In the third quarter Richard Wockenfuss plunged one yard for his second TD of the game and Schenkey converted on a run to boost the lead to 22-0. David Truscinski closed out the scoring in the fourth quarter with a five-yard run.

The Gators controlled the game on the ground, rushing the ball 61 times for all 322 yards of total offense. David Truscinski put the ball in the air only twice with one incompletion and one interception.

Jean Matt donates Plummer Recreation Center building

Home of the Plummer Recreation Center, this building was donated recently to the Plummer School District by Jean Matt. A facelift was made possible by two Aid Association for Lutheran branches and AAL's "Youth Serve" program. The remoding project included new sheetrock at the front of the building, a new door and windows and new siding on the face of the building. An open house honoring Jean will be held Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

prizes are given away. The center has also been the site of a number of successful birthday parties.

Rec Center rules are simple. Anyone smelling of alcohol is turned away. Smoking is forbidden as is foul language and fighting. Roller blades are not allowed in the building. Discipline has not been a problem. The youth, in fact, have come to police themselves.

While the center is geared to adolescents, two-year-olds are welcome as is the 65-year old gentleman who stops by every evening for ice cream.

The three-year survival of a recreation center is something to be proud of. Many towns in the area have tried to get a youth center off the ground and failed, or if they have gotten one going, they've managed to stay open only a very short while.

Success requires the cooperation and support of the entire community. Volunteers are the key, and unlike many communities, they're not in short supply in the Plummer area.

While most of the labor is donated, Beryl Fritz works there 20 hours a week through the Green Thumb program–a government subsidized program for older workers.

Beryl started out as a volunteer when her daughter Bev Aakus, a mother of four who was attending school herself, didn't have time to volunteer at the center and asked her mother to take her place. Beryl agreed and really enjoyed her volunteer time at the center. "I hurt my back at the nursing home where I worked and was put out to pasture," Beryl said. She was glad to have something to do.

Betty Halvorson, an Inter County Community Council employee who works with youth employment, is familiar also with the Green Thumb program. An active rec center volunteer, Betty called Beryl and point-blank asked her if she qualified for the program. "I still can't believe I did that," Betty said. The good-natured Beryl said that she is willing to share her age and income, but not her weight. The end result was that she qualified. She is compensated for something she enjoys doing, and the rec center has the employee it needs.

Beryl has become everyone's grandma at the rec center. Twenty hours a week she's there to wait on customers, do the ordering and often listen to the kids who just want to talk to someone. When a young girl from the community died tragically recently, Beryl received a call from one of the youth who wondered if she would be there to talk. "He talked for over an hour," she said. Beryl added that she doesn't have solutions for the young peoples' problems. "But I'm a good listener."

Betty Halvorson does the scheduling of volunteers for the center and provides a monthly schedule. Volunteers aren't just parents but include senior citizens and young people who have not yet started their families. Because of open enrollment, she is able to draw volunteers from the Brooks, Oklee and Red Lake Falls areas in addition to the Plummer community. There are enough volunteers so that parents only have to work every other month.

In preparation for the open house Sunday, the center was closed Thursday as a remodeling project was being completed. A youth service program through Aid Association for Lutherans made the facelift possible. Two AAL branches provided the funds for the materials and carpenter with the provision that 20 Lutheran youth participate in the project. It was Betty who sought out the program and she said, "It's been wonderful with a great response from the kids. The only problem has been the Catholic kids wondering why they can't help!" The project includes new sheetrock for the front wall, new windows and door and exterior siding to the face of the building.

While the school district is responsible for the center, separate records are kept and bills are paid through a rec center account. For the first two years, the accounting class at the high school did the bookkeeping.

Recently, Bev Aakus volunteered to take over the bookkeeping job. The Aakus family lives in Brooks, and the children attend Plummer school through open enrollment. Pleased with the school in Plummer, Bev is happy that they do, and the rec center is important to her family. Her volunteer clerical duties include paying the bills and reporting to the board of directors monthly. Bev's goal is to add rec center news to the school newsletter. She is also very proud of her mother Berylp and said her children don't mind that their grandmother is the "Plummer grandma."

Fund-raisers are necessary to keep the center operating. The center has concessions at football games and recycles aluminum cans. Take-out pizza also brings in some extra revenue. Berle said, "We don't deliver, but we probably would if they came up with a good enough story!" The building has always been a big concern for the center which brings us back to Jean Matt's very generous gift.

Jean had the opportunity to sell the building but has a soft spot for the rec center. It seemed right to her that she donate her building to the school district. "Do you know how hard it is to give a building away?" she asked. It required the services of "a good tax man." The red tape didn't stop her, however.

Jean has given Plummer a gift that will serve its youth for years to come. The building's location–close to the school and right downtown–is perfect and provides an important service to the entire community as a safe place for young people to wait for their working parents or simply gather to socialize.

Beryl referred to Jean Matt as "Plummer's Angel," and while Jean looks forward to the open house tomorrow when her donation is publicly acknowledged, it has meant the most to her to hear the young people say, "Thanks, Mrs. Matt."

The Plummer community is grateful, and because of the efforts of a host of volunteer angels and a Green Thumb Grandma, the community is proud. It should be.

emphasized the role of higher education in preparing graduates for the world of work. He said that more will be done to tie colleges into working with business and industry.

"For the most part the colleges in the MnSCU system are not research institutions," he said. "We provide 30,000 graduates into the work force each year. And I believe the two-year institutions are uniquely positioned to be more on the cutting edge than any other in making positive changes."

An advocate of staff development, Chancellor Anderson said that there is $7 million in the MnSCU budget to "jump start" that training. If industry finds it worthwhile to spend three to six percent of its income on staff development, he said, then the field of education should expect to benefit from such efforts as well.

Asked how he believes MnSCU will fare in the legislative process, especially in comparison with the University of Minnesota, Anderson said he is personally not worried about that aspect.

"My experience has been that the governor and the legislature find a way to be quite fair in their treatment of the educational entities in the state," he said.

"The easiest path to the money—to legislative financial support—is through trust and accountability. I believe the legislature will provide adequate funding to those who prove they use it wisely. Our task is to continue to merit that trust."

New TRF Mayor elected; school levy adopted

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Voters decided Tuesday that Thief River Falls should have a new mayor and School District 564 should be given authority to levy for excess general fund revenue.

After three years of voters turning down the school district's levy referendums, voters approved the measure Tuesday 2,013 yes to 1,693 no. A similar measure was defeated 2,700 to 1,796 in 1994, 1,371 to 1,263 in 1995, and 2,793 to 2,725 last year. Passage of the levy referendum gives School District 564 the authority to increase general education revenue by $234.95 per actual pupil unit. The additional revenue generated by the levy will be used to finance school operations.

"How do you spell 'whoopee?'" was the elated response of School District 564 board chair Carl Clark when asked about his reaction to passage of the special levy.

"The board and the superintendent have laid out quite specifically how the extra money will be used," he added. "We now have the enjoyable task of making those things happen. One of the first goals of the superintendent will be to complete a profile for an agriculture teacher to get that program up and running."

Clark also said that although the funding won't come to the district until taxes are paid in 1998, existing fund balance can be used to get things started with the knowledge the special levy revenue will be there.

School District 564 Superintendent Jerry Robicheau thanked the citizens of the school district for their support and support of programs for kids. He said now they can be proactive and do some planning instead of constantly being reactive.

Robicheau said they made a commitment to be accountable and residents can be assured that they will use the dollars for programs and expanding programs for kids.

According to a fact sheet about the levy referendum movement, the additional dollars generated by the levy will be used for program improvement in such areas as adult-to-student ratio, technology expansion, improved teaching, foreign language in earlier grades, improved and expanded curriculum, vocational education (applied technology), agricultural programs, programs for gifted and talented, gender equity in co-curricular activities, remediation for students who fail basic skills tests, parent involvement, additional advanced placement classes, and a K-12 social worker. The dollars generated could mean as many as 9-10 new teachers.

Voters approved the levy referendum in all but three of the 12 precincts. Voters in precinct 3A, 4B, and St. Hilaire voted against the proposed levy increase.

Mayor of Thief River Falls

Twenty-eight-year-old Mark Borsheim unseated incumbent Mayor Robert Reese Tuesday. Borsheim said he thought there wasn't really one particular turning point during the campaign, but a combination of things that led to his being elected mayor. In the time prior to taking office, Borsheim said he will start getting acquainted with how things run in city government.

A more pressing matter for Borsheim will be settling what impact being a city employee will have on his administration as Mayor. Borsheim is employed by the city utilities department.

Roger DeLap, city administrator, said it's a grey area. He said they will be working with the city attorney to solve the matter.

It was a problem he was aware of before the election. Borsheim indicated that it's not a unique situation and he expects that it will be settled.

Reese said he thought the budget issue played an important part in the election results adding that he thought it was really blown out of proportion. He said he wished headlines in Tuesday's Times (City moves close to balancing '98 budget) would have appeared in an earlier edition. He also said that it might have made a difference had construction at the depot proceeded much faster — although it was no fault of construction crews, he added. Reese said he has no plans to run for another office and hopes to enjoy his second retirement. He wished the city continued prosperity.

Borsheim carried all 10 precincts, defeating Robert Reeve and challenger Jerry Unruh. Borsheim had 1,358 votes, Reeve 847, and Unruh 257. Borsheim is the youngest mayor elected to office in Thief River Falls. Orin Green was 29 when he was elected to the position in November of 1959. Green served as mayor from 1960-1968.

A total of 3,766 votes were cast in the election Tuesday. DeLap said it was a fairly good turnout. The total, however, includes rural areas of School District 564, which includes parts of Pennington, Red Lake and Marshall counties. In the city of Thief River Falls, 2,501 votes were cast. That number is fairly consistent, perhaps even a little less than typically cast during an election.

School District 564

Randy Twistol and Lyle Olson will be the new school board representatives for School District 564. In a four person race for a five-year term on the school board, Twistol finished just ahead of Barbara Jauquet-Kalinoski 1,243 to 1,223. Other candidates, Michael Spears received 862 votes, and Jon Lindgren 316.

Lyle Olson was running against five other individuals for a three-year term on the board of education. Olson ran a strong race last year, but was defeated. This year, he was locked in a close race for the position with Charles S. Winjum. Olson received 1,353 votes and Winjum 1,162 votes. Olson carried seven precincts and Winjum five. George Davis received 469 votes, Ann Juhl 311, Wendell Teigland 163, and Vernon Kappes 125.

Friendship quilt to be auctioned

Middle River - Forty-six years ago, the ladies of Our Savior's Lutheran Church of Thief Lake came up with a unique fund-raising idea–friendship quilts.

For the first couple of years each of the groups 21 members paid 10 cents a piece for fabric blocks on which she embroidered her name. The blocks were then stitched together into quilts and given away in a drawing at the group's annual meeting.

The third year it was decided that everyone should have a quilt so the women paid ten cents for each of 21 blocks on which they embroidered their names, the blocks were exchanged and each member was responsible for putting her own quilt together. With homes and families to take care of, few of the women found time to complete their quilts.

Many of the women kept their squares, however, and several sets have turned up at estate auctions of members who have died. One of the sets was completed by ladies aid members last month and will be sold by silent auction at the annual meeting of Our Savior's Lutheran Church on January 18, 1998. New River Record

Hay bale arsonists caught last week

Mahnomen - Recent hay bale fires in the area have caused quite a scare for farmers in the Mahnomen area.

On October 28 fire destroyed about $15,000 worth of hay bales on a farm southeast of Mahnomen. An earlier fire on another farm had destroyed 450 bales of hay and damaged a tractor.

After the fire on the 28th, an investigation led the Mahnomen County Sheriff's Department to two local people who admitted setting one fire but not the others. They will be charged with felony arson. Mahnomen Pioneer

Creating a culture of achievement is topic for speaker

One of six workshops across the state to discuss creating a culture of achievement for students will take place in Thief River Falls Tuesday, November 11, under sponsorship of the Minnesota Academic Excellence Foundation and the Thief River Falls Academic Boosters.

Dr. Stephen Schroeder-Davis, on leave from the Elk River school system, will present the results of his studies at 7 p.m. in the Best Western Inn, following a dessert served at 6:30 p.m. by the sponsors. There is no cost to attend and anyone interested in improved education is encouraged to attend.

The workshop is intended to show parents, community leaders and educators how to use the resources of the community, home and school to promote academic excellence for all students. Sessions are also being held in Duluth, Moorhead, Mankato, Rochester and St. Cloud.

Although there is no cost to attend nor pre-registration required, those planning to attend are asked to call the School District 564 superintendent's office at 218-681-8711 and indicate their intention to attend to assist with planning.

Minnesota Academic Excellence Foundation (MAEF) is the primary advocate for promoting and recognizing the importance of academic excellence in all of Minnesota's elementary and secondary students, schools and communities.

MAEF notes that Dr. Schroeder-Davis will explore the influences that promote and inhibit academic excellence and how to develop strategies that will encourage the pursuit of academic excellence in their communities. There will be time, leadership and focus to help those attending develop such strategies.

World War II buddies are still best friends in 1997

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Dog-eared black and white photographs mounted to the worn pages of an old album reveal picture after picture of smiling young men. One would never guess that they were in the midst of a world on fire–the mightiest struggle ever seen–World War II.

One of the young men in the photographs is Cheslie Ruud of Gatzke. Another is Edward Wilkerson of Paris, Missouri.

Cheslie was drafted into the military in 1941 and inducted into the 6th division of the 63rd Infantry at Fort Snelling on June 17, 1941. From there he was sent to Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri for basic training. It was at Fort Leonard Wood that Cheslie met Ed. Chelsie Ruud became known to his buddies in the service as "Rudy" and Ed Wilkerson was called "Wilkie."

While stationed at Fort Leonard Wood Rudy and Wilkie were sent to mechanics school in Omaha, NE. They also took part in training manuevers in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Kentucky.

From Fort Leonard Wood Rudy and Wilkie were sent to Camp San Luis Obispo, CA for another two or three months of training before being shipped out to Hawaii from Stockton, CA in the summer of 1943. They lived on the Island of Oahu and spent a lot of time in Honolulu pulling guard duty, and they drove all over the island.

In January of 1944 Rudy and Wilkie were sent to New Guinea near the Allied base at Port Morseby. The young American men found New Guinea a miserable jungle. Rudy describes it as "very hot" – so hot that after a torrential rain storm steam would roll off the jungle. Rudy and Wilkie set up camps and bunkers and had guard duty every night. The heavy rains would often leave their canvas cots standing in water in the bunker they shared. The Japanese hid in caves all around them. At night they could hear the enemy jabbering in a language they didn't understand. The young men saw shells whiz past them. They were young, homesick and scared. Rudy and Wilkie were also together – best friends.

Home of the Plummer Recreation Center, this building was donated recently to the Plummer School District by Jean Matt. A facelift was made possible by two Aid Association for Lutheran branches and AAL's "Youth Serve" program. The remoding project included new sheetrock at the front of the building, a new door and windows and new siding on the face of the building. An open house honoring Jean will be held Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

prizes are given away. The center has also been the site of a number of successful birthday parties.

Rec Center rules are simple. Anyone smelling of alcohol is turned away. Smoking is forbidden as is foul language and fighting. Roller blades are not allowed in the building. Discipline has not been a problem. The youth, in fact, have come to police themselves

While the center is geared toadolescents, two-year-olds are welcome as is the 65-year-old gentleman who stops by every evening for ice cream.

The three-year survival of a recreation center is something to be proud of. Many towns in the area have tried to get a youth center off the ground and failed, or if they have gotten one going, they've managed to stay open only a very short while.

Success requires the cooperation and support of the entire community. Volunteers are the key, and unlike many communities, they're not in short supply in the Plummer area.

While most of the labor is donated, Beryl Fritz works there 20 hours a week through the Green Thumb program–a government subsidized program for older workers.

Beryl started out as a volunteer when her daughter Bev Aakus, a mother of four who was attending school herself, didn't have time to volunteer at the center and asked her mother to take her place. Beryl agreed and really enjoyed her volunteer time at the center. "I hurt my back at the nursing home where I worked and was put out to pasture," Beryl said. She was glad to have something to do.

Betty Halvorson, an Inter County Community Council employee who works with youth employment, is familiar also with the Green Thumb program. An active rec center volunteer, Betty called Beryl and point-blank asked her if she qualified for the program. "I still can't believe I did that," Betty said. The good-natured Beryl said that she is willing to share her age and income, but not her weight. The end result was that she qualified. She is compensated for something the enjoys doing, and the rec center has the employee it needs.

Beryl has become everyone's grandma at the rec center. Twenty hours a week she's there to wait on customers, do the ordering and often listen to the kids who just want to talk to someone. When a young girl from the community died tragically recently, Beryl received a call from one of the youth who wondered if she would be there to talk. "He talked for over an hour," she said. Beryl added that she doesn't have solutions for the young peoples' problems. "But I'm a good listener."

Betty Halvorson does the scheduling of volunteers for the center and provides a monthly schedule. Volunteers aren't just parents but include senior citizens and young people who have not yet started their families. Because of open enrollment, she is able to draw volunteers from the Brooks, Dklee and Red Lake Falls areas in addition to the Plummer community. There are enough volunteers so that parents only have to work every other month.

In preparation for the open house Sunday, the center was closed Thursday as a remodeling project was being completed. A youth service program through Aid Association for Lutherans made the facelift possible. Two AAL branches provided the funds for the materials and carpenter with the provision that 20 Lutheran youth participate in the project. It was Betty who sought out the program and she said, "It's been wonderful with a great response from the kids. The only problem has been the Catholic kids wondering why they can't help!" The project includes new sheetrock for the front wall, new windows and door and exterior siding to the face of the building.

While the school district is responsible for the center, separate records are kept and bills are paid through a rec center account. For the first two years, the accounting class at the high school did the bookkeeping.

Recently, Bev Aakus volunteered to take over the bookkeeping job - The Aakus family lives in Brooks, and the children attend Plummer school through open enrollment. Pleased with the school in Plummer, Bev is happy that they do, and the rec center is important to her family. Her volunteer clerical duties include paying the bills and reporting to the board of directors monthly. Bev's goal is to add rec center news to the school newsletter. She is also very proud of her mother Berylp and said her children don't mind that their grandmother is the "Plummer grandma."

Fund-raisers are necessary to keep the center operating. The center has concessions at football gamex and recyclex aluminum cans. Take-out pizza also brings in some extra revenue. Berle said, "We don't deliver, but we probably would if they came up with a good enough story!" The building has always been a big concern for the center which brings us back to Jean Matt's very generous gift.

Jean had the opportunity to sell the building but has a soft spot for the rec center. It seemed right to her that she donate her building to the school district. "Do you know how hard it is to give a building away?" she asked. It required the services of "a good tax man." The red tape didn't stop her, however.

Jean has given Plummer a gift that will serve its youth for years to come. The building's location–close to the school and right downtown–is perfect and provides an important service to the entire community as a safe place for young people to wait for their working parents or simply gather to socialize.

Beryl referred to Jean Matt as "Plummer's Angel," and while Jean looks forward to the open house tomorrow when her donation is publicly acknowledged, it has meant the most to her to hear the young people say, "Thanks, Mrs. Matt!"

The Plummer community is grateful, and because of the efforts of a host of volunteer angels and a Green Thumb Grandma, the community is proud. It should be.

New TRF Mayor elected; school levy adopted

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Voters decided Tuesday that Thief River Falls should have a new mayor and School District 564 should be given authority to levy for excess general fund revenue.

After three years of voters turning down the school district's levy referendums, voters approved the measure Tuesday 2,013 yes to 1,693 no. A similar measure was defeated 2,700 to 1,796 in 1994, 1,371 to 1,263 in 1995, and 2,793 to 2,725 last year. Passage of the levy referendum gives School District 564 the authority to increase general education revenue by $234.95 per actual pupil unit. The additional revenue generated by the levy will be used to finance school operations.

"How do you spell 'whoopee?'" was the elated response of School District 564 board chair Carl Clark when asked about his reaction to passage of the special levy.

"The board and the superintendent have laid out quite specifically how the extra money will be used," he added. "We now have the enjoyable task of making those things happen One of the first goals of the superintendent will be to complete a profile for an agriculture teacher to get that program up and running."

Clark also said that although the funding won't come to the district until taxes are paid in 1998, existing fund balance can be used to get things started with the knowledge the special levy revenue will be there.

School District 564 Superintendent Jerry Robicheau thanked the citizens of the school district for their support and support of programs for kids. He said now they can be proactive and do some planning instead of constantly being reactive.

Robicheau said they made a commitment to be accountable and residents can be assured that they will use the dollars for programs and expanding programs for kids.

According to a fact sheet about the levy referendum movement, the additional dollars generated by the levy will be used for program improvement in such areas as adult-to-student ratio, technology expansion, improved teaching, foreign language in earlier grades, improved and expanded curriculum, vocational education (applied technology), agricultural programs, programs for gifted and talented, gender equity in co-curricular activities, remediation for students who fail basic skills tests, parent involvement, additional advanced placement classes, and a K-12 social worker. The dollars generated could mean as many as 9-10 new teachers.

Voters approved the levy referendum in all but three of the 12 precincts. Voters in precinct 3A, 4B, and St. Hilaire voted against the proposed levy increase.

Mayor of Thief River Falls

Twenty-eight-year-old Mark Borsheim unseated incumbent Mayor Robert Reeve Tuesday. Borsheim said he thought there wasn't really one particular turning point during the campaign, but a combination of things that led to his being elected mayor. In the time prior to taking office, Borsheim said he will start getting acquainted with how things run in city government.

A more pressing matter for Borsheim will be settling what impact being a city employee will have on his administration as Mayor. Borsheim is employed by the city utilities department.

Roger DeLap, city administrator, said it's a grey area. He said they will be working with the city attorney to solve the matter.

It was a problem he was aware of before the election. Borsheim indicated that it's not a unique situation and he expects that it will be settled.

Reeve said he thought the budget issue played an important part in the election results adding that he thought it was really blown out of proportion. He said he wished headlines in Tuesday's Times (City moves close to balancing '98 budget) would have appeared in an earlier edition. He also said that it might have made a difference had construction at the depot proceeded much faster — although it was no fault of construction crews, he added. Reeve said he has no plans to run for another office and hopes to enjoy his second retirement. He wished the city continued prosperity.

Borsheim carried all 10 precincts, defeating Robert Reeve and challenger Jerry Unruh. Borsheim had 1,358 votes, Reeve 847, and Unruh 257. Borsheim is the youngest mayor elected to office in Thief River Falls. Orin Dreen was 29 when he was elected to the position in November of 1959. Dreen served as mayor from 1960-1968.

A total of 3,766 votes were cast in the election Tuesday. DeLap said it was a fairly good turnout. The total, however, includes rural areas of School District 564, which includes parts of Pennington, Red Lake and Marshall counties. In the city of Thief River Falls, 2,501 votes were cast. That number is fairly consistent, perhaps even a little less than typically cast during an election.

School District 564

Randy Twistol and Lyle Olson will be the new school board representatives for School District 564. In a four person race for a five-year term on the school board, Twistol finished just ahead of Barbara Jauquet-Kalinoski 1,243 to 1,223. Other candidates, Michael Spears received 862 votes, and Jon Lindgren 316.

Lyle Olson was running against five other individuals for a three-year term on the board of education. Olson ran a strong race last year, but was defeated. This year, he was locked in a close race for the position with Charles S. Winjum. Olson received 1,353 votes and Winjum 1,162 votes. Olson carried seven precincts and Winjum five. George Davis received 469 votes, Ann Juhl 311, Wendell Teigland 163, and Vernon Kappes 125.

Scott is Mayor of St. Hilaire in one-vote win

Ione Scott was the winner of a close race for Mayor in St. Hilaire. One vote separated Scott from write-in candidate Jim Retka. Scott received 35 votes, and Retka 34. The other candidate on the ballot, Dennis Taylor, received 10 votes.

Voters were asked to elect two candidates to four-year terms on the city council. Again, it was a close race. Dennis Mills received 39 votes to Deb Holmgren's 37 votes. Write-in candidate Bernie Huot received 30 votes.

Creating a culture of achievement is topic for speaker

One of six workshops across the state to discuss creating a culture of achievement for students will take place in Thief River Falls Tuesday, November 11, under sponsorship of the Minnesota Academic Excellence Foundation and the Thief River Falls Academic Boosters.

Dr. Stephen Schroeder-Davis, on leave from the Elk River school system, will present the results of his studies at 7 p.m. in the Best Western Inn, following a dessert served at 6:30 p.m. by the sponsors. There is no cost to attend and anyone interested in improved education is encouraged to attend.

The workshop is intended to show parents, community leaders and educators how to use the resources of the community, home and school to promote academic excellence for all students. Sessions are also being held in Duluth, Moorhead, Mankato, Rochester and St. Cloud.

Although there is no cost to attend nor pre-registration required, those planning to attend are asked to call the School District 564 superintendent's office at 218-681-8711 and indicate their intention to attend to assist with planning.

Minnesota Academic Excellence Foundation (MAEF) is the primary advocate for promoting and recognizing the importance of academic excellence in all of Minnesota's elementary and secondary students, schools and communities.

MAEF notes that Dr. Schroeder-Davis will explore the influences that promote and inhibit academic excellence and how to develop strategies that will encourage the pursuit of academic excellence in their communities. There will be time, leadership and focus to help those attending develop such strategies.

World War II buddies are still best friends in 1997

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Dog-eared black and white photographs mounted to the worn pages of an old album reveal picture after picture of smiling young men. One would never guess that they were in the midst of a world on fire–the mightiest struggle ever seen–World War II.

One of the young men in the photographs is Cheslie Ruud of Gatzke. Another is Edward Wilkerson of Paris, Missouri.

Cheslie was drafted into the military in 1941 and inducted into the 6th division of the 63rd Infantry at Fort Snelling on June 17, 1941. From there he was sent to Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri for basic training. It was at Fort Leonard Wood that Cheslie met Ed. Chelsie Ruud became known to his buddies in the service as "Rudy" and Ed Wilkerson was called "Wilkie."

While stationed at Fort Leonard Wood Rudy and Wilkie were sent to mechanics school in Omaha, NE. They also took part in training manuevers in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Kentucky.

From Fort Leonard Wood Rudy and Wilkie were sent to Camp San Luis Obispo, CA for another two or three months of training before being shipped out to Hawaii from Stockton, CA in the summer of 1943. They lived on the Island of Oahu and spent a lot of time in Honolulu pulling guard duty, and they drove all over the island.

In January of 1944 Rudy and Wilkie were sent to New Guinea near the Allied base at Port Morseby. The young American men found New Guinea a miserable jungle. Rudy describes it as "very hot" – so hot that after a torrential rain storm steam would roll off the jungle. Rudy and Wilkie set up camps and bunkers and had guard duty every night. The heavy rains would often leave their canvas cots standing in water in the bunker they shared. The Japanese hid in caves all around them. At night they could hear the enemy jabbering in a language they didn't understand. The young men saw shells whiz past them. They were young, homesick and scared. Rudy and Wilkie were also together – best friends.

The "C" rations they were fed

Cheslie "Rudy" Ruud of Gatzke (left) and Ed "Wilkie" Wilkerson of Paris, MO met at Fort Leonard Wood, MO in 1941. Together they served in the 6th Division of the 63rd Infantry in Hawaii, New Guinea and the Philippines until the end of World War II in 1945. Their war experiance was the beginning of a life-long friendship.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Here are some snack recipes you might like to try this weekend. Now that the Halloween candy has been eaten, maybe the kids will enjoy some other treats. They will taste mighty good while playing games in front of the fire on one of these cold fall nights.

Easy to make, and such fun to have on hand for snacking:

OVEN CARAMEL CORN

Lois Russell

2 cups brown sugar
2 sticks margarine or butter
1/2 cup corn syrup
6 quarts popped corn
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon butter flavor
(if margarine is used)
Nuts

Boil brown sugar, butter, syrup and salt for five minutes. Remove from heat and add soda and flavoring (mixture will bubble from soda). Stir well.

Pour over popped corn and nuts. Spread in two 9x13 pans. Place in 200 degree oven for 1 hour, stirring every 15 minutes. Store in covered containers.

What better snack than those old-fashioned treats:

POPCORN BALLS

Irene Nelson

1 cup white or dark syrup
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
6 quarts popped corn
1 tablespoon butter
1/2 teaspoon soda

Mix syrup, sugar and cream of tartar in saucepan and bring to a boil. Boil for 1 minutes.

Remove from heat and add butter and soda (mixture will foam up). Stir well and mix into popped corn. Form into balls.

This is a new-fangled treat that the kids love:

PUPPY CHOW

Amanda Sigerud

1 stick melted margarine or butter
1 (12-ounce) package chocolate chips
1 cup peanut butter
1 box Crispix cereal
2 cups powdered sugar

Blend margarine, chips and peanut butter until smooth. Pour over Crispix cereal and mix well.

Place powdered sugar in large brown bag and add Crispix mixture. Shake well until all pieces are coated. Store in air tight container.

Make these for a tasty treat now and be sure to save the recipe for next Halloween:

PEANUT BUTTER FINGERS

Deanna DuChamp

2 cups powdered sugar
1-1/2 cups crunchy peanut butter
1 cups nuts
2 cups dates
6 tablespoons melted butter
6 ounces chocolate chips
1/4 of a paraffin wax bar

Mix powdered sugar, peanut butter, nuts, dates and butter. Roll into finger shapes and freeze for two hours.

Melt chocolate chips and paraffin in double boiler. Dip frozen fingers into chocolate mixture and cool thoroughly on waxed paper.

Something warm to drink is great on a cold night:

SPICED HOT TEA

Cormen Gustafson

6 cups water
6 tea bags
1 quart water
3 cinnamon sticks
15 cloves
2 cups sugar
1 (3-ounce) package cherry gelatin
1 (12-ounce) can frozen orange juice, prepared as directed
1 (46-ounce) can pineapple juice
1 (8-ounce) bottle lemon juice

Boil water and pour over tea bags to steep. Place cinnamon sticks in the quart of water and simmer for 20 minutes. Add cinnamon water to tea.

Add cloves, sugar, gelatin, and juices to tea mixture. Bring to a boil, then turn off heat. (Can refrigerate until heating and serving.)

Rep. Peterson signs pledge to abolish tax code

"I believe any attempt to fix the IRS tax code will just make it worse. We need to throw it away and start over," states Congressman Collin Peterson of Detroit Lakes.

Rep. Peterson recently signed the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB)-sponsored pledge to abolish the IRS code and replace it with a simpler, fairer code that rewards work and savings.

"I am a strong supporter of legislation that would abolish the IRS code by Dec. 31, 2000," Peterson said. "I think we need to start the next century off with a better and simpler tax system.

"As a CPA, I watched as the 1986 Tax Reform Act made the code more complicated and confusing for most taxpayers, and especially for small business owners," he added.

"The Blue Dog Coalition, of which I am a founding member, will be looking further into several tax reforms that would replace the current IRS tax code over the next several months."

To The Editor:

Many of you think that over vacations, such as MEA and conferences, that teenagers sit around and watch TV all day. However, about 60 teens didn't sit around over (this past) MEA vacation. I was one of these 60 teens who attended the New Generation Youth Leadership Conference.

The conference began at 10 a.m. in the city auditorium with a breakfast of juice and rolls. We were divided into groups and began a "getting to know you" mixer. After this, we headed downstairs for a presentation by Mitch Anthony. We all had to introduce ourselves and reveal our favorite cereal.

Then we began to discuss role models. Mostly parents and grandparents showed up, but Diana, Princess of Wales, and Mayor Pat Owens of Grand Forks were also named. We had to give a reason why these people were so special to us. Mitch concluded this activity by stating that we all should "learn little things from lots of people."

As the seminar continued, we learned about four different personality types. I, for one, am a Motivator. Other types were Togetherness, Enterpriser and Analyzer. We learned the many different ways to tell which personality type people are by looking at their eyes, face and posture.

In addition to learning these things, we also were served lunch and supper, and everyone was given a T-shirt. There were door prizes given away—like free bowling games, cash and even rollerblades! All of this and much more—and it didn't cost us a penny due to the generosity of many people. This conference was absolutely free.

I would like to thank everyone who helped with this conference and the businesses that donated the door prizes. We all learned a lot and we really enjoyed it.

Sincerely,
Taryn Preani

Local Elections Make School, City Changes

When the voting was done and the ballots were counted Tuesday night, Thief River Falls had elected the youngest mayor in its history and School District 564 had two new board members and a 10-year commitment for a special levy that has eluded the school administration for three years.

The predictions we published in an editorial a couple of weeks ago were the most inaccurate we have ever made in many years of trying to guess what the local electorate would do.

We predicted the special levy would fail by as few as 50 votes. It carried by 320 votes—2,013 in favor and 1,693 opposed.

We predicted Barb Jauquet-Kalinoski would be elected to the school board in a four-way race for a full five-year term with Randy Twistol second. Twistol won by 20 votes over Jauquet-Kalinoski—1,243 to 1,223.

We predicted Lyle Olson would be elected in a six-way race for a three-year unexpired term with Rev. George Davis second. Olson won 1,353 to 1,162 over Dr. Charles Winjum with Rev. Davis a distant third.

And we predicted that Mayor Bob Reeve would be reelected with a vote total greater than the combined total of his two challengers, Mark Borsheim and Jerry Unruh. Borsheim carried every one of the city's 10 precincts for a vote total of 1,358—a margin of 511 votes over the incumbent, who received 847 votes. The combined total of the Borsheim and Unruh vote (1,615) was only 79 votes short of being double the total Mayor Reeve received.

In brief, we were wrong in three out of four of our guesses as to what the election results would be. Here is a summary of what we believe happened and how we view the results.

Special Levy Referendum—After unsuccessful attempts in 1994, 1995 and 1996, School District 564 was finally successful in passing a special levy to meet district educational needs. Last year the referendum received 2,725 "yes" votes and lost by 68 votes. In 1994 it received 1,796 "yes" votes and lost by 904 votes. This year it received only 2,013 votes and carried by 320 votes.

Perhaps the school district and the committee supporting the special levy did a better job this time around of explaining the need for additional funds and how they could be expected to be used. Or perhaps previous "no" voters thought the issue would fail and didn't bother to vote.

We thought poor rural economic conditions would spell another narrow defeat for the levy, but the only polling place where "yes" votes didn't carry was in St. Hilaire. The five polling places in Thief River Falls wards netted 1,407 "yes" votes and only 1,041 "no" votes. Franklin school polling place, where rural residents of the district voted, recorded 494 "yes" votes and 459 "no" votes for a margin of 35. At the St. Hilaire polling place, 112 "yes" and 193 "no" votes were cast—a margin of 81 votes opposed.

We believe it is now incumbent on the school administration to point out to the public as the months go by what it is able to do with the special levy funds that it would not have been able to do without them. Confidence has been voted by the citizens, but accountability and credibility must be continually established and demonstrated by the board and superintendent.

Twistol vs. Jauquet-Kalinoski—Randy Twistol campaigned hard and benefited from the "rural" vote at Franklin and St. Hilaire. He is an employee of Northwest Grain (formerly St. Hilaire Co-Op Elevator). While each candidate carried five of the city's 10 precincts, Jauquet-Kalinoski led in the total city vote 828 to 791. Twistol won the vote at Franklin 334 to 318 and carried St. Hilaire 118 to 77.

Gender may have had a greater role in this particular race than we will ever know. A couple of days prior to the election we heard several voters express the view that "I think there are enough women on the school board." Those giving that opinion were not men, they were other women. Presently the school board has four male and three female members. With only a 20-vote margin in this race, gender indeed could have been a deciding factor.

Olson vs. Winjum—Lyle Olson, a farmer, also gained the benefit of the "rural" vote, trailing Dr. Charles Winjum in the 10 city precincts 832 to 819 but winning at Franklin 415 to 243 and at St. Hilaire 119 to 87. The two were the top vote-getters among the six candidates in all 12 precincts, each carrying five of the 10 city precincts.

Borsheim vs. Reeve—Apparently a deeper discontent with city government than we recognized exists in the community as 28-year-old city employee Mark Borsheim soundly defeated incumbent Mayor Bob Reeve, winning in every precinct in the three-person race and only once getting less than 50 percent of the total votes cast (42.42 percent in Precinct 3A).

Among issues which have received extensive public criticism in the present or recent past are the city's extensive spending to renovate the dilapidated Soo Line depot for city offices, membership in the joint powers board on the Multiple Events Cultural Center, failure to purchase Washington elementary school for city offices when the school district offered it for sale (it was purchased by the Evangelical Free Church) and finding the preliminary budget (which has since been balanced) for next year to be $1.7 million in the red.

Borsheim is an office employee in the city's utilities department and reportedly had strong support among city employees. Questions of a conflict of interest potential from a city employee serving in an elected city office have yet to be resolved. Borsheim has said that, if necessary, he would give up his regular job to serve as Mayor—an office which has a salary of $500 per month.

Mark is a capable young man who can feel with confidence that he brings with him to the council table the support of an electorate which expects a more responsive government. We believe he also has the wisdom to recognize that an experienced council can help him a great deal if he is prudent in dealing with it and respects that experience. We wouldn't blame him if right now he feels just a bit like a dog who has been chasing a car and faces the dilemma of what to do when he catches it.

We have been asked why we think Mayor Bob seems to have been targeted by the voters. Our response has been that, if you are in a snowball fight and only one guy has his head sticking up above the fort, who else are you going to throw at?

Election Sidelights:

- The election produced two second generation local government office holders. Mark Borsheim's father, Milan, was a member of the city council for 12 years. Lyle Olson's father, Rufus, was a member of the school board for 10 years from 1957 to 1967.
- At age 28, Mark Borsheim is the youngest person to be elected Mayor of Thief River Falls. Orin Green was 29 when elected in 1959. He served nine years from 1960 through 1968.

Our congratulations to Lyle, Randy and Mark and the leadership of School District 564 for their election successes, and thanks once again to all candidates who sought to serve their fellow citizens through public office.

Swendra was elected to the post with 95 votes. Foster received 66 votes.

Rep. Peterson votes to reform IRS operations in vote November 5

Congressman Collin Peterson of Detroit Lakes voted Wednesday, November 5, to reform management of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), provide taxpayers with more protections in their dealings with the IRS, and make electronic filing of tax returns easier.

Rep. Peterson is a co-sponsor of the Internal Revenue Service Restructuring and Reform Act (H.R. 2676), which grew out of a bipartisan commission charged with making recommendations to Congress on the need for reform of the IRS.

"Under this bill, the IRS would be governed by a new oversight board comprised of 11 members, eight of them from the private sector," the Congressman said.

"This bill will change the law so that the 'burden of proof' in most cases that go to tax court shifts from the taxpayer to the IRS," he added. "It will also make it difficult for the IRS to hold a spouse responsible for mistakes made on a return by the other spouse."

Under its many provisions, the bill also:

- Expands to $100,000 the amount of money taxpayers can seek where the IRS negligently disregards tax laws;
- Includes a number of provisions aimed at aiding taxpayers subject to IRS audit, including giving "attorney-client" privilege before the IRS, and prohibiting the IRS from issuing summons for third-party tax records unless the IRS can not get the needed information from taxpayer records;
- Increases disclosures to the public;
- And requires the IRS to increase electronic filing of returns in the future.

"This bill is just a step in the right direction," Peterson said. "Real tax reform needs to happen in the near future, and I am co-sponsoring legislation that would sunset the current code and force us to look at replacing it with a simpler and more fair tax system."

A $1 million Chair for Rural Economic Development has been established at the University of Minnesota—Crookston through a $500,000 gift from the Dr. Frank W. Veden Charitable Trust and matching permanent university funds. Kon Broin (left), lead trustee of the Veden Trust, is shown with UMC Chancellor Donald Sargeant. This is the first chair to be established at UMC and it is expected the funds will generate about $55,000 a year. Dr. Veden was born in Wadena, graduated from Detroit Lakes high school and the University of Minnesota School of Dentistry. He had a dental practice in Fergus Falls for 54 years and died in December of 1996.

Programs aimed at keeping seniors healthy

by Sen. Roger Moe

Earlier this year the Minnesota Legislature approved several proposals that should make it easier for low-income senior citizens to stay in their homes and live longer, healthier lives. Four initiatives were passed in 1997: senior citizen property tax deferrals, the senior prescription drug discount program, live-at-home nursing grants, and outreach to seniors in public housing.

Northwestern Minnesota has a very large proportion of seniors in low-income bracket, so many of the communities in our area should receive considerable benefits from these four initiatives.

Senior Citizen Property Tax Deferrals. Low-income seniors who have difficulty paying their property tax bills can now defer their tax burden until their house is sold. Homeowners age 65 or older who have lived in their homes for at least 15 years are eligible if their total annual household income does not exceed $30,000. Seniors can defer up to 5 percent of their total household income each year, and can accumulate over the years a deferral of up to 75 percent of the property's assessed value.

In order to qualify for the program, the property must be free of liens, mortgages and special assessments. The state will pay the county for the amount of the deferral. The county treasurer will apply a lien against the property, payable when the owner decides to withdraw from the program, or due to loss of homestead status, sale of the property or death. When the lien is satisfied, the county repays the debt to the state.

Prescription Drug Discount Program. Discounts on prescription drugs will be available to low-income seniors starting in 1999. The program will be available to those seniors who earn less than 120 percent of the federal poverty level. The 120 percent of poverty threshold is set at $9,[illegible] currently. For many seniors who lack insurance coverage, prescription drugs represent their highest yearly costs. The prescription drugs eligible under the new state program are the same as the ones covered by Medical Assistance. Participants will be expected to pay an annual $120 premium with drug costs covered after a $300 annual deductible.

Live-at-Home Nursing Grants Expanded. The number of community [illegible] grant programs providing live-at-home nursing services will increase substantially due to a $[illegible] increase in state funding. [illegible] funds will allow live-at-home [illegible] programs in communities to nearly double, from 15 currently to 27 programs spread around the state. The live-at-home [illegible] grants provide the services necessary to help keep seniors in their homes.

Outreach to Seniors in Public Housing. Much like live-at-home nursing, a new outreach program for seniors in public housing is geared toward preventing or delaying the move to a nursing home. The Legislature appropriated $75,000 to help frail and disabled elderly persons connect with the community support services that will help them remain in their homes. The new program is especially geared toward seniors in public housing who are unlikely to be aware of services available to them because of language and cultural barriers.

Too often, seniors are forced to make very difficult choices, such as the choice between buying food or medication, and the choice between staying in a long-time home or moving into a nursing home. A little assistance can make a big difference in helping seniors stay in their homes while reducing the need for costly nursing home services. Legislative actions taken this year are an excellent investment in our older citizens, helping seniors stay healthy and in their homes.

Dakota Clinic in TRF to offer free screenings

"Foot Care Aware," a national program to screen patients with diabetes was launched this month in an effort to reduce the number of diabetes-related amputations in the United States. Statistics show that diabetes accounts for more than 67,000 leg and foot amputations each year. Nearly 50 percent of these amputations can be prevented through self-examination and proper foot care.

To detect problems early on, Dakota Clinic, in cooperation with the American Diabetes Association, is conducting free foot screenings for people with diabetes during the month of November. Health-care professionals will be on hand to examine patient's feet and instruct them on how to make foot care part of their daily hygiene routine. To make an appointment for your free foot screening please call 1-800-342-2383.

Diabetes results from a deficiency of insulin or a decreased ability of the body to use insulin, a hormone secreted by the pancreas. Insulin allows glucose (sugar) to enter the body cells and be converted to energy. Insulin is also needed to synthesize protein and store fats. Diabetes is classified into two main types: type 1, which usually occurs during childhood or adolescence, and type 2, the most common form of the disease, which usually occurs after age 40. Left uncontrolled, diabetes can lead to heart disease, organ failure and death.

People with diabetes who are over 40 or those who have had diabetes for more than 10 years are at high risk for foot complications due to circulatory problems, predisposition to foot injury, and decreased ability to fight infection.

To find out more about diabetes or the Foot Care Aware program call the American Diabetes Association at 1-800-342-2383.

Fifth welding demo day draws 300 to Northland

Fifth annual welding demonstration day attracted approximately 300 high school students, college students and workers in industry to Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls Wednesday, November 5, according to Don Howe, director of enrollment management at NCTC.

Demo Day V is intended to provide interested students with a variety of information about careers in welding and workers in industry with updates on new techniques and procedures.

An employment program was presented at 9:30 a.m. and welding demonstrations were given at nine different locations throughout the day. Participants were encouraged to plan their schedules to cover as many of the demonstrations as possible.

At the employment program, a welcome was given by Dr. Orley Gunderson, NCTC president, and introductions made by Howe.

Presenters included Jeff Gustafson of the Thief River Falls Workforce Center; Ron Ray, vice president of manufacturing at Arctic Cat, Inc., Thief River Falls; Ann Eveslage, human resources representative from Case Concord, Fargo, ND; Dave Swedberg, human resources representative from Polaris Industries, Roseau; John Lumma, CEO of Hydra-Mac International, Thief River Falls; and Paul Nitzel, human resources representative with the Case Four-Wheel Drive plant in Fargo, ND.

Persons presenting demonstrations and their topics were the following:

Chuck Buckley of Curex, McKay, Hoban & Powenn, metal cored, flux cored and hard facing wire;

Jose Fuentes of Lincoln Electric, square wave GTAW, plasma cutting and MIG welding with inverter power source;

Mark Salz of Miller Electric, pulsed GMAW on steel with an inverter power source;

Joe Lambrecht of Thermal Dynamics, plasma cutting and welding with thermal products;

Jack Valentine of Harris Welco, spray powder coating of cast iron with oxy-acetylene torch;

Rich Binkell of Esab, plasma cutting, MIG welding on steel and oxy fuel safety;

John Anderson of Scotchman, usage of cold saws and iron workers;

Mike Manger of Midwest Industrial X-ray, guided bend test, C scanner, ultra sound and x-ray viewing, and Don Stiege of Great Lakes Gas Transmission Company, techniques of pipeline welding.

School delegations ranged in size from a single student from Hillsboro, ND to a busload of 50 from Roseau. Other schools registering to participate were Ada-Borup, Badger, Bagley, Bemidji, Cass Lake, Grygla, Kittson Central, Lake Park/Audubon, Littlefork-Big Falls, Marshall County Central, Perham, Red Lake, Thief River Falls, Tri County at Karlstad and Warren/Alvarado/Oslo.

Students in the welding program at NCTC also participated as well as welders from Machinewell, Inc. at Grygla and Hydra-Mac International in Thief River Falls.

"We believe Demo Day V was another successful event," noted Dennis Wilkens, welding instructor at NCTC. "Student interest appeared to be high and persons giving demonstrations were asked some good questions about their area of expertise.

"We also greatly appreciate the information provided by presenters at the employment program. Our thanks to them for taking the time to be with us and to let prospective welders know what skills they will need and what they can expect in employment opportunities."

Meeting series to report about cash rent survey

Series of meetings to present a summary of the 1997-98 cash rental survey for northern Minnesota has been scheduled for November 11, 12 and 17, according to Raymond B. Thompson, Marshall county extension educator.

Sessions have been scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, November 11, at the Northwest Grain meeting room in St. Hilaire; for 9:30 a.m. at the Kittson county courthouse in Hallock and for 1:30 p.m. at the Middle River community center, both on Wednesday, November 12; and for 9:30 a.m. at the Roseau county courthouse in Roseau and for 1:30 p.m. at the Mount Carmel church at Roosevelt, both on Monday, November 17.

Landowners, tenants, CRP contract holders and others from northwest Minnesota are invited to attend. In addition to land rents for 1998, other topics will include custom rate charges, CRP break-up costs, machinery leasing, grain and building storage costs, land values and more.

All sessions are sponsored by the University of Minnesota extension service and will be conducted by Gene Krause, Lake of the Woods county extension educator, and Thompson.

For questions on these or other programs, call your local extension service office: Kittson county, 1-800-770-7029; Lake of the Woods county, 1-800-493-1511; Marshall county, 1-800-745-5232; Pennington county, 1-800-681-2116; Red Lake county, 1-800-770-1244; and Roseau county, 1-800-450-1052.

Melanie Everett of International Falls impresses clinician Mark Salz of Miller Electric Manufacturing in Minneapolis with her welding ability Wednesday during Welding Day V at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. While most of the 300 persons attending the welding information day were high school students, Melanie is the only female in the current welding program at NCTC. He hopes to find employment as a welder in the International Falls area when she completes her studies.

Veterans Service office is closed

Office of John Ellison, Pennington county veterans service officer, will be closed through Friday, November 14, while he participates in the 63rd Supreme Trek to the Tomb of the Unknowns at Arlington National Cemetery in Washington, DC.

Ellison will present a floral wreath "in tribute to our fallen comrades" from the Military Order of Cooties (the honor degree of the Veterans of Foreign Wars) of Minnesota and meet with national MOC officers.

Workers' comp information meet Thursday

Employer information session on workers' compensation will be sponsored by the Thief River Falls Workforce Center Thursday, November 13, from 9 to 11 a.m. in Room 131 at Northland Community and Technical College at Thief River Falls.

Topics to be covered include statutes and rules, employer-employee relations, workplace injuries, timelines, employer issues and what employers are required to tell their employees.

For more information regarding the free session, contact Rocky Ammerman or Vicky Tiff at the Thief River Falls Workforce Center, phone 218-681-0909.

Academic Boosters will meet Nov. 12

Thief River Falls Academic Boosters organization will meet Wednesday, November 12, at 12 noon at the Best Western Inn. Dr. Stephen Schroeder-Davis, who is speaking in Thief River Falls the previous evening, will discuss the climate for academic achievement. All are welcome to attend.

Veterans Day program Tuesday at Lincoln HS

On Tuesday, November 11, at 11:10 a.m. the annual Veterans Day program will be held at the Lincoln high school auditorium in Thief River Falls.

Guest speaker is Clarence Gagner, postmaster at Red Lake Falls and retired as Command Sergeant Major in the Minnesota Army National Guard.

A story in the Wednesday, November 5 issue of The Times, stated that Gagner had served on the Red Lake Falls city council since 1969 and mayor since 1990. That service was actually in the city of Brooks, not Red Lake Falls.

The mayor of Red Lake Falls, Deb Eukel, first elected in 1994, is now serving in the first year of her second two-year term. The Times regrets the error.

LHS music department will turn back the clock

For the fifth consecutive year the Lincoln high school music department will turn back the clock to the 1940s to present its "Remember When" big band concert and dance at 7 p.m. on Saturday, November 15, in the small gym at Lincoln.

Tickets are $8 and available at Kezar Music, Budget Electronics and from members of the Lincoln high school jazz band and Swingsations jazz choir, who will be presenting the concert.

"This is your chance to listen and dance to all of your big band favorites," invites Bruce Felt, director of the jazz band. He said the program will include Sing, Sing, Sing, Caravan, In the Mood and 20 more.

New to the show this year will be its host—John Vukmanich, new Franklin middle school band director, who will be at the microphone as "Johnny Ver." Felt will direct the jazz band as "Biff Velvet" and the vocalists are being prepared by vocal instructor Darcy Reese as "Daphne Royce." The entire production will be held together technically by Joe Kezar as "Katz Kersey."

Stephen-Argyle quarterback Steve Crummy looked for a receiver as Red Lake County Central defender T.J. Larson closed in on a pass rush during Thursday's state Nine-Men high school football playoff quarterfinal game played at Argyle. The Storm advanced to the semifinals in the Metrodome with a 51-28 win over the Mustangs.

Nine-Man state football playoffs...

Storm knocks out RLCC team 51-28

There are so many options available to the Stephen-Argyle coaching staff, that individuals have to seize the moment when their chance arrives. Steve Crummy did exactly that Thursday as the senior quarterback led the Storm past Red Lake County Central 51-28 in the opening round quarterfinals of the 1997 Nine-Man state high school football playoffs. The matinee match-up was was played at Argyle.

Crummy only put the ball in the air five times and carried just twice, but the 5-10, 170-pounder still produced four touchdowns as the second-year Stephen-Argyle combination rolled into the semifinals. Crummy's two carries netted touchdowns of 3 and 2 yards. He completed four of his five passes for 65 yards and touchdowns of 24 yards to Kent Benson and 20 yards to Alvin Salazar.

The Storm used 16 different ball carriers in running their record to 11-0. It's the second straight trip to the state semifinals for the Section 8 champions, ranked No. 3 in the final Associated Press state Nine-Man poll. Independently, Stephen was a state playoff qualifier twice, winning the title in 1992, while Argyle made six state playoff appearance, winning championships in 1981 and 1986.

It was the first state playoff appearance for the Section 7 champion Mustangs, who were trying to extend a rags-to-riches season that ended at 7-4. They were 0-8 last year in Class C before dropping under the enrollment figure this year that allowed them to return to Nine-Man football.

The two teams played to an 8-8 first quarter draw, beginning with an opening-possession punt block by the Mustangs' Matt Hruby that went through the back of the end zone for a safety.

But Stephen-Argyle got a break on the ensuing kick – a low line-drive that caromed off a Red Lake County Central front-row blocker and into the arms of Darren Szczepanski of the Storm. That set up an eight-play, 42-yard drive ending in a 3-yard sneak by Crummy. The conversion run by Justin Klitzke made it 8-2.

Red Lake County Central came right back with an 11-play, 46-yard drive to tie it. Andy Gustafson, after being hit at the line, bounced to the outside for a 15-yard run on a fourth-and-one to set up a 1-yard keeper for the touchdown by quarterback Mark Lorenson with 2:53 left in the quarter.

But the confidence Red Lake County Central might have gained from playing the favored Storm to a fist quarter draw was shattered when the two teams switched ends for the second quarter. With the strong, finger-numbing wind at their backs, the winners became unstoppable.

Stephen-Argyle scored on the first play of the second quarter, and went on to score on four of five possessions to take a 36-8 lead into halftime.

On back-to-back plays, Brent Nelson got to the outside on a 26-yard run and Alvin Salazar went 34 yards on an inside counter to key a 5-play, 65-yard drive that set up a 2-yard Crummy keeper for the go-ahead touchdown to start the quarter.

A 10-yard Red Lake County Central punt into the wind was quickly converted into a 24-yard Crummy touchdown pass to Benson – a nice-touch throw down the middle of the field just over the head of a defender.

A 17-yard Crummy pass to Darin Adolphson and a 15-yard, next-snap run by Salazar, led to a 3-yard Scott Safranski touchdown run to make it 29-8.

Another Red Lake County Central pop-up punt into the wind went just five yards to the Mustangs' 20, and was turned into a next-play Crummy touchdown toss to Salazar in the back of the end zone. Crummy's kick made it 36-8 with 61 seconds left in the half.

While the Storm was racking up the points, the Mustangs found themselves netting one first down and 27 second quarter yards.

"It was a long second quarter," acknowledged Red Lake County Central coach Gary Brantl. "We didn't stop them defensively, and we couldn't get anything going offensively."

The difference, according to Brantl, was the Stephen-Argyle line. "They're so quick," he said. "They just took over up front."

The Stephen-Argyle assault continued at the start of the second half. A first-possession pass by Lorenson was tipped and intercepted by Safranski at the Red Lake County Central 25 and returned to the 13. Four straight runs by Jim Rogus – his only carries of the afternoon – put him in the end zone.

Next Stephen-Argyle series produced the final Storm touchdown of the game, a 7-play, 41-yard drive that ended with a 2-yard run by Klitzke with 4:01 to play in the third quarter.

Looking at a 51-8 deficit, the Mustangs came back with a pride-saving finish that featured three Lorenson touchdown passes in the final 8 1/2 minutes.

Tyler Nelson caught a 7-yard pass in the right corner of the end zone, Hruby, after bobbling a short toss over the middle, found the handle and broke away from a crowd for a 33-yard touchdown, and Tyler Nelson caught one in the back of the end zone for a 12-yard score after a back-and-forth scramble behind the line by Lorenson with 12 seconds to play.

"We got kicked around pretty good in the second quarter, so at halftime we told the kids to go out and get some respect back in the second half," said Brantl. "They did. I was proud of the way they finished. They had a heck of a year. To go from 0-8 last year to 7-4 and a section championship this year is a great accomplishment."

Stephen-Argyle will meet either Section 5 champion Cromwell or Section 6 winner Orr in an 8 a.m. Friday semifinal at the Metrodome.

Patriots edge Mustangs 3-2

Win-E-Mac edged Red Lake County Central 3-2 Thursday in the Section 8A high school volleyball tournament semifinals at the University of Minnesota-Crookston.

The Sub-Section 30A champion Patriots outlasted the Sub-Section 31A title-winning Mustangs 15-9, 12-15, 15-6, 5-15, 15-4.

It was just the fourth loss of the year for Red Lake County Central, and the second time the Mustangs have fallen to the Patriots, who are seeking their seventh Section 8A crown in eight years.

"It was was really good volleyball," said Red Lake County Central coach Nancy Bray. "Both teams controlled play at different times. I guess it was their (Patriots) turn at the end."

A balanced Red Lake County Central attack included Jenny Brekkestran with 21 kills, Angie Chervestad 18, Jenni Morrisville 15, and Katie O'Neill 14. Frances Hilgeman finished with 53 assists.

It was a disappointing loss, but the Mustangs took pride in their performance, noted Bray. "They realized they played well," she said. "It could have gone either way."

Second match of the night was also a five-game affair as Cass Lake-Bena got by Lake of the Woods 7-15, 15-7, 15-2, 11-15, 15-13.

Finals today (Saturday) include a Red Lake County Central vs. Lake of the Woods third place match at 6:30 p.m. and a Win-E-Mac vs. Cass Lake-Bena championship match at 8.

Elsewhere Thursday, Alexandria swept Detroit Lakes 15-4, 15-3, 15-5 in the North Sub-Section 8AA finals, and Sauk Rapids defeated Sartell 15-11, 15-15, 15-0 to win the South Sub-Section 8AA title. The two winners meet today for the state tournament-qualifying Section 8AA crown.

Detroit Lakes had eliminated Thief River Falls 15-8, 15-8, 15-7 in the North Sub-Section 8AA semifinals, while Alexandria was beating Brainerd 15-5, 15-6, 15-6.

Card of Thanks

CARD OF THANKS
A note of thanks to everyone who remembered me before, during and after my hospital stay in Rochester, MN. The prayers, gifts, cards, phone calls, flowers and food brought to our home was greatly appreciated. To my co-workers a special thank you for all your support. As for my family and Darle, I want to say thank you for all you have done. You give me the strength I need to get through this ordeal. Mary, I cannot find the right words to express how I feel, so I will simply say "Thank You" for everything and especially for being there for me. Thanks again to all of you for caring. Your thoughtfulness will be remembered always!

made a lasting impression on Rudy. The cans containing the hash that they ate over and over were rusty from humidity. The cold hash contained potatoes and "a lot of lard." As time went on the food got better. The field rations included a candy bar. While Rudy hated the dehydrated potatoes he said the powdered eggs where good "if they were fixed right." Turkey was always served for holiday meals. On the way to New Guinea a ship carrying ham hit a coral reef which knocked out the boat's refrigeration system. The warm ham got wormy. After it was cooked the young soldiers were told what had happened to it. They were so hungry for real meat by then they didn't care and ate it anyway.

From New Guinea they were sent to the Philippines and were stationed on the Luzon and Lingayen Gulf. Again, they were seeking out the Japanese and standing guard duty at night. They were also preparing to go to Japan.

As truck mechanics Rudy and Wilkie were never in the thick of things, but Wilkie said that had they gone to Japan, "I don't think we would have made it." Hit in the leg by flying shrapnel once, Rudy shook it off before it burned. "I was lucky," he said.

The war ended in September of 1945. Wilkie ended up on a faster ship and got back to the United States before Rudy. It took the ship Rudy was on 28 days to get back to the USA, and he clearly remembers sitting on the deck of the ship in his swim trunks in the warm sun listening to "Sentimental Journey" on the radio. He was discharged on December 9, 1945 at Camp McCoy, WI.

Rudy became Cheslie Ruud of Gatzke again. He met his future wife at a dance on New Years Eve, and Cheslie and Arlette were married in November of 1947. For all but five years the couple has lived in Gatzke, and until he retired Cheslie worked on construction and farmed. They raised four sons and a daughter. Today they have ten grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. The couple celebrated its 50th wedding anniversary last weekend. The house that Cheslie was born in still stands across the road from where the Ruuds live now. He has never spent a night in a hospital.

Wilkie resumed his life as Ed Wilkerson in Paris, MO. With his brothers, he was in the rock quarry business. He remained a bachelor for a number of years and then married a widowed school teacher with a pre-school son who Wilkie raised as his own.

In 1952 Wilkie flew his small plane north to see his buddy Rudy. He flew over Cheslie's farm and dropped a note which landed in the pen of the Ruuds' butcher pig. The contents of the note told the Ruuds to pick him up on a landing strip near Middle River. It was on that first visit that Wilkie declared, "Rudy, we have to get our priorities straight!" Friendship was the priority, and since then the two buddies have stayed in very close contact. Their wives have also become good friends.

During the years when their families were young and they were busy making a living, their visits weren't as frequent as they have become in later years. For the past several years the Ruuds and Wilkersons have seen each other at least once if not several times a year.

Cheslie and Arlette have a copy of a letter Wilkie wrote his sister in November of 1942 in which Wilky described his new best friend as "a tall, quiet Norwegian." At 81, Cheslie is still a tall, quiet Norwegian. He hasn't dwelled on the war over the years but tried to forget it. He doesn't remember much when it comes to specific dates and the like.

Wilkie, on the other hand, has made a hobby of the war and has spent large amounts of time reading about it. He knows facts, figures and dates, and even if he isn't sure about something he'll convince you that he is in a most out-going manner. Like a lot of best friends, the men are opposite in many ways.

Their friendship extends to other war buddies as well. Five or six years ago the Ruuds and Wilkersons traveled to Marquette, MI where they met with three other couples. The men traded war stories for several days.

The Ruuds have made several trips to Missouri, and the Wilkersons have made many trips to Gatzke. Between visits they talk frequently on the telephone. The two men even shared "a little bout with cancer" at the same time and "compared notes" over the phone. They both made complete recoveries.

Only three weeks ago Wilkie and his wife visited Gatzke where he joined his buddy Rudy peeling potatoes for an annual church dinner.

In a telephone interview Thursday Wilkie described Rudy as "the best friend I've ever had." He once asked Rudy if they'd ever argued or been mad at each other. Neither could remember a cross word or even slight disagreement. In their military days, Wilkie referred to Rudy as "the boss." "He's still the boss," Wilkie said. He also said that he is "very proud" of the part they played in the war.

Both gentlemen agree that the youth of their generation were tough and able to fight that horrible war. They had been through the Great Depression, and they could handle whatever life handed them.

Side by side Ed "Wilkie" Wilkerson and Cheslie "Rudy" Ruud fought in the biggest war the world has ever seen, and even though they've lived hundreds of miles apart, they've remained side by side in spirit.

On Veterans Day we salute them for their service to our country. We also commend and admire their 56-year commitment to friendship.

Fosston to receive All-America plaque

Fosston - Named an "All-America" City by the National Civic League, Fosston will receive a plaque in a White House ceremony on Tuesday, November 18.

Vice President Al Gore will give a welcome and make closing remarks. After the ceremony, there will be an opportunity for photos.

Fosston Mayor Arvid Clementson will not attend the ceremony but will select the "official delegate" from the team which attended the All-America City selection convention in Fort Worth, TX last year. The Thirteen Towns

GMR students raise $650 in Penny Wars

Greenbush - Greenbush/Middle River students raised $650 worth of pennies in a homeroom activity they called "Penny Wars."

The students voted to donate the money to the Rosie O'Donnell Children's Fund and the Aids Foundation, but teachers felt that because the money was raised locally it should stay in the community and asked the students to reconsider their decision.

Two hundred dollars of the money will go to the original foundation, but the remaining $450 will divided between the Greenbush and Middle River ambulance services. New River Record

New cafe opens in Lake Bronson

Lake Bronson - Lake Bronson's newest business is a bright, cheery eating establishment called The Cafe and Ice Cream Parlor.

Owners are Glenna Messer-Hansen and her husband Ernie (Joe) Hansen. Glenna and her sister, Jerry German, are the proprietors.

Everything on the menu will be homemade, and the ice cream is the premium old-fashioned kind. They serve most of the things you would find in an old-fashioned ice cream parlor–sundaes, malts, milkshakes, banana splits and root beer floats. North Star News

New holiday lights to cheer up EGF

East Grand Forks - Unsure of whether FEMA or flood insurance will pick up the cost, the East Grand Forks Water & Light Dept. has committed itself to purchasing pole decorations to cheer up the town. During the early days of December 125 displays will be put up–new ones and those up high enough in the storage warehouse to have escaped flood damage. The Exponent

Oklee Cafe open and well received

Oklee - Mary Lou Schmidt and husband Steve are in the cafe business because "retirement" isn't in the vocabulary of Mary Lou's mother, Lily Cantwell.

Lily has been cooking in a restaurant for many, many years and will be the head cook at the new cafe located in the Oklee Municipal Building where the Senior Meal Site formerly was.

Open since November 1, the cafe has been well received by the community and those stopping through. The Oklee Herald

Six to eight hundred people have signed up for Arctic Cat's racing seminar in Thief River Falls. Thursday night, most of those people went to the National Guard Armory for the unveiling of the new Arctic Cat ZR 440 Sno Pro race machine. The new snowmobile is 24 pounds lighter than the 1997 model, and features 26 major improvements.

ZR 440 SnoPro race sled unveiled at TRF seminar

Arctic Cat Inc. unveiled the new limited edition 1998 ZR 440 Sno Pro race machine Thursday evening to a crowd of more than 800 racers, technicians and snowmobile racing fans attending the Team Arctic Racing Seminar.

The new Arctic Cat production race machine features a new power valve equipped engine, a new ram air intake system, a new cooling system, a new steering system and is 24 lbs. lighter than the 1997 model.

"Our biggest goal for this machine was to reduce weight," said Kirk Hibbert, leader of the ZR development team, and five-time ISDC high-point champion. "The new sled will be more competitive, with more horsepower and will be extremely racer friendly."

In fact, the ZR 440 Sno Pro features 26 major improvements to the design of the machine to increase power and durability and reduce weight.

"I feel the new ZR 440 Sno Pro will be the most competitive race sled Arctic Cat has ever built," said Team Arctic Race Manager Joel Hallstrom. "This machine is the biggest jump in pure racing technology we have seen since the ZR 440 first debuted in 1993."

Changes to the engine include an APV controlled exhaust system that increases the engine's power by five to six horsepower, and a timing module that allows external adjustment to engine timing, and a new expansion chamber exhaust pipe with standard interchangeable shims for fine tuning. Other changes were made to the carburetion and air intake system, the cooling system, brake system, suspension, steering system, clutches and drive system, chassis, and tracks.

Operation Round Up aids 20 organizations

Twenty area organizations were granted a total of $11,900 from Red Lake Electric Cooperative's Operation Round Up program in October. Grants are determined by the board of directors of Red Lake Electric Trust, Inc., a separate entity from Red Lake Electric Cooperative.

Currently, over 80 percent of Red Lake Electric customers voluntarily "round up" their monthly electric bill to the next even dollar amount. The difference provides the funds used for the community grant program. Since the program was begun in January of 1993, grants to nonprofit community and charitable organizations have totaled $93,140.

"Participation in this program by our customers has been wonderful," said Ron Kennedy, general manager of Red Lake Electric Cooperative. "Their generosity and community spirit are what make these grants possible and they can be very proud of the help their pennies donated each month give to their friends and neighbors in need."

Holiday gift programs in Red Lake, Pennington and Marshall counties each received $500. These programs provide Christmas gifts and clothing to children and families in need.

Pennington County Safety Camp, which conducts safety programs for all youth at a one-day summer camp, received $500. Quin County Community Health Services was granted $400 to provide take-home safety packets to second and fifth graders in eastern Marshall county.

A $500 grant was made to the Red Lake county 4-H leaders council to provide safety books to aid classroom teachers and students in the fifth and sixth grades. A new after-school program in St. Hilaire —the St. Hilaire Area Recreation Program—received a $500 grant to provide positive activities after school for area youth.

Pennington county dive rescue team was granted $1,000 for the purchase of diving communication equipment to aid in under water rescues and recoveries. A $1,000 grant was also made to the St. Hilaire Fire and Rescue Service to assist in purchase of "Jaws of Life" equipment.

Goodridge Lioness club received a $500 grant to purchase kitchen and dining equipment for the refurbished Goodridge Community Hall and the St. Hilaire Activity Center was awarded $500 for maintenance and utilities at that community facility. Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls received $500 to purchase kitchen equipment.

Thief River Falls branch of Hospice of the Red River Valley was given $1,000 to help provide physical, emotional, spiritual and comfort care to patients and families in the area. Hospice also provides bereavement care for families up to a year after the death of a family member.

Violence Intervention Project (VIP) of Thief River Falls received a $1,000 grant to help construct a regional crisis center to better provide care for victims of child abuse and domestic and/or sexual assault.

Falls DAC of Thief River Falls was granted $500 to use in its day training and habilitation services for adults with developmental disabilities and food shelves in Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls were each given $500 to provide food items to the needy.

Senior nutrition and meal programs in Plummer, Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls were each given $500.

Board of directors of Red Lake Electric Trust, Inc., includes Mark Naplin, president, Orlan Stolaas, vice president and Beverly Perreault, secretary-treasurer. Serving as ex-officio members are Veral Mosbeck, president and Ron Kennedy, general manager of Red Lake Electric Cooperative.

Lee Silverton performs with his Krazy Kritters

Lee Silverton and his Krazy Kritters performed recently at NWMC's volunteer banquet. Lee Silverton is the stage name of Larry Ellingson, son of Irene Ellingson of Thief River Falls.

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Whether you are five years old or 95, Lee Silverton and his Krazy Kritters will make you smile.

Lee Silverton is the stage name of Larry Ellingson who grew up in the Goodridge area and is the son of Irene Ellingson of Thief River Falls and the late Leo Ellingson.

When asked at a recent performance how long her brother has been entertaining, Diana "Granny" Josephson replied, "Since the day he was born."

As he grew up, music was a big part of Larry's life with Saturday night jam sessions a regular weekly event. His dad's side of the family provided a variety of musical talents. His dad sang, his uncle played the banjo and his aunt was a honky-tonk piano player. He claims that his uncle is the best banjo player he's ever seen–and in his extensive travels, he's seen quite a few.

While in high school Larry played in a number of local bands performing old-time music, country and the rock and roll of the 50's and 60's. Since then, he's been part of a number of musical acts. He has also worked in song writing and done some work on commercials.

Music, however, has not been Larry's only line of work. He has owned a real estate business, done repair work for music companies, worked as an accountant, done custom combining, owned an antique business–to name a few.

When asked what he wants to do when he grows up, Larry answered, "I'm not sure." Thursday was his 57th birthday. With his energetic yet easy-going personality and "can do" attitude, he leaves one with the feeling that he has miles to go and lots to do.

While his audience may have a different opinion, Larry doesn't "claim to be a great musician." He says he "plays at" a number of instruments including the guitar, banjo, mandolin, bass, piano and keyboard, accordion, saxophone and harmonica. When it comes to singing, he says the trick is to find music to fit the voice rather than trying to fit the voice to the music.

Larry believes desire, ability and dedication to be the three most important qualities needed by an

(Continued from page 1) made a lasting impression on Rudy. He can't continue the hash that they ate over and over were rusty from laundry. The cold hash contained potatoes and a lot of lard. As time went on the food got better. The field rations included a candy bar. While Rudy found the dehydrated potatoes he said the powdered eggs wasn't good if they were fixed right. Turkey was always served for holiday meals. On the way to New Guinea a ship carrying him hit a coral reef which knocked out the boat's refrigeration system. The warm ham got wormy. After it was cooked the young soldiers were told what had happened to it. They were so hungry for real meat by then they didn't care and ate it anyway.

From New Guinea they were sent to the Philippines and were stationed on the Luzon and Lingayen Gulf. Again, they were seeking out the Japanese and standing guard duty at night. They were also preparing to go to Japan.

As truck mechanics Rudy and Wilkie were never in the thick of things, but Wilkie said that had they gone to Japan, "I don't think we would have made it." Hit in the leg by flying shrapnel once, Rudy shook it off before it burned. "I was lucky," he said.

The war ended in September of 1945. Wilkie ended up on a faster ship and got back to the United States before Rudy. It took the ship Rudy was on 28 days to get back to the USA, and he clearly remembers sitting on the deck of the ship in his swim trunks in the warm sun listening to "Sentimental Journey" on the radio. He was discharged on December 9, 1945 at Camp McCoy, WI.

Rudy became Cheslie Ruud of Gatzke again. He met his future wife at a dance on New Years Eve, and Cheslie and Arlette were married in November of 1947. For all but five years the couple has lived in Gatzke, and until he retired Cheslie worked in construction and farmed. They raised four sons and a daughter. Today they have ten grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. The couple celebrated its 50th wedding anniversary last weekend. The house that Cheslie was born in still stands across the road from where the Ruuds live now. He has never spent a night in a hospital.

Wilkie returned to his home, Ed Wilkerson in Paris, MO. With his brothers, he was in the rock quarry business. He remained a bachelor for a number of years and then married a widowed school teacher with a pre-school son who Wilkie raised as his own.

In 1952 Wilkie flew his small plane north to see his buddy Rudy. He flew over Cheslie's farm and dropped a note which landed in the pen of the Ruuds' butcher pig. The contents of the note told the Ruuds to pick him up on a landing strip near Middle River. It was on that first visit that Wilkie declared, "Rudy, we have to get our priorities straight." Friendship was the priority, and since then the two buddies have stayed in very close contact. Their wives have also become good friends.

During the years when their families were young and they were busy making a living, their visits weren't as frequent as they have become in later years. For the past several years the Ruuds and Wilkersons have seen each other at least once if not several times a year.

Cheslie and Arlette have a copy of a letter Wilkie wrote his sister in November of 1942 in which Wilkie described his new best friend as "a tall, quiet Norwegian." At 81, Cheslie is still a tall, quiet Norwegian. He hasn't dwelled on the war over the years but tried to forget it. He doesn't remember much when it comes to specific dates and the like.

Wilkie, on the other hand, has made a hobby of the war and has spent large amounts of time reading about it. He knows facts, figures and dates, and even if he isn't sure about something he'll convince you that he is in a most outgoing manner. Like a lot of best friends, the men are opposite in many ways.

Their friendship extends to other war buddies as well. Five or six years ago the Ruuds and Wilkersons traveled to Marquette, MI where they met with three other couples. The men traded war stories for several days.

The Ruuds have made several trips to Missouri, and the Wilkersons have made many trips to Gatzke. Between visits they talk frequently on the telephone. The two men even shared "a little bout with cancer" at the same time and "compared notes" over the phone. They both made complete recoveries.

Only three weeks ago Wilkie and his wife visited Gatzke where he joined his buddy Rudy peeling potatoes for an annual church dinner.

In a telephone interview Thursday Wilkie described Rudy as "the best friend I've ever had." He once asked Rudy if they'd ever argued or been mad at each other. Neither could remember a cross word or even slight disagreement. In their military days Wilkie referred to Rudy as "the boss." "He's still the boss," Wilkie said. He also said that he is "very proud of the part they played in the war."

Both gentlemen agree that the youth of their generation were tough and able to fight that horrible war. They had been through the Great Depression, and they could handle whatever life handed them.

Side by side Ed "Wilkie" Wilkerson and Cheslie "Rudy" Ruud fought in the biggest war the world has ever seen, and even though they've lived hundreds of miles apart, they've remained side by side in spirit.

On Veterans Day we salute them for their service to our country. We also commend and admire their 56 year commitment to friendship.

New cafe opens in Lake Bronson

Lake Bronson - Lake Bronson's newest business is a bright, cheery eating establishment called The Cafe and Ice Cream Parlor.

Owners are Glenna Messer-Hansen and her husband Ernie (Joe) Hansen. Glenna and her sister, Jerry German, are the proprietors.

Everything on the menu will be homemade, and the ice cream is the premium old-fashioned kind. They serve most of the things you would find in an old-fashioned ice cream parlor-sundaes, malts, milkshakes, banana splits and root beer floats. North Star News

New holiday lights to cheer up EGF

East Grand Forks - Unsure of whether FEMA or flood insurance will pick up the cost, the East Grand Forks Water & Light Dept. has committed itself to purchasing pole decorations to cheer up the town. During the early days of December 125 displays will be put up-new ones and those up high enough in the storage warehouse to have escaped flood damage. The Exponent

Oklee Cafe open and well received

Oklee - Mary Lou Schmidt and husband Steve are in the cafe business because "retirement" isn't in the vocabulary of Mary Lou's mother, Lily Cantwell.

Lily has been cooking in a restaurant for many, many years and will be the head cook at the new cafe located in the Oklee Municipal Building where the Senior Meal Site formerly was.

Open since November 1, the cafe has been well received by the community and those stopping through. The Oklee Herald

Six to eight hundred people have signed up for Arctic Cat's racing seminar in Thief River Falls. Thursday night, most of those people went to the National Guard Armory for the unveiling of the new Arctic Cat ZR 440 Sno Pro race machine. The new snowmobile is 24 pounds lighter than the 1997 model, and features 26 major improvements.

ZR 440 SnoPro race sled unveiled at TRF seminar

Arctic Cat Inc. unveiled the new limited edition 1998 ZR 440 Sno Pro race machine Thursday evening to a crowd of more than 800 racers, technicians and snowmobile racing fans attending the Team Arctic Racing Seminar.

The new Arctic Cat production race machine features a new power valve equipped engine, a new ram air intake system, a new cooling system, a new steering system and is 24 lbs. lighter than the 1997 model.

"Our biggest goal for the machine was to reduce weight," said Kirk Hibbert, leader of the ZR development team, and five time ISOC high point champion. "The new sled will be more competitive, with more horsepower and will be extremely racer friendly."

In fact, the ZR 440 Sno Pro features 26 major improvements to the design of the machine to increase power and durability and reduce weight.

"I feel the new ZR 440 Sno Pro will be the most competitive race sled Arctic Cat has ever built," said Team Arctic Race Manager Joel Hallstrom. "This machine is the biggest jump in pure racing technology we have seen since the ZR 440 first debuted in 1993."

Changes to the engine include an APV controlled exhaust system that increases the engine's power by five to six horsepower, and a timing module that allows external adjustment to engine timing, and a new expansion chamber exhaust pipe with external interchangeable shims for fine tuning. Other changes were made to the carburetion and air intake system, the cooling system, brake system, suspension, steering system, clutches and drive system, chassis, and tracks.

Twenty-one organizations were granted a total of $11,900 from Red Lake Electric Cooperative's Operation Round Up program in October. Grants are determined by the board of directors of Red Lake Electric Trust, Inc., a separate entity from Red Lake Electric Cooperative.

Currently over 80 percent of Red Lake Electric customers voluntarily "round up" their monthly electric bill to the next even dollar amount. The difference provides the funds used for the community grant program. Since the program was begun in January of 1993, grants to nonprofit community and charitable organizations have totaled $93,130.

"Participation in this program by our customers has been wonderful," said Ron Kennedy, general manager of Red Lake Electric Cooperative. "Their generosity and community spirit are what make these grants possible and they can be very proud of the help their pennies donated each month give to their friends and neighbors in need."

Holiday gift programs in Red Lake, Pennington and Marshall counties each received $800. These programs provide Christmas gifts and clothing to children and families in need.

Pennington County Safety Camp, which conducts safety programs for all youth at a one-day summer camp, received $500. Quin County Community Health Services was granted $100 to provide take-home safety packets to second and fifth graders in eastern Marshall county.

A $500 grant was made to the Red Lake county 4-H leaders council to provide safety books to aid classroom teachers and students in the fifth and sixth grades. A new after-school program in St. Hilaire — the St. Hilaire Area Recreation Program — received a $500 grant to provide positive activities after school for area youth.

Pennington county dive rescue [illegible]

[illegible] Goodridge Community Hall and the St. Hilaire Activity Center was awarded $900 for maintenance and utilities at that community facility. Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls received $800 to purchase kitchen equipment.

Thief River Falls branch of Hospice of the Red River Valley was given $1,000 to help provide physical, emotional, spiritual and comfort care to patients and families in the area. Hospice also provides bereavement care for families up to a year after the death of a family member.

Violence Intervention Project (VIP) of Thief River Falls received a $1,000 grant to help construct a regional crisis center to better provide care for victims of child abuse and domestic and/or sexual assault.

Falls DAC of Thief River Falls was granted $800 to use in its day training and habilitation services for adults with developmental disabilities and food shelves in Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls were each given $800 to provide food items to the needy.

Senior nutrition and meal programs in Plummer, Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls were each given $500.

Board of directors of Red Lake Electric Trust, Inc. includes Mark [illegible], president; Orlan [illegible], vice president; and Beverly [illegible], secretary-treasurer. Serving as ex-officio members are Vinal [illegible], president and Ron Kennedy, general manager of Red Lake Electric Cooperative.

Lee Silverton performs with his Krazy Kritters

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Whether you are five years old or 95, Lee Silverton and his Krazy Kritters will make you smile.

Lee Silverton is the stage name of Larry Ellingson who grew up in the Goodridge area and is the son of Irene Ellingson of Thief River Falls and the late Leo Ellingson.

When asked at a recent performance how long her brother has been entertaining, Diana "Granny" Josephson replied, "Since the day he was born."

As he grew up, music was a big part of Larry's life with Saturday night jam sessions a regular weekly event. His dad's side of the family provided a variety of musical talents. His dad sang, his uncle played the banjo and his aunt was a honky-tonk piano player. He claims that his uncle is the best banjo player he's ever seen—and in his extensive travels, he's seen quite a few.

While in high school Larry played in a number of local bands performing old-time music, country and the rock and roll of the 50s and 60s. Since then, he's been part of a number of musical acts. He has also worked in song writing and done some work on commercials.

Music, however, has not been Larry's only line of work. He has owned a real estate business, done repair work for music companies, worked as an accountant, done custom combining, owned an antique business—to name a few.

When asked what he wants to do when he grows up, Larry answered, "I'm not sure." Thursday was his 57th birthday. With his energetic yet easy-going personality and "can do" attitude, he leaves one with the feeling that he has miles to go and lots to do.

While his audience may have a different opinion, Larry doesn't "claim to be a great musician." He says he "plays at" a number of instruments including the guitar, banjo, mandolin, bass, piano and keyboard, accordion, saxophone and harmonica. When it comes to singing, he says the trick is to find music to fit the voice rather than trying to fit the voice to the music.

Larry believes desire, ability and dedication to be the three most important qualities needed by an

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Today's recipes are for some delicious soups you can make on these cold, snowy days. Serve with fresh bread, muffins, biscuits and a salad and you have a meal that's fit for a king.

Here's a delicious main dish soup that the family will love:

CHEESEBURGER SOUP

1/2 pound ground beef
3/4 cup chopped onion
3/4 cup shredded carrots
3/4 cup diced celery
1 teaspoon basil
1 teaspoon parsley flakes
4 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
3 cups chicken broth
4 cups diced, peeled potatoes
1/4 cup flour
8 ounces American cheese, cubed (2 cups)
1 1/2 cups milk
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup sour cream

In large saucepan, brown beef. Drain and set aside.

In same saucepan, saute onion, carrots, celery, basil and parsley in 1 tablespoon butter until vegetables are tender, about 10 minutes.

Add broth, potatoes and beef and bring to boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 10-12 minutes, until potatoes are tender.

Meanwhile, in small skillet, melt remaining butter. Add flour and cook and stir for 3-5 minutes, until bubbly. Add to soup and bring to a boil. Cook and stir for 2 minutes.

Reduce heat to low and add cheese, milk, salt and pepper. Simmer and stir until cheese melts. Remove from heat and blend in sour cream.

If you like stuffed peppers, you'll love this soup:

STUFFED PEPPER SOUP

2 pounds ground beef
1 (28 ounce) can tomato sauce
1 (28 ounce) can diced tomatoes, undrained
2 cups cooked converted or long grain white rice
2 cups chopped green pepper
2 beef bouillon cubes
1/4 cup packed brown sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper

In a large saucepan, brown beef. Drain.

Add remaining ingredients and bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 30-40 minutes until peppers are tender.

Don't throw away that ratty-looking turkey carcass - make this wonderfully tasty soup instead:

HARVEST TURKEY SOUP

1 turkey carcass (from at least 12-pound turkey)
5 quarts water
2 large carrots, shredded
1 cup chopped celery
1 large onion, chopped
4 chicken bouillon cubes
1 (28 ounce) can stewed tomatoes
3/4 cup fresh or frozen peas
3/4 cup long grain rice
1 (10 ounce) package frozen chopped spinach
1 tablespoon salt (or less if desired)
3/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon dried marjoram
1/2 teaspoon dried thyme

Place turkey carcass and water in soup kettle and bring to boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 1 1/2 hours. Remove carcass and allow to cool.

Remove turkey from bones and cut into bite-sized pieces. Set aside.

Strain broth and add carrots, celery, onion and bouillon. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 30 minutes. Add tomatoes, peas, rice, spinach, salt, pepper, marjoram, thyme and turkey meat.

Return to a boil and cook, uncovered, for 20 minutes or until rice is tender.

Use some of that squash that is so abundant now to make this:

GOLDEN SQUASH SOUP

3 leeks, white portion only, sliced
4 medium carrots, chopped
5 tablespoon butter or margarine
3 pounds butternut squash, peeled and cubed
6 cups chicken broth
3 medium zucchini, peeled and sliced
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon thyme
1/4 teaspoon white pepper
1 cup half and half
1/2 cup milk
Grated parmesan cheese
Chives, if desired

In soup pot, saute leeks and carrots in butter for 5 minutes over medium heat, stirring occasionally. Add squash, broth, zucchini, salt, thyme and pepper, cover and simmer until vegetables are tender, about 30 minutes. Cool until lukewarm.

In blender, puree soup in small batches until smooth. Return to kettle, add cream and milk, mix well and heat through but do not boil. Garnish with cheese and chives.

Homeowners cut costs, save hundreds each month.

While the national deficit may be at a 23 year low homeowners are still piling up debt. National consumer debt is expected to reach 660 billion by the year 2000 almost double what it was in 1994. Whether it's a question of inflation or simply living beyond their means, there's one thing that most homeowners have in common. They want to pay down their debt, save more money and get ahead financially. But when debt runs into the tens of thousands, saving money comes in second to the priority of simply getting the monthly bills paid.

But in spite of these ever increasing expenses some homeowners are actually finding ways to save money every month, and lots of it. In most cases, they're saving up to 50 percent and more on their monthly payments. This translates into hundreds of dollars in savings every month. The question is, how do they do it?

The answer is CAPITOL BROKERS.

CAPITOL BROKERS is a specialized home mortgage finance company that enables homeowners to borrow more money than the amount of equity they have in their homes. That is what sets them apart from most other finance companies.

CAPITOL BROKERS offers loans up to 125 percent of the value of the home meaning that even new homeowners can qualify for a loan. While other finance companies might look at the equity when determining a loan, CAPITOL BROKERS is more interested in the borrower's credit history and ability to repay the loan.

To homeowners this is great news for several reasons. The first is bill consolidation. With a CAPITOL BROKERS loan homeowners can consolidate their high interest and high monthly payment bills into one lower monthly payment amount. For many the savings are in the hundreds every single month, sometimes as much as $500 or more. And most homeowners find that it's much easier to pay one bill with one due date than it is to juggle several bills with several different due dates.

Another advantage to consolidating bills is taxes. Many borrowers, upon consultation with their financial advisors, find that the interest on a CAPITOL BROKERS loan could be deductible. Credit cards and other loans could charge up to 21 percent interest that isn't tax deductible, giving homeowners even more ways to save money with CAPITOL BROKERS.

The third reason is home improvement. Many homeowners use CAPITOL BROKERS loans to customize or renovate their homes. And even though new buyers may have no equity built up they can still qualify with CAPITOL BROKERS.

The most typical home improvement projects are major repairs, kitchen and bath renovations, room additions and luxury items like swimming pools. In fact, in a fluctuating real estate market many consumers are staying in their homes longer. Rather than attempting to purchase new homes they choose to renovate their existing homes at a much lower cost. Borrowers can even combine home improvement and debt consolidation into one money saving loan. It's CAPITOL BROKERS that makes it happen.

So what are these homeowners doing with all the money they're saving? Some are using the money for college tuition. Others are buying cars, taking vacations, enjoying the finer things in life. Still others are investing their money, buying savings bonds, mutual funds and stocks. And others are simply enjoying the peace of mind that comes with knowing they'll be able to make ends meet and maybe even get ahead.

Homeowners who find all this confusing are not alone. CAPITOL BROKERS is the first to admit that applying for a home equity loan can raise a lot of questions. With all the different specifications, many consumers can feel overwhelmed. But with CAPITOL BROKERS each borrower has their own personal loan officer who has the responsibility of making sure the customer understands every aspect of the loan. It's this kind of attention to customer service that has made CAPITOL BROKERS a leader in the consumer finance industry.

A representative of CAPITOL BROKERS can be reached Mon-Fri 9 a.m. - 6 p.m., Sat 9 a.m. - 2 p.m. Please call 1-800-791-7126 for further information.

Academic Excellence Is Elusive But Attainable

While Americans are all too willing to condemn our public education system because studies show American students to be lagging well behind their counterparts in other countries, they might do well to look a little closer to home for the cause of the problem.

Following analysis of results from the most comprehensive study ever performed concerning the academic achievement of high school students, researcher and author Laurence Steinberg concluded the following:

"No curricular overhaul, no instructional innovation, no change in school organization, no toughening of standards, no rethinking of teacher training or compensation will succeed if students do not come to school interested in, and committed to, learning."

If this assessment is accurate and the conclusion is true, into whose lap does the failure of American children to achieve academically squarely fall?

Parents?

Bingo!

Findings of the study provide some other meaningful revelations:

(1) Over one-third of our students come to school to "goof off."

(2) Half of the students report that they do not do assigned homework.

(3) Fewer than one student in five has friends who value good grades.

(4) Forty percent have parents who never attend a school function.

According to Dr. Stephen Schroeder-Davis, who spoke in Thief River Falls Tuesday evening under sponsorship of the Minnesota Academic Excellence Foundation and the Thief River Falls Academic Boosters, the common denominator uniting all of the items noted above is culture. For a variety of reasons, contemporary American culture sends messages to youth that conflict with the values of concerned parents and educators.

"The culture of apathy toward and disdain for rigorous academic effort is so pronounced that our schools now contain textbooks that have been 'dumbed down' approximately two grade levels in difficulty, teachers who assign approximately one-fifth the homework of their counterparts in other industrialized countries, and an alarming number of students who deliberately underachieve to appease their peers!" Schroeder-Davis said.

Put simply, he says, hard working students run the risk of being labeled "nerds," while students who goof off and party become "populars." In Steinberg's study, students avoided being known as "brains" while those known as "druggies" and "partyers" enjoyed the popularity and prestige that came with those labels.

Where do such harmful values originate? How did it happen and what can adults do about it? Much of the answer lies in role models, both actual in real life and portrayed in movies and on television. Quite consistently the apathetic, self-absorbed student is glamorized as a desirable role model which the conscientious student is scorned and ridiculed. Given the status of learning among too many of today's American young people, the "My Kid Beat Up Your Honor Student" bumper sticker holds little humor.

Education in America has given in to the idea that "self-esteem" is somehow sacred and that recognition of individual scholastic achievement is to be avoided for fear that those who don't attain to the same level will suffer damage to their self-esteem. Teachers and schools have allowed themselves to be adversely influenced by demands for more credit for less effort, and rampant grade inflation has made an "A" as common as a "C" was 25 years ago.

"It doesn't have to be this way," Schroeder-Davis says. "Communities, parents and educators have confronted these negative cultural messages by raising expectations, recognizing academic excellence and providing positive role models."

A random survey of more than 250 parents of students attending the Minnesota Academic Excellence Foundation Gathering of Champions at the 1997 Minnesota State Fair produced responses that reflected and amplified other research studies on student success. These young scholars had adults in their lives who:

(1) Expect them to do their best;

(2) Model persistence, reliability and a strong work ethic;

(3) Attend school functions, performances and conferences;

(4) Read, and expect their children to do so.

These are the students who come to school ready and willing to learn. They are the ones with the courage to seek out peers with similar values and to recognize taunts of under-achievers as the voices of losers. They will carry a pursuit of excellence into their adult lives and reap the rewards of learning how to learn. They will be the success stories of tomorrow.

Being smart isn't dumb. Being dumb isn't cool. Failing to use your abilities is a waste. The more families which embrace that philosophy, the better our education system can be.

Push Coming Again For Enforcing Seat Belt Use

Lamenting the survey results that there has been no increase in two years in the percentage of motorist seat belt use, the Minnesota Safety Belt Coalition is laying the groundwork for another effort to make it possible for law enforcement officers to make arrests for that violation alone. Presently the citation for failure to use a seat belt can be issued only if the motorist is stopped for another violation.

The study shows that 65 percent of all motorists buckle up—68 percent in the metro area and 59 percent in the rest of Minnesota.

"We will continue our consistent educational efforts," states Chris Krueger, chair of the coalition, "but these numbers demonstrate the need for strengthened safety belt laws that are easier to enforce. A simplified safety belt law that would allow for primary enforcement, coupled with education, will save many lives and prevent countless injuries."

We think seat belt use is smart. The percentages are in your favor if you are wearing a seat belt and are involved in an accident. The coalition says a 15 percent increase in use in Minnesota would save about 50 lives and prevent 1,200 injuries. It could be right.

We have opposed each step as the seat belt laws have evolved toward this present push as an unnecessary infringement on individual freedoms. It is difficult for us to accept as necessity the legislating of our personal actions for our personal safety. But maybe it takes the threat of a fine to cause people to become aware of the benefits of seat belt use. Watch for legislation to be proposed in the 1998 session.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

My name is Carolyn. I am 7 years old. I had a great time at the Lion halloween party. Thank you for the candy and the two dollars. Lion's are great!

Love,
Carolyn

To The Editor:

I am writing this letter to thank the voters of School District No. 564 for voting in favor of the levy referendum. What a great thing you have done for the children of our community!

I have always loved our community and felt that everyone here has value and is valued by others no matter what you do, what your financial status is, what your education level is, or what your age. We are a community where "Everybody really is Somebody!"

We have always been a community that cares for each other—especially the children. We have always been willing to support anything that benefits our children. The past years when the levy was defeated caused me to lose faith in this community that I have always loved.

So I want to thank you for restoring my faith in our wonderful community—a community that values all of its citizens—especially the children. They deserve our support and deserve the best opportunities we can provide them with to insure a great future for them and a great future for all of us.

I want to especially thank the citizens who served on the Citizens for Quality Education committee who worked very hard and spent many hours on initiatives to get the information out to the public about the levy. There were many others who offered their help and support in many ways and I wish to thank all of you also. Many contributed financially so that it was possible to get the information out to the voters and many offered their time and talents and resources to make things happen.

A special thank you to the Lincoln students from the National Honor Society and the Key Club for their support and a help and to Nik Kotz for coordinating and organizing the many student efforts. A BIG thank you to Tommy Jacobson, also at Lincoln, for all his hard work in making our buttons that supported the levy.

Thank you everyone for all of your help and thank you voters for ensuring a positive future for our children.

Sincerely,
Carol Ihle, Chair
Citizens for Quality Education

Warroad artist has display at Roseau library

Lea Soltis of Warroad, who has been selected as Artist of the Month for November by the Roseau Area Friends of the Library, has seven paintings on display at the Roseau public library.

The exhibit may be viewed during regular library hours Tuesday through Saturday and on Sunday afternoons from 1 to 4 p.m.

Seascapes are included in the exhibit since Soltis lived on the East Coast during her youth. She feels most of her development as a painter has come since she attended workshops taught in Lake of the Woods county by Frank Covino. She has previously exhibited at the library and at the Roseau Area Art in the Park.

Artist of the month for October was photographer David Danielson. In December a joint exhibit by several artists is planned. Those who would like to see the work of a particular area artist should leave suggestions at the Roseau library.

A Big THANK YOU to all you nice people who remembered me on my 80th Birthday!

Construction at new Dakota Clinic proceeds on time

Favorable fall weather conditions have allowed construction workers to enclose the new Dakota Clinic building in Thief River Falls in preparation for winter construction inside the building.

Gene Schroeder, field superintendent for R.L. Engebretson Co., architect and general contractor, said the new building on Highway 59 south is coming along pretty good. He believes the project is on schedule and expects it to be completed in mid July. He said clinic personnel will probably be able to start moving into sections of the facility by June.

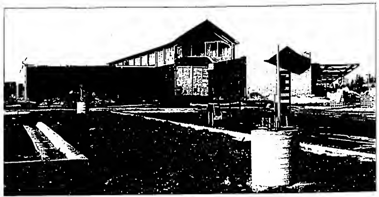
Schroeder said the favorable fall weather conditions allowed workers to pretty much enclose the entire building in time for winter construction. It has also helped that workers were able to get the parking lot, sidewalks and curbs completed. All they'll have to do next summer is put on the finishing cover to the parking lot.

Schroeder said they still have to construct the 5,000 square foot addition which will house the ophthalmologist and optometrists' office, but believes that will be done in December.

Schoeder said when completed, the entire facility will have lots of natural light and give visitors a feeling of openness.

The Clinic in Thief River Falls has been serving the extended community for over 45 years. Groundbreaking for the new $7 million facility took place in May. Construction of this facility is seen as a sign of its continuing commitment to the area.

In September, Dr. Bob Dicken, ophthalmologist, Dr. Hal Freeman and Dr. Craig Mickelson, optometrists, announced they would be relocating their practice to Dakota Clinic's new Regional Clinic and Ambulatory Surgery Center. This announcement led to a 5,000 square foot addition to the new facility. The facility will now occupy over 50,000 square feet and contain a fully equipped laboratory, radiology department, ambulatory surgery center, pharmacy, physical therapy department, and urgent care area.



Construction at Dakota Clinic is progressing on schedule. The facility, which will occupy more than 50,000 square feet, is located on Highway 59 south of Thief River Falls. In addition to a new eye care center added to the plans in September, the facility will contain a fully equipped laboratory, radiology department, ambulatory surgery center, pharmacy, physical therapy department and urgent care area. Completion is expected next July. Clinic personnel might be able to start moving in in June.

entertainer. He agrees with Johnny Cash that show business is 10 percent talent and 90 percent hard work. He also appreciates the two words of advice for show business newcomers Bill Cosby revealed once in an interview, "Be ready." He's repeated those words to his son who is contemplating a career in show business.

The stage name Lee Silverton was originally a pen name Larry used in the '70s when he was writing songs. The stage name "separates you from what you do," he said. "You're not the same person on stage as you are off stage."

The "Krazy Kritters" that accompany him are Buford the Wonder Dog, Zelda "The Great" and the Three Singing Fish – Oogie, Googie and Fred. They look like big stuffed animals until they start to sing. Buford's voice is deep while Zelda's has a cackling quality. The three fish sing in perfect harmony.

Larry built the mechanical, voice-activated creatures using everything from PCV pipe to car parts. How they were made to work is a secret that he hasn't revealed. He did tell about the stroke of luck that enabled him to make his idea come to life.

While working as a solo act in Las Vegas, Larry was doing well but wanted "something different." The idea for the three fish came first. To make them sing, he needed a recording studio which involved quite a bit of money. The tape recorder he needed was $3,000. One night while waiting for a friend to finish her work shift at a casino he hit a $3,000 jackpot. With the money he bought his tape recorder, built his recording studio, and Oogie, Googie and Fred came to life.

The singing creatures are an attraction and create a comical and carefree atmosphere. Lee and the Kritters perform the "I've Been Everywhere" song with Buford, Zelda, the fish and Lee interjecting the names of all the towns across the country at the appropriate time. They really have been everywhere–from Las Vegas to Texas to Montana to South Dakota and now to Minnesota.

Larry's mother Irene often travels to where he is performing. Irene is 80-some years young, and according to Lee when he returns to a place where she has been to visit him, he is "always asked about mom first." It's to spend time with Irene that Larry has returned to Minnesota for awhile.

On stage Lee Silverton appears to be having the time of his life, and one can tell that he loves every minute of what he's doing. His audience responds–clapping their hands, dancing or simply watching grinning broadly. In a word, his show is fun.

He performed at the River Road Casino on Halloween. Kids were invited for an early show and were captivated by Lee and his Krazy Kritters. The act was equally enjoyed in a very different setting when he did a program at Northwest Medical Center's volunteer recognition luncheon recently at Zion Lutheran Church.

Lee and the Kritters have done several shows at the Shooting Star in Mahnomen and had a particularly rewarding experience this past Tuesday when because of a booking error, Shooting Star management asked him to do an afternoon performance in addition to the regularly scheduled evening show. He obliged but expected a quiet afternoon. To his delight the dance floor was full at 4 p.m. with people who had never met each other before dancing and having a good time.

It's appreciative audiences and standing ovations that create the euphoric "high" that performers live for.

Not all aspects of show business are so much fun. Larry doesn't like the booking end of it and finds the financial part of the business "ridiculous... totally illogical." The road can get long, and the two hours of setting up before a show and two hours of tearing down afterwards are often tedious.

Lee Silverton and his Krazy Kritters are scheduled to perform at the Christmas party and at an afternoon children's program at the VFW in December. A number of other gigs around the area will keep him busy. He does, however, have a few openings available and can be reached at 681-1607.

After the first of the year Larry's plans are not so certain. He isn't overly fond of the bitterly cold weather and may opt to go south where it's warmer.

As for career goals he has a number of things in mind. He has no great ambitions to become a "big star" but would like to do some recording and get back into song writing.

Wherever he is, Lee Silverton smiles as he performs. His audience–sometimes in spite of itself–smiles back.

Crookston women's health program is on self defense

Women's health luncheon at Riverview Healthcare Association in Crookston will have a bit of a twist Tuesday and Thursday, November 18 and 20, when the program will be on self-defense and how to avoid a violent situation.

The luncheons are held Tuesday and Thursday at 12 noon and women are invited to attend either session.

Speakers and demonstrators will be Michelle Larson, a former Miss Crookston and 1997 first runner-up for Miss Thief River Falls, who holds a black belt in Tae Kwon Do karate, and Kevin Price, a fourth degree Master instructor in that karate form.

Women of all ages are invited to attend, watch and listen as the two martial arts experts discuss and demonstrate basic methods of self-defense and ways to avoid being put in a situation where violence is more likely to occur.

This is the 17th in the series of luncheons sponsored by Riverview. Each is kept under an hour so working women in the community can attend. The presentations are free and attendees can bring their own lunches or purchase one for $3 at the luncheon site.

Pre-registration is required. Call 218-281-9405 for additional information or to pre-register.

The interior of the new Dakota Clinic building on Highway 59 south in Thief River Falls will utilize a great deal of natural light. It will also give visitors a feeling of openness. The building has been completely enclosed in preparation for winter construction.

Blood drive at Goodridge is November 20

Goodridge Lioness club will sponsor a blood drive on Thursday, November 20, from 7:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at St. Anne's Catholic church in Goodridge.

To make an appointment for donating blood, call Dorothy Wayne at 681-1085 or Colleen Hoffman at 378-4371.

United Blood Services, which conducts the blood drawing, notes that healthy people who could give blood, but don't, usually have some pretty silly reasons for not doing so. Some of them, along with responses, include:

Other people must be giving enough blood. The demand for blood and blood products is constantly increasing and the need is every day.

I don't have any blood to spare. If you weigh at least 110 pounds and are in good health, you do have enough to spare. The human body contains 10 to 12 pints of blood.

I don't like needles. Most people would agree! The needle stick for donors should be no more than a quick "pinch." There should not be any discomfort while donating. A "pinch" could save a life.

My insurance covers the blood I'll need. Dollar bills and insurance policies can't be transfused. That takes an adequate supply of blood.

I'm too busy. Some people are betting their lives that you're not too busy to spare an hour a few times a year.

I might get AIDS from donating blood. All materials used during the donation process are sterile and used only one. You cannot contract AIDS or any other disease by donating blood.

It's not my responsibility. Everyone in a community has a stake in an adequate blood supply. Blood is available when needed only because volunteers felt that giving blood was worthwhile.

No one has ever asked me to donate blood. Consider yourself asked.

Light Up A Life tree lighting is set December 1

Hospice of the Red River Valley office in Thief River Falls will conduct its annual Light Up A Life tree-lighting program Monday, December 1, beginning at 7 p.m. in the lobby of Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Following a short program, an outdoor tree lighting ceremony will be held with a reception to follow in the medical center cafeteria.

The annual event is conducted in remembrance and honor of people who hold a special place in the hearts of those who participate.

A bulb on the tree will be lighted for each $5 donation received by Hospice in honor or memory of a loved one. The names of those being honored or memorialized will be recorded in a book placed on display in the medical center lobby.

"We want hospice care to continue to be the light of life for all those seeking hope," states a letter from the hospice staff inviting participation in the ceremonies.

"Hospice care is an offer of hope to those who face a life-limiting illness. Although the lifetime may be limited, the quality of life does not have to be. The $5 gifts will help secure the future of hospice care during the coming year in Red Lake, Pennington and Marshall counties."

Adult drama at Roseau school November 21-23

Roseau Community Theatre will stage Love Letters, an adult drama, Friday through Sunday, November 21-23, at the Roseau school auditorium. Performances are at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday with a 3 p.m. matinee Sunday, following the Hall of Fame ceremony for A. J. Kramer.

A departure from more lighthearted plays given by the group, this selection is not recommended for youth under the age of 16. Tickets at $3 each are available at the Roseau public library or may be purchased at the door.

The two-act, two-character play will be performed by Paul Willcox in the role of Andrew Makepeace Ladd III and Shelley Grove as Melissa Gardner. Shelly is the wife of Scott Grove, formerly of Thief River Falls, and performed in plays at Red River high school in Grand Forks, the University of North Dakota and Firehall Theatre in Grand Forks.

Sunday's performance will be free for members of the Roseau Area Friends of the Library as one of two events recognizing the 59th anniversary of the Roseau library. The other will be an open house Sunday, December 7, from 1 to 4 p.m. The two events will replace the traditional "Christmas Treasures" program.

1997 Lincoln High School volleyball banquet...

TRF award winners selected

A balanced attack featured by Thief River Falls during the recently-completed 1997 high school volleyball season was reflected in the fact that three Prowlers wound up as co-recipients of most valuable offensive player honors Tuesday during the team's annual post-season banquet.

Taya Hunt, Lindsay Drury and Lisa Dicken shared the top offensive award.

Laura Follett was selected as the Prowlers' most valuable defensive player and Nicole Kopari was named most improved.

Other special recognition went to Desire Alberg, who received the Coaches Award, Julie Martell, Hustle Award, and Sarah Hagen, Spirit Award.

Alberg and Erica McGeary were presented with plaques for serving as 1997 co-captains.

Co-head coaches Bruce Jean and Amy Roche gave athletic letters to seniors Beth Olson, Jami Philipp, Alberg, Dicken, Hagen, and McGeary; juniors Drury, Follett, Hunt, Kopari, and Martell, sophomore Rachel Mathson; student manager Tina Halsa, and student trainer Lacey Huschle.

The Prowlers finished the year 17-8-2 overall. They opened North Sub-Section 8AA tournament play with a 3-0 win over Fergus Falls, but lost a 3-0 semifinal decision to Detroit Lakes.

Hunt set individual team records this fall with 226 service points and 93 service aces. The old records were 220 service points by Cheri Bjorgaard in 1989 and 52 aces by Sarah Huschle in 1994.

Dicken came up with a record 233 kills this season, breaking Huschle's mark of 213 in 1994.

Moose hunters have high rate of success during 1997 season

Minnesota moose hunters had a very successful season in 1997, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

A total of 152 moose were taken by 198 parties in the northeastern part of the state. The success rate of 77 percent was slightly higher than the 1996 success rate, but lower than the long-term average success rate of 83 percent for moose hunters in the northeast zones.

Approximately 82 percent of the moose taken were antlered bulls.

In 1997, more than 10,000 individuals applied in 3,958 parties for the 198 permits that were available. Last winter's moose population in the northeast was estimated at 5,400 animals. The moose season was closed in northwestern zones due to concerns with declining moose populations in that part of the state.

Moose hunts were held in odd-numbered years from 1971 to 1993. Since 1993, moose hunts have been held annually. The once-in-a-lifetime licenses, which are issued to parties of two to four hunters, are available only to Minnesota residents.

Takedown Club will meet Monday night

All parents of high school and youth wrestlers are urged to attend the meeting.

Election of officers will be held and the upcoming season will be discussed.

Late-season elk hunts planned

Official 1997 Minnesota elk season ended Sunday, Oct. 26, with only two of six available permits being filled during three separate hunts. Wildlife officials with the Department of Natural Resources are now contacting alternate hunters, selected during last July's elk hunt lottery, to schedule alternate hunts for late November and early December.

First of two successful parties this year was Lucas Schmidt of Rice, who took a 6x6 bull elk on the second day of the Sept. 13-21 bulls-only season. The animal was taken on private land, about five miles north of Grygla in eastern Marshall County. A second bull permit went unfilled when the party decided to pass up a smaller animal in hopes of eventually taking a mature bull, which never materialized.

Al Dorseth and Scott Fritz of Little Falls and Fergus Falls, respectively, took a yearling cow on the eighth day of the second hunt, held from Sept. 27-Oct. 5. A spike bull permit for the same hunt went unfilled; and two more parties with antlerless permits were unsuccessful during the third hunt, held Oct. 18-26.

The 1997 season contrasted sharply with last year's hunt, when seven of eight permits were filled within the regular three-hunt season. Paul Telander, DNR Wildlife Area Manager at Thief Lake, offered a few possible reasons why this year's hunt was more difficult:

"We know the parties were hunting in the right areas, but the elk were not often visible in open areas during legal shooting hours (one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset) this year," said Telander. "The herd occupied areas with heavy cover during most of each day and didn't venture out into open grassland or cropland like they did last year, apparently until after dark.

"There was also a full moon and clear skies on many nights during the season," continued Telander, "so perhaps the elk were more active during the night hours and didn't feel the need to come out at dawn and dusk to feed as they often do.

"It may also be that the herd has become more aware of increased human activity," said Telander. "Last year was the first hunt in ten years' time. This year, the adult animals may have been more wary."

To keep the state's elk management plan on track, the DNR is contacting pre-selected alternate parties for the once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to hunt elk in Minnesota. Two additional hunts will be scheduled for Nov. 22-30 and Dec. 6-14. There will be two permits for each hunt.

When the first season was established in 1987, the statute authorized the DNR to hold a hunt whenever the pre-calving population numbered more than 20 adult animals. The elk management plan has a population goal of 20-30 animals. The DNR intends to reduce the population gradually to around 25 animals, in order to maintain the herd within the population goal and minimize crop depredation problems for agricultural landowners.

"The pre-calving population last spring numbered between 30 and 34 animals," said Telander. "With this year's calf production, the herd size was near 40 animals prior to the hunt."

There may be another hunt in 1998. "It will all depend on the final results of this year's hunt, and how well the herd overwinters," said Telander. "We will continue to monitor the herd, and decisions on whether or not to have a hunt, and the total number of permits allowed, will be determined during the spring of each year."

Freezing and thawing conditions along with higher than normal water flows in the Red Lake River contributed to ice jams on the Red Lake River in Thief River Falls Wednesday and Thursday. The ice jam caused water levels to climb by about one foot and threatened to flood low lying areas. Law enforcement officials are also concerned that this condition will create dangerous conditions for snowmobilers who will soon be using the river. Pictured at the lower right is a mallard hen, which apparently, is resting in Thief River Falls before flying south.

ROSEAU
Clover Leaf/Green Field - Agriculture

Roseau's Marv Espe created this logo to commemorate the City's centennial. This logo embodies those qualities and characteristics of the City of Roseau and that which has made this community successful over the past 100 years.

Roseau

Roseau's ten-mile proximity to Canada has earned it the nickname "City of the North." The town of about 2,400 residents and Roseau County seat is nestled on the oak-lined banks of the Roseau River.

Once the home of Ojibwa Indians, a steady procession of explorers, fur traders and voyageurs traveled through the area. Fur trading eventually encouraged permanent settlement.

The Hudson's Bay Company established a trading post along the Roseau River, and it operated until the fur-supply was depleted. The fertile soil of northern Minnesota lured homesteaders intent on farming, and the population continued to grow with the arrival of the railroad.

Throughout its history agriculture has been the backbone of the economy of the county. The area's combination of soils and climate is particularly well suited to the growing of grass crops. The county provides 80 percent of the Timothy and 50 percent of the Kentucky Blue Grass that is marketed in the United States. The diversified land also yields abundant wheat, oats, barley, sunflower and flax crops. There are also numerous dairy, hog, turkey and beef farms around the area.

Roseau is home of Polaris Industries, L.P., the largest U.S. manufacturer of snowmobiles and all-terrain vehicles. Founded by three local men in 1946, Polaris has remained a mainstay in the local economy.

An abundance of year-round recreational activities are scheduled in Roseau, and facilities include a golf course, tennis courts, horseshoe pits, a swimming pool, two parks, a campground, and archery and rifle ranges. Various events are held at the Roseau County Fairgrounds racetrack, and the Lions Club Pioneer Farm is open in the summer.

The northern Minnesota terrain is a natural winter wonderland for cross-country skiing, ice skating and snowmobiling. Fishing and hunting are popular.

For its citizens, Roseau offers up-to-date educational facilities, a modern hospital and clinic, an active senior center and churches of all denominations.

The community is particularly proud of its youth hockey program which five times has produced State High School Hockey Champions. Also offering challenges and promoting strength in its youth is the 4-H program, one of the best in the state.

Through a combination of community services and educational opportunities backed by a strong economical base, Roseau offers–above all else–a great family life environment.

2nd annual ice house parade December 6

Baudette - Baudette/Lake of the Woods 2nd annual parade of the ice houses is set for Saturday, December 6.

The parade will form at Ralph & Randy's Foods and travel past local landmark Willie the Walleye. From there it will proceed 12 miles up Hwy. 172 to the Wheeler's Point area and finish at the Lake Road Lodge where judging is scheduled.

Prizes will be awarded for ice houses in the following catagories: largest, smallest, most original and KQ-92 People's Choice.

A wide variety of activities, including games, snow shoe races, snow golf and a fish house demolition, are planned for the resort area after the parade. The Baudette Region.

Roseau's A.J. Kramar inducted to Hall of Fame

Roseau - Roseau's "Mr. Bow Tie" will take a bow on Sunday, November 23 as he becomes the tenth inductee into the elite Roseau Community School Hall of Fame.

Kramer is a man of many talents and an inveterate bow tie wearer. Between 1943 and 1982 he taught just about every subject and coached every sport at Roseau School. He was also Roseau's first ever driver's training instructor. A.J. has continued to be a tireless supporter of local youth and adult activities. Roseau Times-Region

Crookston - As per contract, the major work was completed by October 6, and cosmetic touches, like trees and brick-paved sidewalks were in place soon after, but the streetlights on North Broadway in Crookston were another story.

Because of confusion between contractors and subcontractors, the lights weren't ordered, and North Broadway has been blanketed in darkness each night. The lights, which come from Texas, should arrive December 1, and crews will immediately start putting them up. Crookston Daily Times

Fosston's oldest surviving building gets a facelift

Fosston - Nord's Corner Drug in downtown Fosston has changed dramatically. Even its name reflects a Victorian flair. A sign now heralds Nord's Pharmacy and Gifts.

Owners John and Julie Nord felt that they could never make the old building that houses their business look new and they didn't want a "sterile look," so they renovated Fosston's oldest surviving building with a Victorian design.

The top exterior of the building now boasts early Victorian cornice brackets and dentil molding. The windows will soon be dressed in gold leaf lettering, shutters and oil cloth awnings. The Thirteen Towns

Snowmobile traffic halted near TRF dam

Excess water flowing down the Red Lake River is expected to create thin ice near the dam in Thief River Falls. As a result, snowmobile traffic between the dam and First Street bridge will be blocked off this winter.

Arlo Rude, superintendent of utilities explained that due to high water on Red Lake, the Army Corp of Engineers is releasing higher amounts of water from the lake. Usually, they release about 750 cubic feet of water per second. Currently, they are releasing 1,150 cubic feet per second. Rude said Thief River Falls is now releasing 1,500 feet of water per cubic second, which is the highest flow in years.

Rude said he doesn't know how long the Army Corps of Engineers plans to continue to release that amount of water. The increased flow combined with the position of old dam, however, is expected to create dangerously thin ice near the dam.

"There will be no access past the bridge on the east or west side of the river," said Police Chief Ken Froschheiser.

Preparations are already underway to block use of the river past First Street bridge and along the east and west banks to prevent access. Rude said they have set up posts for a fence which should be in place soon.

There is considerable concern about the matter. That part of the river is part of a trail system designed to bring snowmobilers around and through the community, and yet give them access to city businesses.

Froschheiser said the public safety committee will be meeting with representatives of the local snowmobile club, the SnoDrifters, to develop a new route for snowmobilers to use.

Wednesday evening, the Thief River Falls City Council approved a recommendation closing the access to and traffic on the river past the First Street bridge.

Pennington County Sheriff's deputy Ray Kuznia said he has some real concerns about the problem. Kuznia said with that much water flowing down the river, it will wear away the bottom of the ice and people don't see that, he said. In addition, the freezing and thawing conditions that the river has experienced in the past weeks has resulted in broken ice ridges forming on parts of the river. Not only does that pose a danger to snowmobilers traveling on the river, but it is creating ice dams.

Flooding of low areas along the river is a concern. Wednesday and Thursday, ice jams had caused water behind the jams to rise by over a foot.

Law enforcement officials and residents living in the affected areas behind Kmart and near Finsbury park, are keeping an eye on conditions on the Red Lake River.

Rivers closed to snowmobilers due to safety hazard

Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe has ordered travel on, and use of, the Thief River and Red Lake River in Pennington County closed until further notice.

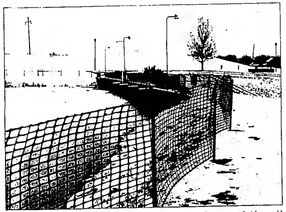
Sheriff Moe explained that more water than usual is coming down both rivers. With the freezing and thawing of portions of the river, ice jams have been created. These ice jams have been creating flooding conditions. In fact there has been a lot of flooding between the Highlanding bridge to County road 27 (Gully road).

Sheriff Moe said the ice is thin in many places and broken and unstable in other portions. The ice jams have been causing fluctuations in the river level as well. He said it has been fluctuating by as much as 18 inches.

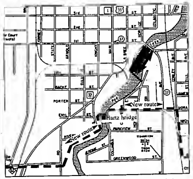
Sheriff Moe consulted the Commissioner of Natural Resources before closing the rivers. Moe said the commissioner concurred with his decision to close the rivers for safety reasons.

The last thing we want to do is fish someone out of the river, Sheriff Moe said. It's dangerous for people on the river and rescue personnel. He warned that if they have to cite people for being out on the river, that's exactly what the sheriff's department will do.

How long the rivers remain closed depends to a large extent on the weather.



Snow fencing and signs block access to and travel on the Red Lake river near the reservoir dam and First Street bridge in Thief River Falls. A higher than normal amount of water is flowing down the river causing concern that ice would be too thin to support snowmobiles crossing the river between First Street bridge and the dam.



Thief River Falls City Council will consider a recommendation to re-route snowmobile traffic across the Hartz Park bridge. During its last meeting, the council approved a motion closing access to and traffic on the Red Lake river between the reservoir dam and First Street bridge. That area has since been fenced off. The new route takes snowmobilers all the way down Nora Street, down Columbia to the new bridge, across the bridge and into Hartz Park where traffic will be routed along the river and through the campground to the intersection of Oakland Park Road and Greenwood Street.

Council to discuss snowmobile routes

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Tuesday night, Thief River Falls City Council will discuss a recommendation to re-route snowmobile traffic across the new Hartz Park bridge.

Several years ago the city approved a designated snowmobile route through and around the city. Part of that route brought snowmobilers down the Red Lake river and around the reservoir dam and onto designated streets and avenues. Recently, officials decided to prohibit snowmobile traffic and access to the river between First Street bridge and the reservoir dam. Traffic in that area became a serious safety concern because of an increase in water coming down the Red Lake river from Red Lake and the resulting thin ice.

Since the area was closed to snowmobile traffic a number of meetings have been held to address how to route snowmobile traffic through that area.

Thursday, the Public Safety committee approved a recommendation which brings snowmobile traffic across the newly constructed Hartz Park bridge.

It was an unlikely solution. From the very beginning, the Hartz Park bridge was designated for pedestrian traffic. To prevent snowmobiles or other motorized vehicles from using the bridge, two large

Red Lake Band prepares to enter cranberry business

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

American recipes containing cranberries date back to the early 18th century, and legend has it that Pilgrims served cranberries at the first Thanksgiving.

While they were once associated almost exclusively with Thanksgiving, the bright red berries are found today in no less than 700 food and beverage products on the market-from cereals to salad dressings, muffins, frozen entrees and others. Last year alone, more than 200 new cranberry products entered into the marketplace.

A number of Minnesota growers are attempting to capitalize on the growing demand for the fruit. Among them are the Red Lake Band of Chippewa who are in the process of converting 35 acres of wild rice paddies into cranberry bogs.

According to aquatic biologist Joel Rhude of Red Lake Natural Resources, the band has been working on the project since 1990 and has recently put the financing package together. Along with tribal money, funding will come from grants and the Minnesota Indian Revolving Loan Fund. The irrigation system is being financed by the Agricultural Utilization Research Institute (AURI), a non-profit organization developed by the State of Minnesota to strengthen its economy through the research and development of new uses for Minnesota farm products.

Ten 3.5-acre plots have been prepared and sand layers will be added this winter. Vines will be planted in May or June.

The total cost of establishing a cranberry marsh ranges from $20,000 to $50,000 per acre. Besides bog construction costs, vines are expensive. Red Lake will spend about $7,000 per acre for the initial plantings.

Once the vines are well-established, they can be mowed down and pressed into new ground to expand production, and Rhude said the band hopes to use its own vines to expand acreage. One acre of

Bjorkman's closing leaves more than a business void

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

Start of a going out of business sale at Bjorkman's, Inc. in Thief River Falls Thursday brings reality to the finality of a long-term downtown business that has been more than a retail clothing store.

Dick Bjorkman, who returned to Thief River Falls in 1962 to operate the store with his father, Clifford, said he intends that all merchandise will be sold and the store closed by Jan. 15, 1998.

While Bjorkman's has gone through a number of location and business changes during its 58-year history, its stability has come from the Bjorkman family and its personal interest in customers and other people and events in the community.

After working for the J. C. Penney company for 13 years, Cliff Bjorkman went into business for himself in 1939, opening Bjorkman's Clothing in a 1,250-square-foot store with a 12 1/2-foot front on Main Avenue—the site now occupied by Northern Gun & Pawn.

In 1941 the business was moved to rented space in the Elk's building where Video Vault is presently operating. As Cliff and his wife Margaret found their business growing, they built their own 25x140 building at the present location on LaBree Avenue in 1946 and moved into it in 1947.

Not only did the new store provide 3,500 square feet on the main floor, it had a full basement which was used largely as retail space. Cliff sold all types of men's clothing but had a special place in his heart—and in his store—for farmers and blue collar workers.

"Providing good quality lines of merchandise for the 'working man' and sportsman and dealing with them on a personal basis was always his preference," Dick Bjorkman says about his father.

Dick graduated from Lincoln high school, where he was a multi-sport athlete, in 1952. He earned a college degree in business and worked six years for Sears before returning to Thief River Falls to join his father in the business in 1962.

In 1965 the Grundy's Office Supply store two doors north was purchased and turned into a clothing store for young men called "Shape Up." Two years later, when a second story addition to the original store was completed, the north "Shape Up" location was discontinued.

In 1971 the J&B Drug Store between Bjorkman's and Shape Up became available and Cliff and Dick bought it, leased out the Shape Up store to Tradehome Shoes and opened the wall between the Bjorkman's and J&B buildings to double the size of the main floor store.

While Cliff and Dick both had strong personalities, they also shared a strong sense of humor which served them in good stead

RLF students begin clay tile mural

Red Lake Falls - Under the direction of St. Paul artist Susan Warner, Lafayette High School students began the process of making about 900 clay tiles that will be used to create a mural on one of the walls at the new high school.

The tiles are being made from Red Lake Falls clay which was excavated from an area north of Red Lake Falls.

The mural project will be completed in two phases. This year the tiles will be made and fired, and drawings of possible designs will be collected. Next year, during the second phase of the project, the design will be transferred unto the tiles and they will be glazed and refired and then hung on the wall. The Gazette

Fund raiser for Old Mill Park is tree-topper

Friends of Old Mill State Park are conducting a special holiday tree sale to raise funds for two ceiling fans and additional lighting in the WPA picnic shelter which is also used as a warming house in the winter.

For a minimum $25 donation to the Friends group, donors can select a pine Christmas tree of Swedish descent, according to Mary Broten, park manager. The trees are the selected tops of a resource management thinning of the seedlings from the historic pine trees planted by the Larson family which homesteaded the park area in the late 1800s.

"These tree tops are naturally grown with no sprays for coloring, herbicides or pesticides like some plantation grown Christmas trees on the market today," Broten said.

Donations may be made and tree tops selected and picked up at Old Mill State Park. Checks should be made out to the Friends of Old Mill State Park. Supply of trees is limited and will be distributed on a first come/first served basis.

Lennie Anderson family and friends have donated a fireplace insert which will soon be installed in the shelter with the Minnesota DNR field service unit paying for labor of electricians to install the fans and lights donated by the Friends of Old Mill State Park.

Membership in the Friends group is $5 per year and available at the park. Any donation is welcomed and appreciated, Broten added.

Homeowners cut costs, save hundreds each month.

While the national deficit may be at a 23 year low, homeowners are still piling up debt. National consumer debt is expected to reach 660 billion by the year 2000, almost double what it was in 1994. Whether it's a question of inflation or simply living beyond their means, there's one thing that most homeowners have in common. They want to pay down their debt, save more money and get ahead financially. But when debt runs into the tens of thousands, saving money comes in second to the priority of simply getting the monthly bills paid.

But in spite of these ever increasing expenses some homeowners are actually finding ways to save money every month, and lots of it. In most cases they're saving up to 50 percent and more on their monthly payments. This translates into hundreds of dollars in savings every month. The question is: how do they do it?

The answer is CAPITOL BROKERS.

CAPITOL BROKERS is a specialized home mortgage finance company that enables homeowners to borrow more money than the amount of equity they have in their homes. This is what sets them apart from most other finance companies.

CAPITOL BROKERS offers loans up to 125 percent of the value of the home, meaning that even new homeowners can qualify for a loan. While other finance companies might look at the equity when determining a loan, CAPITOL BROKERS is more interested in the borrower's credit history and ability to repay the loan.

To homeowners, this is great news for several reasons. The first is bill consolidation. With a CAPITOL BROKERS loan homeowners can consolidate their high interest and high monthly payment bills into one lower monthly payment amount. For many, the savings are in the hundreds every single month, sometimes as much as $500 or more. And, most homeowners find that it's much easier to pay one bill with one due date than it is to juggle several bills with several different due dates.

Another advantage to consolidating bills is taxes. Many borrowers, upon consultation with their financial advisors, find that the interest on a CAPITOL BROKERS loan could be deductible. Credit cards and other loans could charge up to 21 percent interest that isn't tax deductible, giving homeowners even more ways to save money with CAPITOL BROKERS.

The third reason is home improvements. Many homeowners use CAPITOL BROKERS loans to customize or renovate their homes. And even though new buyers may have no equity built up, they can still qualify with CAPITOL BROKERS.

The most typical home improvement projects are major repairs, kitchen and bath renovations, room additions and luxury items like swimming pools. In fact, in a fluctuating real estate market many consumers are staying in their homes longer. Rather than attempting to purchase new homes, they choose to renovate their existing homes at a much lower cost. Borrowers can even combine home improvement and debt consolidation into one money saving loan. It's CAPITOL BROKERS that makes it happen.

So what are these homeowners doing with all the money they're saving? Some are using the money for college tuition. Others are buying cars, taking vacations, enjoying the finer things in life. Still others are investing their money buying savings bonds, mutual funds and stocks. And others are simply enjoying the peace of mind that comes with knowing they'll be able to make ends meet and maybe even get ahead.

Homeowners who find all this confusing are not alone. CAPITOL BROKERS is the first to admit that applying for a home equity loan can raise a lot of questions. With all the different specifications, many consumers can feel overwhelmed. But with CAPITOL BROKERS, each borrower has their own personal loan officer who has the responsibility of making sure the customer understands every aspect of the loan. It's this kind of attention to customer service that has made CAPITOL BROKERS a leader in the consumer finance industry.

A representative of CAPITOL BROKERS can be reached Mon-Fri 9 a.m. - 6 p.m., Sat 9 a.m. - 2 p.m. Please call 1-800-791-7126 for further information.

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. What's Going To Happen To The Thief River?

The title for this editorial is the question we have received a few times in the past several days, following publication in the November 19 Times of a story regarding a petition for cleaning a portion of the channel of State Ditch 83: "What's going to happen to the Thief River?"

Our response has been the same to each questioner since the story was printed: "I think it already has happened."

"Dumb answer! What do you mean by that?"

Just this: In 1910 Judge Andrew Grindeland's order legally created State Ditch 83 where the flowage known as the Thief River ran. Under that order a few years later the channel was dredged deeper and in a number of places was straightened to eliminate oxbows and increase water flow. A right-of-way for the ditch was established and land within that right-of-way was acquired by purchase from the landowners. What we mean when we say we think it already happened is that much of what was the Thief River became State Ditch 83, and so it remains.

It remains State Ditch 83 although it has been mostly (but not totally) out of mind and neglected from a maintenance standpoint over the years. The order creating its legal standing as a ditch continues in effect despite the growth of vegetation, including trees (plants seem to recognize only natural law), on the established right-of-way.

Judge Grindeland's 1910 order, which followed extensive activity in petitioning, surveying, public hearings and other requirements of law, established State Ditch 83 from the north boundary line of Section 8 in Whiteford township (where County Road 6 east of Middle River crosses the Thief River south of Thief Lake) southwest to the quarter-section line in Section 34 in Excel township (one-half mile south of the point where County Highway 2—the Viking road—crosses State Ditch 83 about a mile and one-half east of Highway 32).

The order notes that total benefits were determined to be $174,595.33 and total construction costs, expenses and fees would be $125,000. It further established right-of-way of 125 feet from the start of the ditch to station 125, 150 feet from station 125 to station 559 and 180 feet from station 559 to the outlet. The right-of-way was established with half on either side of the center of the ditch.

Further, on March 16, 1976, District Judge Warren A. Saetre issued an order directing the managers of the Red Lake Watershed District "....to take over and manage the main channel of the Thief River, also known as State Ditch No. 83, as it traverses from the City of Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota in a northeasterly direction to the Thief Lake, located in Thief Lake township, Marshall county...."

Judge Saetre's order also states that "....The Red Lake Watershed District shall hereafter be responsible for all repair, maintenance and management of said main channel of the Thief River also known as State Ditch No. 83 and shall conform to the provisions of Minnesota Statutes 106."

So. What's going to happen to the Thief River? Probably nothing soon to what's legally left of it. What is going to happen on and along State Ditch 83, however, is an entirely different question. Here are some personal observations and thoughts:

- There can be no doubt that the lengthy stretch of drainage course established as State Ditch 83 is exactly that and, despite its lack of attention over the years and its perception by many as a river, is still intended to perform the function it was established to perform: provide drainage for benefiting property.
- Red Lake Watershed District is the designated authority charged by law with repair, maintenance and management of the channel and is not only within its rights but has no choice in carrying out the requirements of the law.
- Petitioners for repair of the ditch are acting under provisions of the law to obtain what Judge Grindeland's order was issued to accomplish— better drainage of the benefiting property.
- Judge Saetre's order transferring management of State Ditch 83 to the watershed district contained a memorandum which states: "The court is satisfied that the Watershed District and the various county boards and the court can and will cooperate in the joint effort to improve the drainage which is so vital and necessary in this area."
- Downstream cities including Crookston and Grand Forks/East Grand Forks have no part in this issue. The proposed repair of State Ditch 83 would have minimal if any affect on flooding at either place. Concerns and protestations from either location have a hollow ring, given their own disregard for downstream residents and property as they contemplate dikes and diversions to serve themselves.
- The watershed district acted totally within its authority under the law to issue a contract for right-of-way clearing to provide access for equipment and survey.
- That said, we agree with opponents to the clearing project that in the interest of public relations the watershed district would be well served to involve the public to a larger extent in its deliberations and decision-making, even before conducting public hearings as required by law. The after-the-fact decision announced by the district engineer to temporarily suspend clearing in favor of receiving more ideas is a good one. Perhaps there is a reasonable way of mitigating the tree removal in some manner less thorough and final than proposed.
- Project opponents should make use of this reprieve to bring forth their best alternatives and make their strongest case as to how the watershed district can fulfill its obligations with the least impact on people, plants and wildlife.
- We expect the watershed district board et al to be receptive, attentive, understanding and courteous to all presenters and all viewpoints. But we also expect the district ultimately will fulfill its function as set forth by law—and that is what a number of people don't want to hear.

LETTERS

Dear Editor:

November is National Hospice Month. I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to Hospice of the Red River Valley for what they did for me and my family during the final weeks of the life of my mother, Eleanor Maves. She lived her life with great joy and dignity. Hospice enabled her to end her life with that same dignity in her own home, surrounded by family and friends.

This year thousands of Americans will be diagnosed with terminal illnesses. Before you or your loved ones are confronted with such a circumstance, I would encourage you to discover the medical, emotional, and spiritual services that are available to you in the comfort of your home. Because we knew what hospice is all about before my mother reached a critical point, we were able to draw on their service before the most crucial time.

Mom spent her final days at home, alert, without pain, and with those she loved.

On Monday, December 1, 1997, the annual lighting of the Hospice of the Red River Valley "Light Up a Life!" tree will take place in the lobby of the Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls. A reception will follow. Join your friends and neighbors in celebrating a life filled with dignity to its final moment.

To learn more about Hospice, or to become a volunteer, call Hospice of the Red River Valley at 681-6189.

Sincerely,
Nancy (Maves) Thomasson
Mentor

To the Editor:

My name is Debbie Aune. I am currently working in the Middle River building of the Greenbush and Middle River School district. I would like to thank all the parents and relatives of the Greenbush and Middle River Junior High for their overwhelming generosity during our 'penny wars'. More than $650 was raised during our most recent community service project.

Penny wars is a game that turned in to a great success. We have about 100 students in our entire Junior High. This amount in change is quite staggering. Ask Lisa Erickson, she hauled it all to the bank.

Of the total, $200 is going to the Rosie O'Donald Foundation, and $225 to each of the Greenbush and Middle River Ambulance funds.

Thanks again parents, relatives and students.

Today's recipes are just a mishmash of some good things to serve for main dishes, either at lunch or dinner.

Here's one the kids will love to eat, but they may even love to make them with you if you give them the chance:

PIZZA POCKETS

3 to 3 1/4 cups flour
1 package active dry yeast
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup warm water (120 to 130 degrees)
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
1 (8 ounce) can pizza sauce
12 slices pepperoni
1 (2 1/2 ounce) package thinly sliced pastrami, chopped (fully cooked)
1 (2 1/2 ounce) package thinly sliced ham, chopped (fully cooked)
3/4 cup shredded mozzarella
1 egg, beaten

In mixing bowl, combine 2 1/4 cups flour, yeast, sugar and salt. Add water and butter and mix well. Add enough remaining flour to form a soft dough.

Turn out on floured surface and knead for 4 minutes. Roll dough into 14x10 inch rectangle. Cut with 3 inch round cookie cutter and reroll scraps to cut a total of 24 circles.

Place 1 teaspoon pizza sauce and a slice of pepperoni in center of 12 circles. Combine pastrami, ham and cheese and put equal amounts over pepperoni. Top with 1/2 teaspoon of pizza sauce, if desired.

Cover each pizza with remaining dough circles and pinch edges or press with fork. Place on greased baking sheets and brush with beaten egg. Bake 20-25 minutes at 400 degrees or until browned.

Here's a tangy dish that would be great with some crispy tacos, tasty soft shells or any type of meat:

MEXICAN CORN CASSERDLE

4 eggs
1 (15 1/4 ounce) can whole kernel corn, drained
1 (14 3/4 ounce) can cream-style corn
1 1/2 cups cornmeal
1 1/4 cups buttermilk
1 cup butter or margarine, melted
2 (4 ounces each) cans chopped green chilies
2 medium onions, chopped
1 teaspoon soda
3 cups shredded cheddar cheese, divided
Jalapeno pepper and sweet red pepper rings, if desired

Beat eggs in large bowl. Add next eight ingredients and mix well.

Stir in 2 cups cheese and pour into 9x13 baking dish. Bake, uncovered, for 1 hour at 325 degrees.

Top with remaining cheese and let stand for 15 minutes before serving. Garnish with peppers if desired.

This old standby can look fancy enough for guests with just a little garnish:

TUNA MUSHRDOM CASSERDLE

1 (12 ounce) package wide noodles, cooked and drained
2 (6 ounces each) cans tuna, drained
1 (4 ounce) can mushroom stems and pieces, drained
1 (10 3/4 ounce) can cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
1 1/3 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup crushed saltines
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
Paprika, tomato slices and fresh thyme, if desired

In large bowl, combine noodles, tuna and mushrooms.

Combine soup, milk, salt and pepper and pour over noodle mixture, mixing well. Place in greased 2 1/2 quart baking dish.

Mix saltines and butter and sprinkle over noodles. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 35-45 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Garnish with paprika, tomato slices and/or fresh basil, as desired.

This is just a quick little luncheon idea when you are sick and tired of that plain, old chicken:

HONEY-MUSTARD CHICKEN SANDWICHES

1/4 cup Dijon mustard
2 tablespoons honey
1 teaspoon dried oregano
1 teaspoon water
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1/8 to 1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper
4 boneless, skinless chicken breast halves
4 sandwich buns, split
8 thin tomato slices
1 cup shredded lettuce

In bowl, combine first six ingredients.

Broil chicken 4 inches from heat for 3 minutes on each side. Brush with mustard sauce and broil 4-6 minutes longer or until juices run clear, basting and turning several times.

Serve on buns with tomato and lettuce.

And here are a couple of recipes for venison, just in case your man got his deer this year:

NICK'S DEER CHOPS

4 deer chops
1 can beer
1 lemon
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
3/4 cup milk
1/4 cup tarragon vinegar
1/4 teaspoon seasoned salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
1/4 cup white wine

Cut medallions from each chop and remove fat and membrane. Each medallion should be 1/4 inch thick. Soak in beer and juice from lemon for one day.

Heat butter in fry pan and all items except meat. Stir until smooth. Drain chops, discarding liquid, and saute in pan slowly until done. Serve with thickened pan sauce over the chops.

BACK COUNTRY VENISDN STEW

2 pounds venison, cubed
4 tablespoons bacon drippings
Water
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 teaspoon Worcestershire
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon black pepper
3/4 cup onion, chopped
4 medium potatoes, cubed
6 medium carrots, sliced
1 green pepper, sliced
2 cups celery, sliced
3 tablespoons flour

Cut venison into 1-inch cubes and brown in hot bacon dripping in heavy Dutch oven.

Add water to cover, seasonings and onion. Cover and simmer about 2 hours, then add potatoes, carrots, pepper and celery. Cook about 20 minutes or until vegetables are tender.

Taste and add more seasonings if needed. Dissolve flour in 1/4 cup cold water and stir into stew to thicken. Cook about 5 minutes more.

during their partnership. One would expect that there would be frequent turmoil in a two-generation family business operation.

"In the 22 years Dad and I were in the store together we only had a couple major disagreements," Dick recalls. One of them shaped the operation of the store for a number of years, but is remembered with typical good humor.

"I went to Dad and told him we had a problem," Dick recalls. "I said I was telling the employees to do things one way and he was telling them to do it another and the employees were getting confused. I said we needed to do something about it."

"What would you suggest?" he asked.

"I said we should divide the store and he could handle one part and I could handle the other. We had the main floor and the basement, and we could each manage one floor," Dick said.

"Which floor do you want to manage?" Cliff asked.

"I told him he had most of the stock in the business, it was his call."

"If I take the basement," he asked, "does that mean you can't come down there?"

"I said it meant exactly that."

"It's a deal!" he said.

And for a period of about eight years until Cliff's retirement, father and son got along quite amicably with their definitive division of responsibilities, although they frequently helped each other.

Cliff took pride in being able to call most of his customers by name after serving them once or twice. Dick continued that personal touch, always maintaining an interest in his customers and their families and having an amazing memory for names and circumstances.

"Just about every week in the summer, and sometimes several times a week, somebody who has been gone awhile comes back to town on vacation and stops by the store," Dick said. "They come in to be recognized and I think that's kind of neat. I am going to miss that sort of contact."

Bjorkman said he has been planning and preparing for his going out of business sale since last February and, at least at the present time, doesn't have any second thoughts about doing so.

"Dad and mother worked side by side in the store for 40 years," he recalls. "Mother did all the bookkeeping. When she retired, my wife Marsha started and she has been working here for 14 years. Our grandchildren are getting older, don't live nearby, and we would like to take in more of their activities. It seems like the time to be doing something else."

About a year ago Bjorkman leased (sold?) the north half of his store building to Cliff and Shirley Swanson and they moved their Purdy's Shoe Store business the half block from its former Third Street location into the Bjorkman's Space. The former Shape Up and Tradehome space is now occupied by Midwest Vision Center.

Throughout the 58 years of the family operation of Bjorkman's, there have been a number of employees with longtime service. Dick declined trying to name them, except for the late John Michael Anderson, for fear he might overlook the obvious. He says he and Marsha deeply appreciate that loyalty and that one of the most difficult things about his decision to close the business was having to withhold that information until recently from his present staff.

"There had to be an element of surprise and immediacy to the closing," he said, "and that would have been lost if word got out early. I didn't even tell all members of my own family. The fewer people who knew, the less likely word would spread too early."

When vacationers return to Thief River Falls next summer to find some of their roots, the Bjorkman's store won't be part of the plantation any more. It will have given way to the inexorable march of time and change which few anticipate but all experience.

Dick and Marsha have made no definitive plans for the future other than to preside over the closing of their business and bringing down the curtain on a retailing tradition in Thief River Falls.

posts were placed at either end of the bridge. If the bridge becomes the new route, the four large posts will have to be removed.

The Zehlians, a federated women's organization, was primarily responsible for organizing efforts to construct the bridge as part of its Riverwalk trail system in Thief River Falls. They were asked about the possibility of using the bridge, and representatives — Gretchen Beito, Margaret Saetre, and Jean Heinrichs — were at the meeting Thursday.

Representatives of the SnoDrifters — Kevin Johnson, Ron Nelson, and Tom Wang — were also at the meeting Thursday to represent their concerns and need for a designated route.

It was agreed that the bridge would be used as a temporary route for snowmobile traffic, but provided a number of conditions were met: the SnoDrifters would put down wood or rubber mats to protect the surface of the bridge; plywood to protect the sides of the bridge and keep snowmobile skis from getting stuck in parts of the bridge; put up speed limit, directional, and single traffic only signs, put up reflectors, and a snow fence directing snowmobilers from the bridge through Hartz Park and the tourist park.

The only parts of the trail eliminated goes from the corner of Nora and Pennington to the dam, and from the dam to just past the School District Service Center.

Part of the trail travels adjacent to the CP rail line from Greenwood to Nora. Instead of crossing at Pennington and angling toward the dam behind the water treatment plant, snowmobilers are now being directed all the way down Nora to Columbia Avenue and across the new bridge at Hartz Park. The new trail crosses the bridge and then follows the river in Hartz Park and into the Tourist Park campground, behind the new bath house and angles through the campground to the intersection with Oakland Park road and Greenwood Street.

Police Chief Ken Fruschleiser expressed concern that snowmobilers learn the new route as soon as possible. His officers will be strictly enforcing the new route and speed limits. Hartz Park is used by youngsters and adults as a sledding area. Safety of pedestrians and snowmobilers is of utmost concern. That's why a snow fence will be placed from the end of the bridge all the way to the Tourist Park.

Officials do not know how long excess water will continue to flow down the Red Lake river and create a hazard for snowmobilers near the dam. The Hartz Park bridge is seen as a temporary solution. A long term solution would be the construction of a bridge on Greenwood Street. According to the city's Capital Improvement Plan, the bridge is scheduled for construction in the year 2000.

The City Council will consider the temporary snowmobile route across Hartz Park bridge at its next meeting on Tuesday.

Kirk Hibbert, a highly successful cross-country racer with the Team Arctic snowmobile racing team, reviewed fine points of chassis and suspension on the 1998 racing sleds at the race seminar Friday, November 14, at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Center holds open meeting on Land use planning

A public meeting on Northern Minnesota Land Use Planning Issues and Processes sponsored by the Center for the Study of the Environment (CSE) and the Center for Resource Management (CRM) will be held on Saturday, November 22, at 7 p.m. at Ruttger's Sugar Lake Lodge, Grand Rapids.

The meeting is designed for citizens, land owners, business people, farmers, foresters, environmentalists, hunters, fishermen, and others who use the forests, fields, lakes, streams, and natural resources of northern Minnesota and care about how these resources will be managed in the future. The meeting will provide a snapshot of the planning issues and activities that characterize northern Minnesota. An open discussion among participants will provide a unique opportunity to improve planning at all levels of government and communication across a wide diversity of stakeholders.

Those attending the meeting will hear a summary of government, business, scientific, environmental, and stakeholder organization leaders' conclusions and recommendations regarding challenges and opportunities for managing northern Minnesota's natural resources in the future. They will learn about current planning initiatives, information resources, and programs in the region. And, they will have an opportunity to share their ideas regarding land use planning, conflict resolution, and how the region can chart a sustainable future.

Greater Grand Forks Youth Symphony concert on Nov. 23

Greater Grand Forks Youth Symphony will present its fall concert on Sunday, November 23, at 4 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center at East Grand Forks Senior High School.

The concert marks the opening of the third season for Youth symphony in the Red River Valley. The program was established in the summer of 1995 under the auspices of the Greater Grand Forks Symphony Orchestra. The first performance was in the fall of 1995 with 39 musicians from Grand Forks and surrounding communities. Today, the symphony numbers nearly 50 musicians who come from cities and towns throughout the region including Kennedy, Thief River Falls, Park River, Crookston, East Grand Forks and Red Lake Falls.

The Symphony is conducted by Bruce Morlock, a music instructor and orchestra conductor at Red River High School in Grand Forks and a French horn player with the Greater Grand Forks Symphony Orchestra.

The Youth Symphony was formed to provide a full orchestral experience for student musicians who would otherwise have little or no opportunity to play and perform publicly. In several of the towns represented by symphony members there is no orchestral music program. Even in Grand Forks, there are few opportunities for public performances.

The players in this year's symphony were recruited through newspaper ads and notices sent to schools and music instructors within a 75 mile radius of Grand Forks in September. Area music teachers assisted the conductor in the audition and selection process which has become increasingly competitive since the group began. Among those selected were violinist Brittany Pavek, a junior at Red River High School who earned the prestigious Governor's Award from the Interlochen Music Camp last spring. The award is granted to only one musician in each state. Brittany is one of several Youth Symphony members including Marjorie Heap, Tina Berswenger, Rachel Ettling, and John Nelson who also play for the Greater Grand Forks Symphony.

This Sunday's concert will feature music by Hugo Alfven, The Swedish Rhapsody, the first movement of Beethoven's First Symphony, Brahms' Hungarian Dance No. 5, and the Jupiter movement from Holst's The Planets. Adult tickets are $5 and may be purchased at the door. Students are admitted free.

Blood drive Nov. 25 and 26 at Trinity Church

Trinity Lutheran Church will sponsor a blood drive for the Thief River Falls area on Tuesday, November 25 from 1 to 7 p.m. and Wednesday, November 26 from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the church.

Rhonda Juppen, blood drive coordinator, is hoping that residents of Thief River Falls and the surrounding area will make a commitment to donate blood at this very important Thanksgiving holiday blood drive.

The blood drawn in Thief River Falls on November 25 and 26 will be made into three different components. The most important of these components is platelets which help control bleeding. Many leukemia and other cancer patients use platelets on a regular basis. Platelets are only usable for five days so they are very difficult to keep in plentiful supply. United Blood Services typically sees an increase in platelet usage around holidays so during the Thanksgiving weekend the need for platelets could be critical.

Persons who are interested in donating blood should contact Rhonda Juppen at 681-1240 during the day and 681-1423 in the evenings.

Anderson with Huskies

St. Cloud State University wing Keith Anderson, a freshman from Thief River Falls, helped the Huskies sweep Colorado College 7-6 (overtime) and 3-1 in a Nov. 15-16 Western Collegiate Hockey Association series at Colorado Springs.

Anderson scored his second goal in as many games, then added an assist, in the Saturday night win at the Air Force Academy, it was reported by the SCSU Sports Information Department.

A four-game road winning streak vaulted the Huskies into a first place tie in the WCHA standings. The two victories by St. Cloud ended a Colorado College streak of 65 home series without being swept.

The Huskies are playing host to Alaska-Anchorage this weekend.

Northland women's basketball...

NCTC ranked No. 5 in nation

Eight sophomores returning from last year's state tournament consolation champion team are expected to make the Northland Community and Technical College women's basketball team a force to be reckoned with during the upcoming 1997-98 season. At least that's the feeling among those voting in polls, who listed the Pioneers No. 5 in the National Junior College Athletic Association Division III preseason rankings.

"That was a surprise," admitted Rick Nikunen, who is beginning his sixth year as Northland head coach. "The votes came from coaches in the region who knew we were very young last year, and that we were playing well at the end of the season."

The national recognition has its ups and downs, acknowledged Nikunen. "It (ranking) does put extra pressure on you, but it's nice to know that other teams respect your program. I'd rather be at the top than looking up."

Adria Olson (Edmore, ND) and Naomi Wilebski (Kittson County North), a pair of 5-11 front line players, were full time starters for the 16-8 Pioneers last winter when Olson averaged 10 points per game while Wilebski averaged 8.3 points and 7 rebounds per game.

Guard Annie Pomplun (Warroad) was a part time starter as a freshman.

Others returning include Paula Hovda (Roseau), Darla Hoie (Bagley), Tammy Nerhy (Hatton, ND), Kerrin Stoskopf (Warroad), and Meckenzie Malwitz (Red Lake County Central). They are joined by another sophomore, Darlene Nelson (Marshall County Central), who missed the 1996-97 season because of an injury.

Freshmen on hand are Jamelkka Lucas (St. Paul), Jenny Johnson (Goodridge/Grygla Gatzke), Amber Berg (Badger/Greenbush-Middle River) and Rachel Luther (Casselton, ND).

"We don't have big numbers among the freshmen, but we've got four quality players," noted Nikunen.

With Olson and Wilebski joined by the 6-2 Stoskopf, 5-11 Berg and 5-10 Luther, the Pioneers have solid size, while Hovda, Nelson, Johnson and Lucas are all very capable outside shooters.

"We've got depth, size and experience," pointed out Nikunen. "It's a situation, as a coach, that you like to be in. We're real balanced. We should be able to play up tempo or slow it down and work the ball inside if we have to."

The Pioneers have plenty of reason to be optimistic heading into their Dec. 5 season opener at home against Rochester, but Nikunen warns there are no guarantees. "We finished strong last year, and we played well at the state tournament," he said, "and we have a lot of kids who got a lot of playing time. But it's all relative to what the rest of the league has."

TRF girls will look to Kopari

■ Prowlers open basketball season Tuesday

There is no secret success formula for Thief River Falls girls heading into the 1997-98 high school basketball season. The Prowlers will rely heavily on six-foot junior Nicole Kopari this winter. They know it, and so does everyone on the schedule.

"We're going to look to Nicole," said Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "We'll get her the ball until they stop her, then we'll go to Plan B."

Kopari averaged 12.5 points and a team-high 7.8 rebounds per game as a sophomore on a 12-11 team that was led in scoring by senior Kim Stenseth, who averaged 18 points per game.

"We're going to need Kopari to score in the 20-point range," pointed out Loe. The Prowlers will try to make up for the rest of Stenseth's points with a "scoring by committee" approach, he said.

Amber Klinker was also a full time starter last year, while Becky Mooney and Stephanie Leach played in spots. Klinker, Mooney, Leach and Beth Olson are the seniors on this year's squad. Other returning letter winners are juniors Katie Harbolt, Taya Hunt and Laura Follett.

Rachel Mathson, although slowed by an early-season ankle injury, leads a group of sophomores who are trying to add depth to the team. Others who could fit in the picture include Erika Hudson, Kim Almquist, Kara Skiple, Nicole Wiseth, and Keli Waterworth.

Klinker, Hunt, Follett and Leach have the ability to hit the outside shot, pointed out Loe, which would help free things up around the basket for Kopari.

"I think offensively we'll be okay," said Loe, who liked what he saw in a preseason scrimmage. "We moved the ball well, and we ran the offense. We still have to figure out where we're at defensively."

The Prowlers will play their first two games on the road before making their home debut with a Saturday, Dec. 6, matinee match-up with new opponent Little Falls.

"I think we'll be competitive in the North Half (of Section 8AAA) and against the teams in the area," offered Loe.

The Prowlers are again grouped with Alexandria, Rocori, Crookston, Fergus Falls, Little Falls, Detroit Lakes, and Sauk Rapids in Section 8AAA – the second largest in the four classes of basketball in Minnesota.

Alice Dahl takes over as Nordics' girls head coach

Alice Dahl has coached the Newfolden seventh and eighth graders the past three years. This winter she renewed acquaintances with many of her former players after being named the new Marshall County Central girls head high school basketball coach.

Dahl becomes the Nordics' third coach in the past three years. Tom Mjelde ended a long-time coaching career after the 1995-96 season. Jerald Hagen directed the program last winter when a young squad struggled through a 2-21 season.

They're still young. Miki Waterworth is the only senior on the team, and she missed much of the 1996-97 season with an injury.

Juniors Laura Myhrer and Jessica Anderson saw limited playing time last winter, while sophomores Kristi Kilen, Tiffany Bring, Christa Hagen, Mandi Blawat and Emily Kragness played at the varsity level as freshmen.

"We're going to be very young, and very inexperienced," acknowledged Dahl. There's no where to go but up, she noted, but admitted the climb won't be an easy one. "We're going to play a lot of defense, and try to push the ball up the court if we can," she said.

Despite the challenge, which starts with a Tuesday season opener against Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke, Dahl welcomes the opportunity to head the Marshall County Central program. "I'm very excited," she said. "It's a good group of kids to work with."

RLCC girls rely on Angie Chervestad

A few outside shots would make a world of difference for the Red Lake County Central girls high school basketball team this winter. The Mustangs have one of the area's top players in Angie Chervestad, but they'll need to hit a few shots from the perimeter to give the six-foot senior a little room to operate in the lane.

Without the outside help, Red Lake County Central will see defenses collapsing around the basket, making things tough on the inside for Chervestad, who averaged 19 points and 11.4 rebounds per game last year.

"Teams can't stop Angie," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "If we can just hit from the outside and give her a chance underneath, we'll be okay."

Sophomore point guard Sylvia Hilgeman could provide some of that outside punch, along with senior Katie O'Neill, who averaged 6 points per game last year.

Other letter winners on hand are seniors Jenni Morinville and Frances Hilgeman, along with sophomore Tracy Rosten.

The Mustangs were 12-11 last year, which followed an 11-12 finish the year before.

With Chervestad leading an experienced crew, Red Lake County Central numbers could improve again. However, Koivisto warned that most of the rest of Sub-Section 31A also fielded young teams in 1996-97, creating a competitive field this year.

Outside game Gators' strength

Seniors Tiffany Hagen and Stefanie Sparby, a pair of All-North Border Conference players last year, will lead the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River girls into their 1997-98 high school basketball opener Dec. 1, against Roseau.

Two other seniors – Kara Kuznia and Tina Sikorski – were also used extensively through the 1996-97 season, and 5-10 junior Missy Smith worked her way into the line-up at season's end.

The Gators will also regain the services of senior Kara Super, who missed last year because of illness.

Hagen, Sparby and Kuznia are all top-notch perimeter players, pointed out Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer, whose biggest concern is working young post players into spots that were filled by players like Nikki Wahl and Amber Berg last winter. "We'll be bigger than we were last year, but we won't be as quick in the middle, and that's going to hurt us defensively. We won a lot of close games last year by playing good defense, and the kids we lost (to graduation) had a lot to do with that. They came up a lot of steals because of their quickness."

Sparby averaged 9.8 points per game and Hagen averaged 6.7 points and 3.5 assists per game last year when the Gators surprised most observers with a 19-6 season that surpassed the 18-7 campaign the year before when Krissi Super was closing out her high-scoring high school career.

"We didn't win because we were better than everyone else," said Neibauer. "we won because we played better defense and we passed the ball better than other people."

Senior Dawn Lorenson and juniors Merri Reese, 6-0 Kelsey Foldesi and 5-11 Dezi Sovde join the others in the Gators' junior/senior nucleus.

With most of the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coaching staff also involved in the Gators' football program that recently ended an extended season with a trip to the Class 2A state playoff semifinals at the Metrodome, the start of basketball practice was affected. But it should be just a temporary setback said Neibauer. "We're behind because of football," he admitted. "We've got a lot of work to do yet. But we'll be okay. Nobody is going to blow us off the court."

Wolverines to open season on Tuesday

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke will open its 1997-98 girls high school basketball season with a Tuesday match-up against Marshall County Central in Goodridge.

The Wolverines will be looking to improve on last year's 9-16 finish with a group of players who were in and out of the starting line-up a year ago.

Seniors on hand include Lori Hagen, Amie Kotrha, Tausha Thomas and Jennecca Gallagher, who all played last winter, along with Jenny Nelson, and Melanie Nelson, who are both returning to the program.

Juniors Kathryn Stanley, Angie Gast and Dana Wiseth all wound up in the starting line-up near the end of the 1996-97 season.

Early-season goals for head coach Mike Gast is to find a replacement for Jenny Johnson, last year's top shooter who is now playing at Northland Community and Technical College, while also working on the Wolverines' defense and rebounding.

"We have some talented players," said Gast. "Right now we're looking for an outside shooter, and we're a little concerned about our defense and rebounding. If we can play some defense and rebound, we should be okay. We're not very big, so we'll have trouble with tall teams. We hope to be able to run."

Red Lake Band prepares to enter cranberry business

vines taken out of production will plant five new acres.

Native to North America, the cranberry was first called the "crane berry" by German and Dutch settlers because when the cranberry blossoms' light pink petals twist back in the spring they resemble the head and bill of a crane. There are more than 100 varieties of cranberries and most are named after the families that first planted them. The Red Lake Band will plant the Stevens variety, one Rhode referred to as "more modern, disease resistant and suitable to Minnesota's growing conditions."

Contrary to general belief, the berries are not grown in water, but an ample water supply and diked ponds to hold water for fall harvesting are essential for cranberry production. Six to eight acre-feet of water are required per acre of cranberries.

The low growing cranberry vine needs irrigation throughout dry summers. During the October harvest the bogs are flooded and a machine resembling a hay swather knocks the cranberries off the vines. A boom sweeps the floating berries into a pump and then into trailers for transportation. Over winter the bog remains flooded as ice protects the vines.

The Red Lake Band is able to draw water from the nearby Clearwater River and is designing a closed water system for holding and recycling water.

Cranberries are considered a reasonably safe crop. Because the water can be moved in and out, the berries can be protected from flooding and drought. The crop can also be protected from freezing through misting, an option that citrus growers don't have.

Cranberries are a labor-intensive crop. Because of all the moisture, weed control can be a problem. Sulfur treatments may be necessary to keep the soil between 4.5 and 5.5 pH. Traps are set around the bog to monitor when insect levels get to the point of needing control.

The berries are "wet-picked" and taken to an onsite pre-processing plant where debris is separated from the berries before they are quickly transported to processors for juicing or bagging. Cranberries that are bagged and sold as fresh produce must be dried and stored in coolers to prevent spoilage.

Already the Red Lake Band's fledgling operation employs about 12 full and part-time employees. The number of workers will change and grow with the seasons and expansion of the bogs. Ideally, the operation will one day include an on-site processing plant which would provide more jobs.

Development of industry and the creation of jobs for the economically depressed area is a top priority for the Red Lake Band, and Rhode said the cranberry bogs "fit in well with the general theme" of economic growth and security.

Rhode also mentioned the "mushroom effect" the venture will have on the economies of nearby communities. Only last week the Red Lake Band spent $30,000 on fertilizer in Gully.

The process of increasing cranberry acreage is slow and expensive. It will take about three years to get a marketable crop and four or five years for the vines to reach peak production. The Red Lake Band feels the wait will be worth it. A 100-pound barrel of cranberries easily commands $60 in today's market, and last year, Wisconsin growers averaged 156 barrels per acre.

For the past two years Wisconsin has led the nation in cranberry production with 15,100 acres. While Massachusetts has a couple thousand more acres, depressed yields the last two years have put that state below Wisconsin. The only other states with significant cranberry production are New Jersey, Washington and Oregon.

According to the Wall Street Journal, cranberry production has increased almost 23 percent since 1990 with Ocean Spray, Inc. controlling 75 percent of the U.S. production.

Industry experts believe that the increased popularity of cranberries is due to the public's desire for healthy, flavorful foods that are fun to eat. The cranberry is high in Vitamins A and C and minerals. Like most fruits and vegetables, cranberries contain fiber and no fat. One cup of fresh cranberries has only 44 calories.

Because of their intense tartness, cranberries are usually blended with other fruit juices for beverages, jellies and sauces. Sweetened, dried cranberries are added to baked goods and cereals and sold as snacks. Many health experts believe cranberries help with bladder infections.

Beauty is another asset of the fruit. Cranberries add fresh color and flavor to foods during a season when the landscape is beginning to look a bit bleak. Their tartness adds balance to the sweet, rich holiday favorites.

Whether cranberries were part of the original Thanksgiving feast or not, it is certain that they will be part of American Thanksgiving meals for decades to come.

It will be an exciting day when the label on the bag of cranberries we pick up at the supermarket says "Grown by the Red Lake Band of Chippewa." It will be another successful step of the Red Lake Band toward the financial independence and security of its people–a quest as American as the cranberry itself.

RCAT #2 bus now operates in Roseau county

Beginning Monday, November 17, a new 16-passenger Eldorodo bus went into operation in Roseau county by Roseau County Area Transit (RCAT), a nonprofit agency sponsored by the Roseau County Committee on Aging.

Director Sandy Otto says flexible/fixed routes are available for passengers within and between the cities of Roosevelt, Warroad, Salol, Roseau, Badger, Greenbush and Strathcona.

Fares are 50 cents per stop intown with a one dollar base charge and 50 cents for each town between cities. As an example, Otto says, a one-way trip from Warroad to Roosevelt will cost $1.50 and a trip from Warroad to Roseau is $2.

The new service in eastern Roseau county will be linked with established service in western Roseau county.

"We're on the road Monday though Friday from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m.," Otto said. "Dispatch Central is open for reservations from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Give us at least a day to reserve your place on the bus and to flex our schedule around your needs.

"We provide specialized service and are fully accessible," she added. "The community bus is safe and convenient. There are no age or income requirements. We are in the people moving business. Anyone can ride."

City council reviews enterprise funds

by David Hill
Associate Editor

City enterprise funds appear to be in good shape. During a review of enterprise funds Wednesday, the Thief River Falls city council learned that liquor sales were 12 percent higher than last year's sales, and $259,000 from the liquor dispensary fund would be transferred to the general fund for 1998. They also learned that electric utility sales were up slightly over last year, and $450,000 would be transferred from the electric utility fund to the general and revolving loan fund.

Department directors highlighted a number of areas in their budgets for the council. The municipal liquor store is conservatively projecting a three percent increase in sales in 1998. During last year, credit card sales really increased. The budget report shows that charges increased from $47,427.32 in 1996 to $65,372 in 1997. There was some discussion about setting up an instant cash machine in the store. An increase in cigarette sales has been attributed to sales of cigars. Sales increases were also observed in liquor, wine and beer. Net sales at the liquor store amounted to $1,751,746.57. Total sales amounted to nearly $2 million.

Arlo Rude, director of utilities, reported that total revenue for 1998 is expected to be down slightly, primarily due to lower expected sales. Payroll expenses are expected to increase due to wage adjustments and employee changes. Operations costs, however, are expected to decrease primarily because of a reduction in work at the dam for FERC licensing. The electric department expects a net profit of $20,921.

Revenue at the water department is expected to be up approximately $62,000. Payroll expenses are expected to increase due to wage adjustments and an employee change. Operating expenses are expected to be about tha same as last year. Net profit at the water department is expected to be $35,632.

Wastewater department revenue is expected to be up approximately $9,000. Payroll expenses will increase due to wage adjustments and employee changes. Operation expenses are are expected to increase by $12,000 due to increases in pond maintenance and other general costs. Net profit at the wastewater department is expected to be $4,195.

Thief River Falls will hold its Truth in Taxation hearing 5 p.m. December 8 at the Heritage Community Center.

During the city council meeting, which followed the enterprise fund review, the council approved the transfer of $200,000 of liability insurance reserves to the general fund for cash flow purposes. Early in the budget process the council looked at the fund as a possible source of funds to cover the deficit reportedly incurred by three housing projects in Thief River Falls. Those funds, however, are needed for cash flow purposes.

The council approved a motion adopting the city logo, which is similar to the Centennial logo used last year. The logo will be used for official city stationary, signs, and clothing. The use of the logo was an issue during the recent election.

The council is considering whether to delegate the responsibility for addressing the city's overall budget process to the Administrative Services committee in 1998 and future years. In view of the controversy created this fall when the council had a $1.7 million budget deficit, (which has since been balanced) the council was considering turning the matter over to a budget committee. Instead of creating another committee, the council is considering turning it over to administrative services.

Rick Jensen and Barry Fellman have been appointed co-chiefs of the fire department. The two were named acting co-chiefs of the fire department after Fire Chief Dave Bjorkman retired. Wednesday night, the council approved a memo of understanding and related job description.

The council approved a motion closing access to the Red Lake River and snowmobile traffic on the river from First Street bridge to the dam. Higher than normal water flow is expected to cause thin ice conditions, which would be hazardous to snowmobile traffic. That area of the river has been used as a defined snowmobile route. Officials are working with snowmobilers to determine another route.

In other business, the council: approved hiring of Corey Pausch as a part-time police officer, approved a job description change for the police chief, amended the city's category II employee policy to allow participation in the city's ICMA 457 deferred comp plan, approved a supplemental agreement with the Red Lake Watershed district for a rip rap project, certified delinquent utility bills to the county for collection as a lien against property, increased the city's Minnesota State Aid Allocation for maintenance to 20 percent effective in 1998, accepted the highest bid of Steve Breiland for a 1977 International Scout with a plow, approved advertising for a replacement full-time firefighter, approved a two-year lease with the Minnesota Department of public safety for use of the HOMCC parking lot for motorcycle training; approved a progression raise for Lynette Derouin; approved dance permits for November 26 and 29.

Hot pursuits will deflate slowly with Stop Sticks

Detroit Lakes - Law enforcement's new tool is so simple and effective that its surprising that they weren't invented long ago.

Each car in the the Detroit Lakes district of the state patrol has been equipped with Stop Sticks, and troopers have been trained in their use–not a complicated process.

The idea behind Stop Sticks is simple. Each three-foot, triangular shaped stick is filled with 36 "nails" encased in Styrofoam and hard cardboard. Three three-foot segments are attached by a cord which the officer uses to toss the sticks across the roadway. When tires cross the sticks, one or two nails will puncture each tire. The tire will deflate in about a mile to mile-and-a-half. Crossing the stick is similar to driving over a pop can.

Obiviously, advance notice is required for effective use of the sticks. An officer must be notified of a pursuit in progress and have time to set up and deploy the sticks, which only takes a minute. Troopers see the sticks as a safe way to stop a fleeing vehicle, no matter what its speed, and that the sticks will eliminate a lot of property damage and save lives.

Stop Sticks were invented by a state trooper in Ohio. Detroit Lakes Tribune

Deli at Lafayatte adds lunch option

Red Lake Falls - Tuesdays and Thursdays students at Lafayette High School have the option of deli food in addition to the regular hot lunch.

Sandwiches, salads and desserts are prepared by students in the occupational foods class. Thirty meals are prepared and sold to the first 30 students who sign up. The Gazette

Warroad to copyright high school sports logo

Warroad - Concerned that the authentic Warroad High School Warrior logo will be used on t-shirts and sports paraphernalia, School District officials plan to copyright the symbol.

About five years ago, the district's Native American Education Committee advised changes to the logo to make it more authentic and acceptable to local Native Americans.

While colleges routinely register logos, it is not common for high schools to do so. Grand Forks Herald

Crookston daily newspaper sold

Crookston - Hollinger International, Inc. announced recently that it is selling about 40 percent of its U.S. community newspaper group. The Crookston Daily Times is among the more that 160 newspapers in eleven states to be sold.

The Times will become part of a newly formed publishing group known as Liberty Group Publishing.

Times Publisher Randy Hultgren is not anticipating any major changes to the daily paper which has a 112-year history in Crookston. The Crookston Daily Times

Ditch 83 survey to continue without clearcutting of trees

Continuation of the survey of State Ditch 83, also known as the Thief River, will continue but without the clearcutting of trees along the right-of-way as previously contracted by the Red Lake Watershed District board.

At its regular meeting Wednesday morning, November 26, the board accepted the recommendation of its attorney, DelRay Sparby, and voted to cancel its clearcutting contract with Spruce Valley Construction Co. of Middle River.

In addition, the board accepted the attorney's recommendation to have watershed district technicians mark obstructions in Ditch 83 and to hire Spruce Valley Construction Co. to remove them. The contractor would also selectively clear sight lines for the survey to be done by the project engineer.

About 25 visitors were in attendance at the portion of the board meeting where the State Ditch 83 project was on the agenda for discussion. The majority appeared to be petitioners for repair of the ditch to improve upstream drainage.

Sparby Reviews Laws

Attorney Sparby told the visitors that the meeting of the board was not a hearing to take testimony or to receive public information. He invited those present to meet with him following the meeting and to submit materials to the district office.

He then briefly reviewed state ditch law and the petition which the watershed district had received to repair the ditch. He said the district could expend up to $50,000 per year for repair without a petition. With a larger project under a petition the costs would be assessed to the landowners in the benefitting area.

The petition which the district had received required the district by law to have an engineer's report on costs versus benefits and a public hearing on that report. In order for the engineer to prepare a report, it is necessary to conduct a survey of the ditch. The earlier order for clearcutting along one side of the right-of-way of the ditch was to provide access and make it easier to perform the survey.

Property owners along the ditch and other interested parties had objected to the tree cutting before a public hearing could be held. Sparby said it had been determined that the survey work could be done with selective clearing. He also added that the construction company would have to work from the right-of-way on both sides of the ditch to remove beaver dams, trees which had fallen into the ditch and trees growing on undercut banks which were in imminent danger of toppling into the watercourse.

River Clearing Questioned

Since State Ditch 83 terminates several miles upstream from the outlet of the Thief River into the Red Lake River at the Eighth Street Bridge in Thief River Falls, board member Leonard Moe asked about clearing obstructions in the river below Ditch 83.

Nathan Dalager, hydrologist for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, responded that the district could clear deadfalls, log jams and beaver dams from the river without a permit but could not excavate nor alter the shoreline.

Written Comments Received

Prior to the meeting, the watershed district had received written communications from a group of downstream landowners and from the Minnesota council of the National Audubon Society.

Clearcutting Alternatives

Alternatives to clearcutting below the point where Ditch 20 enters Ditch 83 were presented by a group including Lowell and Mary Dyrud, Larry and Carmen Gustafson, Paul and Coreen Erickson, Harold and Alpha Halvorson, Nick and Deb Drees, Rose Sollid and

RiverWalk bridge not ready for snowmobile traffic yet

by David Hill
Associate Editor

The proposed snowmobile route across the new bridge in Hartz Park in Thief River Falls is off limits until steps are taken to protect the bridge.

Thief River Falls City Council approved of the new route Tuesday night, but will not allow the route to be used until all conditions of its use are met.

During a meeting last week, it was agreed that the bridge would be used as a temporary route for snowmobile traffic, but provided a number of conditions were met: the SnoDrifters would put down wood or rubber mats to protect the surface of the bridge, plywood to protect the sides of the bridge and keep snowmobile skis from getting stuck in parts of the bridge, put up speed limit, directional, and single traffic only signs, put up reflectors, and a snow fence directing snowmobilers from the bridge through Hartz Park and the tourist park.

Police Chief Ken Froschheiser said Wednesday that individuals had been observed crossing the bridge. Newer snowmobiles are wider and unable to cross the bridge because of the posts at either end. But, he said, an individual was observed tipping a sled on its side to get past the posts. Snowmobilers observed using the bridge before it is ready will receive a citation from police. He also mentioned that the bridge will be fenced off until it is ready for snowmobiles. There will be space for pedestrians to cross, however.

In the meantime, the river remains closed to use by vehicles and individuals. Early this week, Pennington County Sheriff Moe relaxed his ban on use of the Thief River and Red Lake River in Pennington county, to allow ice fishermen near the Eighth Street boat landing to put ice houses on the Red Lake River, as long as they remove their houses at night.

Regarding public safety, the sheriff's department has jurisdiction of waterways — whether it's flowing in a ditch or a river.

Tuesday night there remained reports in Pennington county of flooding, ice heaving, and water flowing on top of ice.

Due to questions about the validity of a bid presented on the office furniture at the Soo Depot the matter was tabled and referred to the administrative services committee. It was the recommendation of the city attorney, the architects, the city administrator and project coordinator, that bids on the interior furnishings be rejected and that the city call for new bids.

According to a memo from the project manager, there was a question about whether an irregularity regarding a substitution that had occurred in the bidding process. All bids received were below the project estimate, and the low bidder had a base bid that was almost $16,000 less than the second low bidder.

The city attorney has been asked to draft an ordinance addressing the city's proposed snow removal policy. It was the recommendation of the public works committee that a policy be adopted. It would address the cost of removing snow, primarily in the downtown district.

Thief River Falls City Council approved resolution in support of legislation for a property tax reduction. By request of Kenneth Berg, the Administrative Services committee presented a recommendation, which urges legislators to support a proposal. The current tax rate on residential rental properties makes it difficult for persons to financially afford to develop and properly maintain adequate living quarters for communities in Greater Minnesota, and particularly, in communities under 10,000 in population. It requests the same treatment received by communities under 5,000 population. Specifically, it urges the legislature to pass legislation which would lower the Class 4a property tax to 2.3 percent of market value for communities under 10,000 in population and which lie outside the metropolitan area or outside a county contiguous to the area whose city boundary is at least 15 miles from the boundary of any city with a population greater than 10,000.

The preliminary plat of property owned by the City of Thief River Falls, the Occupational Development Center, and Bridgeman's, south of Thief River Falls was approved by the council.

An ordinance addressing the city's sign ordinance and a proposal to install Welcome to Thief River Falls signs, was approved by the council. The ordinance will allow, under the conditions detailed in the ordinance, placement of free-standing identification signs whose sole purpose is to display the name of the City in the agricultural, park and recreation districts.

The following items from the consent agenda were approved: a revised job description for power plant operator's position, a transfer of $4,000 in administrative services department and $2,000 in community development capital outlay to the revolving capital outlay fund as part of the 1997 budget, an extension of employment for Mark Bieganek; a gambling premises permit renewal application for the American Legion.

Two face felony drug, intent to sell charges

Two Thief River Falls residents are facing felony drug and intent to sell charges following their arrest Monday, November 24.

Drug task force, Bureau of Criminal Apprehension officials and local police conducted a search of a residence in an apartment complex in Thief River Falls Monday evening. Inside the residence officials found several individuals ranging in age 15 and up. They also confiscated over 13 ounces of marijuana, a scale, and what is being called "Blunts". Blunts were described by officials as hollowed out cigars with marijuana stuffed inside.

Paul Germnin Monley, 25, Thief River Falls, was arrested and charged with possession of a large amount of marijuana with intent to sell, a felony, and felony sale of a controlled substance. Sarah Lynn Waale, 18, Thief River Falls, was charged with possession of a large amount of marijuana with intent to sell.

Thief River Falls Police Chief Ken Froschheiser gave credit for the arrest to one of his juvenile liaison officers, Craig Mattson, Investigator Tim Miller, and the Drug Task Force.

Officials say the case is still under investigation.

Lucy Aasland's quest finds information about brother

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

World War II ended with the surrender of the Japanese on September 12, 1946, and America's sons came home to resume their lives-many just in time for the holidays. But every household did not experience a joyful reunion. Many of the soldiers did not come home.

Young Ernest Rydeen at the beginning of World War II.

This story is about a young man who didn't come home and his little sister-a sister who was so young when he left and when he died that she remembers only fragments–a sister who after 50 years needed to know her brother and mourn his death.

Ernest Rydeen was 19 years old when he enlisted in the U.S. Army. Ernie was one of eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rydeen of the Clearbrook area.

Ernie's sister Lucille was six years old when he left, nine when he died and 12 when his remains were finally brought home to be buried. Ernest A. Rydeen died on March 22, 1943 at Hoten Prisoner of War Camp in Mukden, Manchuria.

Today, Lucille is a retired educator, mother of four and grandmother of 16 who makes her home in Thief River Falls with her husband Leroy Aasland.

Lucy's quest to know more about her brother–his life and death during World War II–began about five years ago, and in that time she has discovered much about who he was through those who knew him.

An album that Lucy has put together tells much of the story.

Photographs–a high school graduation picture and military portraits–of a handsome young man are followed by a photocopy of the first letter Ernie wrote to his family dated September 5, 1940 informing them that he had enlisted. His sense of adventure cries out from between the lines as the letter reads. . ."I have something swell to tell you. I have signed up with the U.S. Army for three short years. And I hope it makes a man out of me. . ."

A collection of letters written to different family members follows in chronological order. He wrote respectful letters to his parents, jovial messages to his brothers and sweet notes to little sister Lucy asking about her pet dog "Peggy" and her pet canary. A sad-eyed puppy with the caption "I'm Lanesome!" decorated a colorful postcard that Ernie sent young Lucy in November of 1940. He instructed his much younger sibling to "kiss mama and daddy from me. . always

Fosston has snowplow troubles early in season

Fosston - "It was the worst I've ever seen it," Russ Earls, city director of public works, told Fosston's City Council recently referring to the street departments attempt to clear the streets of snow.

It seems that cars were parked all over the streets, trailers of all kinds were in both the alleys and the streets and no one bothered to move anything for the snowplows.

The mayor informed Earls that the police department would be notified and told to start issuing tickets.

He also suggested that perhaps Fosston should start towing offending vehicles the way other towns do. The city clerk said that he would review the current standard ordinance and see that it is published. The Thirteen Towns

IN MEMORY OF DEAN ALLEN DOKKIN

As the anniversary date of our loved one approaches. Many of us become filled with anxiety and tension.
The fear of having to face that dreadful day,
and all the reminders associated with it.
As we gather as a family for Thanksgiving dinner, one person is gone, but I see all the roles you played for us and the unique loss each one of us feels. The aching grief has given way with time to more subtle forms of longing.
We reminisce and laugh, and yet still mourn.
You were many different things to all of us, but we all called you "friend." And you will remain in our hearts forever. Time will heal us, but time will never make us forget.
Dean Allen Dokkin
died on Nov 27, 1993.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Since I forgot Thanksgiving recipes again, I will give you some ideas for using up those leftovers today.

Use turkey or chicken in this tasty main dish - it will taste great with the rest of your leftovers, especially the cranberry sauce:

TURKEY CASSEROLE

1 cup wild rice, raw
2 cups turkey, cooked and diced
3/4 cup mushrooms
1/4 cup pimento, chopped
1/3 cup green pepper, chopped
1 1/2 cups evaporated milk
1/2 cup sliced almonds
4 tablespoons butter
5 tablespoons flour
1 cup chicken broth
1 teaspoon salt
Sliced almonds

Precook wild rice.

Melt butter, then add flour and blend. Add broth and milk and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add salt.

Mix remaining ingredients and pour into greased 6x10 pan. Pour sauce over all and top with sliced almonds, if desired.

Bake at 350 degrees for 50-60 minutes.

Here is a tasty main dish meal that sounds more like a casserole than a salad to me, but whatever, it still sounds good:

HOT TURKEY SALAD

4 cups cooked turkey
1 can cream of chicken soup
2 cups chopped celery
1 cup mayonnaise
1 cup sour cream
1 can water chestnuts, drained and sliced
1 (4 ounce) can mushrooms, drained and sliced
1/2 cups slivered almonds
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1 (3 ounce) can onion rings
1 1/2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese

Cut chicken in chunks. Mix remaining ingredients with chicken (except onion rings and cheese) and place in 9x13 inch pan. Top with cheese and onion rings.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

You might just have a package of crescent rolls left along with all that turkey - try these yummy things:

SAVORY LITTLE TURKEY PIES

1 (3 ounce) package softened cream cheese
3 tablespoons melted butter
2 cups cooked, cubed turkey
Salt and pepper
2 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons chopped onion or chives
3/4 cup seasoned croutons, crushed
1 package crescent rolls

Blend cream cheese and 2 tablespoons of butter. Beat until smooth and mix together with all ingredients except 1 tablespoon butter, croutons and crescent rolls.

Separate crescent roll dough into 4 rectangles. Firmly press perforations to seal. Cut into 8 if smaller squares are desired.

Spoon 1/4 to 1/2 cup meat mixture on center of each square. Pull 4 corners of dough to top and seal. Place on ungreased pan and brush tops with remaining 1 tablespoon butter (or dip in butter) and then dip in crushed croutons.

Bake at 350 degrees for 15-20 minutes or until brown.

After the second day of leftovers, I get really tired of bland and have a terrible urge to have something spicy - maybe it will be this recipe this year:

CHICKEN ENCHILADAS

2 cups cooked chicken, diced
2 cans cream of chicken soup
1 pint sour cream
1 (2 ounce can) chopped green chilies
1 small onion, minced
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon garlic powder
12 flour tortillas
1 (8 ounce) packaged shredded Cheddar cheese
1 (8 ounce) package shredded mozzarella cheese
1 (8 ounce) package shredded Monterey Jack cheese

Mix chicken, soups, sour cream, chilies, onion, seasonings and 4 ounces Cheddar cheese.

Layer tortillas in bottom of 9x13 inch pan and spread 1/3 of chicken mixture over. Add another layer of tortillas, chicken mixture, tortillas and then chicken mixture. Place remaining cheeses over top.

Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Let stand 5-10 minutes before serving. Serve by cutting into squares.

Here is a salad you might like to try for a quick lunch, using, of course, that leftover turkey:

WILD RICE SALAD

3 cups turkey, cubed
1 cup wild rice, cooked, rinsed and cooled thoroughly
1 can water chestnuts, sliced
2 cups red or green grapes
4 stalks celery, cubed
Small green onions, chopped

Dressing

2 cups Miracle Whip
1/4 teaspoon curry powder
Dash of dill weed
1 teaspoon soy sauce
1 teaspoon seasoned salt

Mix ingredients together. Mix dressing ingredients and pour over salad, mixing well. Top with broken cashews, if desired.

Droopy, You're Out Of This World!

Happy "17th" Birthday

Bitzegaio's cancel tree farm walk for health reasons

For the past three years, Jim and Robin Bitzegaio have held a Christmas tree farm open house and benefit. This year, due to health reasons, the Bitzegaio's have cancelled the event.

Jim Bitzegaio said they plan to hold the event next year, but felt it would be too much this year.

Typically, the event draws 800 to 1,200 people to the rural residence and tree farm where trees are decorated, sleigh rides held and crafts on display. Bitzegaios truly appreciate the interest of the public and support of many local businesses who have contributed to the event in the past. They look forward to their continued support next year.

The event was a fundraiser for a Hospice program.

4-H funds available for scholarships and CWF

Funds are available through the Pennington county 4-H leaders council for 4-H scholarships and the Citizenship Washington Focus leadership project, according to Van Swanson, Pennington county extension educator.

Scholarship applications may be received from the county extension office and are due by December 31. Any person who graduated from high school, belonged to a Pennington county 4-H club, is a freshman in college or technical college and has a 2.0 or higher GPA can apply. Scholarships are usually for $150 each.

Applicants must apply by the December 31 deadline to be considered, even if they have not received their grades by that date. Grades can be reported to the county extension office when they are received.

Citizenship Washington Focus is a leadership program for high school youth from across the country. Youth stay at the National 4-H Center near Washington, DC, for the week-long program which teaches young people to be active and responsible citizens and leaders.

"The program is based on the premise that democracy requires skills and strategies which can be learned and practiced," Swanson said. "It takes place from June 27 to July 4, 1998, and participants must have completed grades 9-12."

Cost of the program is $1,050 to $1,100 but the leaders council has $650 in its budget to help defray the cost for two individuals. Applications are due by January 15. Persons with questions may call the county extension office at 683-7030.

Cloverbuds to meet Dec. 9th

Next meeting of the Cloverbud organization will be conducted from 3 to 4 p.m. Tuesday, December 9, in the grade 2-3 activity room at Challenger elementary school in Thief River Falls.

Persons who have questions about this activity for pre-4-H club program youngsters can call the Pennington county extension office at 683-7030.

Homeowners cut costs, save hundreds each month.

While the national deficit may be at a 21 year low homeowners are still piling up debt. National consumer debt is expected to reach 660 billion by the year 2000, almost double what it was in 1994. Whether it's a question of inflation or simply living beyond their means, there's one thing that most homeowners have in common. They want to pay down their debt, save more money and get ahead financially. But when debt runs into the tens of thousands, saving money comes in second to the priority of simply getting the monthly bills paid.

But in spite of these ever-increasing expenses some homeowners are actually finding ways to save money every month, and lots of it. In most cases they're saving up to 50 percent and more on their monthly payments. This translates into hundreds of dollars in savings every month. The question is, how do they do it?

The answer is CAPITOL BROKERS.

CAPITOL BROKERS is a specialized home mortgage finance company that enables homeowners to borrow more money than the amount of equity they have in their homes. This is what sets them apart from most other finance companies.

CAPITOL BROKERS offers loans up to 125 percent of the value of the home, meaning that even new homeowners can qualify for a loan. While other finance companies might look at the equity when determining a loan, CAPITOL BROKERS is more interested in the borrower's credit history and ability to repay the loan.

To homeowners, this is great news for several reasons. The first is bill consolidation. With a CAPITOL BROKERS loan homeowners can consolidate their high interest and high monthly payment bills into one lower monthly payment amount. For many the savings are in the hundreds every single month, sometimes as much as $500 or more. And, most homeowners find that it's much easier to pay one bill with one due date than it is to juggle several bills with several different due dates.

Another advantage to consolidating bills is taxes. Many borrowers, upon consultation with their financial advisors, find that the interest on a CAPITOL BROKERS loan could be deductible. Credit cards and other loans could charge up to 21 percent interest that isn't tax deductible, giving homeowners even more ways to save money with CAPITOL BROKERS.

The third reason is home improvement. Many homeowners use CAPITOL BROKERS loans to customize or renovate their homes. And even though new buyers may have no equity built up, they can still qualify with CAPITOL BROKERS.

The most typical home improvement projects are major repairs, kitchen and bath renovations, room additions and luxury items like swimming pools. In fact, in a fluctuating real estate market many consumers are staying in their homes longer. Rather than attempting to purchase new homes they choose to renovate their existing homes at a much lower cost. Borrowers can even combine home improvement and debt consolidation into one money-saving loan. It's CAPITOL BROKERS that makes it happen.

So what are these homeowners doing with all the money they're saving? Some are using the money for college tuition. Others are buying cars, taking vacations, enjoying the finer things in life. Still others are investing their money buying savings bonds, mutual funds and stocks. And others are simply enjoying the peace of mind that comes with knowing they'll be able to make ends meet and maybe even get ahead.

Homeowners who find all this confusing are not alone. CAPITOL BROKERS is the first to admit that applying for a home equity loan can raise a lot of questions. With all the different specifications, many consumers can feel overwhelmed. But with CAPITOL BROKERS, each borrower has their own personal loan officer who has the experience of making sure the customer understands every aspect of the loan. It's this kind of attention to customer service that has made CAPITOL BROKERS a leader in the consumer finance industry.

A representative of CAPITOL BROKERS can be reached Mon-Fri 9 a.m. - 6 p.m., Sat 9 a.m. - 2 p.m. Please call 1-800-791-7126 for further information.

How Rational Is The Global Warming Theory?

GUEST EDITORIAL
by Lyle Lund
Grand Forks, ND

The global warming theory asserts that carbon dioxide emissions from mankind's use of fuels will artificially warm the earth's climate. There are good reasons to doubt this.

Few advocates of the theory in our government will admit to the surprising lack of evidence. They also have failed to inform the people of the cost of the proposed remedy. If they are really serious about their theory, they must push programs that dramatically slash carbon dioxide emissions. This means a contraction in the use of fuels. Cuts of 30 percent or more are being discussed as a starter. A thoughtful person would sense that such cuts in energy usage would severely impact our industries, our agriculture and our transportation systems.

The earth has been warming and cooling for hundred of millennia. Repeatedly, massive glaciers have crept over the continents, receded, and then crept back again. Huge natural forces are at work. These forces have molded our climate in the past. They are with us today. They will create the climates of the future.

A thousand years ago the Vikings established settlements on Greenland's west coast. The island's climate was warmer then. The settlers were wiped out when the climate cooled. Historical records in Europe going back hundreds of years show their climate has changed over time. There is no evidence that mankind's activities had anything to do with any of this.

We have daily temperature records in the U.S. going back over a century. The data is published in the Statistical Abstract of the United States. The oldest records dating back to the 1830s are for Albany, NY. On the average, Albany has cooled during the past 150 years! Similar data from more recent decades in other locations indicate that Albany's temperature trend is indicative of most of the U.S. The evidence points to a cooling rather than a warming of the climate.

Consider the past 100 years. The earth's population has risen from 1.6 billion to over 5.6 billion. The world has undergone an unprecedented industrial revolution. There has been a century-long boom in the use of cars, trucks, ships, locomotives, aircraft and tractors. Since 1900 over 200 million homes have been built—all supplied with fuel and electricity.

In this century, we have endured two world wars. These events were paced with a parallel increase in the use of carbon based fuels such as coal, oil, gasoline, natural gas, propane and wood. Over this remarkable 100 years, there is still no evidence that the world's climate has warmed up to even a minor degree.

Notwithstanding the lack of data, there is a wing of the environmental movement, along with influential members of our government, who enthusiastically clasp the theory to their hearts. They have been successful in spreading their hysteria of imminent climate catastrophes around the glove. People are frightened. Governments are uneasy. The pressure is building.

The proponents of the global warming theory prop up their position with an affirmative endorsement of 2,500 scientists impaneled by the United Nations. Consider this for a moment. The science of climatology is complex and specialized. The world does not have 2,500 climatologists with sufficient experience or credentials to render such a momentous judgment. The most probable number is far less than 400.

If the active proponents of the theory were competent and honest, why would they pack the galleries, muffle the few voices of the most qualified climatologists available, and then take a vote?

Would a heart transplant candidate's spirits be buoyed up if he knew his diagnosis was derived from a consensus of a crowd of experts which included pediatricians, psychiatrists, veterinarians, botanists, geologists, nuclear physicists, archaeologists, agronomists, astronomers and social scientists? He might admire each for unique skills. However, he would likely ask, "What are all these guys doing on my case?"

In the present instance, we must inquire deeper. How many of the 2,500 on the U.N. panel work for governments, government agencies or organizations which have a vested or hidden interest in advancing the theory? Was any effort made to weed them out?

The U.S. produces about 25 percent of the world's goods and services and, in the process, consumes about 25 percent of the world's fuel. As a result, we are being fingered as the main culprit in the approaching calamities. To reverse the buildup of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, proposals are afloat to make massive cuts in fuel consumption. To committed advocates, modest reductions would only be cosmetic. Mincing steps will never save the planet in time. In their view, the U.S., being the most guilty, must promptly take the lead in this immense undertaking.

Soon the U.S. Senate will likely be asked to ratify a global warming treaty. If signed, the treaty would supersede all American laws. If the theory is in error, can the treaty be undone? This is a new and dangerous road. Without a rational and compelling justification, do we want the U.S., or the rest of the world, to emulate the energy consumption levels and the resulting economic deprivations of India, Bolivia, Bangladesh, Zaire or rural China?

These are big issues. How rational is the global warming theory? If the evidence is so commanding, why is it so well hidden? In view of the probably remedial costs, why is the public kept in the dark about the downside effects on the world's economic health and on their personal well being?

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Campaign reform has been a popular idea this fall, especially with the news media and certain influential groups, i.e. Common Cause and the League of Women Voters. Their propaganda could lead one to condemn those who oppose the McCain/Feingold bill, recently before the U.S. Senate.

That bill deserves to be defeated. If passed, it would dangerously restrict freedom of speech. It denies organized groups their constitutional right to inform members of how Congressmen have voted on issues of interest to them. It limits the money groups can spend to get information out and forbids even a picture of a candidate to be used within 60 days of a primary or general election.

Why would lawmakers, including Senator Paul Wellstone, support the McCain/Feingold bill? Could it be that they don't want to be held accountable for their votes? Are they uncomfortable being watched, contacted and lobbied on a variety of issues of importance to their constituents? Do they resent citizen involvement in legislative decisions?

The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) objected to the McCain/Feingold bill in a letter to senators because it "cuts to the core of the First Amendment." The ACLU said, further, "These unprecedented restrictions would effectively silence issue advocacy by countless hundreds and thousands of groups that add to the political debate in America."

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that such "issue advocacy" is a free speech right; that citizens' groups may inform the public on how candidates stand on issues and may use voter guides and voting records to do so, as long as they do not use the terms, "vote for" or "vote against" any candidate.

Lawmakers have no legal right to regulate the free speech of individuals or groups. We, the citizens, do not need the permission of those we elect to speak freely. If this bill passes, only the candidates, the political parties and the news media will be permitted to inform the public about issues. Sounds like a regulation out of Red China.

Respectfully,
Frances Crummy

Santa Lucia festival in Hallock Dec. 13

Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society will sponsor its 13th annual Santa Lucia Festival on Saturday, December 13 at Grace Lutheran Church in Hallock at 2 p.m.

The program for this ancient Swedish festival of light will be of a musical nature beginning with an organ and children's bell choir prelude. This unique choir will also play for the audience hymn singing. Grace Lutheran's children's choir will be singing several numbers under the direction of music director Phil Volkman.

Ten girls will be in the Santa Lucia pageant of whom five are Hallock high school seniors and five are younger. They will wear white gowns and carry lighted candles as they enter singing the Santa Lucia song. Two of the concert girls have attended Swedish language camp under the sponsorship of the Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society.

Hugo Magnusson of Grand Forks will again read the Christmas story from the book of Luke in Swedish and sing "[illegible]".

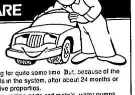
Vice President Lyndon Johnson of Hallock will be in Swedish attire and sing "Nar juldagsmorgon glimmar" and other numbers. Pastor Kenneth Losch will give the welcome.

President Matt Edman of Alvarado extends a welcome to everyone, whether or not they are of Swedish descent. Scandinavian goodies provided by the Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society members will follow the program. Hugo Magnusson will again furnish the popular saffron buns.

Lucia Day is celebrated every year in Sweden during a time of famine in medieval times according to folk legend. St. Lucia was said to be seen crossing a lake in the province of Varmland Sweden. She had a crown of light around her head and brought gifts of food to starving Swedes. Legends about her vary but Lucia shines as a symbol of light and hope in all of them.

In addition to celebrations in Sweden, Santa Lucia pageantry is carried on today in many Swedish-American homes and by such Swedish organizations as the Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society.

Mopar CUSTOMER CARE



Engine Coolant has to protect your car's cooling system from three things, freeze up, over heating and corrosion/rust damage.

Most coolant (commonly referred to as antifreeze) will continue to protect your vehicle's cooling system against freeze up and over heating for quite some time. But, because of the way coolant reacts differently to the various metals in the system, after about 24 months or 24,000 miles, coolant starts to lose its anti-corrosive properties.

That loss can cause damage to those various engine parts and metals, water pumps and their seals, cylinder head gaskets, aluminum components and frost plugs. When the corrosion builds it can come loose and start flowing through the system, it can build up in the heater core and cause a loss of the system's ability to properly produce heat. In the summer it may reduce the system's ability to keep the engine cool enough to run efficiently.

At Westside Motors we welcome the opportunity to inspect your vehicle's cooling system, and advise you if it's ready for the colder weather that has unfortunately arrived.

Mustangs lose to Wildcats 80-44 in basketball debut

It was a tough way to start the 1997-98 high school basketball season. Red Lake County Central girls, with three returning starters on the sideline due to a Minnesota State High School League rules violation, opened against highly-regarded Tri-County Tuesday. The result: an 80-44 victory for the host Wildcats.

"They (Tri-County) played well," reported Red Lake County Central coach Rick Korvisto. "They have everybody back. They're an athletic group."

Anna Bogestad scored 29 points for the winners who jumped out to a 21-6 first quarter lead and never looked back. It was 36-12 at halftime. Krista Bogestad and Afton also hit double figures for the Wildcats with 16 and 13 points, respectively.

Katie O'Neill, the only returning starter in the Mustangs' opening game line-up, scored 21 points. Tracy Rosten netted 13.

Red Lake County Central shot 40 percent from the field (18/45) and made 6 of 16 free throws. Tri-County shot 45 percent from the floor (35/77) and went 7-for-16 at the line. The Mustangs finished with a 22-20 rebound edge.

Northland Community and Technical College announced a change in its athletic department Tuesday when athletic director Rick Nelson (left) introduced Dan Willoughby (right) as the Pioneers' new head football coach. Willoughby succeeds Gene Klinke, whose resignation from the post was announced at the same press conference.

Dan Willoughby named to succeed Gene Klinke...

NCTC has new football coach

A single press conference held Tuesday at Northland Community and Technical College simultaneously announced the resignation of Gene Klinke as the Pioneers head football coach, and the naming of Dan Willoughby as his successor.

Klinke is stepping down after six years of directing the Northland football program. The Pioneers were 2-7 this fall and 23-28 overall during Klinke's tenure.

A member of Northland's first-ever football team in 1976, Klinke was appointed the Pioneers' coach in 1992 – on a one-year basis to fill in for Rick Nelson, who had announced plans to take a one-year sabbatical. As it turned out, Nelson elected not to return to coaching, extending Klinke's stay.

In Klinke's first three years as head coach, Northland went 5-3, 6-3 and 5-4 – a major step forward for a program with just one previous winning season. The Pioneers were Minnesota Community College Conference state playoff qualifiers in 1993 and 1994.

Northland's record slipped below .500 the past three years, although the Pioneers still reached the playoffs for the third time in six years this fall when they gained a second place regular season tie in the Northern Division.

Klinke said he was leaving coaching because of job demands as the director of minority student services at Northland, and for the opportunity to spend more time with his family.

"Coaching at Northland is something I'll always cherish," said Klinke. But expanding job responsibilities simply didn't leave the time he felt was needed to run a successful football program, he explained.

Nelson, the Northland athletic director, made the announcement of the coaching change. "We're excited to name Dan as our football coach, but we'd like to take time to recognize coach Klinke's accomplishments," he said. "Gene brought our football program to the next level."

Northland president Orley Gunderson, who was also in attendance at the meeting, added "The football program, as are all of our intercollegiate athletic programs, is very important to our college. Those programs bring students to our school and into our community. We would like to thank Gene for his six years as head coach, and I would like to welcome and congratulate Dan on being named the new coach. He (Willoughby) is an excellent instructor – one of the best we have. I'm sure he'll do a fantastic job as football coach."

Klinke said he has contemplated resigning since the end of the 1997 season. "It's is something I've thought about for a couple of weeks," he explained. "I felt it was in the best interest of my family and myself to leave at this time. It's been fun. I've had the opportunity to work with a lot of good players, and I've had good support from Rick, Orley and the coaching staff. It lasted a lot longer than I thought it would."

A native of Motley, Willoughby played football at Moorhead State University and spent three years as a high school assistant coach in Thief River Falls, working with the football, basketball and baseball programs.

Willoughby left Thief River Falls for New Mexico, where he was head football coach at Grants High School, just outside of Albuquerque. He also completed work on his masters degree in mathematics at Northern Arizona, where he worked with the football staff.

Since returning to Thief River Falls three years ago to accept a position in the Northland math department, Willoughby has been with the Pioneers' football coaching staff.

Willoughby said he accepted the head coaching position after concluding that his philosophy matched that of the administration.

Topping the list, according to Willoughby, will be selling the program to local high school student-athletes. "Our emphasis on recruiting is going to be Minnesota and eastern North Dakota," he noted. "We're really going to hit those area hard. Northland football should be reflective of the high school football programs in those areas."

Willoughby said his short list of goals is to field a competitive team, and to make sure the program gains the respect it feels it deserves. "We want to make people proud to be connected with Northland football," he said.

A meeting with the freshmen on this year's Northland roster and recruiting top Willoughby's to-do list right now. "We're a little bit behind in recruiting," he admitted. "We want to make sure we're in touch with every high school football program in the area."

Willoughby becomes the sixth head football coach in Northland history. Chet Engelman handled the duties in 1976 and 1977; followed by Irv Smith, 1978-79; John Helley, 1980-83; Nelson, 1984-91, and Klinke, 1992-97.

Wolverines defeat Nordics in opener

Kathryn Stanley scored 21 points and pulled down 11 rebounds Tuesday to lead Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke to a 74-39 girls high school basketball win over Marshall County Central. The game at Goodridge was the 1997-98 season opener for both teams.

"We're happy with the first time out," said Wolverines coach Mike Gast. "Our defense looked tough. The girls played very, very hard."

Dana Wiseth joined Stanley in double figures for the winners with 12 points, while three others scored eight. Miki Waterworth had a 13-point game for the Nordics, who had a tough time carrying out their offense with 38 turnovers.

"We really stopped ourselves with our turnovers," pointed out first-year Marshall County Central head coach Alice Dahl. "Miki had a nice game, but we need five kids playing well."

The Wolverines were 33-for-75 from the field (44 percent) and 8-for-16 at the free throw line. The Nordics had a 16-for-65 night from the floor (25 percent) and a 6-for-11 showing at the line. Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke had a 42-23 rebound advantage and turned the ball over 13 times.

Prowlers fall to Ponies 50-46

■ 1997-98 girls basketball season opener

Warren-Alvarado-Oslo erased a game-long deficit in the fourth quarter Tuesday as the host Ponies overtook Thief River Falls 50-46 in season-opening girls high school basketball action.

"We were not pleased," offered Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "We didn't shoot very well, and once we fell behind in the fourth quarter we started to panic a little."

Thief River Falls had a 10-8 first quarter edge, a 22-18 halftime advantage and a 34-32 third quarter lead.

The Prowlers shot only 36 percent from the field (20/55) and struggled through a 5-for-13 night at the free throw line. The Ponies shot 44 percent from the floor (20/45) and cashed in on 10 of 12 free throws.

"We've got to put the ball in the hole," said Loe. "They played a zone and we didn't do a very good job against it. We did okay defensively. We were in their face, but they shot the ball incredibly well."

Katie Loeslie led the Ponies' shooters with 18 points, while Erika Swanson scored 11. Nicole Kopari had a 16-point, 7-rebound game for the Prowlers. Amber Klinker added 10 points.

Warren-Alvarado-Oslo topped the turnover charts 19-17.

The Prowlers will be at Fosston Tuesday before opening their home schedule with a new foe – Little Falls in a Saturday, Dec. 6, afternoon match-up.

TRF athletic trainer heads to Dickinson

by Mike Lundgren, Sports Editor

George Judd, who has served as athletic trainer at Lincoln High School and Northland Community and Technical College since March 8, 1994, resigned recently to accept a similar position in Dickinson, ND.

Judd was employed here by Thief River Falls Sports Medicine, a cooperative venture between Dakota Clinic and Northwest Medical Center. His services were contracted out to the schools.

A busy schedule would typically find Judd heading to Newfolden two mornings per week for evaluations, education seminars and treatments within the Marshall County Central athletic department, followed by a 1-to-3 p.m. stop at Northland; a 3-to-5 p.m. session at Lincoln; and then attendance at an athletic event (if scheduled) during the evening.

He was viewed as a valuable asset to the local athletic programs by those he served.

"We're going to miss him," said Thief River Falls head football coach Jeff Mumm. "By treating and dealing with injuries, making diagnosis, and overseeing rehab, he took a great deal of pressure off the coaching staff. He called all the shots as far as injuries."

Judd's expertise in the area of athletic injuries left him in charge of that part of the Prowlers' sports programs. "The coaches don't have the professional training like he has," noted Mumm. "He had full reign over how long an athlete would be out of practice and games."

Judd was also important in helping to address potential problems. "He was a real valuable research person," noted Mumm, referring to the trainer's monitoring the athlete's water intake, etc., and helping to advise athletes in proper nutrition.

"For a school our size to have an athletic trainer is a real plus," added Mumm.

Judd was equally appreciated by the Northland athletic department. "Having a trainer like George is a real plus," said Northland athletic director Rick Nelson. "His work in prevention and care of injuries, along with his organizational skills and training room efficiency, allows coaches to concentrate on their job and not worry about the training room. He did a lot of little things behind the scene that made everybody else's job that much easier. I really feel he brought our program to a higher level."

One of Judd's accomplishments here was the development of a student trainer program. Eight Lincoln High School students are currently involved in the program that includes textbook and hands-on experience under the guidance of the athletic trainer. There were three initial student trainer participants, and all three are currently participating in the extension of the program at Northland Community and Technical College.

"Developing the student trainer program was personally satisfying," acknowledged Judd, "and it was one of the things that made a difference in me getting my new job over the other candidates."

In his new position, Judd will be working through the St. Joseph Hospital sports medicine program, serving Dickinson High School, Trinity High School and Dickinson State University. He will have another trainer working with him.

"I think it's an improvement for me professionally," said Judd, who also welcomes the opportunity to return to North Dakota. He grew up in the Williston area, then taught and coached in the state, leaving a position near Dickinson to accept the job in Thief River Falls.

"I felt my time in Thief River Falls was very educational," said Judd. "It helped me develop my skills. I'm really thankful for the opportunity to work here."

However, his stay here also produced a great deal of frustration, according to Judd, who said he tired of the friction he felt exists between the two medical facilities in the community. "There will be less politics in my new job, he explained."

Judd's last day on the job in Thief River Falls was Nov. 26.

Ditch 83 survey to continue without clearcutting of trees

Leola Furman. The letter stated.

"Since the Thief River has not had a systematic tree clearing of the channel since 1958 or 1959, we agree that something needs to be done. Therefore, we recommend the following alternatives to clearcutting the bank below Ditch #20.

"A. Because most of the bank below Ditch #20 is easily accessible, we recommend that surveying be done overland without clearcutting the right-of-way below Ditch #20.

"B. Where trees have fallen into the channel, we will comply with snagging operations this fall.

"C. Where trees are about to fall into the channel on either side, we recommend that "Sentenced to Serve" personnel be used to remove them this winter.

"D. Furthermore, in an attempt to eliminate misunderstandings, we will cooperate with tree removers by marking problem trees in the channel."

Consideration Asked

A letter from Paul and Coreen Erickson, landowners and homeowners in Section 35 of Excel township, requested site-specific tree clearing for surveying purposes and that the survey be done on the north side of Ditch 83 in Section 35 to minimize tree removal from the windbreak the trees provide.

"We also ask if tree removal is desired on the inslope of Ditch 83 along Section 38, they use Sentence to Serve crews and start at the water's edge and go 15 feet up the slope of the ditch. This should provide adequate flow that is desired.

"We also ask if any repairs, sandbars or snags are to be removed, they do the work from the north side of the ditch along Section 35. No one lives along the north bank along Section 35."

Audubon Society Letter

In a letter addressed to watershed district board president Greg Hilgeman, Minnesota Director Don Arnosti of the Minnesota Audubon Council stated, in part:

"Thank you for getting back to us about the situation regarding the Thief River/JD 83....We understand from these conversations that the board has no intention of authorizing the logging of the trees along the river/ditch prior to your meeting on November 26th. Further, we understand that you are open to suggestions as to alternative courses to pursue within the constraints of your obligations under ditch law with regard to the existing petition for drainage. With that understanding, we have not pursued other legal options that are available to us at this time.

"In particular, we understand that you are open to pursuing a specific program for "flowage easements" on the flood-affected acreages along the river/ditch, if at least some of the petitioners and other interests show interest in this concept, and an agreement on such a program can be reached expeditiously. We are committed to coming to a meeting in Thief River Falls on December 2nd to discuss such a program. We appreciate the offer of using your conference room for such a gathering.

"We believe from the contacts we have had with our members and other friends in the area, including affected landowners, that interest in such a concept is high. We will work to encourage participation by such parties on the 2nd.

"We look forward to working closely with you on the resolution of this situation...."

DNR Letter Received

At the meeting Wednesday, a letter from John Williams, area wildlife manager and Nathan Dalager, area hydrologist—both with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources—was presented to the board. The letter states:

"Minnesota Watershed District Statute 103D.201 subdivision 1 states General purposes. To conserve the natural resources of the state by land use planning, flood control, and other conservation projects by using sound scientific principles for the protection of the public health and welfare and the provident use of the natural resources,...'

"Minnesota Drainage Statute 103E.015 subdivision 1 states 'Determining public utility, benefit, or welfare. In any proceeding to establish a drainage project, or in the construction of or other work affecting a public drainage system under any law, the drainage authority or other authority having jurisdiction over the proceeding must give proper consideration to conservation of soil, water, forests, wild animals, and related natural resources, and to other public interests affected, together with other material matters as provided by law in determining whether the project will be of public utility, benefit, or welfare.'

"We believe that the Red Lake Watershed District has a clear obligation to consider the interests outlined in the above State Statutes. We also believe the Watershed Board has an opportunity to fulfill these obligations. This opportunity would be to perform survey work prior to the clearing of any riparian trees. After the Engineer's report is prepared, the problems, solutions and alternatives will be made clear. After the public hearing and public involvement and notification process, the project could proceed in accordance with the appropriate statutory requirements.

"We respectfully request that the Red Lake Watershed Board suspend the contract for the clearing of trees until after it has been determined and publicly debated that the full-scale tree clearing portion of the repair petition is a necessary and essential action."

Ryan receives letter of appreciation

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class Robert W. Ryan, son of Russell W. and Margaret V. Ryan of Goodridge, recently received a Letter of Appreciation while assigned with Marine Aircraft Support Squadron One, 2nd Marine Aircraft Wing, Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, NC.

Ryan was recognized for his superior performance of duty. Displaying remarkable dedication and initiative, Ryan consistently performed his demanding duties in an exemplary and highly professional manner.

Ryan is an essential part of today's naval forces as they shift focus away from long-distance war at sea to handling the challenges of regional conflicts affecting U.S. interests.

Whether helping provide humanitarian assistance and disaster-relief or projecting power ashore and providing forward presence, Marines like Ryan are making a difference as they work assigned to squadrons, battalions, ships, or shore commands around the world. Ryan is not only improving his knowledge and skill, but is serving as part of the most highly technical naval force in history.

The 1989 graduate of Goodridge high school joined the Navy in October 1989.

be a good girl treat the rest of your brothers and sisters with respect."

Young Ernest was sent to the Philippine Islands that first year, and as time went by his letters, while cheerful, were edged with homesickness and hints of maturity–the man that he was becoming as he spoke of coming home, getting married, having children. The letters also included apologies and regrets. Ernie, it seems, was a spirited teenager who had caused his family some concern, and he was sorry.

The last communication from Ernie that Lucy has been able to locate was written in November of 1941.

A postal telegram dated January 30, 1943 read "Your son Private Ernest A. Rydeen Air Corps reported a prisoner of war of the Japanese government in the Philippine Islands Letter follows."

A telegram dated October 9, 1943 informs the Rydeens of Ernest's death on June 29, 1943. Letters of confirmation and condolence followed from the War Department in Washington, D.C.

On September 28, 1945 Acting Adjutant General of the Army, Brigadier General Robert H. Dunlop wrote, ". . .An authentic report has now been received which reveals his death occurred on 22 March 1943 as the result of acute enteritis. . .These conflicting reports are regretted but I feel confident that you will understand the difficulties encountered when receiving reports from enemy governments. My continued sympathy."

Ernest Rydeen's remains were exhumed from its grave in the Manchurian prison camp and sent home for burial in 1946. A memorial service was held on March 6, 1948.

Lucy remembers a cloud of sadness hanging over her childhood home, her father looking upset, her mother's tears. The memories and unanswered questions haunted the woman that Ernie's little sister became.

While watching television in 1992 Lucy learned of the book Sandy which Heidi Hoks of the Northwest Regional Library was able to locate for her. The book contained the names and addresses of several survivors of the prison camp where Ernie had died. She wrote to each one asking for information about her brother. While the none of the respondents was able to give her any information, each was anxious to help.

In the July 1993 issue of The Quan, the publication of the American Defenders of Bataan & Corregidor, Inc., a request for information about Ernest Rydeen was printed.

Within weeks, Lucy received a letter from James Brown of Elnora, Indiana. Jim was a friend of Ernie's at Mukden. While his memory had dimmed, he told Lucy what he remembered and revealed that he had written a letter to her parents in 1948.

That letter along with others have surfaced and have answered many of Lucy's questions about her brother. She came to know him through the recollections of others.

Taken a prisoner of war at the surrender of Bataan in 1942, young Ernie Rydeen took part in the death march of Bataan. Much of what Lucy learned was very painful. The unspeakable horrors that took place in the Japanese prison camp in Manchuria are almost unimaginable to those whose world has always been safe and civilized.

A letter from Ernie's friend William Jay in April of 1946 revealed that Ernest's "slip of diagnosis stated malnutrition, dysentery, malaria, beriberi and anemia," when he was admitted to the hospital in early 1942. He was believed to have surgery twice and die of pneumonia "assisted by other complications."

Lucy's eyes still fill with tears and her voice cracks so many years later as she speaks of her lost brother.

Through the American Defenders of Bataan and Corregidor Lucy has discovered an entire network of P.O.W. survivors and their family members who share information, friendship and support.

For the past 14 years, Mukden survivors have held annual reunions, and last month Lucy attended the gathering in Fresno, California. There, she met Ernie's friend Jim Brown, an experience she describes as "wonderful."

Lucy has invited the group to hold next year's reunion in Minnesota and it is slated for September 10-13 at Bemidji's Northern Inn. She seeks area Mudken survivors and invites them or their family members to attend. Lucy can be contacted by mail at 2105 Nelson Drive, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

This humbled writer cannot come up with words that adequately honor Ernest Rydeen and all of the sons and brothers whose sacrifice was so great and will rely upon the words of another.

"In grateful memory of Private Ernest A. Rydeen, who died in the service of his country in the Asiatic Area, March 22, 1943. He stands in the unbroken line of patriots who have dared to die that freedom might live, and grow, and increase its blessings.

Freedom lives, and through it, he lives–in a way that humbles the undertakings of most men."

Moe says milk pricing system reform good for consumers and farmers

Dairy farmers in the Upper Midwest applauded when U. S. District Court Judge David Doty handed down a decision to scrap most of the 32 marketing orders that determine the federal government's price floor for fluid milk around the nation, according to Sen. Roger Moe of Erskine.

"If the November 5 federal court order speeds reform of the milk pricing system, it will be good news for dairy farmers in our region who are seeking higher prices more equivalent to producers from other parts of the country," Sen. Moe said. "Reform should also benefit consumers across the nation."

Moe said that in 1996 Congress listened to Midwestern dairy producers who objected to a structure that makes Eau Claire, WI, ground zero in the fluid milk price support system. Under United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) milk pricing rules, the further away from Eau Claire a dairy farm is located, the higher the price paid for each 100 pounds of milk. Congress instructed the USDA to revamp the structure of its milk pricing system by January 1999. The recent court order could speed up the process.

The legal battle started in 1990 after 3,000 Minnesota diary farmers formed an alliance to change the milk pricing structure. Minnesota and Wisconsin legislatures appropriated funds for the lawsuit and eventually other Midwestern states such as Iowa, North Dakota and South Dakota joined the challenge.

In his court order, Judge Doty indicated that the pricing system had "no rational connection" to milk supply and demand around the country. Although it is debatable how dairy farmers and the consumers of dairy products will be affected by leveling the playing field between regions, a study by Midwestern economists estimates that the cost of milk in grocery stores could decline 20 cents per gallon across the nation.

"While consumers may pay less," Sen. Moe said, "Upper Midwest dairy farmers stand to gain. "With restructuring of the milk pricing system, the study estimates that farmers in our area will be paid approximately 50 cents more for each 100 pounds of milk sold. Currently the USDA indicates that the pricing floor for beverage-grade milk paid to farmers near the Twin Cities area is approximately $1.21 per gallon, compared to $1.46 per gallon for dairy farms near Miami."

"The big losers of price restructuring will be those located the furthest from Eau Claire," Sen. Moe added. "Florida milk producers could see their payments drop by as much as $3 per 100 pounds or a reduction of approximately 20 percent. Other major producing states such as California and Texas may also see a similar decrease in payments."

Judge Doty's ruling has created some temporary confusion about milk pricing in the dairy industry. Some dairy processors are already refusing to pay government-set prices. Although USDA is seeking to block the order, a USDA spokesman has indicated that the department remains committed to restructuring the milk pricing system.

Price restructuring is likely to result in some good news for dairy farmers and consumers in our state. However, Sen. Moe says, the optimism should be tempered with the realization that most of the milk produced in our region and around the state is not beverage-grade drinking milk, so the impact on prices will not be particularly dramatic.

"Still, it is about time that the federal government dealt with milk pricing," the senator said. "We have seen the loosening of price controls on many other farm commodities in recent years. Midwestern dairy farmers should finally get a chance to compete on a level playing field that is based on a market-driven milk pricing system."

Fine Line dance group performs Dec. 3

Fine Line Dance, involving children age preschool to high school, will "kick off" a season of half-time performances and appearances beginning December 3 in Thief River Falls.

The athletic dance program, which was reorganized this fall, is coached by Connie Dorn. Dorn thanks parents and sponsors for their support. "Not only did we reorganize, we also expanded Fine Line Dance to include even preschoolers. A big thanks to parents, who have been so encouraging, and to TRF Racquetball — without their sponsorship we never would have been able to get the program off the ground."

Fine Line Dance will perform at college and high school basketball games December 3, 5, 9 and 18. Dorn says everyone participates. "The dancers have worked so hard and everyone gets to perform. The Preschool Line put on a show for Discovery Place in November. Elementary and Junior Lines begin their season this month, and the Varsity Team also has some appearances but, we are always open for more!"

The second semester of Fine Line Dance begins in January. Registrations for new students are being taken in December at TRF Racquetball, Fitness and Martial Arts on Highway 59 SE. in Thief River Falls. Everyone is welcome, no auditions are necessary. Groups or organizations who would like to book the dance team for their event are invited to call Dorn or TRF Racquetball at 681-6709.

National Guard offers scholarship

A new Minnesota National Guard program will provide scholarships to 25 Minnesota high school seniors this year. The award, known as Leadership and Dedicated Service Scholarship, or LEADS, will be presented to high school seniors who best demonstrate leadership potential, community service, and academic ability, according to Minnesota National Guard officials.

The program is open to high school seniors eligible for military service as well as to high school seniors already in the Minnesota National Guard. To receive this award, the applicants, once selected by the LEADS committee, must join the Minnesota National Guard and complete basic training.

The application process includes filling out a personal data sheet, having someone submit a letter of recommendation, writing two essays, and being interviewed by a Minnesota National Guard representative. "This is another way that we can help our young people, our most precious natural resource, achieve their full potential," said Adjutant General Major Gen. Eugene Andreotti. "And, this program helps us maintain the strength and viability of the National Guard."

Applications for the program are due March 1, 1998 and awards will be made by May 1, 1998. For more information on the program, students should contact Sergeant First Class Greg Newhouse, 218-281-6060, or Sergeant Quincy Lofberg, 218-671-0924.

Three from TRF sing in concert

Three students from Thief River Falls who are members of ensembles at Concordia College in Moorhead will sing in the college's Christmas concert "Let Heaven and Nature Sing," which will be broadcast on public television stations across the nation.

Participating will be Angelique Goulet, senior, daughter of Mrs. Linda Goulet and a member of The Concordia Choir; Kendra Dimich, sophomore, daughter of Dr. Thomas and Judy Dimich and Michelle Mathson, freshman, daughter of Bruce and Shelley Mathson, both members of Bel Canto.

The one-hour television special features the talents of 450 student musicians and will be broadcast regionally on Prairie Public Television stations at 8 p.m. December 24 and noon December 25.

The concert includes arrangements of traditional carols as well as contemporary pieces. This will be the third national distribution of the concert.

Plan Christmas lighting contest for Plummer

Plummer Community Club will again sponsor a Christmas lighting contest with cash prizes offered for first, second and third places. Those interested in being included in the judging are asked to register at the Plummer State Bank.

Area dairying nose dives as many herds are sold

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

While politicians and some farm leaders are extolling the recent federal judge's ruling striking down most federal milk marketing orders, the court action--regardless of its eventual results--will be lost on many former dairymen in northwest Minnesota.

They are the ones who have had enough of long hours, 365-day work years, no vacations, low prices, deteriorating buildings and equipment they can't afford to repair, much less replace, and having no more to show for their effort and knowledge than manure on their boots and notes at the bank.

They are among the increasing number who have already sold their herds or are within a cud chew of doing so. This article begins a series of Northern Watch stories dealing with the northwest Minnesota dairy situation and some of the farmers making one of two decisions—to get bigger in an attempt to hold on, or to get out.

"...A Lot Of Stress Out There"

"I talk to a lot of farmers and I'm seeing an awful lot of stress out there," says Gary Erickson of Badger, a life-long dairyman himself until 1989 and for the past two years a supervisor for Northwest No. 2 Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

"My wife and I have found out that there is life after farming," he quipped, but it is apparent he isn't completely comfortable with life off the farm.

"Some of the producers in our association are among the best in Minnesota. They are good managers and good business people but they are having a hard time making a living and it isn't getting any easier. We have lost four herds out of 32 in our association in the past year and many other dairymen in our area who were not DHIA members have also sold their cows."

Young Dairymen Are Few

Erickson said that there are only a couple of young dairymen among the members of Northwest No. 2 as few second generation family members are willing to carry on the business. Most of the members are in their late-40s and mid-50s, and even if they have children who would like to dairy, they don't see any way the younger generation could afford to buy out the operation.

"I don't like to be a pessimist," Erickson said, "but it is hard to find much cause for optimism. Unless something very positive happens, I wouldn't be surprised to see half of our present members out of the business in the next five to seven years."

That isn't good news for a farm economy which over the years has had most of its stability from dairying. Even when crops were bad and crop prices were low, a dairyman could find feed to buy somewhere and have a cash flow from his cows.

While some areas of northwest Minnesota have exceptional cropland which is appropriate for grain farming, much of the land is suited for livestock operations, including dairy. Yet Kittson county and Lake of the Woods county each have only four dairy herds remaining, Marshall and Pennington counties have only a fraction of their former herd numbers and Red Lake county has experienced the sale of many herds in the past year.

Area Situation "Depressing"

Randy Rasmussen of Thief River Falls, who has been a DHIA tester since he helped his dad in that work while in high school and has been full-time since 1979, terms the area dairy situation "depressing."

About two years ago the Pennington County DHIA found its numbers dropping so low that it voted to merge with the Red Lake County DHIA. Randy worked with his dad, Melvin, a DHIA supervisor for 26 years, in testing for both associations and continued following the merger. Randy's wife Margaret has also been testing since 1992.

At the time of the merger into the Red Lake-Pennington DHIA, there were about 70 dairy herds in the association. That number has dwindled to 47 and 14 herds have been sold in just the past year. The remaining work which Randy and Margaret share is the work load for only one full time tester, so Randy has "hired out" to assist local dairyman Bob Schindler.

More Sales Than In Buy-Out

"It's hard to believe, but we lost more herds from our association last year than we did in the dairy buy-out program back in 1984-85," Randy said. "We lost 13 herds during that planned government cut-back program."

Rasmussen said that a number of factors come into play with the decision of dairymen to leave the business, but price for their product becomes a major consideration in nearly every circumstance.

"It seems like a lot of the farmers really like milking cows," Randy added, "but they get tired of the time commitment with no weekends off and no vacations. It takes a toll on the family. And it's doubly hard to take when all the work and sacrifice doesn't make any money."

Hiring Help Not Viable

For many dairymen with small herds by today's standards—30 to 50 head milking—the possibility of hiring help simply doesn't exist. There isn't enough money to do so. If there is no available labor supply among children in the family, the burden falls on too few people. And even if hiring is a consideration, the options are few.

"The labor situation is tough up here with Marvin Lumber and Polaris having a steady demand for workers," Gary Erickson noted. "They pay pretty good and it is hard for a dairyman to compete for workers, even if he wanted to hire extra help."

The fact of the matter is that some of the dairymen not only don't try to compete for workers, they give up on the cows and take one of the jobs in town themselves. Likely as not their wives join them in the work force—if they weren't already there—and the combined income makes dairying quite a bit easier to forget.

Gary Erickson has herds in his association with 30 to 200 cows. In Randy Rasmussen's association the

Canola schools to give information on product

Canola is one crop that growers in northwest Minnesota should consider when making tough decisions regarding crops to be grown in 1998, according to Ray Thompson, Marshall county extension educator.

To assist farmers in learning more about the relatively new crop in this area, three canola schools for growers have been scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, December 10 and 11.

The first seminar is scheduled for Wednesday, December 10, from 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. at Beaver's Truck Stop in Fosston. A complimentary lunch will be provided.

Second seminar on Wednesday will be from 3 to 6:15 p.m. at the Best Western Inn on Highway 32 south with a complimentary dinner as part of the event.

Third seminar on the series will be Thursday, December 11, from 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. at the Kittson county courthouse meeting room in Hallock, also with a complimentary lunch to be served.

"The seminars are geared to new growers," Thompson said, "but experienced growers are also encouraged to attend."

Topics will be presented by speakers from the University of Minnesota, Canola Council and industry in the U.S. and Canada and will include potential profit, planting techniques, weed management, marketing, canola basics and help available from the Canola Council.

For more information call the Marshall county extension office at 745-5232 or 1-800-745-5232.

Volunteers needed for Christmas Eve dinner

Volunteers are needed to assist with the Thief River Falls Christmas Eve dinner. The annual event will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. Wednesday, December 24, at the Evergreen Eating Emporium.

Organizers of the event recently met and came up with a list of tasks and needs. Volunteers are needed to deliver meals, serve meals, wash dishes, act as waiters and waitresses, clear tables, serve coffee and a number of other activities. Anyone interested in volunteering should contact the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce at 681-3720.

Although the annual event is free of charge, because of generous contributions of individuals and businesses, a free-will offering is always accepted. Organizers are expecting to serve about 500 meals this year. To accomplish this feat, a large number of volunteers are needed.

Dinners, rides, and delivered meals can be reserved until the end of the day on December 23 by calling the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce at 681-3720 Monday through Friday 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dinner reservations should be made for either the 4 to 4:30 p.m. seating or the 5 to 5:30 p.m. seating.

Donations made payable to the Thief River Falls Christmas Eve Dinner can be mailed to the Chamber of Commerce, 2017 Highway 59 SE, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Wolf research animal shot in east Marshall county

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is offering a reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who shot and killed a wolf in eastern Marshall county during the Minnesota firearms deer season.

Officials say the wolf was a radio-collared adult female that was part of the research project at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge. The female shot was known as "51" by the research team. She was the alpha female in her pack and had raised four pups this year. She was found about four miles southeast of the Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge. A necropsy, performed by the University of Minnesota, revealed that the death was caused by bullet wounds.

The research project is examining the role of wolves, that live on the refuge, in livestock depredation in the surrounding area.

The fine for taking (killing) a threatened species within the United States is $25,000 and/or six months in federal prison. Anyone with information about this incident is encouraged to call (218) 720-5357.

Tree order day at Grygla December 12

Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District will hold a tree order day Friday, December 12, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the district office in Grygla.

"Purpose of the order day is to get orders for trees as early in the season as possible," states Kathy Zavoral, district technician.

"If orders are placed later in the winter, such as January or February, the variety and size of species is very limited. The earlier that trees are ordered, the better the opportunity for getting exactly the size and species that the person ordering wants."

Zavoral pointed out that trees can provide shelter from winter winds, resulting in lower heating costs, give shade in the summer, lowering cooling expenses; and control the drifting of snow, which can reduce snow removal costs.

In addition to helping people, trees can also help animals and crops as field shelterbelts, farmstead and feedlot windbreaks create micro-climates.

During the tree order day the district staff will be on hand to assist in designing tree plans, selecting appropriate species for the site and answering questions about tree planning, planting and maintenance. Coffee and cookies will be served and anyone placing a tree order will be eligible for door prizes.

Enerst Swanson collects variety of cribbage boards

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

If you can catch up with Ernest Swanson you might want to challenge him to a game of cards – Cribbage, that is – Ernie's favorite game. He might even let you select the board used to keep score. He has over 125 Cribbage boards in his collection.

Cribbage, known as "Noddy" in its original form, is one of the oldest card games in existence today. Its invention is credited to the English poet and soldier Sir John Suckling who lived from 1609 to 1642. Because scoring is almost continuous, a Cribbage board is used to keep score unerringly. Holes are recessed into the board, and each player has two pegs that are used in the scoring process.

Ernie and his wife Lois live in Highlanding township near Goodridge. Ernie has been collecting Cribbage boards for about 25 years, and during those years the retired Goodridge postmaster and Lois have traveled to all 50 states. Wherever Ernie finds a Cribbage board that's different from one in his collection, he buys it – "if it's not too expensive."

Usually, the boards range in price between $5 and $20. The most Ernie has paid was $35 for a Cribbage board he purchased in Hawaii. Several have been birthday or Christmas gifts from family members.

The standard Cribbage board is made of wood and is about a foot long and three inches wide. The largest board in Ernie's collection is three feet long and is made from a two by eight-inch plank. It stands on two-foot legs. The smallest measures only two and a-half by three and a-half inches and is made of clear acrylic. Both of these Cribbage boards were given to him by a cousin in Nebraska.

In addition to varying sizes, his collection includes Cribbage boards in a wide variety of shapes. One board is shaped like the state of Minnesota and another like Michigan. Rifle bullets are used for pegs on a board that resembles a two-foot paddle. On the humorous side, one board is painted white and shaped like a toilet seat. Yet another is the flatbed trailer of a handmade semi truck.

The highest score that can be made with any five cards is 29 points. This 29-point score can only be attained by holding a jack and three fives with the "starter" – the face up card – a five of the same suit as the held jack – called "His Nobs." Ernie has five Cribbage boards – all different – shaped like the number 29.

Ernie has combined hobbies as he's made a number of Cribbage boards in his woodworking shop. Usually, he laminates two or three different woods together to make an interesting pattern and then individually drills more than 120 or 240 holes in each board using a template he has made. He made a checkerboard of white birch and walnut and drilled the holes around the perimeter of the game board. This one is a favorite among his grandchildren. He also made a two-foot square table, again drilling the holes around the outside. Bowling is another of Ernie's hobbies, and he made a Cribbage board shaped like a bowling pin.

While wood is the usual material used to make a Cribbage board, Ernie has one of tooled leather and another – a gift from a granddaughter in Alaska – made from the antler of a caribou. Several of his boards are designed with travel in mind and fold into a box. The holes are drilled on the outside, and the box stores a deck of cards and the pegs.

In addition to Cribbage boards from across the United States, Ernie's collection includes boards from Canada and Mexico.

Played with a 52-card standard deck, the game is simple to learn. The mechanics of Cribbage can be Fifteen-two, fifteen-four, a pair for six . . . . Cribbage enthusiast Ernest Swenson of Goodridge counts meld in his favorite card game. Swanson has over 125 Cribbage boards in his interesting collection and plays the game every chance he gets.

Birthday wish comes true for Crookston man

Crookston - The fact that Travis Brekken will never drive the restored, canary yellow 1971 Ford Mustang Mach I doesn't matter to him or the dozens of friends and relatives who played a part in making his birthday extra special.

Travis has Muscular Dystrophy. He has owned the Mustang since 1993. The car, however, was in bad shape and he discovered that restoring a car was no small task.

Travis attended car shows and Classic Cruiser Car Club events. The car enthusiast's Mustang came up in conversations with other club members who called Travis' parents and asked if their plans to restore Travis' car were acceptable.

Vince and Merle Brekken were thrilled to see their son's dream come. Travis was thrilled also when family and friends surprised him with the restored car at the body shop of Nelson Motors on his 20th birthday. Crookston Daily Times

Wheat Growers join in opposing climate treaty

National Association of Wheat Growers has joined forces with several other farm and commodity organizations as a member of Farmers Against Climate Treaty (FACT).

FACT supports voluntary efforts to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, while opposing legally binding enforceable caps. The coalition aims to determine proposals expected for agriculture as well as the impact of emission controls on U.S. agricultural production and exports.

The proposed international climate treaty is opposed not only by a wide range of farm organizations but also by industry and labor groups. These organizations are concerned that efforts proposed in the treaty to control greenhouse gas emissions would unfairly penalize the United States economically and competitively while allowing most other countries the opportunity to continue their industrial activities without regard to climate impacts.

"This treaty has the potential to seriously impact agriculture, with both fuel usage and food production restrictions," states Phil McLain, NAWG president from Statesville, NC. "Wheat farmers could experience a startling 13-27 percent jump in production costs.

"Farmers are environmentalists by trade, and they are feeling the world against increasingly difficult odds. A treaty which penalizes farmers and other important sectors of the American economy, while offering lesser-developed countries leniency in pollution regulation, is simply not a treaty wheat farmers can support in December," McLain said.

The NAWG president was referring to the meeting on global climate change December 1-10 in Kyoto, Japan. There the treaty is expected to undergo final negotiations before being presented in its complete form.

Dairying nose dives as many herds are sold number ranges from a couple dozen to about 800.

Fewer Herds, But More Cows

In fact, despite losing 14 herds in the past year, Randy and Margaret are testing more total cows now than they did a year ago. One of their members has nearly tripled his herd from 80 to 200, another has added 100 head—including cows purchased from other members who sold their herds—and a third has started a new operation which to date has more than quadrupled the previous herd number on that farm.

Erickson says he isn't convinced that size is the answer to profitable dairying, although there is some economy of scale where additional numbers can be added without a great deal of additional facility expense and the labor is available to handle them.

"The good managers have been able to make some money," he said, "even with smaller herds." But good management has frequently had a lot to do with individual farm situations and supplemental income from other sources rather than just from dairying itself.

Good Managers Leaving

As stories in this series will show, good managers are the ones getting out of the business now. The marginal producers were gone long ago.

Erickson noted that dairymen have expressed a lot of futility in their conversations with him. They haven't been able to do any building or update equipment for the past 10 to 15 years. Statewide Minnesota has been losing two or three dairy farms a day for the past several years.

Production Keyed Survival

Dairymen for the most part have been able to survive during that time period by herd management that has resulted in a dramatic increase in milk production per cow. It wasn't more than a few years ago that a cow producing 30,000 pounds of milk and 800 to 900 pounds of butterfat was a rarity. Now there are herds in the state which average 29,000 pounds of milk per cow and which average 1,000 pounds of butterfat per cow. While herd quality can be improved, there obviously are limits to what individual animals can be expected produce. Those limits are being reached.

Erickson said his reading indicates there is a major change in dairying every 30 years or so. The change in the 1990s is toward "milk factories" rather than family dairy farms, and vertical integration where one entity has control of a product from production to retail sales.

Milk is considered one of nature's most perfect foods. There is no substitute for it, and it is to be expected that someone must make a business of producing it. But more and more farmers are unwilling to spend their lives producing without profit.

And who can blame them?

"TO THE RETIREE WHO WANTS TO PROTECT YOUR MONEY, INCOME, AND ASSETS FROM BEING WIPED OUT!"

Retirees who have not set up proper strategies can have all of their net worth wiped out when someone in the family goes into a nursing home. The government can literally take your CD's, house, Social Security, pension checks, IRA's, investments...you name it! One of the biggest myths around is that Medicare will pay for nursing home expenses. This is completely WRONG! In fact, Medicare usually pays NOTHING towards the cost of staying in a long term facility! YOU are responsible for every dime of long term care expenses! Many people think that Medicaid will pick up the costs of being in a nursing home. That's true. But, they will only pay after you've lost everything you own! You have to be broke before they kick in a dime! The laws are constantly changing. These changes add to frustration when a spouse or loved one has or is about to enter a long term care facility. Don't let this happen to you. You need the information that will teach you how to avoid being a victim of our government's awful secret. You can learn what you need to know by getting a FREE new report called, "How To Protect Your Life's Savings From Being Taken by Medicaid!" You can get your copy by calling 1-800-688-5407, 24 hrs., for a FREE recorded message. Don't delay, call NOW before it's too late.

Build Better Landowner-Hunter Relationships

Over the years that we have traipsed woods and fields during the fall hunting seasons, we have greatly appreciated—and frequently marveled at—the unselfishness of rural landowners to grant permission for others, often strangers, to hunt on their property. Much more often than not, permission is given when politely asked.

Were we in the rural landowners' place, we might well be less inclined to be so cooperative. And we certainly can't blame farmers who have had unpleasant experiences with careless, thoughtless, belligerent or even hostile hunters from taking a dim view of all hunters.

To be sure, most of our experience in the past 15 years or so has been in the more open, less densely populated areas of western North Dakota and eastern Montana where the most difficult part of obtaining permission to hunt is in finding the landowner. An increasing problem in Minnesota and in expanding population areas of other states is the "urban sprawl" which brings city people into rural settings.

This is one of the reasons an effort is being made to shore up the deteriorating relationships between those who hunt and those who own the land.

Writing in The Farmer's VOICE, published by the Minnesota Farm Bureau, DNR information officer Tom Conroy notes that: "Minnesota farmers and hunters have had a long relationship, dating back to when most people farmed and most farmers hunted. It continues yet today, at a time when both hunters and farmers are members of small minorities.

"While the hunter-farmer relationship is not always cordial or pleasant, it at least is based on a degree of mutual understanding. Now, however, a new class of resident is moving to the country, further complicating matters.

"As urban sprawl continues to chew up both farmland and wildlife habitat, the new folks in their new homes don't always have much of an understanding of either farming or hunting," Conroy writes. "For some, normal animal smells are as obnoxious as hunters are threatening. The question, then, is how can hunters and landowners (of both the old and new variety) learn to better get along?"

At a hunting roundtable sponsored by the DNR, hunter-landowner relationships were seen as a top priority. Trespassing continues to be the number one complaint landowners have about hunters, although recent changes in Minnesota's trespass law seem to have made a positive difference, Conroy notes. At least, he says, this is how the DNR sees it. He isn't sure if farmers and other rural residents see it the same way.

"In order to learn what rural landowners are thinking," Conroy continues, "Farm Bureau and DNR are proposing the idea of post-hunting season 'get-togethers,' probably sometime in January. These get-togethers, sponsored by local sportsmen's clubs or local chapters of organizations such as Pheasants Forever or Minnesota Deer Hunters Association, might take the form of 'appreciation' lunches or simply meetings facilitated by DNR enforcement or wildlife staff.

"Although the format is still up in the air, the purpose would be to listen as both landowners and hunters discuss the recent hunting seasons. What were the problems? What worked? How might things be improved?"

Wayne Edgerton, DNR agriculture policy director, asks: "Who doesn't want to get along with others? Life is just more fun when you're getting along and not arguing and fighting. What we hope to do is simply bring people together this winter to talk about how we can get along better in the future."

There is nothing wrong with the idea of get-togethers and mutual discussion. When it comes to relationships, however, whether it is in the field or anywhere else, there is no substitute for common sense, courtesy and respect.

Hunters want to hunt on private property because that is where most of the game is. This fact puts the landowner in control, and the would-be hunter who doesn't recognize this basic fact has a lot of learning to do. Good farmers are careful how they cultivate their land for best results; good hunters should be careful how they cultivate their relationships with landowners if they want best results as well.

Graduation Standards—New Fad Or New Hope?

Are graduation Standards being promoted by the Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning a cause for hope in better educating the state's children or just a more comprehensive modern math of the 90's? Only time and commitment by the state's school districts will tell, but the concept certainly has merit.

"The most important thing for parents to know is that Graduation Standards will provide all children the opportunity to both learn and apply that learning to their futures," states Mike Tillmann, director of Graduation Standards for the department. Tillmann is a former instructor in the Thief River Falls school system and was quoted in a department publication called Connections.

"Many parents have been afraid that Graduation Standards would result in standardized education that would put a ceiling on learning," adds Beth Aune, a metro area coordinator for Minnesota Educational Effectiveness Program (MEEP). "They have been afraid that kids who learn quicker, our accelerated learners, would be stuck with watered-down educations.

"My message for parents is that Minnesota Graduation Standards are about high expectations and hard work. Graduation Standards are about making sure all kids can put their knowledge to practice; that they can take book learning and use it to solve real-world problems.

"Another way to explain Graduation Standards is that they are taking our education system from knowledge to know-how."

Critics of the standards sometimes tend to get hung up in the terminology, and it is true that some of the language is either vague or scholarly or seemingly simplistic. We believe it is important for school districts to implement the means to achieve the goals rather than to fret over the vernacular.

To that end, Graduation Standards Outreach Coordinator Sliv Carlson makes the salient point: ".....the rationale for Graduation Standards is simple: Basic Standards say all Minnesota children are going to have the basic skills and knowledge that they need to function as adults before they leave school. We have developed Basic Standard Tests to measure whether or not that is happening.

"High Standards that make up our Profile of Learning say that beyond the basics we must stretch every Minnesota child to that child's highest level of critical thinking and functioning."

Idealistic? Perhaps. But graduating students who can't read or understand basic mathematics as we have been doing is not a good alternative. Results cry out for the need for change. Standards could be part of the answer. They are worth an honest effort.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I came home from work the other night to find my garbage as well as my neighbor's garbage all over the end of our driveways. This has been happening for over a year now.

Last Saturday I had my garage door open 15 minutes and again I had to pick up garbage.

I love dogs. I had dogs all my life when I was growing up. But keep your dogs in your own yard! You know who you are.

This summer I had a golden colored Lab parked in front of my door for two hours. My kids didn't dare go outside. Again. Keep your dogs in your own yard.

I have two neighbors to the north of me with dogs. Those dogs have never been a problem. It's a shame other people with dogs don't show the same amount of respect.

I am a very easy person to get along with and feel I have put up with this long enough. I hope this gets fixed. I have picked up my last torn up bag of garbage.

Sincerely,
Darren Holter

CHRISTMAS COOKBOOK

Since Christmas will be here before we know it, I'm going to give you some Christmas cookie recipes today. These recipes are from my own worn cookbook and some of my favorites.

I tried this recipe a couple of years ago, using it for the traditional rolled cookies, and everyone loved them (I used real butter):

MANY WAY BUTTER COOKIES

1 cup butter, room temperature
1 1/2 cups powdered sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/4 teaspoon salt

Cream butter. Add sugar and beat. Add egg and vanilla and beat.

Mix dry ingredients in bowl and add to creamed mixture. Chill a little.

Roll out and cut into shapes to sugar or frost, or make into balls and press with sugared glass. Bake at 350 degrees for 6-8 minutes, depending on thickness.

You've probably made these cookies before, but it never hurts to repeat a good thing - again, use butter if possible:

CINNAMON STICKS

1 cup butter
5 tablespoons sugar
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter. Add sugar and then vanilla. Add flour and mix. Shape into rolls and cut into "logs" or roll in balls.

Bake on a greased sheet at 350 degrees for 7-10 minutes. Cool slightly and then roll in a mixture of 1/2 cup sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

This is a very good Christmas cookie, filled with fruit and nuts like a fruit cake, yet very moist and tender - use large pieces of nuts and fruits for an especially rich-looking cookie:

HOLIDAY FRUIT COOKIES

1 cup shortening
2 eggs
2 cups brown sugar
1/2 cup sour milk, buttermilk or water (I use buttermilk)
3 1/2 cups flour
2 cups dates
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups pecans
2 cups halved candied cherries or mixed fruit

Mix in order given. Chill one hour and then drop from teaspoon about 2 inches apart on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees.

I tried to make those fancy cinnamon-applesauce gingerbread men for my little tree this year, but they turned out terrible - I think I'd like to use this recipe and just make cookies for the tree instead of trying something I can't even eat:

MRS. JOHNSON'S "BROWN" COOKIES

1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 cup molasses
1 egg
1 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon ginger
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon cloves
Flour to make stiff dough

Mix in order as for other rolled cookies. Roll out quite thin and bake at 350 degrees. (Mrs. Johnson (my grandmother's next door neighbor) wasn't big on directions, but bake until lightly browned.

Have you made these before? Even people who don't like dates love them:

DATE BALLS

1/2 cup butter
1/2 pound dates, chopped
3/4 cup sugar

Cook until mushy and add

1 beaten egg
1 tablespoon milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon salt

Mix all ingredients and cook another 2 minutes.

2 cups crispy rice cereal
1/2 cup chopped nuts
Coconut for rolling

Cool date mixture and add cereal and nuts. Form into balls and then roll in coconut. Chill and store in tight container.

One of my daughters is just crazy for these - cut into small squares because they are very rich:

NUT GOODIE BARS

12 ounce package chocolate chips
12 ounce package butterscotch chips
1 cup peanut butter
8 ounces Spanish peanuts
6 ounces miniature marshmallows

Melt chips. Add peanut butter and nuts and then cool slightly and add marshmallows. When they are half melted, pour into greased 9x13 inch pan and refrigerate.

These are those fancy cookies that make the Christmas cookie tray so pretty, and they taste really good - very rich:

SWEDISH VANILLA CRESCENTS

1 cup butter (no substitute for this - use cold)
2 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons powdered sugar
Sugar for rolling

Cut butter into flour. Add vanilla and powdered sugar and knead smooth.

Chill if too soft, then shape into small balls and roll into crescent shapes. Bake at 350 degrees until golden and then cool 5 minutes. Roll in sugar.

And these are one of my kids' favorites - they are like the old Peanut Blossoms, but better:

PEANUT BUTTER CLOUDS

1 cup butter
1 cup peanut butter
1 cup sugar
1 cup powdered sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
Chocolate star candies (or kisses)

Mix in order given. Roll into balls, dip one side in sugar and place on greased sheet. Flatten slightly with finger. Bake at 350 until lightly browned on top.

Remove from oven and immediately place chocolate star in indentation on top. Carefully remove to wire rack and let chocolate harden before storing.

These are my favorites, using butter, of course:

THUMB PRINT COOKIES

2 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup butter
3/4 cup brown sugar
2 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
Coconut and/or chopped nuts for rolling
Candied cherries or jelly

Cream butter and brown sugar until light. Add egg yolks and vanilla and beat smooth. Mix in flour and salt and then chill dough.

Roll teaspoonfuls of dough into balls and immerse in slightly beaten egg white, then roll in coconut or nuts. Place on greased sheets and make thumb print in center.

Bake at 375 degrees for 5 minutes, then put one-half cherry or jelly into thumb print.

Return to oven and bake until browned and done.

103 from area schools listed in Who's Who

Six area schools will have 103 students listed in the annual edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1996-97 published by Educational Communications, Inc., of Lake Forest, IL.

The book will include 76 students from Lincoln high school and Our Saviour's Christian Academy in Thief River Falls, 11 from Goodridge high school, six from Marshall County Central high school in Newfolden and five each from Middle River and Pershing high school in Plummer.

Students are nominated by high school principals and guidance counselors, national youth groups, churches and educational organizations based upon students' academic achievement and involvement in extracurricular activities. Traditionally, 99 percent of Who's Who students have a grade point average of B or higher and 97 percent plan to attend college.

The 1996-97 edition is published in 18 regional volumes and features over 700,000 students or about five percent of the nation's 14 million high school students.

Who's Who students also compete for $200,000 in scholarship awards and participate in the publication's Annual Survey of High Achievers, an annual opinion poll of teen attitudes. The book is distributed to up to 15,000 high schools, colleges, universities and public libraries throughout the country.

learned in about 15 minutes, and after a few hours of play, you will believe you have mastered everything there is to know about the strategy of the game. Then, after becoming an inveterate player, you learn that although memory counts for little in the strategy of the game, there are many real possibilities for skillful play, and you begin to see its potential.

Modern six-card Cribbage is basically a two-handed game but can be played three-handed or four-handed – partnership style.

The object of the game is to be the first to reach game which is either 61 or 121 points – as agreed on before the start of the game – which sum total is made by combining play and meld.

Six cards are dealt to each player with each discarding two cards into a "crib" – an extra hand that is credited to the dealer's score upon completion of play. The deal alternates between players as does the advantage of the crib.

After the crib has been formed and laid aside, the nondealer cuts the remaining deck. The top card of the bottom section is laid face up and is know as the "starter."

Play then alternates back and forth between the players with each keeping his cards on his side of the table and announcing the pip value of his card added to the card played by his opponent continuing to a limit of 31. Once the limit has been reached, play begins again and continues until both the players have played all of the cards in their hands.

There are numerous scoring factors during the play of Cribbage including the sum total of 15, pairs, triplets, three to seven card runs, flushes and the limit of play.

After the play of the hand, the meld is scored. The melded cards always consist of five cards – the four cards in the player's hand plus the starter. Scoring is much the same as it is during play. The nondealer counts first, and if he fails to score enough points to win the game, the dealer counts and scores his hand and then the crib.

Using the Cribbage board, players advance first along the outside row of holes and then back along the inner row advancing the rear peg one hole for each point scored.

Confused? Don't be. The easiest way to learn the game is to play with an experienced player. You will soon find yourself agreeing with Ernie – the game is great fun.

Ernie loves the game, but doesn't get to play as often as he would like. He says he manages to talk Lois into a game "once or twice a month." He has taught some of his 15 grandchildren to play, and says, "Once in awhile they will take me on." With five great-grandchildren, Ernie can look forward to teaching his favorite game to fourth generation players.

He recommends that children learn to play Cribbage citing it as a great way to sharpen their skills in adding and figuring number combinations while having fun. Because of the availability of calculators, he doesn't think that children are taught the basics of arithmetic well enough.

A man of many hobbies, Ernest says that collecting Cribbage boards has brought him the most enjoyment.

While much of his collection lines the walls of the Swansons' utility room, Cribbage boards can be found throughout their home. One might have to look hard. The square table that Ernie made is covered with a cloth and is currently holding Lois' aquarium.

Ernie says he considers himself a "pretty sharp opponent." If you catch up with the busy man and want to see for yourself or learn the game, Ernie carries a Cribbage board in the trunk of his car – "for emergencies!"

[illegible]

Cribbage boards from the vast collection of Ernest Swanson line the walls of the utility room of the Swanson home in Highlanding township near Goodridge. Other gameboards can be found throughout the house. While many have been purchased as Ernie and his wife Lois have traveled throughout the 50 states, Ernie has made others in his woodworking shop.

Red River Basin coordinator is named by MPCA

Nolan Baratono has been hired as Red River Basin coordinator for the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency's Northwest Region office in Detroit Lakes. For the past year he has served as Northwest Region solid waste planner for the Minnesota Office of Environmental Assistance.

Prior to joining the OEA last winter, Baratono worked for three years as environmental services director for Koochiching county at International Falls and held the same position for Clearwater county in Bagley for four years.

"I believe there's an assumption that there are so many different interests in the Red River Basin that it would appear impossible to get people to agree on goals," he said. "But I think people in the Basin have more in common than they realize, so I am very excited to get to work on helping identify shared goals and find ways to overcome differences," he said.

Baratono's duties will include coordinating and advancing the MPCA Water Quality Division's existing Basin Planning and Management efforts throughout the Red River of the North Basin.

He will also be responsible for leading an ongoing process through which the agency will build alliances with communities to establish shared goals, identify specific water quality-based priorities for water resources in the Basin, and develop and implement geographically-targeted management strategies to address those goals and priorities.

The position will also tie into and complement efforts of the newly-formed Red River Basin Board, which aims to achieve many of the same goals as the MPCA's Basin planning process throughout the entire Basin, including North and South Dakota and Manitoba.

FMS students of the week are announced

Students of the week at Franklin middle school in Thief River Falls for November 24-28 include sixth graders Marit Dalen and Seth Hawkinson, seventh grader Dane Froiland and eighth graders Amy Hjelle, Marguerite Nelson and Jenny Lindquist.

Community blood drive in Grygla December 18

During the holiday season, 150 blood donors are needed every day to meet the needs of area patients. The community blood drive in Grygla is scheduled for Thursday, December 18 from 11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the Grygla Community Center. The drive is sponsored by the Grygla Lions and Lioness.

Blood donors are often in shorter supply this time of year for two reasons-people who normally might volunteer to give blood become busy with family activities, traveling and shopping; they forget to donate, and businesses are reluctant to sponsor blood drives at this time because their employees are busier than usual.

Donating blood is a safe and simple procedure that takes less than one hour. First, the donor is asked some medical history questions to help assure patient and donor safety. Next, the pulse, temperature, blood pressure and blood iron level is checked. The actual donation takes only about ten minutes. Finally, the donor is treated to refreshments.

Those who would like to donate blood are invited to contact Ralph Rundell at 294-6177, Ione Aune at 294-6323 or Hazel Aune at 459-3315. The Grygla Lions and Lioness invite you to donate the perfect gift-the gift of life-this holiday season.

Christmas open house Thurs. at Heritage Center

Christmas open house at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls will be conducted Thursday, December 11, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Information booths will be arranged by the Area Agency on Aging and Hospice of the Red River Valley, a silent auction will be held by the Northwest chapter of the Minnesota Senior Federation, entertainment provided and door prizes will be awarded each hour.

This female dalmatian and her three puppies were found wandering in the countryside near St. Hilaire. A witness observed a vehicle drop the dogs off and then leave. Officials are looking for any information about the owners. The pets are currently being held in the Thief River Falls Animal Pound where they can be claimed by the owner or adopted by individuals willing to care for the pets.

Treats for toys await children at Dairy Queen

To help brighten Christmas for less fortunate children and teach other youngsters the joy of sharing, the Dairy Queen store in Thief River Falls will make a special offer from now through Christmas Eve, December 24.

Children who donate a new or slightly used toy in good condition through the Dairy Queen to the community distribution program conducted by the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center will receive a hamburger or hotdog, French fries and a soft drink for 75 cents.

"We want to encourage children to become involved in sharing and giving," stated Odette Bendickson, owner of the DQ store. "Children may donate their own toys, but they should be in the type of condition that other youngsters would enjoy receiving."

The DQ is open every day from 11 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. until Christmas. Early donations are encouraged to be included in this year's toy distribution. Donations in the last several days before Christmas will be held until next year.

Thief River Falls girls awards banquet...

Haviland selected top swimmer

Most valuable honors went to eighth grader Chelsea Haviland, a second place finisher in the diving portion of the 1997 Class A state meet, at the annual Thief River Falls girls high school swimming banquet.

Haviland was also named the team's hardest worker.

Other special awards went to Naomi Olson, most improved; Andi Sorvig, Coaches Award; Andrea Olin, co-best personality; Cami Hendrickson, Rookie of the Year; Brittany Haviland, most versatile; Jennifer Heaton, most spirit and co-best personality.

Wendy Lindquist was presented with a 1997 Captain's Award, while Sorvig and Olin were selected as 1998 captains.

Special recognition also went to Chelsea Haviland and Olson, a diver, as state meet participants, and to Shon Thompson, who was named Section 8A Diving Coach of the Year.

Athletic letters went to Lindquist, the lone senior on the team, sophomores Julie Chrzanowski, Lindsay Ehrenstrom, Kristin Naplin, Jennifer Sorvig, Andrea Sorvig, Olin and Olson, freshmen Ashley Hammer and Danica Schroeder, Chelsea Haviland, a third-year letter winner as an eighth grader; and student manager Yvonne Asp.

Kopari, Prowlers beat Fosston

Nicole Kopari put together an impressive set of numbers Tuesday as Thief River Falls beat Fosston 49-37 in girls high school basketball.

Kopari scored 26 points, grabbed 18 rebounds, came up with seven steals and blocked three shots as the Prowlers evened their record at 1-1.

Thief River Falls led 13-9 at the end of the first quarter, maintained a 24-20 halftime edge and opened up a 35-24 third quarter spread.

Kopari and Katie Harbott, who also had seven steals, keyed an aggressive, full-court Thief River Falls defense that helped force 26 Fosston turnovers.

"We did a nice job defensively," reported Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "We put a lot of pressure on them, and we came up with some steals. But we still have to shoot better. We missed some easy shots."

The Prowlers had a 39 percent 21-for-54 shooting night. The host Greyhounds fared even poorer with a 30 percent 16-for-53 showing. Thief River Falls was 6-for-15 at the free throw line, where Fosston went 4-for-9. The Prowlers had a 36-31 rebound edge and turned the ball over 19 times.

Thief River Falls takes on Little Falls today (Saturday) in the Prowlers' 1997-98 home opener. The 3:30 p.m. contest will mark the Flyers' first-ever appearance in the Lincoln High School gym. The Prowlers host traditional rival Crookston Tuesday.

Thief River Falls JV girls fall to Fosston

Fosston doubled Thief River Falls 12-6 in the first quarter Tuesday en route to a 44-37 girls junior varsity high school basketball win.

Thief River Falls, 0-2, trailed 20-14 at halftime and faced a 35-26 third quarter deficit.

The Thief River Falls scoring was led by Rachel Mathson with 10 points, Kara Kiple 8 and Sara Jensen 8.

Warroad shuts out TRF 3-0

Inability to turn scoring chances into goals cost Thief River Falls Tuesday in a 3-0 Section 8A high school hockey loss at Warroad.

Jared Woidtke finished with a 25-save shutout in the Warroad nets. Thief River Falls goalie Mike Dowers had a strong 33-save effort, but didn't get the offensive support at the other end of the rink.

"We had chances to score," explained Thief River Falls head coach Scott Bergland. "We had seven uncontested chances within five feet of the net. And on some of those we didn't even hit the net. If we score on a couple of those, it puts a little gas in the tank and it changes the game. But we got frustrated, and basically ended up running out of gas at the end."

It was the second loss in as many starts for the Prowlers, who opened the season with a 4-3 overtime setback at the hands of Roseau. They are in the Twin Cities this weekend for a Friday night game against St. Paul Johnson and a Saturday afternoon contest against Blake.

The game was scoreless until Joe Uhwelling converted on a power play opportunity just 35 seconds into the second period.

Second and third Warroad goals came in the third period – Donnie DeMars scoring at 5:36 and Mitch Thortsen at 10:56.

It was a second straight solid showing in defeat for Dowers, a sophomore. "He did a nice job," noted Bergland. "He has to play well for us. He's one of the kids we count on. But the others have to step up and play well, too."

Warroad hockey JV hands TRF 6-2 loss

Warroad handed the Thief River Falls junior varsity high school hockey team its second straight loss Tuesday, 6-2.

Casey Enge and Aaron Lendobeja scored the Thief River Falls goals.

John Sylvester and Melissa Clark shared the Thief River Falls goaltending.

Special recognition during the 1997 Thief River Falls girls high school swimming banquet went to the Prowlers' state meet participants Chelsea Haviland (left) and Naomi Olson, along with Shon Thompson, who was named Section 8A Diving Coach of the Year.

MCC has impressive opener

Marshall County Central made an impressive 1997-98 debut Tuesday with a 78-41 boys high school basketball win over Warroad at Newfolden.

The Nordics led only 11-10 at the end of the first quarter, but broke away for a 31-13 halftime cushion and had a 54-24 third quarter advantage.

"It was a real good start – outstanding for a first outing," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We missed quite a few shots in the first quarter, but those shots started to fall for us in the second quarter. And our pressure took its toll. We've got pretty decent depth this year, and when we started subbing, we wore them down."

Playing time was distributed, but Jon Donarski still found time to score 18 points and grab 10 rebounds for the Nordics, while Garrett Magner netted 15 points, Greg Ueland 12 and Matt Nelson 10.

"We got good scoring balance," noted Ueland. "All 15 kids played, and eight played extensively."

Justin Merriman scored 12 points and Jon Doebler had 11 for Warroad.

Marshall County Central was 31-for-75 from the field (41 percent) and 10-for-21 at the free throw line. Warroad went 14-for-51 from the field (27 percent) and 9-for-20 at the line. The Nordics finished with a 47-27 rebound edge. The visitors topped the turnover charts 26-14.

Huskies start year with 63-54 victory

A trio of seniors combined for 52 points Tuesday to lead Goodridge past Fisher/Climax 63-54 in season-opening boys high school basketball.

Jim Scheef and Jared Eidelbes both scored 18 points and Ben Hanson had 16 to spark the Huskies' attack.

"We got good performances from the three seniors," noted Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson. "They stepped up and did a nice job."

The Huskies started with an 18-13 first quarter lead, held on to a 37-31 halftime edge, then opened up a 51-39 third quarter gap.

Fisher/Climax, down by as many as 14, stayed close behind the outside shooting of sophomore guard Jon Hrabik, who finished with 15 points. Adam Stratton added 13 and Geralyn Moen 10 for the visiting Knights.

Goodridge cashed in on 18 of 23 free throw opportunities, while Fisher/Climax went 7-for-11 at the line.

"We're real happy with the performance," said Mickelson. "It's always nice to win the first one."

The Huskies host Clearbrook-Gonvick Tuesday.

Mustangs fall 62-50 to Falcons in debut

Red Lake County Central challenged favored Fertile-Beltrami most of the way Tuesday before losing ground at the end of a 62-50 season-opening boys high school basketball loss to the Falcons.

Fertile-Beltrami led at the quarter stops by narrow 11-10, 25-24 and 42-37 margins. It was still a four-point game with 2 1/2 minutes to play before the visiting Mustangs, forced into a must-foul situation, put the winners at the free throw line down the stretch.

Despite the setback, Chris McLean liked what he saw in his debut as Red Lake County Central head coach. "I thought we came out and played really hard in the first half," he explained. "I was a little nervous at the start. I thought we might be a little intimidated. But they played well. I was really happy we were down just one at halftime."

Mark Lorenson scored 18 points and Nick Waldal 10 for the Mustangs, who managed to stay close while shooting only 33 percent from the field and 44 percent (8/19) at the free throw line.

Jason Franklin turned in a 19-point, 11-rebound game for the Falcons, with Tim Petry netting 16 points and Max Moore 10. Fertile-Beltrami shot 40 percent from the field and also had some trouble with a 57 percent night at the line (12/21).

"The free throws really hurt," acknowledge McLean, "and they forced us to make some shots we really should not have taken. They play good man-to-man defense."

Red Lake County Central, after another road game Friday against Win-E-Mac, will make its 1997-98 Plummer home court debut Tuesday vs. Red Lake Falls.

Big second half leads to Royals' win over NCTC

A close first half was turned into a second half rout Wednesday as UND-Lake Region beat Northland Community and Technical College 102-58 in men's basketball.

The host Pioneers trailed only 46-39 at halftime, but they went without a point the first five minutes of the second half and were out-scored 56-19 over the final 20 minutes.

It was the 1997-98 season opener for Northland, and the head coaching debut of the Pioneers' Ted Krize. UND-Lake Region is 5-4.

"I think we surprised them in the first half," said Krize. "We came out and played aggressive defense, and were patient on offense. But in the second half we were like a different team. We didn't have the same fire. We got beat on the boards, and we lost our patience."

Jon Hager, a sophomore from Grand Forks, ND, who played his freshman year at Northland, led the Royals with 16 points. Among the ten UND-Lake Region players in the scoring column was Shaun Verbout, a freshman from Grygla-Gatzke, with 8 points.

Northland's Dwight Goodwin, a sophomore transfer from Hibbing Community College, shared game-high scoring honors with Hager by netting 16 points.

"We have a young, inexperienced team," noted Krize, "and with a team like that, you will have ups and downs. In the second half we hit a valley, and they started to panic."

St. Cloud State, idle this weekend, tops the WCHA standings with an 8-1-1 league record. The Huskies, who return to action with a Dec. 12-13 series at the University of North Dakota, are 6-0 on the road.

Meanwhile, Kyle Sonden was in the starting line-up for the third straight game Wednesday as the University of Minnesota men's basketball team beat Eastern Michigan 65-58.

The 6-11 redshirt freshman from Thief River Falls took the center jump against Alabama, Campbell and Eastern Michigan, played four-five minutes, and then was in and out of the line-up the rest of the way in each game.

First State Bank celebrates 110 yrs

Fertile - On December 12, the First State Bank of Fertile celebrated its 110th anniversary.

According to Chairman of the Board David Hanson, the bank was started by his grandfather in 1897.

Hanson was president from 1947 until he passed the helm to his son Ron this past fall. The Fertile Journal

BusCall to let kids know when school bus will arrive

Bemidji - Bemidji has been selected as the test site for a new technological device that will notify parents by ringing their phones when the school bus is minutes away from the house. Ten Bemidji school buses are being outfitted with the BusCall advance notification system.

Bemidji was chosen over thousands of possible test sites because of its severe weather and progressiveness of the telephone company – Paul Bunyan Telephone.

When parents answer the phone, they will receive a message like: "School bus 44 will be arriving at your bus stop in five minutes and 21 seconds." This will help parents minimize their children's exposure to outside elements – the basic premise of the system. The Pioneer

From the city shop going west are four handmade wreaths with multi-color lights fastened to the center ring. Along the highway are four handmade wreaths with blue lights encircling the entire wreath.

Opinions can be expressed by calling the city clerk's office at 222-3608 between 8:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. New River Record

Lancaster cafe changes hands

Lancaster - Idha Jaszczak has gone from being a pert waitress at Whit's Cafe to being its new owner along with her husband Robert. The Jaszczaks officially took over December 1 and have changed the name to "Java Cafe & Steakhouse."

Besides a slang term for coffee, Java is the island that Idha comes from, an island that produces coffee beans. North Star News

Gonvick business makes lefse a versatile food

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Minnesotans know what to do with their lefse. They spread a little butter on it, roll it up and eat it. If they have a sweet tooth, they sprinkle it with sugar and maybe a bit of cinnamon. Californians on the other hand, might pile on some shaved corned beef, Swiss cheese, sauerkraut and 1000 Island dressing before zapping it in the microwave.

"Oufda!" you say! Think about it. Why can't lefse be as versatile as tortillas or crepes?

Versatility of the product and the growing interest in ethnic foods are two of the reasons the 38-year-old Winsor Products Company of Gonvick has experienced substantial growth in recent years. Lefse isn't just for Norwegians any more.

In 1954 Laura and George Herberg purchased the two-story brick Winsor school building located three miles north of Gonvick. A former first through eighth grade school, the building had been abandoned several years earlier. The Herbergs purchased it for $500 – its market value in 1954. Vandalized during the time it sat empty, the structure was in need of repair. The Herbergs made those needed repairs and came up with the idea to make lefse commercially.

Today, Ron Edevold is the president of the business his mother and step-father started. His son Mark works with him and does much of the marketing. "He's really good at it," his father says with obvious pride.

As finished lefse come out of the machine that flattens, cooks, cools and cuts the pieces, they are checked for quality before being cut and packaged. Winsor Products of Gonvick employs 16 area residents, full time during lefse season – August through December – and part time throughout the remainder of the year.

In addition to Mrs. Olson's Scandinavian Lefse, the company makes Mrs. Olson's Old World Potato Dumpling Mix and 10,000 Lakes Fish Breading & Beer Batter Mix. Winsors products are marketed across the United States through major warehouses, distributors and a mail order business.

Using products raised in the Red River Valley – potatoes, wheat flour, canola oil and milk – the company distributes Mrs. Olson Scandinavian Foods through all the major food warehouses in the Midwest, independent distributors and a mail-order business.

Food products made at the plant include Mrs. Olson's Potato Lefse, Mrs. Olson's Old World Potato Dumpling Mix and 10,000 Lakes Fish Breading & Beer Batter Mix.

While the late Laura Edevold Herberg's picture graces the box of the dumpling mix, the "Mrs. Olson" name was "borrowed" from a coffee commercial popular in the late 50's as the fledgling company sought brand recognition and carry-over.

Mrs. Herberg was concerned when it was decided that her picture would be used on the packaging – worried that all of her old boyfriends would start calling her. "At the time, she was 80 years old," Ron mused.

Sixteen employees work full-time during the "lefse season" – August through December – and part-time throughout the rest of the year.

Lefse is thought to be a seasonal food because, in the old days, potatoes were plentiful in the fall after the harvest. Woodstoves were fired up for the long lefse-making process. In the spring potatoes were used for planting again, and what was left was used on the table throughout the summer. "Besides," added Ron, "who would have wanted to fire up that wood stove in the hot summer for the length of time it took to make lefse?"

At Mrs. Olson's Lefse Bakery it takes no time at all to turn out a whole lot of lefse. The ingredients are combined in a huge mixer. The dough is turned onto a wheeled table and wheeled into another room where it is separated. Fed

Three face charges after snowmobile thefts in area

One individual is hospitalized in critical condition, one is in detention and one individual is in custody at Pennington County Law Enforcement Center following a snowmobile accident, and a rash of snowmobile thefts early Tuesday morning.

Troy Douglas Timchuk, 18, St. Hilaire, suffered head trauma and a broken shoulder following a snowmobile accident in a field north of Thief River Falls early Tuesday morning. According to Altru Hospital in Grand Forks, Timchuk was still listed in critical condition as of Friday morning.

Ray Kuznia, Pennington County sheriff's deputy, explained Wednesday that they first received a call from a residence in North township at 3:58 a.m. Tuesday. The residents reported scaring off an individual who was apparently trying to take their snowmobile.

Kuznia said city and county units started looking for individuals who fit the description of the person who attempted to take the snowmobile. After a short while they observed three snowmobilers east of town who were in a field. When the snowmobilers observed the squad car they turned off their lights. Kuznia said they attempted to elude officers by driving to other parts of the field each time the squad car got close. Eventually, Kuznia said, two of the snowmobilers rolled their snowmobiles in a field due to rough conditions. One of the snowmobilers fled on foot. The other snowmobiler, later identified as Timchuk, was taken to Northwest Medical Center and then transferred to Altru Hospital. The individual who fled on foot was tracked to Campus Courts behind Northland Community and Technical College where officers lost his tracks.

At about 7 a.m. officers received a call from a residence in North township. A man bleeding from his mouth had stopped at their residence. It was determined that this was the third suspect, a 17-year-old male from Thief River Falls. He was taken to Northwest Medical Center for treatment. He received stitches for a cut, and was then placed in detention.

The second snowmobiler who had eluded officers was arrested later in the day. He was identified as Ryan Starren, 19, Roseau.

Officers are still trying to unravel the case but believe a number of thefts, which began in St. Hilaire, are connected to the three individuals: an Arctic Cat 440Z, which was the snowmobile driven by Timchuk and totaled, an Arctic Cat Jag, which was driven by the 17-year-old, the attempted theft of a Puma snowmobile which had been rendered inoperable when too many ignition wires were cut, and the attempted theft of a 1991 EXT found in St. Hilaire park, which had been rendered inoperable when too many ignition wires were cut.

On the way to Thief River Falls they allegedly attempted to take a 1996 Arctic Cat 600ZRT. They rendered this snowmobile inoperable when they cut too many ignition wires. They then stopped at a residence in Rocksbury township and took a 1992 Arctic Cat EXT 550. They next attempted to take a snowmobile from the North township residence where the residents chased them off.

Charges of felony theft are being prepared against the three individuals.

Available off-farm work makes dairying optional

Couples quitting dairying find plenty of jobs off the farm available to provide income

(This is the second in a series of Northern Watch articles concerning the loss of dairy farmers and the outlook for dairying in northwest Minnesota.)

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

One day last spring Orrin Coltom of Strathcona happened to get his feed bill, electric bill and milk check in the mail on the same day. The milk check barely covered the feed and power without leaving anything for labor or other overhead. That was the day Orrin and his wife LaVon decided to quit milking cows.

Like other dairymen who tired of the 365-day grind of being tied down to the farm and sold their cows, the Coltoms didn't make their decision to sell their cattle on the price of milk alone. But the recognition that work off the farm was available and that even minimum wage could probably provide as much net income as milking cows made the decision easier.

For former dairymen like the Coltoms, the Walter Novak family of Brooks and Dennis and Debbie Klopp of Karlstad, availability of off-farm work which would provide a comparable or perhaps better income played a major role in their making a change to a different way of life. This article will summarize their stories.

From Factory To Farm

Although he had a farm background, Orrin Coltom turned to manufacturing for his primary income during his younger years, working for Arctic Enterprises in Thief River Falls from 1964 until 1974. He hedged his job in the plant a little in 1972 by purchasing some beef animals, and when the demise of Arctic Enterprises came he bought 11 dairy cows in 1975 and soon built the herd to 35 to 40 head.

In the early going the dairying wasn't too bad a business. Prices for milk were fair, and at least somewhat in line with the costs of other farming and living expenses. The barn was remodeled in 1980. But other costs rose steadily while milk prices fluctuated and in the last few months went down the gutter.

"A gallon of milk wasn't a gallon of milk any more," Orrin said. "The milk was being purchased by the processor on a component basis that I believe benefitted them more than it did me. We didn't have any control of how the testing was done or any way to determine if we were being paid right for what we sold."

Milk Test Results Varied

One day when asked to submit three samples of milk from his herd, Orrin took all three samples from the same cow. The three test results showed a wide variation in the components for which payment was made.

"When the market is set up to where the fox guards the chicken coop, you don't have much of a chance," he said. "With discounts for one thing or another there were times where we got under $10 a hundred (pounds of milk), even if the base price was over $11."

On May 12, after 22 years in the dairy business, Orrin hauled his remaining 23 milk cows to the sales barn at Winger and went out of the dairy business. He still has a few non-milking cattle on the farm.

LaVon has worked as an aide in the Middle River school for six years to supplement the dairy income for family living. Orrin went to work for a neighboring farmer as well as doing some grain farming of his own. From June through November he operated a tractor and mower for the Marshall County Highway Department. He expects to have the same job next summer.

"People who know we've sold the cows ask me if we miss them," Orrin said. "I ask them if they ever had a toothache that went away, and I tell them I miss the cows just about as much."

Novaks Wanted More Time

Until Walter Novak and his brother Raymond of Brooks sold their cattle in September, Walter can't remember a time there weren't at least some milk cows on the Novak farmstead.

"My dad had dairy cattle at Warren and his father had cows before him," Walter said. "Just about all the farms around had some milk cows back then. We had cattle when we moved to this farm in 1956 and built a new barn in 1972. My father milked cows until he retired in 1985 at the age of 75. I had been in partnership with him and when he retired I went into partnership with my brother."

Walter Married At 40

Dairying must have kept the Novak brothers close to the farm. Walter, now 52, didn't get around to getting married until he was 40. He and his wife Cindy have two children: son Christopher, age nine and daughter Carly, age seven. Raymond is still single but was finding he was virtually married to the dairy farm. He wanted to get out of the business and have some time of his own.

Walter and Cindy decided that if they both worked off the farm they actually could have more time to spend with their children and no less income to live on. Brooks, however, isn't the employment capital of Minnesota. Working out meant driving some distance. Cindy took a job at Sunset Court retirement center in Red Lake Falls. Walter went to work for American Crystal Sugar

BusCall to let kids know when school bus will arrive

Bemidji - Bemidji has been selected as the test site for a new technological device that will notify parents by ringing their phones when the school bus is minutes away from the house. Ten Bemidji school buses are being outfitted with the BusCall advance notification system.

Bemidji was chosen over thousands of possible test sites because of its severe weather and progressiveness of the telephone company – Paul Bunyan Telephone.

When parents answer the phone, they will receive a message like, "School bus 44 will be arriving at your bus stop in five minutes and 21 seconds." This will help parents minimize their children's exposure to outside elements – the basic premise of the system. The Pioneer

Middle River wants opinions on new decorations

Middle River - The city of Middle River is trying some new Christmas decorations this year and would like to know which ones residents like best.

From the city shop going west are four handmade wreaths with multi-color lights fastened to the center ring. Along the highway are four handmade wreaths with blue lights encircling the entire wreath.

Opinions can be expressed by calling the city clerk's office at 222-3608 between 8:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. New River Record

Lancaster cafe changes hands

Lancaster - Idha Jaszczak has gone from being a part waitress at Whit's Cafe to being its new owner along with her husband Robert. The Jaszczaks officially took over December 1 and have changed the name to "Java Cafe & Steakhouse."

Besides a slang term for coffee, Java is the island that Idha comes from, an island that produces coffee beans. North Star News

Over 600 attend celebration in Ada

FDA says herbal diet teas post health risks

Herbal drinks that are being marketed as "dieter's teas" could make you sick, according to the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), which is advising consumers to use the products very cautiously if at all. Bill Schafer, food safety expert with the University of Minnesota Extension Service, says the herbal teas may contain senna, aloe, buckthorn and other plant-derived laxatives.

When consumed in excessive amounts, those ingredients can cause diarrhea, vomiting, nausea, stomach cramps, chronic constipation, fainting or death. Diet teas are believed to be a contributing factor in the deaths of four young women nationwide, according to FDA statistics.

The agency is considering requiring manufacturers to print warning labels on the products listing possible side effects. Some manufacturers already voluntarily place such labels. If consumers insist on using the herbal teas, they should follow package directions carefully and seek medical attention if diarrhea, craps or bowel problems develop, according to the FDA. That agency also has asked consumers and health care providers to report directly to the FDA any adverse effects from these products.

Herbal diet teas are usually sold in health food stores or mail order catalogs. They may be marketed as "natural bowel cleansers" rather than as laxatives, but the FDA says that most consumers recognize the products' laxative properties. Some consumers think that increased bowel movements will prevent absorption of calories and result in weight loss.

Two years ago, however the FDA studied laxative-induced diarrhea and concluded that laxatives do not prevent calorie absorption. That is because laxatives work only on the lower end of the bowel, not the small intestine where calories are absorbed.

"Stay Back, Stay Alive" slogan alerts motorists to danger of snowplows

Motorists who adopt safe winter driving habits, take seriously the slogan to "Stay Back, Stay Alive" and give snow plow operators room to work, will make it easier for the Minnesota Department of Transportation to meet its goal of keeping traffic moving safely on state highways.

STAY BACK STAY ALIVE

Last winter's severe weather made it a constant battle to keep roads open and accidents involving motor vehicles and snow removal equipment on state highways increased by more than 30 percent from the previous winter. Of these accidents, 40 involved motorists driving into the rear of snow plow trucks. One person was killed and 13 people were injured.

Karen Bedeau, public affairs coordinator for the Mn/DOT Northwest District office in Bemidji, says the department is asking motorists to keep in mind the following.

- Use patience. Never drive into a snow cloud or whiteout. Snow clouds are caused by blowing light snow and will decrease visibility for an undetermined distance. They may also hide snow plows, stranded vehicles or other obstructions.
- Be certain which lane a snow plow and its plow blade are in before trying to pass. Plows can have a plow blade on either the right or left side of the truck.
- Assume that snow plow drivers do not see you. Keep a safe distance until road and visibility conditions permit safe passing.
- An average snow plow at 50,000 pounds weighs 15 to 20 times more than the average car. If you gamble with one, you'll lose every time.

To assist motorists this winter, Bedeau adds, Mn/DOT has installed additional toll-free phone lines for obtaining road condition information around the state. The toll-free number is 1-800-542-0220.

In the Northwest District motorists can also call the following numbers: 218-755-3816 (Bemidji), 218-281-6047 (Crookston) or 218-681-0938 (Thief River Falls). The TTY number from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. only is 1-800-657-3994 and the web site number on the Internet is www.dot.state.mn.us.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Regarding global warming, acid rain and other "catastrophes," Sir Thomas Moore writes: "Ecology is a science; environmentalism is socio-economic revolution."

The following statement by Dr. Edward C. Krug is excerpted from the Journal of Hydrology published by Elsevier Science Publishers B.V., in Amsterdam.

Advocacy disguised as "science" is a most powerful tool of persuasion because of the almost 'religious' belief which the public has about the objectivity of science (e.g. Schaeffer, 1976, p. 200). Such advocacy gains adherents in the technical arena through personal peace and affluence by providing a 'just cause' and providing enabling rewards of substantive funding, resources and prestige to support the cause.

However, such advocacy is self-destructive in that it ultimately discredits science and government. Researching something that is, in the public mind, a 'crisis' automatically earns ill will. After all, why wait to do research on something that we 'know' is an horrendous 'crisis?' And then research results do not turn out as 'expected.' So then we scientists are accused of watering down the research results to appease political pressures.

"Yes, there are political pressures. But they are pressures to support, not oppose, the basis of the programme's existence: in this case, that acid rain is an environmental catastrophe."

The same could be said for (1) the great apple scare involving Alar in 1990, (2) the asbestos catastrophe beginning in 1977 and (3) the current global warming apocalypse.

Sincerely,
Donald Barron
Thief River Falls

To The Editor:

I see you have been attempting to take on the big mean green machine. It is well entrenched and will continue to make you look like the bad guy. Keep up the fight.

If you want real bullets to fight "green propaganda," I would encourage you to contact a man who has worked in the federal government, has been featured on 60 Minutes and is referenced by Dixie Lee Ray in some of her writings. His name is Dr. Ed Krug and his research concerning this agenda is very thorough.

I teach music in the public school and know full well that the "green" dogma is promulgated profusely here. To attack environmentalism is just not nice. One is looked upon as some sort of fascist. Good luck.

Sincerely,
Kevin E. Ryan

Good People Don't Threaten To Kill People

"I'm not a bad person," said Latrell Sprewell in a recent press conference. The former National Basketball Association player with the Golden State Warriors said he didn't think one mistake should cost him his livelihood.

If that mistake had been a blown slam dunk or even being late for a plane to a game on the road, there might be some validity to his plea for reconsideration. But Sprewell's one mistake was actually two—first angrily grabbing his coach by the throat and dragging him across the floor, then returning from the locker room some minutes later to punch the coach and threaten to kill him.

Nice persons don't choke other people. Nice persons don't punch other people. Nice people don't threaten to kill other people.

Despite his protestations of being victimized and his self-assessment of not being bad, Latrell Sprewell has proved that he is incapable of controlling his emotions and that his inclination is to resort to violence as a means of expressing dissent. That is more than a personality flaw, it is an indication of emotional instability that could have fatal consequences.

While Sprewell's "one mistake" is among the most outrageous examples of loss of control, it is not an isolated trait in professional sports. In fact, the trend toward physical retaliation for some perceived wrong is proliferating and previous tolerance for what should be intolerable behavior may be blamed in part for Sprewell's attack on Coach P. J. Carlesimo.

Probably unknowingly, NBA player Charles Barkley put his finger on the problem during an interview earlier this week. He said that the league is "run by the stars." Latrell Sprewell may be one of the dimmer glimmers in star status, but it is apparent that the NBA (and the NHL, NFL, major league baseball and other upper level sports organizations) haven't been able previously to respond effectively enough to bad behavior to keep their players in line. When the inmates are allowed to run the asylum, who can expect order to prevail?

Sympathetic players lament that Sprewell's firing by the Warriors will deprive him of the $25 million remaining on his contract. We believe that to be a consequence which Sprewell created by his own actions. The NBA is positioned to regain some stature by standing firm in its one-year suspension and indicating there may be hope for its shedding of invertebrate status.

Team owners are also partly to blame for placing too high a value on players, awarding contracts which cause players to believe they are priced beyond discipline and conformance. In all professional sports, if players command multi-million dollar salaries they can be expected to act like spoiled children.

Not only is it appropriate for the firing and suspension to stand, Sprewell should face criminal penalties for his attack.

Priorities In Question

"Compare the salaries of professional athletes, the compensation of business and government leaders and the amounts foundations donate to good causes in Minnesota," writes Bill Cento, editor and publisher of A Letter From Minnesota. "Then make your own judgment about whether our priorities are where they should be."

A Letter From Minnesota is a monthly newsletter published in West St. Paul for folks who have moved away from Minnesota and miss the land of lakes, loons and lutefisk, the publisher says.

Cento suggests considering the generosity of Minnesota corporate foundations, including Dayton-Hudson, $28 million; General Mills, $23 million; 3M, $17.7 million; Norwest, $16 million, and The St. Paul Companies, $8.8 million.

"Consider what their generosity accomplishes for Minnesota and its citizens," he writes. "Then consider the money being thrown at sports figures—the latest being the $125 million to the Timberwolves' Kevin Garnett. Think for a moment of what that $125 million could have bought in terms of education alone."

Cento notes that Timberwolves owner Glen Taylor of Mankato gave $8 million to Mankato State University a few days after the Garnett signing and over the years has given many thousands of dollars in scholarships to MSU students. "Is there any question," he asks, "about which millions were better spent—the $125 million to Garnett or the $8 million to MSU?"

Cento then makes some other comparisons of annual salaries: Garnett, $20.8 million; Chuck Knoblauch, Twins, $6 million; Tom Gugliotta, Timberwolves, $5.4 million; Brad Johnson, Vikings, $3.8 million; Cris Carter, Vikings, $3.2 million; Randall McDaniel, Vikings, $3.1 million; John Dosberg, Northwest Airlines CEO, $6.7 million; Robert J. Ulrich, Dayton-Hudson, $5.2 million; Livio DeSimone, 3M, $4.1 million; U of M President Mark Yudof, $225,000; and Gov. Arne Carlson, $114,506.

"Strip it down to the simplest terms," Cento says. "Dosberg, Ulrich and DeSimone run Fortune 500 companies; Yudof heads a great university; Carlson is the state's chief executive; and—standing one inch less than seven feet tall—Kevin Garnett's job is to put a ball through a hoop that is 10 feet off the floor.

"Somebody call the state Department of Natural Resources and have the DNR put our sense of priorities on its list of endangered species—right next to the burrowing owl."

Friends of Old Mill hold fund raiser

"Friends of Old Mill State Park" are holding a fund-raiser for improvements to two ceiling fans and additional lights to the WPA picnic shelter that is also used as a warming house in the winter. Local support in 1934 started the park and local support can make improvements that will enhance the beautiful natural and cultural features present and increase the accessibility for all park visitors.

The fireplace insert donated by the Lonnie Anderson family and friends have for the shelter was placed in the fireplace opening by Allyn Rolley, John Hess, Kent Broten, and Robert Broten on December 4. Robert, Steve and Derwin Broten completed the installation on Saturday, December 6, with a chimney connector made by Robert and modifying the metal shroud to seal off the cold air that normally would come down into the fireplace. Ralph Rundell and Arnie Clark installed the ceiling fans and lights purchased by the Friends of Old Mill on December 4. The Minnesota Department of Natural Resource Field Service Unit will pay for the electrical labor to install the fans and lights donated by the Friends of Old Mill State Park.

For a minimum $25 donation to the Friends group individuals can pick out a natural scots pine Christmas tree. The trees were selected tree tops from a resource management thinning of the seedlings from the historic pine trees planted by the Larson family that homesteaded the park area in the late 1800s. These tree tops are naturally grown with no sprays for coloring, herbicides, or pesticides like some plantation grown Christmas trees on the market today.

Donations can be made at Old Mill State Park payable to the Friends of Old Mill State Park and the trees selected and pickup up at the park. The supply of trees is limited to 12 and will be on a first-come, first-served basis. Please call ahead to reserve a time to pick up a tree at 218-437-8174.

Membership in the Friends of Old Mill group is another way to help. Membership fees are $5 per calendar year.

Rydell Refuge Christmas bird count December 13

The Friends of the Rydell Refuge will be hosting an "unofficial" Christmas bird count on Saturday, December 13. There will be no participation fee — everyone is welcome to count during the 24 hour period of December 13. This is not within Audubon's official count period, so those that want to be part of an official Audubon count can use this as a warm up. There will also be no official count circle, so if you are in Fosston or Fertile or other locales you are welcome to count and report your results. Last year about a dozen counters tallied a total of 17 species and 501 birds from this area, down from 22 species and 522 birds in 1995.

You can count all or any part of the day. Count headquarters will be at the Rydell National Wildlife Refuge Visitors Center. The tally rally will begin at about 4:30 p.m.

Youths attend National Catholic Youth meeting

Seventeen young adults and five chaperones from Thief River Falls, Goodridge and Grygla attended the National Catholic Youth Conference November 20-23 in Kansas City, MO.

More than 18,000 people—nearly double the number attending the 1995 conference in Minneapolis—were in attendance at the biennial conference.

Highlight of the event, which had "Take It To Heart" as its theme, was the Heartland Village which provided an area for everyone attending to view displays such as the "Mind, Body and Soul Pavilion," a huge canvas mural created by the participants and 2,000 pounds of clay being molded to demonstrate each person's artistic expression.

The pavilion was also a place to help build a totem pole, create a cross 30 feet high from donated hats and mittens for the needy, and help build a house for Habitat for Humanity.

During the Village hours musical performers presented mini-concerts in the entertainment area. Sports and games such as basketball, soccer and mini-golf were available during the break-out sessions.

Saturday night a four-hour Christian rock concert was presented with seven headline performers, including Jacki Velasquez, winner of the 1997 Dove Award for new artist of the year.

Young people left the conference following prayer, meditation, workshops and liturgies with the understanding that they need to not just talk the talk but live their faith each day as well.

Attending from St. Bernard's Catholic Church in Thief River Falls were Jenny Sorvig, Rebecca Leach, Kate Stalboerger, Julie Chrzanowski, Stephanie Rasmussen, Sara Rasmussen, Christina Judd, Jenny Kimball, Carolyn Walrath, Kevin Odette, Margaret Rasmussen, David Odette, Paulette Odette and Marie Nowacki.

Representatives from St. Ann's Catholic Church of Goodridge were Andrea Cullen, Jessica Johnson, Tiara Kotrba, Anna Rustan, Joanna Johnson and Virginia Cullen.

Kristine Anderson and Melissa Verbout were members of St. Clement's Catholic Church in Grygla who attended the conference.

Attending a National Catholic Youth Conference November 20-23 at Kansas City, MO, were the youths and adults pictured above and representing St. Bernard's Catholic Church in Thief River Falls, St. Clement's Catholic Church in Grygla and St. Ann's Catholic Church in Goodridge.

Norwest Bank scholarship announced

As part of an ongoing commitment to education, students and communities, Norwest Bank in North Dakota and Northwestern Minnesota have announced the sixth year of the Norwest Community Scholarship Fund. This year, 69 $500 scholarships will be awarded to high school seniors in North Dakota and Northwestern Minnesota. The call for applications is open through January 15, 1998. Students will be chosen based on their academic records, leadership, and an essay. The essay asks students to outline what liberty, or freedom, is most important to them and why.

Roger Reuter, president in Thief River Falls, states that three scholarships will be awarded by the Thief River Falls office. They emphasized the scholarship program is another part of Northwest's ongoing efforts to make higher education a reality and to help students reach for their dreams. Norwest is also active in the student loan area with several loan options available for students or their parents.

"TO THE RETIREE WHO WANTS TO PROTECT YOUR MONEY, INCOME, AND ASSETS FROM BEING WIPED OUT!"

Retirees who have not set up proper strategies can have all of their net worth wiped out when someone in the family goes into a nursing home. The government can literally take your CD's, house, Social Security, pension checks, IRA's, investments... you name it! One of the biggest myths around is that Medicare will pay for nursing home expenses. This is completely WRONG! In fact, Medicare usually pays NOTHING towards the cost of staying in a long term facility! YOU are responsible for every dime of long term care expenses! Many people think that Medicaid will pick up the costs of being in a nursing home. That's true. But, they will only pay after you've lost everything you own! You have to be broke before they kick in a dime! The laws are constantly changing. These changes add to frustration when a spouse or loved one has or is about to enter a long term care facility. Don't let this happen to you. You need the information that will teach you how to avoid being a victim of our government's awful secret. You can learn what you need to know by getting a FREE new report called, "How To Protect Your Life's Savings From Being Taken by Medicaid!" You can get your copy by calling 1-800-688-5407, 24 hrs., for a FREE recorded message. Don't delay, call NOW before it's too late.

Marshall County Literacy Council donates books

Marshall County Literacy Council is seeking additional support for its program of promoting literacy to people of all ages in the county, including book donation

The council, a group of people which receives no government funding, has given over 400 books to participants on the Marshall County sharing tree, distributed bookmarks to all elementary students in Marshall county, distributed baby bags to newborns and their parents, and held a used book give-away at the Marshall County Fair.

CHRISTMAS COOKING BOOK

More of my favorite Christmas baking recipes this week - just a week and a half to go so we'd better get busy.

These cookies not only look very pretty on your cookie trays, they taste good too - I try to make them every year - It really isn't much work, since it is basically a refrigerator cookie:

NEAPOLITAN COOKIES

1 cup butter, softened
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/2 cups flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
Red (and green, if desired) food coloring
1/8 cup chopped red candied cherries, if desired
1/2 cup chopped pecans or walnuts
1 (1 ounce) square unsweetened chocolate, melted

Line bottom and sides of a 9x5 inch loaf pan with waxed paper.

Cream butter in large bowl. Gradually add sugar, beating light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Stir in vanilla.

Combine flour, baking powder and salt in another bowl. Add to creamed mixture, beating just until blended.

Divide dough into thirds. Add almond extract and red food coloring to one portion (can also add 1/8 cup finely chopped candied cherries, if desired). Spread mixture evenly in prepared pan.

Add pecans to second portion (and green food coloring, if desired) and spread over red dough in pan. Add melted chocolate to remaining portion and mix well. Spread over green layer in pan. Cover and refrigerate overnight.

Turn dough out of pan and remove waxed paper. Cut dough in half lengthwise and then cut each half crosswise into 1/8 inch slices. Place 1 inch apart on ungreased cookie sheets and bake at 350 degrees for 10-12 minutes or until lightly golden around edges. Remove to wire racks. (5 dozen cookies.)

I have to make these every year - it just wouldn't be Christmas without them:

RUSSIAN TEA CAKES
(or Mexican Wedding Cakes)

1 cup butter
1/2 cup sifted powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/4 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup finely chopped pecans (or walnuts)
Sifted powdered sugar

Cream butter in large bowl. Gradually add 1/2 cup powdered sugar, beating light and fluffy. Stir in vanilla.

Combine flour, salt and pecans and gradually add to creamed mixture, blending well. Chill until firm.

Shape dough into 1 inch balls. Place 2 inches apart on ungreased cookie sheet and bake at 400 degrees for 12-15 minutes, until edges are golden.

Roll in sifted powdered sugar while warm, cool on racks, and then roll again before storing. (4 dozen cookies.)

If you like to use your super shooter cookie press to make Christmas cookies, these would be great - I think they would also be good with nuts in the center of some too:

CHOCOLATE KISS COOKIES

1 1/4 cups butter, softened
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
3 1/4 cups flour
1 (14 ounce) package chocolate kiss candies

Cream butter. Gradually add sugar, beating until light and fluffy. Add eggs and vanilla, blending well. Stir in flour.

Press dough from cookie press 2 inches apart on ungreased sheet, using star or daisy-shaped cookie disk. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 minutes. Press chocolate kiss in center of each cookie and remove to rack. (6 dozen cookies.)

I haven't tried this recipe, but it sounds a lot like one of our favorites, Turtle Bars, only maybe better - I think I will make this recipe this year, but I'll have to double it because a 9 inch pan just isn't going to work for our family:

SANTA'S PARTY BARS

1 cup flour
1 cup packed brown sugar
1/2 cup flake coconut (I might leave out the coconut and double the oats)
1/2 cup quick-cooking oats
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup butter, softened
Topping:
2 eggs
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1 (6 ounce) package chocolate chips
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1/4 cup butter, melted

Grease a 9 inch square pan.

In large bowl, combine dry ingredients. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse meal. Press into bottom of pan.

To make topping, beat eggs in small bowl. Add remaining topping ingredients and pour over oatmeal layer. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until golden brown. Cool before cutting into bars.

These are another Christmas cookie no tray should be without - and they taste yummy too - if I could just make uniform crescent shapes:

CHOCOLATE DIPPED CREAM CRESCENTS

1 cup butter
1/2 cup powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup flour
1 cup cornstarch
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 cup chocolate chips, melted
Chopped walnuts, if desired

Cream butter. Add sugar gradually, then add vanilla.

Sift flour, cornstarch and salt together and blend into creamed mixture. Chill.

Shape teaspoonfuls of dough into crescents and place on cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for eight to 10 minutes or until done but not brown. Cool.

Dip one end in melted chocolate and then in chopped nuts, if desired. Cool on rack until chocolate is set before storing. If necessary, chill a minute until chocolate sets, but not too long or chocolate will turn white.

These cookie-bars are delicious and quick to make:

TOFFEE SQUARES

1 cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups flour
1 cup milk chocolate chips (I use name brand chocolate bars instead of chips for the best chocolate taste possible)
1 cup nuts, chopped

Cream butter and brown sugar. Add beaten egg yolk and vanilla, beating well. Blend in flour.

Spread thinly on 12x15 inch cookie sheet and bake 15-20 minutes at 350 degrees.

Remove from oven and spread with chalet chips and return to oven for 2-3 minutes, just until chocolate is melted. Sprinkle with nuts and cut into squares while warm.

I have this recipe marked in my cookbook, but I don't think I've ever made them - they sound so delicious, I may have to try them this year, if I have time:

CHERRY DELECTABLES

1 cup butter, softened
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese
2 cups flour
2 (16 ounce) jars plus 1 (8 ounce) jar maraschino cherries, undrained
1/4 cup brandy
Sifted powdered sugar

Cream butter and cream cheese in large mixing bowl. Gradually add flour, blending until stiff dough is formed. Chill 8 hours or overnight.

Drain cherries, reserving 1/4 cup liquid. Combine cherries, reserved liquid and brandy and chill 8 hours or overnight.

Drain cherries well, discarding liquid (unless you can find a good use for it - would be delicious in a quick bread or cake - if you think of something to do with it, let me know). Divide dough in half, keeping one portion chilled until ready to use.

Roll dough to 1/8 inch thickness on a surface sprinkled with powdered sugar. Cut into 3x1 inch strips. Place a cherry on each strip and roll up, pinching end of strip to seal. (Cherry will be exposed on each side of the strip.) Place seam side down on lightly greased cookie sheets.

Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes or until lightly golden.

Remove from oven and sprinkle with powdered sugar while warm. Cool on racks. (10 dozen cookies.)

Santa Claus Day in Red Lake Falls will be Thursday, December 18. Children can wait for the jolly old elf in front of Community Hall. He is expected to arrive at 6 p.m. in his sleigh pulled by a team of mules. He will listen to the wishes of area children and pose for photographs. For a fee, parents can have their children's pictures taken with Santa. Also, sleigh rides, reindeer games, and treats will be available. Santa's visit will be sponsored by the Red Lake Falls American Legion and the City of Red Lake Falls.

Center Drug and Thompson Hardware will sponsor Santa's Gift Shop in the upstairs of the Community Hall. As children wait for an opportunity to visit with Santa they can shop for family members in the shop where little elves will be on hand to help them make their selections. All items at Santa's Gift Shop will be $1, $2 or $3, and the shop will be open from 6 to 8 p.m.

Too busy to bake? Get it done the easy way between 3 and 8 p.m. at the Food Fair in the basement of Community Hall. Look for homemade candies and baked goods. There will also be some craft items for sale.

All businesses will participate in Customer Appreciation Day. Several businesses will have in-house drawings and offer coffee and cookies to their customers.

There's always something going on in Red Lake Falls, a picturesque, historic community nestled among the cliffs and bluffs that surround the Red Lake and Clearwater River.

Winter activities are enhanced by the scenic, shallow riverbed and bluffs that provide for cross-country skiing and snowmobiling. The old railroad bed that runs through the city now serves as a snowmobile trail in winter and hiking trail in summer.

In the spring and summer, visit Riverside, Sportmen's or Phil Cuno Parks. Relax among the trees and listen to the soothing sound of the rivers rushing by. In fall the outdoor experience is enhanced by the abundance of wildlife.

The residents of Red Lake Falls are particularly proud of its rich history. In 1798 Red Lake Falls was the site of a Northwest Fur Trading Post.

As oxcarts began crossing the area while transporting goods between St. Paul and Winnipeg, the "old crossing" of the Red River became a place of historical importance. In 1863, a peace treaty was signed between the Red Lake and Pembina bands of the Chippewa Indians and the U.S. Government. This treaty ceded to the United States nearly 11 million acres of some of the most fertile land in the world.

In 1876 Pierre Bottineau, the famous metis guide, brought the first settlers to the area – 119 families of French-Canadian descent. The towns of Red Lake Falls and Gentilly were founded. Settlers of European descent followed.

Today, the bustling town of approximately 1500 residents offers everything anyone could want in a community. Churches of various denominations dot the community. Particular pride is taken in its schools, including the new high school. Recreational opportunities abound in the parks, at the outdoor pool, skating rinks, ball diamonds, on the beautiful and challenging 9-hole golf course or tubing the river.

Red Lake Falls is proud of its cultural heritage and its many activities. Red Lake Falls – "A Visitors Dream, A Resident's Pride."

NCTC offers OSHA and boiler classes

Custom training and continuing education department at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls will offer two OSHA safety courses and classes in high and low pressure steam plant engineering in January. The OSHA classes will be in Grand Forks, ND.

The 33-hour class in low pressure and 36-hour class in high pressure steam engineering will be conducted on Thursdays, January 8-March 26, from 7 to 10 p.m. in room 131 at Northland in Thief River Falls.

The 33-hour course is designed to help the beginner in obtaining a license in Minnesota, as well as providing the necessary knowledge to help established engineers upgrade their present license. Course content includes valves, pumps, steam traps, flame safeguards, burners, safety valves, boiler room safety and hot water boilers.

Additional content for the high pressure course includes condensers, turbines, steam engines, hot water boilers and boiler room safety and prepares participants to take the state high pressure A and B boiler exam.

Ward Sinn will instruct and cost of the class is $125 plus supplies for the low pressure phase of the program and $158 plus supplies for the high pressure segment.

Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) courses on concrete and masonry safety and its new scaffold standard will be held in single-day sessions January 22 and 23, respectively, at the Ramada Inn of Grand Forks, ND.

The concrete and masonry safety training session from 8 a.m. to 12 noon January 22 covers the requirements that construction employers must comply with to protect their employees from accidents and injuries resulting from formwork removal, failure to brace masonry walls, failure to guard reinforcing steel and the inadvertent operation of equipment.

The course covers concrete forming operations, personal protective equipment, cast in place concrete, shoring, precast concrete and all aspects of masonry construction including the hazards of silica.

OSHA requires that all employees performing any of the work activities mentioned above receive training on the hazards involved. This course will help meet those training requirements.

Instructor is Arnold Kraft and cost of the class is $150 per person or $125 per person for companies sending two or more people. Pre-registration is required prior to January 13.

The six-hour scaffold "competent person" training will be from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, January 23. The course is designed to satisfy the training requirements of OSHA's new scaffold standard which went into effect Nov. 29, 1996.

The course covers such risks as falls, falling objects, electrical hazards and access to and from the scaffold. It also addresses proper scaffold use, material handling, maximum loads for scaffolds and other OSHA requirements. Before this new standard took effect, more than 9,500 workers were injured and 80 workers killed annually in scaffold mishaps.

Every employee who is involved in erecting, disassembling, moving, operating, repairing, inspecting or maintaining a scaffold is required to receive this type of training. Kraft will instruct and cost is $200 for individuals or $175 per person for two or more from one company. Pre-registration is required prior to January 14.

For more information on all programs or to pre-register contact Custom Training and Continuing Education at NCTC, phone 218-681-0793 or 1-800-959-6282.

Successful blood drive held in TRF

Blood drive coordinator, Rhonda Joppru, and Trinity Lutheran Church have sponsored another very successful blood drive in Thief River Falls. One hundred sixty-seven people volunteered to donate at the two-day drive, and 142 were able to give. Fourteen people gave blood for the first time.

According to Rhonda Ellefson, community relations representative for United Blood Services, "Communities like Thief River Falls make a regional blood program work. People volunteer to donate when there has been a well organized campaign, informing the public of the need for blood."

Those who assisted with the drive were: Eileen Horejsh, Lori Sorteberg, Gloria Lee, June Flattum, Tress Noel, Alverda Noel, Marlene Snetting, Deb Drees, Sylvia Sjoberg and the Confirmation Small Group. Refreshments were provided and served by the November Trinity Troops. Space to hold the drive was provided at Trinity Lutheran Church.

Our Family Circle...

It's one year ago today that you our beloved died
Only God knows the pain and many tears we have cried.

We searched for a cure
but there was no guarantee
We hoped for a miracle but that was not meant to be.

We made all the plans
we were in shock and numb
But as that subsided
by pain we were overcome.

Our family circle...
it has been broken
And we grieve for you and the words left unspoken.

We go through the motions day by day
But we still miss you in so many ways.

We live with our faith and God's sustaining grace
We hold you in our hearts until we again see your face.

Sadly missed

Slow start costly for RLCC girls in 59-50 loss to F-B

A slow start cost Red Lake County Central Tuesday in a 59-50 girls high school basketball loss at Fertile-Beltrami.

The Falcons jumped out to a 19-4 first quarter lead and never looked back. It was 33-16 at halftime and 44-30 after three quarters.

"It was a horrendous start," reported Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "They (Falcons) played real well and we played real poor in the first quarter. Everything they did worked. They buried every shot, and we couldn't buy a basket."

Tonya Erickson of Fertile-Beltrami and Katie O'Neill of Red Lake County Central shared game-high scoring honors with 14 points each.

The Mustangs were 19-for-58 from the field (33 percent) and 10-for-13 at the free throw line. The Falcons went 26-for-70 from the floor (37 percent) and 6-for-10 at the line. "They beat us down the court," noted Koivisto, looking at the Falcons' high number of shots. "We didn't play very good defense."

The Mustangs finished with a 36-31 rebound edge.

Huskies fall behind early, lose 64-47 to Bears on Tuesday

Goodridge spotted Clearbrook-Gonvick a 10-0 head start Tuesday and could not make up that deficit as the Huskies dropped a 64-47 boys high school basketball decision to the visiting Bears.

Clearbrook-Gonvick had quarter leads of 15-6, 32-22 and 41-31, then pulled away down the stretch when the Huskies gambled in a comeback effort.

"We got behind early and could never catch up," said Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson. "I thought we played them pretty even the rest of the game, but you can't dig yourself a hole like that against good teams."

Seth Oorman had a 20-point game for the Bears. Ben Hanson led the Huskies with 14 points. Jared Eidelbes scored 12 points before he fouled out, and sophomore Josh Gallagher came off the bench for a dozen points.

Goodridge shot 38 percent from the field (15-for-40) and went 15-for-22 at the free throw line. Clearbrook-Gonvick turned in a 50 percent 26-for-52 shooting night and had a 7-for-18 game at the line. The Bears out-rebounded the Huskies 31-26. Turnovers were even at 19-apiece.

The loss put the Huskies at 1-1.

Crookston shooter Amber Wagner (14) had this attempt blocked by Thief River Falls' Nicola Kopari (34) during Tuesday's girls high school basketball game in Thief River Falls. Watching the play are the Prowlers' Stephanie Leach (44) and Laura Follett (right), along with the Pirates' Terra Anderson (51). Crookston won the game 49-46.

Crookston girls defeat Prowlers 49-46...

TRF drops another close one

Jeff Loe has to be wondering already if it's going to be that kind of a season. The Thief River Falls girls high school basketball coach watched the Prowlers' record dip to 1-3 Tuesday with a 49-46 home court loss to Crookston. The three losses have come by a combined nine points.

"We had our chances, but we just couldn't get the lucky bounce," said Loe in a post-game comment that actually covered all three losses – a 50-46 season-opening defeat at the hands of Warren-Alvarado-Oslo, a 43-41 setback against Little Falls in the home opener, and Tuesday's contest. There have been no major breakdowns in any one area, he said, but rather "a lot of little things" that added together, spell defeat.

Early turnover trouble put Thief River Falls in a game-opening 8-1 hole against Crookston. The Prowlers spent the rest of the night playing catch up basketball. They came close, but never once had a lead. It was 12-9 at the end of the first quarter, 25-24 at halftime and 39-32 through three quarters.

Thief River Falls' best chances to go in front followed a Nicole Kopari 3-pointer that pulled the Prowlers with 44-43 with 4:04 remaining in the game. Back-to-back Crookston turnovers then provided the Prowlers with a lay-up and two free throws, but they came away with no points.

A lay-up by Amber Klinker kept Thief River Falls in the game at 48-46 with 41.7 seconds to play, and when the Prowlers gained possession after the Pirates missed the front end of a bonus free throw situation with 26 seconds on the clock, the Crookston lead was once again in danger.

However, the Prowlers turned it over while getting the ball down the court with 10.6 seconds remaining.

A quick foul on the ensuing inbounds play set up another 1-and-1 trip to the free throw line for the Pirates. Again they missed, and the Prowlers appeared to control the rebound with 9.4 seconds to go. But a lane violation put Jenny Boll back at the line, where she made one of two for a 49-46 edge.

Thief River Falls did pick up the rebound on the second attempt, and got off two shots at the end, but did not connect.

Boll, a 6-0 junior, led all scorers with 19 points. Tiffany Hasbrouck, a 5-10 sophomore, contributed 10 to the Crookston total. A balanced Thief River Falls offense included Kopari with 14 points, and 11 points each by Klinker and Laura Follett.

"Offensively I was pleased," said Loe. "You hold a team like Crookston to 49 points, you're doing a pretty good job. The kids worked hard. They played together as a team. It was our best team effort of the year."

Thief River Falls shot 44 percent from the field (18/41) and made 9 of 16 free throws. Crookston shot 39 percent from the floor (21/51) and went 7-for-10 at the line. The Pirates had a 26-23 rebound edge, including a 12-6 difference on the offensive boards. The Prowlers had more turnovers, 22-16.

Solberg lifts Ponies past TRF

Tyler Solberg scored 12 of his game-high 28 points in the third quarter Tuesday to help Warren-Alvarado-Oslo pull away to a 54-38 boys high school basketball win over visiting Thief River Falls.

The Ponies had a 13-8 first quarter lead and a 22-18 halftime edge. It was still close midway through the third quarter before Solberg's outburst created a 41-31 gap at the final break. The Prowlers lost more ground down the stretch in falling to 0-2.

"We played the middle two quarters, but we didn't play the first and fourth quarters," said Thief River Falls coach Bob Johnson, whose team faced a 13-2 deficit at the start. They also fell behind early in a 45-35 season-opening loss to Crookston. "We haven't played a full game yet. We're having a hard time getting started."

Joe Kvamme joined Solberg in double figures for the Ponies with 13 points. The Prowlers did not have a double figure scorer.

Thief River Falls had nearly as many turnovers (26) as field goal attempts (37). "That's not the balance that we have to have," acknowledged Johnson.

Free throws added to the point spread, too, with the Ponies hitting 20 of 33 at the line, where the Prowlers were 9-for-18.

Thief River Falls junior varsity, a 43-28 season-opening winner over Crookston, fell to 1-1 with a 57-30 Tuesday loss to Warren-Alvarado-Oslo.

Blacklance named top rookie driver

Terry Blacklance of Thief River Falls was recently named the 1997 Super Stock Rookie of the Year at the Grand Forks Speedway awards banquet.

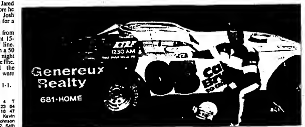
A familiar face and voice as the public address announcer at many Lincoln High School and Northland Community and Technical College sporting events, Blacklance has raced for several years, but competed in the Super Stock class for the first time in 1997.

Blacklance, who considers the Grand Forks Speedway to be his home track on Friday nights, has also raced on a regular basis Saturdays at Greenbush Race Park and Sundays in Bemidji or Glyndon.

"Racing takes a lot of time, effort, and most importantly money to compete from week to week," noted Blacklance. That creates a heavy reliance on local advertisers for their support. This year's list of sponsors were Brodin Sheet Metal, Genereux Realty, Array of Gold, Kezar Music, Northland Community and Technical College, KTRF Radio, and his own business, Blacklance Towing.

Racing is the fastest growing spectator sport in the world, pointed out Blacklance, who uses that bit of information when soliciting advertisers. He is currently seeking family-driven sponsors for the 1998 season.

Blacklance, who also promotes and coordinates his own car show in the spring in Thief River Falls, says his 1998 goal is to place in the top 58 in the national Wissota point standings and feels that with his crew, financial backing from sponsors and another year of experience under his belt, that is a realistic goal.



Terry Blacklance of Thief River Falls was named the 1997 Super Stock Rookie of the Year at the Grand Forks Speedway awards banquet. Blacklance, who is already making plans for the 1998 season, also raced at Greenbush, Bemidji and Glyndon.

Second half surge is key to Northland win

It took a while for the Northland Community and Technical College women to get their legs back after making a long drive to Minot State University-Bottineau for a Tuesday night basketball game. In fact, it took 20 minutes. The Pioneers had trouble getting started, trailing 26-24 at halftime, but they blew the Lumberjacks off the court in the second half to win going away, 64-44.

"In the first half, we were sluggish," admitted Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "We were slow. We were not really into the game."

It changed in the second half. "They settled down at halftime," noted Nikunen. "We quit turning the ball over, and we picked up the pace. We're deeper than they are, and we wore them down. The second half we showed what we're capable of doing."

Five Pioneers hit double figures, with Annie Pomplun's 14 points leading the balanced attack. That was a figure matched by the Lumberjacks' Karla Christenson, but she was their only double figure scorer.

Northland was 12-for-15 at the free throw line. Bottineau went 6-for-7.

The win evened the Pioneers' record at 1-1.

Mustangs fall 91-75 against rival Eagles

Red Lake Falls out-scored Red Lake County Central 91-75 Tuesday in a renewal of a boys high school basketball rivalry at Plummer.

The numbers were interesting. Both sides had two players with 20 or more points; each team had a 31-point quarter, and together, they shot 66 free throws.

Red Lake County Central had a 15-14 edge at first quarter stop, but Red Lake Falls' 31-point outburst over the next eight minutes provided the Eagles with a 46-28 halftime lead. They opened up a 71-44 third quarter spread, and easily withstood the Mustangs' final-quarter kick.

"They were getting baskets against our man-to-man defense, so we switched to a zone, and they shot over the zone," explained Red Lake County Central coach Chris McLean. "We had to play catch up most of the game. We came back in the fourth quarter, but we waited too long to run our offense."

Kevin Philion scored 24 points and Danny Gagner had 20 for the Eagles, who also got a 17-point game out of Tony Casavan and 14 from Josiah Hoefer. Mark Lorenson scored 23 points and Danny Payment 20 for the Mustangs, with Nick Waldal chipping in 10.

The Eagles were 27-for-35 at the free throw line, where the Mustangs went 21-for-31.

It was the third loss in as many starts for the Mustangs.

NCTC men fall flat in setback at Bottineau

New Northland Community and Technical College men's basketball coach Ted Krize took his team on the road for the first time Tuesday as the Pioneers headed to North Dakota to face Minot State University-Bottineau. He didn't care for the results as the Pioneers turned in a flat performance that led to an 85-65 loss to the Lumberjacks.

"I was disappointed we didn't win the game," said Krize. "It wasn't a matter of them having a better team. They just played better than we did."

Bottineau led 45-31 at halftime.

"We didn't play with much intensity," said Krize. "I know it was a long trip, but they have to realize they have to match or surpass the other team's intensity level when you go on the road."

Game-high scoring honors went to the Pioneers' Chaka Ali with 23 points. Teammate Dwight Goodwin netted 18. Mark Thompson led Bottineau with 19 points.

Northland, 1-2, was 6-for-14 at the free throw line, where Bottineau was 17-for-30.

MCC depth produces 66-52 win vs. EGFSH

As the fouls mounted, Marshall County Central's depth became more and more of a factor Tuesday as the Nordics beat East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 66-52 in boys high school basketball.

The 3-0 Nordics had quarter leads of 14-13, 33-25 and 51-34.

"Our depth was definitely the difference in the game," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We played eight against their six, and as the game went along, that became more and more of a factor."

Depth allowed the Nordics to weather a high foul figure that sent the two teams to the free throw line 64 times.

"Defensively we played well," noted Ueland. "We committed too many fouls, but we were playing aggressive defense, and those things happen."

David Wilcox scored 17 points and Matt Nelson had 10 for the Nordics. The host Eagles were led by Erick Neil with 16 points, Ben Horken with 12 and Paul Stinar 11.

From the field, Marshall County Central was 20-for-55 (36 percent) and Sacred Heart was 17-for-44 (39 percent). In the parade to the free throw line, the Nordics went 21-for-30 and the Eagles finished 17-for-34. The winners, with Jon Donarski grabbing 11, had a 31-29 rebound edge, but they also topped the turnover charts, 15-10.

Gators win quarterfinal game

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River grabbed an early lead, then played defense Thursday in a 44-36 win over Fertile-Beltrami at the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo Invitational girls high school basketball tournament.

In other quarterfinals games, Kittson Central beat East Grand Forks 61-47, East Grand Forks Sacred Heart surprised Warren-Alvarado-Oslo 48-44 and Fosston shut down Fisher/Climax 37-20.

That set up Friday semifinals matching the Gators against the Wolfpack and the Eagles vs. the Greyhounds in the championship round. Finals are scheduled today (Saturday).

The Gators led the Falcons 12-2 at the end of the first quarter, maintained a 22-13 spread at halftime and earned a 40-26 cushion into the fourth quarter.

Stefanie Sparby scored 15 points, Melissa Smith 13 and Tiffany Hagen 12 for the Gators. Roni Wenschlag was the Falcons' only double figure scorer, finishing with 10 points.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer praised the Gators' defensive efforts, especially that of Tina Sikorski, who spent most of the night guarding Tanya Erickson. "She (Erickson) is their best player, and Tina held her to one field goal – in the fourth quarter," he pointed out. "Tina had a great game, and our team defense was good, too."

The quick start by the Gators' offense was the key to the outcome, according to Neibauer. "We got up on them right away, and forced them to play catch up all night," he explained. "Our floor game was good."

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 13-for-38 from the field (34 percent) and 17-for-26 at the free throw line, where Fertile-Beltrami went 8-for-10.

NCTC coaching clinic set

Plans are in place for the 15th annual Northland Community and Technical College Mid-Winter Football Coaches Clinic, scheduled to be held Saturday, Jan. 24, in Thief River Falls.

"We feel this is a great service to area high school football coaches and fans who want to learn more about the game of football," said Northland Athletic Director Rick Nelson. "Each year the clinic gets a little bigger. Last year we brought 100 coaches to our community."

Northland is assisted by the Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club, Eagles Club, Pepsi-Cola Bottling and the merchants of downtown Thief River Falls in hosting the event. "The community involvement and corporate sponsorship helps us in presenting a quality program," pointed out Nelson.

Headline clinic guest speakers this year are Dwight Lundeen, head football coach at Becker High School and Vice President of the Minnesota State High School League Board of Directors, Ron Johnson of Clearbrook-Gonvick High School, and John Ott from Robbinsdale Armstrong High School. Several other speakers will be named to the program at a later date.

Cost of the clinic is $15 per coach. A school's entire coaching staff may attend for a flat rate of $50.

For additional information and registration materials, contact Nelson or newly-named Northland head football coach Dan Willoughby at 218-681-0725 or 1-800-959-6282.

Soybean growers urged to attend December workshops

Area soybean growers and others interested in growing soybeans in 1998 are encouraged to attend one of a series of Soybean Management workshops December 15, 17, or 18.

The workshops are sponsored by the University of Minnesota Extension Service, Northern Lites Cluster, and are being conducted throughout the six-county area. A local workshop is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. December 15 at the Northwest Regional Library in Thief River Falls.

Thus, Extension Educators Curtis Nyegaard, Hans Kandel and Ray Thompson, from Kittson, Red Lake and Marshall counties will present the latest University of Minnesota recommendations to producers.

Topics will range from soybean varieties, weed management, disease control, row spacing, fertilization, iron chlorosis, harvesting and storage along with other management tips. Experienced and new growers are encouraged to attend any of the six locations. Other locations and dates are Red Lake Falls, city auditorium, 1:30 p.m. on December 17; Warren, First American Bank, 9:30 a.m., December 17; Hallock courthouse, 1:30 p.m.; and December 18 at Greenbush Community Center at 9:30 a.m.; and Roosevelt, Mount Carmel Church at 1:30 p.m

into a machine, the lefse rolls in a continuous sheet over a heated griddle that cooks both sides simultaneously. Cooled and cut into ten-inch squares as it comes out of the machine, the lefse pieces land in the hands of the quality control people who check each piece. Any piece that doesn't look just right – a small cut, bubble, etc. – is pulled and packaged as "irregular."

Other workers stay busy cutting the lefse into five by ten-inch rectangles or triangles – it's packaged both ways – packaging it, heat-sealing the packages and placing them in cases. Jobs rotate every half-hour. The entire process is continuous – an amazing sight. Even more amazing is the fact that the lefse bakery turns out 4,000 pounds of lefse a day. Oofda!!

While no two Norwegians would make lefse the same way, Winsor Products uses an old family recipe, with the slight variation of using canola oil instead of cream or animal fat. "Some people use sugar. We don't," says Ron.

The public's desire for natural food products has spurred the company to purchase flour and potato flakes that are free of chemicals and preservatives.

The end result is a delicious product that is low in calories, fat, sodium with no cholesterol.

The original machinery to make lefse was developed by George Herberg, and the Edevolds continue to build their own equipment.

In the late '50's, northern Minnesota was the company's first market. Their first break came in 1960 when they got into the Twin Cities. Nearly 40 years later Winsor Products is doing well in New England, the western states, Canada and Alaska.

Ron didn't think he would ever have to explain what lefse was to anyone in the Midwest but once recieved a letter from a Wisconsin woman who said she had been walking past Mrs. Olson's lefse packages for two years thinking they contained cheese.

It was then that Winsor defined lefse: "A soft, very thin unleavened flatbread or crepe, made with potato, wheat flour, milk and shortening. The dough is rolled thin and baked on a hot dry griddle. Lefse is a real Scandinavian delight – so versatile. Not to be confused with lutefisk."

Along with its own products, Winsor markets a number of others which include Minnesota Maple Syrup, produced just a mile from the plant and Lost River Farms Wild Rice, raised just five miles from Mrs. Olson's Lefse Bakery. Mrs. Olson's "Special Treat" Scandinavian Blend Coffee is another item as is Lapplandsk Imported Wild Berry Preserves.

The various products are sold separately, in combo packs or in "Authentic Minnesota" gift packs.

Mail order and the bookkeeping for Gonvick's only factory is handled at an office on Main Street. Mail order information can be obtained by writing Windor Product Company, P.O. Box 146, Gonvick, MN 56644 or calling 1-800-487-5218.

Ron Edevold is 100 percent Norwegian, "or so I've been told," he quips. He's been eating lefse since his earliest days, and he remembers standing waiting for a piece as his grandmother in Clearbrook made lefse on top of an old wood range. He remembers also how she stored the lefse between white towels in her pantry and the wonderful smells in that pantry. They probably were similar to the mouth-watering smells that permeate the air in his lefse bakery.

The lefse king is good-humored and reported to be "the best boss" by his bookkeeper. There probably isn't a lefse joke that he hasn't heard. One story tells of how the Norwegians stole all of Ireland's potatoes to make lefse causing the great Irish potato famine. In retaliation, the Irish poisoned the Viking's codfish supply with lye creating lutefisk. Oofda!!

Joking aside, Ron and Mark Edevold – Winsor Products Company – have a good thing going. And while Minnesota's Scandinavians will probably be satisfied with lefse eaten in the traditional way, Winsor will market its versatility in its quest to make lefse a household word throughout the rest of the country.

Packaging lefse is one of several tasks in Mrs. Olson's Lefse Bakery. Jobs rotate every half hour throughout the day. Mrs. Olson's Lefse is made from Red River Valley products – potatoes, wheat flour, milk and canola oil using a old family recipe modified only to eliminate animal fat.

Company in Crookston, a 60-mile round-trip commute, first working on the pilers in October and then with pulp in the main plant since mid November.

Cattle Sold To Fosston Area

One Fosston dairyman purchased their 33 milk cows and another bought 13 springing heifers. The Novaks held back their calves to sell as springers later.

With the beet plant job, Walter will have about three months in the summer to do some grain farming with Raymond on their 800 acres. He isn't ready to leave the farm completely. But as for the cow they held back to provide milk for the cats, he is perfectly willing to let Raymond have the pleasure of milking.

Klopps Still Work Together

Dairy farming has almost always been a family operation, and that means every family member has a share in the work. For Dennis and Debbie Klopp of rural Karlstad, working together as a couple has continued even after the dairying has ended.

In 1980, when their sons Steven and Philip were in their pre- or early teens, the Klopps purchased 20 Holstein heifers and arranged their barn to handle a dairy operation. They built the herd numbers year by year to around 50. Then, in a major project in 1995, they increased facilities and expanded the herd to more than 100 head milking. If size was the key to profitable dairying, they were going to unlock the door.

"When we started in 1980 milk prices were around $13 a hundredweight," Dennis said. "There was some money in milking cows. This year the price was down to $11 and the cost of everything else has gone up. We were trying to support two families from the herd, were working as hard as we could without any time off, and we weren't able to make it pay."

Twin Daughters Worked Hard

While the herd was at 100 cows, the Klopps had twin daughters Rachel and Renae to help with the chores. As seniors at Heritage Christian School in Karlstad, the girls worked early in the morning and after school to help with the dairying.

In 1996 the twins went off to college and the Klopps cut back to 50 cows, taking many of the cows they removed from the herd to auction at Albany where they brought an average of about $500 each.

Rachel Was Dairy Princess

Rachel was crowned Region I Dairy Princess at Northwest Dairy Day in Thief River Falls in June of 1996 and represented northwest Minnesota dairy farmers until June of 1997. She always has been, and says she always will be, a supporter and promoter of the dairy business.

With 50 cows to milk and their twin daughters unavailable during the school year to help with the milking, Dennis and Debbie had too much to handle alone. Winters of 1995-96 and 1996-97 were tough ones, weatherwise and otherwise. When milk prices dropped to around $11 this year and held there, it became difficult to keep up with the feed bill and little incentive remained to try and keep the operation going.

"We really enjoyed dairy farming from 1980 until this past fall," Dennis said. "We liked the cows and the girls honestly liked working with them, but they couldn't be here and still go to college. Debbie and I decided we would see if we could both get work off the farm, and if we could, the cows would go."

Checked With Job Service

On Thursday, June 19, they came to Thief River Falls to check with Minnesota Job Service to see what might be available. The next day they went to Motor Coach Industries in Pembina, ND, to interview. On the following Monday morning, June 23, they started working the same shift together at "the bus plant."

The twins were home for the summer, and that allowed some time to advertise the herd for sale through the Minnesota Holstein Association. Most of the milk cows went to individual herds in this area, including a majority to the expanding Walter Bros. herd at Plummer. About 35 bred heifers remain on the farm for sale early in 1998 and there are calves to raise to milking age over the next couple of years. The Klopps now have about 30 beef cows and plan to expand in that area.

Hard To Be Optimistic

"I've always tried to be an optimist," Dennis Klopp said. "Dairy prices always seemed to go up and down quite a bit over the years, but usually it turned out to be more down than up and it was hard to stay optimistic.

"We had a good herd that averaged up to 21,000 pounds on DHIA test, we did custom mowing and found a few other things to generate other income, and we spent about $100,000 in the herd expansion and facilities upgrading in 1995. In looking back, maybe we made a mistake in not getting a long enough time commitment from the bank, but we always tried to do things right.

No Promise For The Future

"After sorting it all out, we couldn't see that it was feasible to try and keep the dairy going. I think dairying had been good for us as a family, but it wasn't that way any more and we couldn't see any promise for the future."

So instead of rising in the predawn and walking to the barn as they did for many years, Dennis and Debbie ride 58 miles each way with another commuter from Newfolden and work the late shift in Pembina, arriving home around midnight. They pay the driver for the ride.

"We like the late shift," Debbie says. "It gives us most of the day to get work done around the farm."

Sleep? That's another commodity dairymen traditionally have seemed to be able to do without.

Richard Dummer herd leads DHIA average

Richard Dummer dairy herd of 90 cows had the high average production in the Red Lake-Pennington Dairy Herd Improvement Association for the month of October, according to Randy and Margaret Rasmussen, supervisors.

Eighty-eight percent of the Dummer herd was in milk during October and averaged 68 pounds of milk, two pounds of butterfat and 2.1 pounds of protein per day.

In second place was the Mylo Carlson herd of 67 cows which had 87 percent in milk and averaged 66 pounds of milk, 2.3 pounds of butterfat and two pounds of protein.

(Editor's Note: Both the Dummer and Carlson herds were recently sold as the owners decided to quit dairying.)

Todd and Jay Johnston had the third place herd of 61 cows, 82 percent of which were in milk, and averaged 63 pounds of milk, 2.1 pounds of butterfat and two pounds of protein.

Other herds in the top 15 for the month of October included the following with number of cows in the herd, percentage in milk, average pounds of milk, butterfat and protein listed respectively:

Wayne Vettleson (herd milked three times a day), 144, 83%, 60, 2.4 and 2.0; Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station (small cows), 57, 84%, 59, 2.2 and 1.9; Excel Dairy (herd milked three times a day), 671, 92%, 57, 2.1 and 1.8; and Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station (large cows), 54, 87%, 56, 2.1 and 1.8;

Also Walter Bros. Farm, 198, 87%; 55, 2.1 and 1.7; Tom Willett, 56, 82%, 55, 2.1 and 1.7; Beyer Farms, 70, 84%, 54, 2.0 and 1.8, Wayne Nelson, 40, 90%, 54, 1.9 and 1.8; Randy and Jo Gast, 74, 89%, 52, 2.1 and 1.7; Kevin and Beth Rokke, 35, 91%, 52, 1.8 and 1.7; Greg Zak, 67, 88%, 52, 1.8 and 1.7; and Harold Derosier & Sons, 40, 85%, 48, 1.7 and 1.5.

Because averages are computed using all cows in the herd, the number of dry cows will adversely affect the overall herd average.

Approximately 100 students are enrolled in the program, selected according to academic achievement and grade point averages of 3.5 or better.

"The program is intended to create an intellectual community for students who have already proven themselves to be top-notch students," said Michael Hughey, honors director and professor of sociology.

In addition, they participate in advanced seminars studying areas of great ideas in social and political thought, trends in American society, scientific revolutions, and masterpieces of literature.

If no fair in Fosston, Fertile may get $10,000

Fosston - If Fosston does not choose to pursue the East Polk County Fair, the Polk County commissioners may redirect the $10,000 allotted to Fosston to the Polk County Fair in Fertile.

Polk County appropriates an annual total of $25,000. That amount is divided between Fosston and Fertile, which receives $15,000.

Bob Nelson, president of the Polk County Fair Association, told the Polk County commissioners, "We would like to see a fair in Fosston. But it may not be a reality." The Thirteen Towns

RLC sheriff elected president of MN Sheriff's Assn.

Red Lake Falls - Red Lake County Sheriff Al Morken was elected president of the Minnesota Sheriff's Association recently.

A member of the association since becoming Red Lake County Sheriff in 1987, Morken has moved through the ranks of officers including sergeant of arms, second vice president, first vice president and now president.

In his new position, Morken says he will work with legislative issues. Being a state president from a rural area will give him more information on available programs. The Gazette

Census of agriculture underway this week

Officially beginning this week with the mailing of report forms to more than two million farms and ranches across the United States, the 1997 Census of Agriculture will be the 25th national count of farms since the first agriculture census was taken in 1840.

Farmers and ranchers receiving the forms are asked to report on their operations during 1997 and return the forms by mail prior to Feb. 2, 1998. Mailing the returns will save the time and expense of an interviewer contacting farmers by telephone or personal visit.

To make it easier to report, the census report forms ask questions about basic subjects such as land use and ownership, crop acreage and quantities harvested, livestock and poultry inventories, value of crops and livestock sold and farm operator's characteristics.

Twenty-five percent of the farmers and ranchers will be asked additional questions on production expenses, machinery inventories, market value of land and buildings and income from farm-related sources.

Those who are not operating a farm but receive a census form are urged to return it to avoid additional mailings. Farmers who do not receive a report form should write to the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service, P.O. Box 7068, St Paul, MN 55107 or call 1-888-424-7828. This number can also be called if assistance is needed in completing the census report form.

Response to the census is required by law. That same law protects the privacy of the reports. Information about individual operations is strictly confidential and census responses are immune from legal processes.

Data from the census of agriculture is used by both the public and private sectors to help chart the future of agriculture. For example:

- Agribusinesses use county by county census numbers to help meet farmers' needs for items such as fertilizer, seed and equipment;
- Farm organizations use the results to devise farm programs and policies;
- Congressional staff use the findings to propose changes in the farm bill and other farm-related legislation;
- State and federal agencies use the census results to carry out their missions; and
- Land Grant universities use the census results to allocate cooperative extension programs and resources.

For the first time in history, the U.S. Department of Agriculture is responsible for the census. Previous censuses were conducted by the

Thursday morning student representatives from Goodridge were at the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center wrapping presents for the Christmas for Pennington County Program. The program raises funds and collects presents to give to children in the county who might not otherwise have Christmas presents. This year, about 370 children are expected to benefit from the program. NCTC included for $4 million in governor's bonding proposal

Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls is on the priority list to receive $4 million in state bonding funds for building additions and renovations under the $167 million bonding plan announced by Gov. Arne Carlson Wednesday, December 17.

Dr. Orley Gunderson, president of NCTC, received word of the priority listing at a meeting of college presidents from the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) system with the governor in St. Paul.

In addition to the bonding plan, Gov. Carlson announced a supplemental budget proposal of $42 million, of which Northland would be expected to receive $420,000. The combined capital investment and supplemental budget proposal will be presented to the 1998 legislature when it convenes in January.

"Legislative approval will be required for the funding to take place," Dr. Gunderson said, "but I feel very good about the governor's announcement and support. I have every confidence that the money will be made available since our area legislators have been very supportive of education in general and Northland in particular in the past."

In the 1998 capital program proposed to the governor and legislature by MnSCU, the Northland project is described as follows:

"Although these adjacent community and technical colleges were consolidated on July 1, 1995, it has long been apparent that major physical remodeling was needed to provide students with the full advantages of an integrated college. Predesign was completed in 1995 and revised in February 1997 following a visit by the House Capital Investment Committee. Phase I begins the work of providing a consolidated student commons (business offices, financial aid services, registration, bookstore, receiving, custom training) and a consolidated learning center (library, computer technology)."

Dr. Gunderson said the project has been planned and developed in response to the mandate to merge Northland Community College and Northwest Technical College.

"For many years these two facilities have been kept separate intentionally," he said, "and the idea of merging them requires a physical connection between them and a reorganization of spaces within them. This is a unique opportunity to greatly enhance the functionality of the existing buildings and to make the merged institution more efficient by eliminating duplicate administrative offices and duplicate student services."

Included in the project will be 15,589 square feet of new construction at an estimated cost of Studies show that massage may hold other health benefits as well.

Greenbush lady rubs people the right way

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Getting "rubbed the wrong way" is one of the many situations that causes stress in our lives. Getting rubbed the right way by a massage therapist can reduce that stress and possibly bring other health benefits as well.

Monica Trangsrud of Greenbush is one of the area's newest massage therapists, officially hanging out her shingle on November 1.

Monica's interest in massage therapy began a number of years ago when her mother was diagnosed with progressive scleroderma, a painful and potentially fatal hardening of the body's tissue.

Monica read about the disease and discovered an author who recommended massage as a way of alleviating symptoms. Wanting to help her mother, but not knowing exactly what she was doing, Monica decided to "wing it." They experienced "unbelievable results," and after four years of massage therapy, her mother is much better with many of

TRF gets $50,000 arena grant

Thief River Falls has been awarded a Mighty Ducks Ice Arena Construction Grant in the amount of $50,000.

"I'm so excited," said Parks and Recreation Director Madelyn Vigen. "It was so competitive this year." Vigen explained that the grant funds that the city received will be used to repair the roof of the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

At its December 15 meeting, the Minnesota Amateur Sports Commission (MASC) awarded 17 grants, totalling $1.503 million, to build new ice arenas or to renovate existing ice facilities around the state. The grants, which all require a match of local private or public funding, were awarded via the "Mighty Ducks" granting program of the State Grant Fund.

Six communities were awarded grants to build new arenas. Those communities are Ada, [illegible] ($250,000), International Falls ($100,000), Lakeville ($250,000), Moorhead ($100,000), Paynesville ($150,000) and Virginia ($150,000).

A total of $1 million will be awarded toward the construction of new ice arenas.

The eleven communities receiving grants to renovate existing arenas are Albert Lea ($50,000), Bemidji ($50,000), Chisholm ($50,000), Cloquet ($50,000), Coon Rapids ($50,000), Crookston ($50,000), Minneapolis (Parade Arena) ($100,000), Orono ($25,000), Steele County ($12,500), Thief River Falls ($50,000) and Warroad ($16,000).

A total of $503,500 will be granted to communities renovating their existing ice facilities.

The grants continue the efforts, dating back over two years, by the Minnesota Legislature and the Minnesota Amateur Sports Commission to address the crisis ice shortage in the state. This is the third phase of Mighty Ducks grants. The MASC has awarded $14.637 million in grants in several rounds since December 1995.

The legislature identified the following objectives for the Mighty Ducks ice arena grant program, which the MASC sought to meet in awarding of its grants: provide increased opportunities for female ice sport participation; increase ice-time access for sports other than hockey; generate increased net economic activity for the state; encourage partnerships among public and private organizations.

Sale of dairy cows was "sort of like a funeral"

Mylo Carlson of Angus and John Hess of Argyle sell herds well established in area

(This is the third in a series of Northern Watch stories on the loss of dairy farmers and the dairy situation in northwest Minnesota.)

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

More than a century of family dairying came to an end October 13 when Mylo and Marlene Carlson of Angus auctioned their herd of registered Holstein dairy cows, well established as one of the better herds in northwestern Minnesota.

"It was sort of like a funeral," Mylo recalls of the sale day. "It was hard to do emotionally. The barn looks awfully empty with nothing out there but the cats."

Over the years dairying has been good to the Carlson family, Mylo acknowledges, but this past summer prices were not good. Price structure figured into the equation when it came time to make a decision about the future, but the main consideration was that there was no one in the family or the operation who wanted to take over the herd.

Carlson, 57, said that his great-grandfather, Martin Carlson, needed a cow for milk when he homesteaded the farm, and his grandfather, Olai, continued to have dairy cattle on the farm. His father, Myron, started the registered herd and was one of the original organizers of the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement Association. Mylo had been involved in dairying all his life and acquired the herd from his father in 1968.

Dairying Was The Focus

"Dairying was our focus and our number one resource for income," Carlson said. "But none of the kids are interested in continuing with the cows and our herdsman didn't want to buy in, so the options were rather limited."

Son Michael prefers grain farming to dairying and Darren, who showed two grand champions at Northwest Dairy Day, is in college. One daughter works for the UND Alumni Foundation in Grand Forks and the other is still in college.

Several years ago Carlson opted to lease out the herd with an option to buy, but that arrangement lasted only 19 months and was not a pleasant experience. When he regained operation of the herd it took him two and a half years to build it back up to saleable quality.

Herd Sold At Auction

The herd was well advertised and sold at auction with the average price received being satisfactory. "There were some individual cows that we felt were worth a lot more than they brought," Mylo said, "but there were others that sold for more than we expected."

The sale involved 120 head, some of which were from third and fourth generations of 25,000 to 30,000-pound milk producers. At the time of sale the herd had DHIA recorded production averages of about 24,000 pounds of milk, 850 pounds of butterfat and 750 pounds of protein. Buyers came from Iowa, Wisconsin and South Dakota as well as a number from south and central Minnesota.

Good Employees Helped

Carlson said he hired a herdsman for most of his years in the dairy and was fortunate to have some very good employees in his dairy operation. Rick Sturno of Clearbrook had the herdsman job for seven years and Kevin Anderson was herdsman during the last two and one-half years. Pete Solvik of Warren worked on the farm for 14 years. Also described as a "tremendous asset" was Dr. Ken Nordlund, a veterinarian formerly at Fergus Falls and now at the University of Wisconsin—Madison.

Named Honor Dairyman by the Red River Valley Dairyman's Association in the 1970s, Carlson also served on the board of the Minnesota Holstein Association for nine years and was its president for two years. He also received recognition for eight years through the Holstein Association of America's Progressive Breeders Registry, which evaluates herds on type clas-

Mahnomen County Sheriff responds to traffic ruling

Mahnomen - "We're not going to let people drive like maniacs in the county—that just isn't going to happen," says Mahnomen County Sheriff Dick Rooney in response to the high court ruling regarding the enforcement of traffic violations.

The ruling forbids state law enforcement officers to cite White Earth tribal members within reservation boundaries of eight charges—driving without a license, driving with an expired license, speeding, driving without insurance or proof of insurance, driving with expired registration, driving with no seat belt, and failure to have a child in a restraint seat.

Since the ruling, law enforcement officers in Becker and Mahnomen Counties have been bombarded by public outcry, citizens who are worried about their safety on the highways.

Sheriff Rooney, however, urges the public to calm down. Becker and Mahnomen Counties are appealing the decisions, and a statement from the Mahnomen County Board of Commissioners read, "Law enforcement will not allow vehicles to be operated in Mahnomen County in such a manner as to endanger others." The Mahnomen Pioneer

Since this is the last baking day before the big holiday, here are some of those goodies that should be made the last minute. Maybe you can whip them up this weekend, provided you don't have a million other things to do. Have a Merry Christmas, now!

SALTED PEANUT ROLLS

2 cups powdered sugar
1 (7 oz.) jar marshmallow creme
21 ounces (1 1/2 pkg.) caramels
3 tablespoons water
3 cups salted peanuts, chopped

Line cookie sheet with waxed paper.

Combine 1/2 cup of powdered sugar with marshmallow cream, blending well. Knead in remaining powdered sugar.

Divide mixture into 4 parts. Form each part into a rope 1/2 inch in diameter. Cut into 1 1/2 inch pieces. Place on cookie sheet and freeze about 20 minutes or until firm.

Meanwhile, heat caramels and water over low heat until melted, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat.

Dip frozen marshmallow chunks into caramel and roll in peanuts. Place on waxed paper lined cookie sheet and freeze until set. Store in covered container in refrigerator. (Makes 5 1/2 doz. candies.)

So pretty and so tasty - make whatever flavor you like:

EASY CHOCOLATE TRUFFLES

1 (12 oz.) bag vanilla milk chips or milk chocolate chips
1/4 cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons amaretto liqueur (or other flavoring)
Powdered sugar

Melt chips over low heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in sour cream and flavoring, blending well. Refrigerate 30-60 minutes or until mixture is easy to handle.

Roll into 3/4 inch balls using hands or melon baller. Roll in powdered sugar. Place in paper candy cups if desired. Store in airtight container in refrigerator up to 4 weeks. (Makes 5 dozen candies.)

MICROWAVE PEANUT BUTTER CUPS

Filling
3/4 cup chunky peanut butter
1/2 cup powdered sugar
Coating
1 1/2 cups semi sweet chocolate chips
9 ounces of chocolate candy coating, cut into chunks
2/3 cup chunky peanut butter

Combine filling ingredients and stir until mixture forms a ball. Cover and refrigerate for 1 hour for easy handling. Form into balls, using 1/2 teaspoon of mixture for each.

Microwave chocolate chips and chocolate coating on medium for 4 to 5 minutes, until melted - stir smooth. Add 2/3 cup peanut butter and blend well.

Place 1/2 teaspoon of chocolate mixture in mini candy baking cups and place peanut butter ball on top of this. Fill cups with more chocolate mixture. Refrigerate 30 minutes or until set. (Makes 6 dozen candies.)

These are yummy, and not quite as calorie-laden as many of the other Christmas treats, so your guests will gobble them:

CANDY COATED PRETZELS

8 oz. chocolate or vanilla flavored candy coating, cut into pieces
1/4 teaspoon peppermint or mint extract, if desired
4 ounces mini pretzels
1/2 cup crushed hard candy

Line cookie sheet with waxed paper. Melt candy coating over low heat, stirring constantly. Stir in peppermint flavor (or microwave on high for 1 1/2 to 2 minutes).

Keeping candy coating mixture warm, dip pretzels in, allowing excess to drip off. Place on waxed papered cookie sheet and sprinkle tops with crushed candy. (Makes 24 pretzels.)

ICE CREAM ROLL

1 quart chocolate ice cream
1 quart mint ice cream

Line 10x15 inch jelly roll pan with waxed paper with ends extending about 2 inches beyond each short end of pan. Chill in freezer.

Soften chocolate ice cream and spread evenly in chilled waxed papered pan. Freeze until firm, about 3 hours.

Soften mint ice cream and spread over chocolate ice cream. Freeze until firm but not solid, about 3 hours. (If ice cream freezes solid, it will crack when rolled.)

Remove ice cream from pan with paper lining. Working quickly, loosen long sides of ice cream from paper and lift short end and turn over end of ice cream, pressing with fingers to start roll. Roll up as for jelly roll, peeling paper back and lifting paper and ice cream to end. Discard paper.

Place roll, seam side down, on freezer-proof platter and freeze firm. Garnish as desired.

Here are what they are - those Sugar Plums you've heard about - go ahead and make them this year so everybody else can find out what they are:

SUGAR PLUMS

8 ounces dried apricots
8 ounces dried peaches
8 ounces dried apples
12 ounces prunes
8 ounces nuts
1/4 cup dark rum or to taste
Granulated sugar

Grind fruits and nuts. Mix with hands and add rum to moisten. Form into 1 inch balls and roll in sugar.

Let candy absorb sugar for an hour or so and then roll again. Repeat if necessary. Store in refrigerator.

Here's my favorite fudge recipe - the old-fashioned kind - I double the recipe and use a 9x13 inch well-buttered pan.

MONSIEUR BON-BON'S FUDGE

2 1/4 cups sugar
1 small can evaporated milk
1/2 cup butter
1 tablespoon water
1 tablespoon white syrup
4 tablespoons chocolate
Nuts, if desired

Melt slowly together in heavy pan over low heat (I use the bottom of my old pressure cooker) until mixture thickens and is smooth. Turn up heat and cook to soft ball.

Remove from heat and beat well with wooden spoon until it thickens and cools. (Add nuts now.) Pour into greased pan and let set.

And, finally, here is my very favorite recipe for caramels, thanks to my Aunt Gloria - It fills a 9x 13 inch, well-buttered pan:

CARAMELS #2

1 1/2 cups melted butter
1 1/3 cups white syrup
3 cups sugar
1 can sweetened condensed milk
2 teaspoons vanilla
Walnuts

Melt butter in large, heavy pan, then combine with syrup and sugar, and bring to a boil.

Add condensed milk slowly, stirring. Bring to a boil and cook to firm hard ball stage (about 242 degrees on thermometer).

Remove from heat and add vanilla and nuts. Pour into pan and let set before cutting into tiny pieces. I wrap each piece so that they don't stick together because we like them a little soft.

Team Arctic wins at Duluth snocross race

Team Arctic notched up major wins at the Black Magic Duluth National MRP snocross.

Before a weekend crowd of more than 30,000 spectators, Team Arctic swept the pro classes, with Canadian sensation Blair Morgan winning the Pro 600 and Pro Open classes and the talented and unstoppable Brad Pake taking the Pro 440 class for the second consecutive year. Additional Team Arctic victories include Women's ProAm champion Gabby Rivard, Masters winner Ken Fett, and Semi Pro 600 victor Brian Vanlenthe.

"These victories are proof of the depth of talent we have in the Team Arctic camp and how well the new ZR 440 Sno Pro performs out of the box. If the Duluth National is any indication, this is going to be a great season for Team Arctic," said Joel Hallstrom, Team Arctic Race Manager.

N.D. Grocer Reacts To Purchases Made By School Organization

Lynn Nottestad of Lynn's Food Plus grocery store in Maddock, ND, used a full page advertisement in the local newspaper to express his feelings regarding local patronage of small town business. The ad consisted of an open letter to the local school board, administration and FFA advisor and an explanation to citizens and taxpayers in the school district.

The ad was in reaction to a decision made by the FFA to purchase fruit for its annual fund drive from an out-of-state supplier. Nottestad said he understood the purchase decisions were well intended, but felt the need to advise "how your choice impacts here in your own community."

We quote from the open letter in the ad as follows:

"Through discussion with some of those involved it is my understanding that the purchase was made because the price was less than other proposals you had under consideration. Yes, I acknowledge your local grocery was not your cheapest source of supply.

"Perhaps, though unfortunate, this purchase provides me with an opportunity to explain how our food distribution system works. You compared your small community store's capabilities against those of much larger suppliers. If price is your only issue, then be advised that it might always be more expensive to shop at home. If you have enough time and patience you could shop additional suppliers and still find a cheaper one yet. Why? Because the cost of the commodities you seek is not the same for all of us. The less product we sell, the more it will cost us to get the product for you. The withdrawal of your fruit order from this local store represents a loss of 22 percent of our annual fruit sales and 10 percent of our total annual produce sales. Such a significant reduction in annual distribution may certainly cause our current supplier to re-evaluate the present rate structure established for delivery into Maddock.

"The possible result may well be higher produce costs for this store in the upcoming year. This in effect raises the sale price for all the patrons of our business. A case in point: Only three years ago this store purchased frozen foods at cost plus seven percent. Today we pay cost plus 15 percent because we don't have the frozen food sales volume necessary to keep the cost down. Keep in mind that small stores operate within competitive zone structures—our retail sales margin on the frozen product remains the same, only now the store receives eight percent less income per sale than it did three years ago.

"....Will your local supplier ever be more competitive than he is today? No, because the more that consumers take their business elsewhere, they effectively increase the competitors' volume, thus lowering the competitors' costs. At the same time they decrease the local merchants' sales volume and increase costs. The net effect: we only hurt ourselves because we're increasing costs for all of us within the community."

Nottestad goes on to discuss fluctuating prices in the fruit market, price differences in grades of fruit and the service a local dealer provides. He also noted that the FFA fruit sale would virtually eliminate his store's own fruit sales for eight to nine weeks, and he therefore had to consider the school to be a competitor and "working against the welfare of my employees, patrons and the store itself."

"As we make choices in life we learn soon that there are consequences to those choices," he said. His own choices, he said, included suspending school charge privileges and all store contributions to the school's various activities groups.

"A records search shows over $1,000 in donations and ad support provided to school organizations in the past year," he wrote, "one of these being $50 toward a new jacket for your own FFA judging team."

For the future he suggested that the Minnesota fruit supplier be contacted the next time a new FFA jacket is needed or when someone is in need of after school or summer employment. "The next time the school needs 40 pounds of bananas for your school lunch on 12 hours notice or your suppliers ship the wrong cheese for your pizza, don't call/blame me," the ad states.

In the message to citizens and taxpayers, Nottestad acknowledges that his open letter may have negative repercussions for his business. "Unless I had very deep convictions for the principles guiding my soul," he wrote, "I would never be so foolhardy as to submit to the financial suicide I may encounter."

He recalled that several years previous a group of business owners and concerned civic leaders had attended a regular school board meeting to express concern over an almost total lack of patronage of the district's businesses by school employees. They believed it was a simply understood matter that money spent locally stays within the community and bolsters the local economy.

The presentation was perceived as a threat to some who concluded "we were telling them where they had to do their business—a gross overstatement," Nottestad said. The result was crippling to the downtown merchants as several lost substantial business support from rebellious citizens. "This time," he said, "I come alone. Boycott me. Withdraw your support of me. Threaten me. But leave the rest of the Main Street business owners alone this time. They are not a party to this presentation.

"....I'm not talking about personal paychecks now," he continued. "I am referring to my money; my employees' money; my neighbors' money. What is the school district doing with it? Do they have in existence any established guidelines for its expenditure....how it is spent/ where it goes?"

Is Nottestad writing out of personal self-interest? Of course he is, but he is not at all wrong to do so, for his concern for survival should be the collective concern of the community if it hopes to remain viable. And his expression of opinion most certainly does not warrant adverse reaction against his business.

The point Nottestad makes is valid. If school district, city and county governments which exist on local taxes will not support local business by purchasing supplies and services available locally whenever possible, will they not erode their base of support for the future? And if they are not willing to give such support, should they expect local loyalty?

Nottestad may have taken a chance on his business future by speaking his mind and heart, but in our own minds and hearts we know he is right. His words should be a reminder to all of us in every community.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

It takes a flood....

This was spray-painted on a mattress across the street from my house. At first glance I didn't understand, and then it struck. Is this what it took for me to reevaluate some life issues? Is it so hard for us to take the time to figure out what is truly important in life? I hope that if nothing else, I will always be reminded of that.

That brings me to the purpose of this letter. The end of the year is a time for reflecting on the past, and looking to the future. As I reflect on the past months, I can't help but feel humbled, as I thank God for His goodness to me and my family. He carried us safely through and made Himself evident through all of the different people who touched our lives.

Many of those people are right here in "my hometown." Having grown up here, I have always held a special place in my heart for Thief River Falls. Never have I been more proud than during the time when I evacuated back here away from the flood in Grand Forks.

As I came to the college on April 19 to help the nursing home I was employed by, I first saw the sandbag filling efforts still going on. Then, upon entering the college, I was met by volunteers too numerous to imagine. Clothing began coming in that very day for residents and staff. A childhood friend brought underclothes for staff and a fellow nurse who I worked with wept, saying, "I just never could have imagined how thankful I could be for this...."

For me, everywhere I turned there was a hug and some word of encouragement. I saw the church that became a refuge for so many, and the combined efforts of many churches to provide meals to the refugees. Diapers were given for my baby. My wonderful and always helpful family gave freely and generously, and some of them also had to put up with us for two long months! Daily my co-workers exclaimed, "I just can't believe how wonderful this town has been to us! They have done more than could ever be imagined to help and be good to us."

How true. You touched many lives, and brightened many dark days. I cannot even begin to list all to whom I want to express my thanks, and to those who may not see themselves written here, you know that your acts of kindness did not go unnoticed. I pray that you will always be as richly blessed as you have blessed others. I will always cherish and be proud of my hometown.

In closing, I want to share a verse from Isaiah 43 that has become especially meaningful: I have called you by name, you are mine. When you pass through the waters, I will be with you; and through the rivers, they shall not overwhelm you; when you walk through fire you shall not be burned, and the flame shall not consume you. For I am the Lord your God, the Holy One of Israel, your Savior.

It's Christmas; let's celebrate our Savior!

Merry Christmas!

Rubbing people the right way...

her symptoms gone.

Monica has a medical background, working at clinics in Greenbush and Karlstad for 15 years. Her husband Gary is with Agassiz Insurance Agency of Greenbush, and their daughter Heather is a student at North Dakota State University.

Experiencing "empty nest syndrome," Monica decided it was time for something different. Because of the success with her mother's condition and her medical background, massage therapy was a natural choice.

She received her training through the Aveda Institute in Minneapolis between May and September of this year. The 600-hour program included studies in anatomy and physiology, reflexology, aromatherapy, body awareness, nutrition, massage technique and theory, day spa and business practice. For the last ten weeks of the course, Monica received hands-on training and experience as she worked in a clinical setting at the institute, performing over 100 massages.

After sending in her school transcripts and grades, Monica was recently notified that she can test for national certification. While 20 states require massage therapists to be licensed by the state, Minnesota is not among them. Monica feels, however, that national certification will give her more credibility, and she'll be one step ahead of the state if and when licensing is required.

Monica's studio is located in the Trangsrud home located just off Hwy. 11 two and one-half miles northeast of Greenbush. While she considered opening a studio in town, the spaciousness and convenient location of their home made a home-based business appealing.

Instrumental music plays softly in Monica's handsomely decorated studio. A scented candle burns on a table. An etagere holds an assortment of soft blankets, fluffy towels, essential oils and reference books. A towel warmer, a large electric roaster, sits on a table, and the massage table centers the room.

The term aromatherapy refers to the ability of pure essential oils—aromatic substances derived from plants—to affect people on physical, mental, spiritual and emotional levels. Essential oils have been enjoyed for these effects for thousands of years. When used in perfumes they help the wearer feel prettier, more confident. Frankincense and other certain fragrances have been around since Biblical times and have been used as an aid to meditation and prayer. A recent study in Japan showed that scents piped into the workplace increased concentration, accuracy and alertness of the workers.

My visit with Monica was the perfect excuse to do something I'd wanted to do for a long time—experience a massage.

After I completed a medical questionnaire, Monica explained what would take place. Because of the time element, I opted for the 30-minute partial massage which focuses on the back, neck and arms. I selected a cinnamon-scented essential oil which was added to an oil base in a warmer. Essential oil from the cinnamon leaf is said to be refreshing and vitalizing.

Monica dimmed the lamp as she left the room while I undressed and positioned myself on the heated, padded table. When she returned, she positioned me correctly and instructed me to tell her if she was using too much or too little pressure.

The massage began with my head and scalp. Eyes closed, I slipped into a blissful, floating darkness, oblivious to everything but the soothing sensations—the sound of the soft music, the scent of the oil, the feel of her warm and steady hands rubbing and kneading as she silently moved around the table. I felt the tension leave my body like air from a collapsing balloon.

The 30 minutes passed quickly, and when the massage was over, I was totally at ease—a complete feeling of well-being.

As she left the room before I dressed, Monica instructed me not to get up too quickly. I just lay there for a few moments savoring the feeling and knowing that this was something I would do again.

In addition to the partial massage, Monica offers a variety of other services.

The 60-minute massage begins at the head and ends with the toes, covering the full body. An extended massage is 90 minutes long, a full body massage with an additional 30 minutes to focus on a problem area or just allow more time to relieve tension and stress.

The 45-minute body polish is a spa treatment where a polish is used with warm water to exfoliate the total body. The client then takes a shower and returns to the table for hydration with either oil or lotion. The body polish removes impurities, dulling surface cells and rough textured skin, refines skin and increases circulation while leaving the skin soft, smooth and moisturized. It would be a wonderful treatment prior to a massage.

The body wrap is a 45-minute treatment which deeply relaxes the body and mind, detoxifies the body, softens the skin and reduces stress. Once the total body is hydrated by either lotion or oil, warm, moist towels are applied and then a series of layers are wrapped around the body cocoon-style. During a 15 to 20 minute rest period, cool compresses are used accompanied by a relaxing scalp, neck and facial massage.

According to ancient beliefs, the surfaces of the hands and feet have corresponding areas to the whole body. During a 30-minute reflexology session, massage to the hands or feet stimulates nerve reflexes to major organs and glands while increasing circulation to hands or feet.

During Monica's scalp treatment, warm oil is applied to the scalp and hair. After scalp massage, brushing and paddling, warm towels are wrapped around the head to allow deep penetration of the oil.

The cost of these services range from $10 for a scalp massage to $45 for the 90-minute extended massage.

In recent years massage therapy has attracted serious attention from medical researchers. In addition to feeling good and relieving stress, massage has been found to help people sleep, improve body image and even fight off colds and viruses.

While working in medical clinics, Monica saw many people who sought relief from stress-related pain, and often the medications prescribed only provided temporary relief. Researchers believe that if the body feels good, it signals the brain that all is well which explains why massage seems to positively affect the immune system and relieve symptoms of disease— something Monica saw for herself in her mother's marked improvement.

Most of Monica's clients are women as were most of the clients she performed massages on while in training. The oldest person to enjoy one of her massages was an 87-year-old woman at the institute. "She was really a neat lady," Monica said, "not shy at all. She wished she hadn't waited so long to try a massage."

Monica is pleased with the response she has had from the community so far and looks to build up a clientele of steady customers. Her studio number is 782-2534. She has sold gift certificates "right and left" and anticipates being quite busy after the holidays. She would like to get to the point where she is performing 10 to 15 full body massages a week.

She also looks forward to eventually incorporating a product line of essential oils and personal care products to her business.

A gift certificate for a massage would be a much appreciated gift for that last hard-to-buy-for person on your list. A massage would also be a treat for yourself after the hustle, bustle and stress of the holiday season.

So far, her business will be known as "Massage Therapy by Monica Trangsrud." "I haven't yet come up with a catchy name," she said. With those skilled, seemingly magic hands, her business doesn't need a catchy name. Monica Trangsrud is one woman who will definitely rub you the right way.

N.D. Grocer Reacts To Purchases Made By School Organization

Lynn Nottestad of Lynn's Food Plus grocery store in Maddock, ND, used a full page advertisement in the local newspaper to express his feelings regarding local patronage of small town business. The ad consisted of an open letter to the local school board, administration and FFA advisor and an explanation to citizens and taxpayers in the school district.

The ad was in reaction to a decision made by the FFA to purchase fruit for its annual fund drive from an out-of-state supplier. Nottestad said he understood the purchase decisions were well intended, but felt the need to advise "how your choice impacts here in your own community."

We quote from the open letter in the ad as follows:

"Through discussion with some of those involved it is my understanding that the purchase was made because the price was less than other proposals you had under consideration. Yes, I acknowledge your local grocery was not your cheapest source of supply.

"Perhaps, though unfortunate, this purchase provides me with an opportunity to explain how our food distribution system works. You compared your small community store's capabilities against those of much larger suppliers. If price is your only issue, then be advised that it might always be more expensive to shop at home. If you have enough time and patience you could shop additional suppliers and still find a cheaper one yet. Why? Because the cost of the commodities you seek is not the same for all of us. The less product we sell, the more it will cost us to get the product for you. The withdrawal of your fruit order from this local store represents a loss of 22 percent of our annual fruit sales and 10 percent of our total annual produce sales. Such a significant reduction in annual distribution may certainly cause our current supplier to re-evaluate the present rate structure established for delivery into Maddock.

'The possible result may well be higher produce costs for this store in the upcoming year. This in effect raises the sale price for all the patrons of our business. A case in point: Only three years ago this store purchased frozen foods at cost plus seven percent. Today we pay cost plus 15 percent because we don't have the frozen food sales volume necessary to keep the cost down. Keep in mind that small stores operate within competitive zone structures—our retail sales margin on the frozen product remains the same, only now the store receives eight percent less income per sale than it did three years ago.

"....Will your local supplier ever be more competitive than he is today? No, because the more that consumers take their business elsewhere, they effectively increase the competitors' volume, thus lowering the competitors' costs. At the same time they decrease the local merchants' sales volume and increase costs. The net effect: we only hurt ourselves because we're increasing costs for all of us within the community."

Nottestad goes on to discuss fluctuating prices in the fruit market, price differences in grades of fruit and the service a local dealer provides. He also noted that the FFA fruit sale would virtually eliminate his store's own fruit sales for eight to nine weeks, and he therefore had to consider the school to be a competitor and "working against the welfare of my employees, patrons and the store itself."

"As we make choices in life we learn soon that there are consequences to those choices," he said. His own choices, he said, included suspending school charge privileges and all store contributions to the school's various activities groups.

"A records search shows over $1,000 in donations and ad support provided to school organizations in the past year," he wrote, "one of these being $50 toward a new jacket for your own FFA judging team."

For the future he suggested that the Minnesota fruit supplier be contacted the next time a new FFA jacket is needed or when someone is in need of after school or summer employment. "The next time the school needs 40 pounds of bananas for your school lunch on 12 hours notice or your suppliers ship the wrong cheese for your pizza, don't call/blame me," the ad states.

In the message to citizens and taxpayers, Nottestad acknowledges that his open letter may have negative repercussions for his business. "Unless I had very deep convictions for the principles guiding my soul," he wrote, "I would never be so foolhardy as to submit to the financial suicide I may encounter."

He recalled that several years previous a group of business owners and concerned civic leaders had attended a regular school board meeting to express concern over an almost total lack of patronage of the district's businesses by school employees. They believed it was a simply understood matter that money spent locally stays within the community and bolsters the local economy.

The presentation was perceived as a threat to some who concluded "we were telling them where they had to do their business—a gross overstatement," Nottestad said. The result was crippling to the downtown merchants as several lost substantial business support from rebellious citizens. "This time," he said, "I come alone. Boycott me. Withdraw your support of me. Is Nottestad writing out of personal self-interest? Of course he is, but he is not at all wrong to do so, for his concern for survival should be the collective concern of the community if it hopes to remain viable. And his expression of opinion most certainly does not warrant adverse reaction against his business.

The point Nottestad makes is valid. If school district, city and county governments which exist on local taxes will not support local business by purchasing supplies and services available locally whenever possible, will they not erode their base of support for the future? And if they are not willing to give such support, should they expect local loyalty?

Nottestad may have taken a chance on his business future by speaking his mind and heart, but in our own minds and hearts we know he is right. His words should be a reminder to all of us in every community.

The body polish removes impurities, dulling surface cells and rough textured skin, refines skin and increases circulation while leaving the skin soft, smooth and moisturized. It would be a wonderful treatment prior to a massage.

The body wrap is a 45-minute treatment which deeply relaxes the body and mind, detoxifies the body, softens the skin and reduces stress. Once the total body is hydrated by either lotion or oil, warm, moist towels are applied and then a series of layers are wrapped around the body cocoon-style. During a 15 to 20 minute rest period, cool compresses are used accompanied by a relaxing scalp, neck and facial massage.

According to ancient beliefs, the surfaces of the hands and feet have corresponding areas to the whole body. During a 30-minute reflexology session, massage to the hands or feet stimulates nerve reflexes to major organs and glands while increasing circulation to hands or feet.

During Monica's scalp treatment, warm oil is applied to the scalp and hair. After scalp massage, brushing and paddling, warm towels are wrapped around the head to allow deep penetration of the oil.

The cost of these services range from $10 for a scalp massage to $45 for the 90-minute extended massage.

In recent years massage therapy has attracted serious attention from medical researchers. In addition to feeling good and relieving stress, massage has been found to help people sleep, improve body image and even fight off colds and viruses.

While working in medical clinics, Monica saw many people who sought relief from stress-related pain, and often the medications prescribed only provided temporary relief. Researchers believe that if the body feels good, it signals the brain that all is well which explains why massage seems to positively affect the immune system and relieve symptoms of disease— something Monica saw for herself in her mother's marked improvement.

Most of Monica's clients are women as were most of the clients she performed massages on while in training. The oldest person to enjoy one of her massages was an 87 year old woman at the institute. "She was really a neat lady," Monica said, "not shy at all. She wished she had not waited so long to try a massage."

Monica is pleased with the response she has had from the community so far and looks to build up a clientele of steady customers. Her studio number is 782-2531. She has sold gift certificates "right and left" and anticipates being quite busy after the holidays. She would like to get to the point where she is performing 10 to 15 full body massages a week.

She also looks forward to eventually incorporating a product line of essential oils and personal care products to her business.

A gift certificate for a massage would be a much appreciated gift for that last hard-to-buy-for person on your list. A massage would also be a treat for yourself after the hustle, bustle and stress of the holiday season.

So far, her business will be known as "Massage Therapy by Monica Trangsrud." "I haven't yet come up with a catchy name," she said. With those skilled, seemingly magic hands, her business doesn't need a catchy name. Monica Trangsrud is one woman who will definitely rub you the right way.

NCTC included for $4 million in governor's bonding proposal

$1,551,560 and 17,937 square feet of remodeling at an estimated cost of $1,170,294. Landscaping and signage at $55,000 and design contingency of $416,528 make a total construction budget of $3,193,382.

Additional $926,081 in other costs include $319,338 in architectural, engineering and related services, $255,470 in furnishings, $63,867 in electronics, $31,933 in cabling, $63,867 for testing and miscellaneous and $31,933 in the mandatory "percent for the arts," which requires one percent of the construction budget on state buildings to be devoted to arts projects.

One of the major areas to be affected by the project will be the west part of the campus, north and east of the west entrance. This will include new construction which will fill in much of the present open area between the west entrance corridor and the west entrance to the theater, music and gymnasium lobby.

The other major work will be in the area between the cafeteria/commons area and the north/south hallway at the east end of the connecting link to the vocational campus. Relocation of a number of services or departments will be involved in the remodeling.

"A spine of administrative offices, student services and circulation will be consolidated and placed directly between the two existing facilities," Dr. Gunderson said. "This spine of student services will be accessed by a large, open student services commons which will be placed in the existing open space between the two schools.

"The student services commons will become the 'glue' which merges the two schools. In addition, classrooms and other spaces that are now located near the former border of these two institutions will be moved to other locations to allow the administrative offices and student services to consolidate around the new student services commons."

The project will create a new main entrance and drop-off point on the south side of the building, approximately midway between the present cosmetology entrance and the business office entrance to the east. Some additional parking would be created south of that new entrance. New construction would include 3,285 square feet for women's center, bookstore, receiving and janitorial, 2,403 square feet for mechanical basement, 1,006 feet for custom training and management and 6,480 square feet for student services commons area.

Remodeling and light remodeling would take place on 490 square feet of administrative offices, 3,285 square feet for business, registrar and financial aid, 5,950 square feet for custom training, management and all other student services, 1,980 square feet for classrooms near student services, 3,490 square feet for cosmetology, 1,000 square feet of classroom where developmental learning is located, and 2,724 square feet of classrooms where the bookstore and computer lab are located.

"The input that has been received during the early planning of this project indicated that the consolidation of administrative offices and student services would have the greatest possible impact on students in the merger process," Dr. Gunderson said. "The location of the student services commons between the two schools will also provide a natural opportunity for a new main entrance which is greatly needed to help organize access to the existing buildings."

In unveiling his bonding and supplemental budget proposals, Governor Carlson noted that "Minnesota's state colleges and universities play a defining role in the health of our economy, producing roughly 30,000 graduates each year. I want to ensure that this new system has the support and resources it needs to become a focused and service-oriented leader into the 21st century."

Dr. Gunderson said that if the governor's proposal is funded as expected, construction on the local project could begin in 1999 with occupancy in the year 2000. He said it would serve the expected building needs of the college for many years into the future.

Watershed district board members attend meeting

Four members of the Red Lake Watershed District board of managers and administrator Lowell Enerson attended the annual meeting of the Minnesota Association of Watershed Districts (MAWD) earlier this month at the Radisson Arrowwood resort near Alexandria. About 275 people, including representatives of state and federal agencies and watershed district staff members, attended the three-day meeting.

Board members attending were Russell Sander, East Polk county; Vernon Johnson, Clearwater county; Richard Dougherty, Beltrami county, and Don Schirrick, Red Lake county. Johnson, whose address is Clearbrook, was reelected as vice president of the state association.

Also reelected were Woody Love, Shorewood, member of the Minnehaha Creek Watershed District, president and Susan Scribner, Minnetonka, member of the Riley Purgatory/Bluff Creek Watershed District, treasurer. Tom Ebner, Nisswa, from the Thirty Lakes Watershed District was elected to succeed Bob Wright, Felton, from the Wild Rice Watershed District, as secretary.

Other members of the Red Lake Watershed District board who did not attend the meeting were Wally Jorgenson, West Polk county; Greg Hilgeman, Pennington county; and Leonard Moe, Marshall county.

"Minnesota is known for its water resources," Enerson said, "and watershed districts have an important role to play in managing those resources. This meeting gives us a chance to improve our skills and learn new approaches to help us continue to work for wise water use."

Watershed districts are local units of government based upon the boundaries of natural watersheds. The Red Lake Watershed District includes all of Red Lake county and portions of Beltrami, Clearwater, Marshall, Polk, Pennington, Itasca, Mahnomen, Roseau and Koochiching counties.

James Franklin, director of the Division of Emergency Management for the Minnesota Department of Public Safety, gave the keynote address at the annual meeting. He spoke primarily on flooding in the past year and agreed with the statement in a brochure which said that water knows no political boundaries, it goes where it wants to, when it wants to."

Buffalo-Red River Watershed District in west central Minnesota received the District of the Year award, presented annually by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. In presenting the award, DNR representative Mel Sinn commented on the district's history of cooperating with the DNR and its willingness to pursue environmentally sensitive projects.

The Mustangs, ahead 15-7 at the end of the first quarter, out-scored the Knights 13-0 over the next eight minutes to go up 38-7 at halftime. It was 46-18 through three quarters.

"We played a real good first half of defense," reported Red Lake County Central coach Chris McLean. "We were real aggressive."

Anthony Michael scored 12 points and Gerolyn Moen had 10 for the Knights.

Marshall County Central worked the ball inside to Miki Waterworth, only to find her path to the basket blocked by Kendra Hunter (23) and Kayla Sjostrand of Kittson County North during Tuesday's consolation semifinal game in the Northland Community and Technical College Invitational girls high school basketball tournament. The Nordics won 46-44.

Northland Invitational girls basketball semifinals...

Mustangs, Wildcats advance

A new champion was assured Tuesday when Red Lake County Central beat Badger/ Greenbush-Middle River 34-29 in the semifinals of the third annual Northland Community and Technical College Invitational girls high school basketball tournament.

Tri-County joined the Mustangs in the title game with a 61-35 victory over Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke in the second semifinal encounter.

Red Lake Co. Central........34
B/G-Middle River............29

Free throws spelled the difference in a low-scoring contest as Red Lake County Central emerged a 34-29 winner over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River.

The defense that had netted Badger/Greenbush-Middle River a title at the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo Invitational the previous weekend was just as effective in a 67-37 Northland Invitational quarterfinal decision over Kittson County North and in the Tuesday semifinal matchup with Red Lake County Central when the Gators gave up just nine field goals.

However, the Mustangs were just as stingy on defense. "You simply don't lose many basketball games giving up just 29 points. Especially when you go to the line 21 more times than the opposition."

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River started with a 9-5 first quarter lead, but Red Lake County Central went ahead 17-16 at halftime and protected a 27-25 third quarter edge over the final eight minutes.

Stefanie Sparby scored a game-high 16 points for the Gators before fouling out. The Mustangs countered with a 13-point effort by Katie O'Neill and a 10-point game by Angie Chervestad.

Red Lake County Central combined its defense with 13-for-24 free throw shooting. Defending champion Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was a quiet 1-for-3 at the line.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T
B/G-Middle River	9	7	9	4	29
RLCC	5	12	10	7	34

RLCC - Katie O'Neill 13, Sylvie Hilgeman 2, Frances Hilgeman 3, Tracy Roslen 6, Angie Chervestad 10.

Tri-County..........................61
Goodridge/G-G 35

In a 59-45 quarterfinal win over Thief River Falls the day before, Tri-County featured a 29-point game by Anna Bogestad and a 10-point effort by Krista Bogestad. Tuesday, Anna netted 20 and Krista 15 as the Wildcats beat Goodridge/ Grygla-Gatzke 61-35. Notice a pattern here?

The Wolverines were within 17-13 at the close of the first quarter, but trailed 33-21 at halftime and faced a 45-24 third quarter deficit.

Angie Gast led Goodridge/ Grygla-Gatzke with 13 points.

Scoring

	1	2	3	4	T

Tri-County	17	16	12	16	61

G/G-G - Dana Wiseth 7, Jennicca Gallagher 4, Kathryn Stanley 2, Angie Gast 13, Amie Kotrba 5, Lori Hagen 4.

Huskies' rally falls short, 59-53

Goodridge overcame a 14-point deficit to gain a tie with two minutes remaining, but could not complete the rally Tuesday as the Huskies lost a 59-53 boys high school basketball game to Kelliher/ Northome.

"It was a good comeback," noted Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson, "but you just can't fall that far behind."

The visiting Huskies trailed only 16-14 after eight minutes, but were out-scored 18-4 in the second quarter to fall behind 32-20 at halftime.

"In the second quarter, we couldn't get any offense going," said Mickelson. "We just couldn't get into a flow offensively. We couldn't hit anything, and everything they put up went in."

Goodridge managed to stay within 47-40 by the end of the third quarter, and the Huskies pulled even at 53-53 with two minutes to play. But in an attempt to get the ball back, Goodridge was called for an intentional foul. It turned out to be a four-point play as the winners made both free throws, then maintaining possession, connected from the field for a 57-53 advantage.

A 1-2 Kelliher/Northome scoring punch featured Kelly Klininger with 21 points and Jared Shogren with 20. Ben Hanson and Jim Scheef led Goodridge with 12 points each, while Jared Eidelbes netted 11.

Kelliher/Northome shot 57 percent from the field (25/44) and made 5 of 9 free throws. Goodridge shot 45 percent from the floor (22/49) and went 9-for-12 at the line. The rebounds were even at 22-apiece. Kelliher/Northome won the rebound battle 21-15.

The loss leveled the Huskies record at 3-3. They will close out their pre-holiday schedule Monday by playing host to rival Grygla-Gatzke. The two teams just ran into each other in the third place game at the Northland Community and Technical College Invitational when Goodridge overcame a seven-point deficit in the final two minutes to win 40-39.

Tough times continued for Thief River Falls Tuesday in an 8-2 Section 8A high school hockey loss to Lake of the Woods at Baudette.

It was the Prowlers' seventh straight setback to open the 1997-98 season.

The Bears turned a 1-0 first period lead into a 3-0 second period cushion, then doubled the spread to 6-0 in the first seven minutes of the third period.

Ten Lake of the Woods players put their names in the scoring column, led by Keith Ballard's three-goal hat trick. Single goals were scored by Nels Hanson, Jon Waibel, Shane Aikenhead, Eric Becklund, and Derek Olson. Five Bears had two assists each.

Craig Lawrence and Jeff Rislov scored the Thief River Falls goals.

Trailing at halftime, Bemidji wins 76-57

Close, but not close enough. Thief River Falls boys high school basketball team, trying to come up with its first win of the 1997-98 season, played Bemidji on even terms in the first half, but couldn't stay with the Lumberjacks after intermission and wound up losing for the fourth straight time, 76-57.

This one was different. While losing to Crookston, Warren-Alvarado-Oslo and Kittson Central, the Prowlers struggled almost from the very start. Save for a bundle of missed close-in starts at the beginning of the third quarter that were followed by panic-driven turnovers, Thief River Falls could have given Bemidji a run, figured Prowlers first-year head coach Bob Johnson.

"We played 26 minutes of basketball tonight," said Johnson. "When we put that full 32 minutes together, we'll give teams trouble. We played a good first half – the kind of basketball we believe this club is capable of playing. Then we missed seven lay-ups at the start of the third quarter. It would have been interesting to see what could have happened if we would have made those shots."

A short jumper with 17 seconds left by Keith Salscheider gave Bemidji an 18-16 lead at the end of the first quarter.

The Prowlers closed out the first half with a short turnaround jumper in the middle by Kelly Cota and a Justin Walseth free throw to put them ahead 36-33. But their troubles started with five misses from the paint in the first two minutes of the second half.

Bemidji finally broke away with a 10-0 run that turned a 44-42 lead into a 54-42 spread following a Paul Colligan rebound basket with 1:17 to play in the third quarter.

Ahead 56-46, Bemidji took full control by opening the fourth quarter with a pair of free throws by Chris Fairchild, a wide-open basket underneath by Colligan following a Thief River Falls turnover, and a 12-foot jumper by Colligan off an offensive rebound. That made it 62-46, and the Prowlers never recovered.

Salscheider, a strong 6-4 senior forward, led Bemidji with 19 points, while Winge and Colligan netted 13 and 12, respectively, from the backcourt, and 6-5 center Tim Nelson contributed 11. The Prowlers got a 15-point game off the bench by 6-4 junior Kelly Cota, 12 from senior guard Jeremy Swanson and a solid 11-point performance by 6-8 junior center Matt Myers.

Thief River Falls shot 40 percent from the field (21/52) and went 15-for-26 at the free throw line. Bemidji shot 51 percent from the floor (29/57) and made 17 of 24 free throws. The Lumberjacks finished with a 28-27 rebound edge, although they got beat on the offensive boards 14-10. The Prowlers had more turnovers, 21-16.

Scoring

TRF - Jeremy Swanson 12, Kelly Cota 15, Casey Skjerven 0, Mike Johnson 2, Kyle Waterworth 4, Justin Walseth 6, Michael Morris 1, Matt Myers 11.

Mike Johnson of the Prowlers went over the top of Bemidji defender Chris Fairchild for an early-game bucket during Thursday's high school basketball game in Thief River Falls. The Lumberjacks pulled away in the second half to win 76-57.

Gators' balance nets 67-60 boys win at Warroad

Four Badger/Greenbush-Middle River scorers hit double figures Tuesday as the Gators collected a 67-60 boys high school basketball win at Warroad.

Jeremy Vacura netted 16 points, Daryl Wockenfuss 13, Richard Wockenfuss 12, and Bret Bentow 11 in the Gators' balanced attack.

"The balance doesn't surprise me," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We've got seven kids who are capable of scoring in double figures."

But it was far from a perfect performance for the Gators, who had trouble at times on defense, pointed out Sparby, who watched Warroad shoot 54 percent from the field (26/48), which included an eye-popping 62 percent 24-for-39 performance from two-point range.

"Warroad played a sharp game," noted Sparby. "They shot real well, and we didn't do a very good job defensively."

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River turned a 17-16 first quarter edge into a 12-point spread with one minute left in the first half, but a Warroad surge cut it to 31-27 at intermission, and it remained close at 47-43 through three quarters.

Mike Peterson scored a game-high 23 points for Warroad, with Jon Doebler netting 19 and Justin Merriman 13.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 22-for-54 from the field (41 percent) and a busy 19-for-30 at the free throw line, where Warroad was 6-for-9. The rebounds were even at 25-apiece. Warroad topped the turnover charts 12-9.

The win upped the Gators' record to 2-1.

Price Motivated Hess Sale

Nearly 60 years of dairying with Guernsey cattle ended in early September at the John Hess farm east of Argyle. John's father started the herd in 1940 and John purchased his father's interest in 1969 when he completed his term of service in the U.S. Navy.

John is emphatic and not at all apologetic about his reason for abandoning the dairy business.

"The biggest influence in our decision to sell our cows was the price of milk," he said. "We felt the price should be going up to help keep pace with costs, but instead it was going the other way. My wife and kids are 100 percent behind me for selling out because of the financial stress involved."

Herd Had 100 Cows

At one time the Hess herd included about 100 cows. John started his herd sale in the winter of 1995-96 by culling heavily and leasing out some animals to gradually decrease the number. This past September 5 he sold 22 head to one herd through the Long Prairie market and four head each to four other herds, along with a number of single sales.

"In 1989 county extension agents put on dairy schools around the area and told us to 'tighten our belts' after five pretty lean years of falling prices. Basic milk price was $12.37 in 1989 and you could buy a new 4-wheel-drive pickup for $10,000. Today the basic milk price is $11, the pickup is $25,000 and there is no improvement in sight. We've run out of space to punch any more holes in the belt."

Hess contends that dairy pricing is highly manipulated. "Kraft Foods sets the price, the processors make money and the producer is forgotten," he said. "Dairies in California hire cheap foreign labor. They are even shipping cheese from California to Wisconsin."

John Liked The Work

Despite the fact that Hess says dairying for a farmer in this environment is nine months of winter and three months of making hay and fighting mud, he insists that he liked the work. His four children all liked animals and work with the dairy despite the 365-day work years and long hours. John is a former Honor Dairyman for Marshall county and daughters Darla and Laura were both Marshall county dairy princesses.

John said his father thought his complaints about the lack of money in dairy were unjustified. One day he took delivery of feed, fuel and fertilizer the same day and wrote out some sizeable checks. His father commented that "there must be some money in the cows after all."

Money Not In Cows

"I thought about that comment all day and it sort of bothered me," Hess said. "I mentioned it to my wife Nancy that evening and showed her the invoices. 'You know,' she said, 'that's about what I earn in a full year of work at the store.' She has worked for six years at the Hardware Hank store in Warren. That's where the money came from. When I told that to my dad, he didn't have much to say."

Hess said that a procurement manager from the processing plant where he sold his milk told him that a new component pricing program would help him as a Guernsey breeder. Guernseys typically produce less milk than Holsteins but with a higher butterfat content.

Need $16 A Hundred

"I told him that no matter how you figure out the check, if it doesn't come out to $16 a hundred you're playing games with us," Hess said.

At age 51, John is tired of playing games. He believes that by this time in his career he should be able to hire some help and be putting some money away for retirement. Instead, he was struggling to repair outdated equipment and unable to update facilities.

"If we had been able to see that dairying would be profitable for two families without it being some impersonal mega-deal, we probably would still have the cows," he said. "But it doesn't make sense to do all that work and lose ground every day. Last year was the first year we showed a loss from farming on our tax return."

The Hess family has 80 head of beef cross cows and enough land to sustain that herd, but John says he will also have to find work off the farm. And he would probably admit to being a little bitter.

"Once the milk leaves the farm everyone who is involved with it makes money—the trucker, the processor, the plant workers, the retailer. Where does the producer get his?" Hess asked.

Census of agriculture underway

U.S. Bureau of the Census under the Department of Commerce. This move will consolidate the entire federal agricultural statistics program into one agency and result in one source for all important information on agriculture.

"By combining the resources of the former Bureau of the Census with the National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) staff, we expect to make the results available more than six months earlier than in the past," stated U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman.

"Not only does the census reach everyone during mailout, but perhaps more importantly the results published in the census of agriculture reports impact farmers and ranchers both directly and indirectly," Glickman said.

Although there are many studies about large-scale farming, the census is unique because it is the only source of local county-level information about small, family farms.

Another "first" for the census of agriculture will be the collection of information about Christmas trees, maple trees tapped and farms with all land under the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP).

National Agricultural Statistics Service has also fortified efforts to improve the coverage of minority-owned farms. Also for the first time, all farm operators on American Indian reservations will be counted.

Deregulation of energy is topic for senior meet

"Energy Deregulation—How It May Affect You" is the topic for discussion when the Northwest Region of the Minnesota Senior Federation holds its general assembly Monday, December 22, at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls. People of all ages interested in the topic are invited to attend the afternoon informational program.

Registration and serving of refreshments will begin at 9:30 a.m. with the general business meeting of the Northwest Region scheduled from 10 a.m. to noon. The informational program on energy deregulation will begin at 1 p.m.

Participating in the session will be Pete Wassberg, district manager for Otter Tail Power Company; John T. Anderson, president of Northern Municipal Power Agency; and David Loer, manager of Minnkota Power Cooperative.

"As deregulation is sweeping the country, this program will take a look at what changes we might see happen in our hometowns," states Al Sollom, president of the Minnesota Senior Federation.

"Proponents of deregulation argue that increasing competition in the electric supply market will lower prices for customers, and that may be true for some. But it is projected that there are many others, especially in rural communities, who will see increases to costs.

"Because of the potential concerns raised by these changes," Sollom added, "we have asked our guest speakers to respond to how the changes could affect their service and prices."

Anyone interested in learning more about how these changes would affect electric service is welcome to attend. For more information call the Northwest Region office of the Minnesota Senior Federation at 218-681-4507.

Lights on for Life plan promoted December 19-21

Motorists in the U.S. and Canada are encouraged to join in support of National Holiday Lifesaver Weekend 1997 and the Lights on for Life program during the weekend of December 19-21 by driving with their headlights on at all times.

The effort to raise public awareness of the impaired driving problem and to commemorate lives lost in traffic accidents is being promoted in Minnesota by the State Patrol. Col. Anne Beers urges the public to join law enforcement officers in support of the project.

The pre-Christmas period is a time of increased travel and alcohol consumption.

"Our goal is to improve public safety on the highways by reducing the incidence of impaired driving, increasing the use of occupant restraints and vigorously pursuing enforcement activities for speeding and other hazardous violations," Col. Beers said.

"Minnesota is enjoying a warm winter season, but drivers should be prepared to adjust their speed or travel plans if weather and road conditions change," she added. "The State Patrol wants every person in Minnesota to enjoy their holiday celebrations and Arrive Alive. Remember to buckle up and drive sober to enjoy a safe and enjoyable holiday."

Grain Exchange sets five billion bushel record

Minneapolis Grain Exchange set an all-time record in the 115-year history of its wheat contract on December 15 when its spring wheat futures surpassed five billion bushels.

Year-to-date trading volume is approximately 5.01 billion bushels, 23.66 million bushels ahead of the 1996 record of 4.98 billion bushels and the third consecutive record for annual volume.

Mopar CUSTOMER CARE

Engine Coolant (Antifreeze) has to protect your car's cooling system from three things, freeze up, over heating and corrosion.

Most coolant (commonly referred to as antifreeze) will continue to protect your vehicle's cooling system against freeze up and over heating for quite some time. But, because of the way coolant reacts differently to the various metals in the system, after about 24 months or 24,000 miles, coolant starts to lose its anti-corrosive properties.

That loss can cause damage to those various engine parts and metals, water pumps and their seals, cylinder head gaskets, aluminum components and frost plugs. When the corrosion builds it can come loose and start flowing through the system, it can build up in the heater core and cause a loss of the system's ability to properly produce heat. In the summer it may reduce the system's ability to keep the engine cool enough to run efficiently.

At Westside Motors we welcome the opportunity to inspect your vehicle's cooling system, and advise you if it's ready for the colder weather that has unfortunately arrived.

Roseau County Trailblazers dance

Roseau - In an attempt to convince Mother Nature to send snow, the Roseau County Trailblazers will hold an El Nino snow dance north of Salol on Sunday, December 28.

Afternoon festivities will include burgers, brats and hot chocolate and will be held at the newly remodeled EDA I shelter along the trail path. Because of the snow shortage, people can use sleds, ATV's or any other type of transporation to reach the shelter.

All ages are welcome, and everyone is invited for an afternoon of fun and feast. Roseau Times-Region

Dike proposed for Mud River

Grygla - Grygla's City Council heard a proposal recently for the construction of a levee for protection against flooding in city limits. Loren Sanderson of the Red Lake Watershed gave the detailed presentation using maps and charts.

Sanderson surveyed the area along the river earlier to see what could be done to keep water from running across Highway 89 in front of the Steak Knife. His proposal is to fill the hike trail channels, install culverts and build up the embankment to create a dike two feet higher than the highest water mark. The Grygla Eagle

Central Boiler distributes bonus

Greenbush - Employees of Central Boiler were recently awarded a profit share and safety bonus. This year the two bonuses along with contributions to employee 401K accounts totaled $88,354.79.

Central Boiler's safety bonus plan is designed to reward employees for safe working habits, reduced injuries and reduced Workman's Compensation insurance cost. This year the manufacturer of outdoor wood furnaces and gas fireplaces celebrated another year with no loss time due to injuries. North Star News

Sprinklers not needed in RLF Mall

Red Lake Falls - Based on the age and the type of business looking to move into the building, the Park Place Mall, a sprinkler system is not required. This determination was made after an inspection by the Minnesota State Fire Marshal.

The DAC in Thief River Falls is looking to add a location in Red Lake Falls and has inquired about the mall.

According to Red Lake Falls Fire Chief Dan Geller, the requirement of sprinklers is based on use of the space. If children would be using the space or if anyone would be staying overnight, sprinklers would be needed. The Gazette

Kittson Co. receives $5.9 million for flood

Hallock - Kittson County Emergency Manager Gary Rice presented an update on the amount of grants the county will receive as a result of the devastating flood this spring to the county commissioners recently.

Rice said that the total grant money allocated for projects in Kittson County is $5,913,359. Kittson County Enterprise

R.L. Electric rebates $200,000 to customers

Because Red Lake Electric Cooperative had larger margins than anticipated in 1997, the board of directors recently voted to return $200,000 to its member customers. The payment was made in the form of an "energy rebate" on the December energy bills.

The rebate was a first in the history of the rural electric cooperative, according to Veral Mosbeck, chairman of the board of directors. He said the cooperative is in a very solid financial position, so it made sense to return some of the money customers paid during the long and cold winter of 1996-97.

Mosbeck also said that the Red Lake Electric service area escaped the disastrous sleet storm which caused extensive damage to power lines to the west last April, and the cooperative had no other major expense surprises.

The rebate totals 3.7 percent of the customers' energy billings from January through November. A customer who averaged $100 in electrical use per month received a billing adjustment of $44.40 in December.

Mosbeck said that after making the $200,000 rebate, the cooperative will have margins close to the $500,000 budgeted and desired to fulfill all financial commitments. The cooperative has not had a rate increase since January of 1990.

General manager Ron Kennedy said the rebate will not materially affect the normal capital credit payout at the annual meeting to be held in late March. A general capital credit retirement similar to last year's distribution is planned for 1998.

Regional arts council gives $16,355 grants

Total grants of $16,355 for arts programs in northwestern Minnesota were awarded recently by the arts council of the Northwest Regional Development Commission, according to Mara Lunde, arts council director.

With funding provided by the Minnesota Legislature, $14,485 in grants were given for local regional arts development projects and $870 for two small arts projects. With funding provided by the McKnight Foundation, $500 was given for an individual artist grant and another $500 for two student individual artist grants.

Lunde said that under the local regional arts development program, a number of grants were awarded, ranging from $930 to $2,500. They included the following:

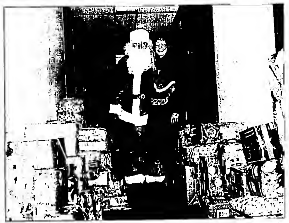
- $930 to the American Legion in Halstad for sponsorship of the Prairie Fire Theater's production of Cinderella July 27-August 1, 1998;
- $1,000 to Valley Community Theater in Halstad for the production of Moon Over [illegible] March 27-29 and April 4-5, 1998;
- $1,470 to Warroad Summer Theater for production of Same Time, Next Year March 19-22, 1998 and $2,430 for production of Hello Dolly! August 5-9 and 12-16, 1998;
- $1,455 to Two Rivers Area Theater in Red Lake Falls for production of A Bad Year for Tomatoes March 22, 1998;
- $2,200 to the Association of the French of the North at Red Lake Falls for the production of Dangerous Traverses August 22-23, 1998;
- $2,500 to the Warren Community Arts Board for sponsorship of the National Theater for the Deaf April 13-18; and
- $2,500 to Northland Community Band of Thief River Falls for production of a TV Review April 3-4, 1998.

Under the small arts program, Warroad public school will receive $370 for sponsorship of a theater residency with Lee Barnum of Grand Forks, ND, January 26-30, 1998 and Thief River Falls public schools were awarded $500 for sponsorship of residencies by three visual artists from the Plains Art Museum in Fargo/Moorhead in April of 1998.

Under the McKnight individual artist program, Kimberley Nelson of Kennedy was awarded $500 to purchase a table with a sink to use in her papermaking residencies and workshops.

Student awards under the McKnight program included $250 each to Angela Jensen, Stephen, for piano lessons and a senior recital in March and Randy [illegible], East Grand Forks, to purchase photographic supplies in order to create promotional materials for himself as an artist and an arts festival that will take place in March in East Grand Forks.

For more information on the above programs, upcoming deadlines or for information on how to apply for an arts grant, contact Mara Lunde at the Northwest Regional Development Commission offices at 115 South Main Avenue in Warren, MN 56762 or call her at 218-745-6733.



Santa and Santa's helper, Wendy Mattson at the Law Enforcement Center in Pennington County, distributed presents last week to over 300 children and their families. The children were participating in the Christmas for Pannington County program.

MR Women of Today start new year with Game Day

by Kathi Carlson
Northern Watch Reporter

Middle River's Women of Today are at it again—kicking off the new year with a day of community fun while raising funds for a worthwhile, charitable cause.

On January 1, the energetic group will sponsor "Game Day" at the American Legion in Middle River. The bar will open at 12 noon and activities will begin with a smear tournament at 2 p.m.

Wheel of Fortune, Family Feud, $10,000 Pyramid, Price is Right and "Oldywed" game are scheduled to begin at 3 p.m.

Individual contestants or teams may sign up prior to the event with any bartender at the American Legion. Contestants can also sign up the day of the event and may be picked to participate from the audience.

The entry fee for the smear tournament is $3 per person.

For $1 hopeful contestants can have their name added to the hat for the Price Is Right from which contestants' names will be drawn to "Come on down! . ."

Anyone wishing to participate in Wheel of Fortune can pay a $2 entry fee. The "Oldywed" Game requires a $2 per couple entry. If, for either of these games, there are more players than games to be played, names will be drawn to choose participants.

The entry fee for a two-man $10,000 Pyramid team is $4. Three to five person teams will make up the Family Feud "families" and the entry fee is $5.

"Vanna White"—or possibly her double— is scheduled to appear, and "Bob Barker" will be assisted by three sweet young things in sequined gowns.

Emcees for the "game shows" will include Sheldon and Donavan Rood and KTRF radio personality Mark Allen. Answers for the Family Feud survey will come from a survey of Middle River area people. The organizers are planning quite a production, and while the prizes won't be big, the fun and laughter will be.

Surely large appetites will be worked up after so much fun, and the Women of Today will be serving ham, escalloped potatoes and rolls.

As the community shares laughter, fun and food on Game Day, it will also be sharing with the homeless as the Middle River Women of Today joins other Women of Today organizations throughout the state in providing "Towels and Toys–Warmth and Joy" to Mary's Place and Sharing and Caring Hands in Minneapolis. Net proceeds from Game Day will be used to purchase towels and toys. Women of Today would also welcome public support through the donation of these items or a cash donation which will be used to purchase towels and toys.

Mary's Place in Minneapolis opened in the spring of 1995 and is a revolutionary transitional living center for homeless families. Families are allowed to stay free of charge in the apartments for up to 30 days. They are given all the necessities for apartment living—dishes, linens, food and cleaning supplies.

NWRDC awards funding to many senior programs

At its quarterly meeting held December 11, Northwest Regional Development Commission with offices in Warren awarded funding to a number of service agencies to provide services to senior citizens.

The providers serve seniors in the seven-county area including Pennington, Red Lake, Marshall, Kittson, Roseau, Polk and Norman counties.

Grants were provided under several programs and included the following:

Title III-B
Supportive Services

Kittson County Senior Transportation Program of Kittson County Social Services was awarded $5,000 to assist seniors in Kittson county to access transportation to medical services;

Dairy herd demise extends to research herds

(This is the fourth in a series of Northern Watch stories on the loss of dairy farmers and the dairy situation in northwest Minnesota.)

by Marvin Lundin
Northern Watch Editor

During the past three weeks we have reviewed the situations involving some areas of the dairy industry in northwestern Minnesota, focusing primarily on some of the dairy farmers who have decided to sell their herds for a number of reasons.

Those reasons are as numerous as the sales, but most appear to have a connection with milk prices not keeping pace with escalating production costs.

This squeeze leaves dairymen unable to repair or replace equipment, remodel or build new facilities, hire help or even recognize a financial gain from work which ties a family to the farm every day of the year.

In a number of cases where dairy cattle have been in family farm operations for several generations, the younger generation of today is either unwilling to devote the time and dedication of previous generations, or unable to generate enough income from the operation to buy the older generation's assets

Minnesota-Wisconsin basic milk price for the past 35 years is illustrated in this graph which indicates a major problem area dairy producers have experienced in the past 16 years. As the chart shows, the price of milk per hundredweight increased fairly steadily from 1962 to 1981. Since $12.58 per hundredweight was received in 1981, the average yearly price has surpassed that year's average only once—at $13.39 in 1996. Meanwhile, costs of dairying have continued to escalate, squeezing profit margins.

Ag disaster declaration requested for Polk County

Crookston - Sheriff Doug Qualley, director of emergency management for Polk County, asked the county board of commissioners for a resolution requesting the Governor to petition the US Secretary of Agriculture for a "Agriculture Disaster Declaration" based on extraordinary production losses this year. The board agreed with Qualley and passed the resolution. The request will now be sent to the State Division of Emergency Management for presentation to the Governor.

Qualley cited the spring flood and standing floodwaters resulted in 6,000 acres not being planted. Rains in excess of 200 percent of normal and hail damage coupled with five consecutive years of scab resulted in significant crop losses. The Erskine Echo

Literary, performing and visual art grants available

Arts Council of the Northwest Regional Development Commission is accepting applications for a variety of grants in literary, performing and visual arts, according to Mara Lunde, director.

February 1 and May 1 are the upcoming deadlines for organizations to apply for sponsorship and production assistance grants.

Organizations may apply for a maximum of $2,500 in matching funds per grant and each organization may receive up to $4,000 in grant funds annually. Production assistance grants are available for the creation, performance or exhibition of arts. Sponsorship grants provide funds to host guest artists or touring groups.

Upcoming small arts grant deadlines are February 1, March 1 and May 1. Under this program, organizations may apply for up to $500 in matching funds for the production or sponsorship of arts events of approximately $1,000 in total costs.

Public schools are eligible to receive arts education grants in visual, performing or literary arts for projects such as conducting an artist-in-residence program, hosting a visiting artist, conducting workshops for students and/or teachers and other activities.

Arts organizations may apply to send their members to training opportunities, hire consultants or sponsor a training related workshop with the NWRDC/McKnight Training and Development Grant. Grants of up to $1,000 are available and deadline for application is February 1.

Application materials for all the grant programs are available from Mara Lunde, Arts Council Director, NWRDC, 115 South Main Avenue, Warren, MN 56762. She may also be contacted by phone at 218-745-6733.

DEATHS

George W. Paulson, 72

Cheyenne, WY - George W. Paulson, 72, died Friday, December 12, 1997 at his home in Cheyenne, WY.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, December 16 at 1 p.m. at the First Congregational Church of Cheyenne, WY. Burial was at the Beth El Cemetery with military honors by the American Legion Honor Guard.

A complete obituary will appear in Wednesday's edition of The Times.

70 donate blood during drive

Eighty-three people volunteered to donate blood and 70 were able to give during the Grygla, Gatzke and Skime blood drive conducted December 18 at the community center in Grygla. Sixteen were first time donors.

"Sponsoring a blood drive during the holiday season is a very important responsibility," stated Rhonda Ellefson of United Blood Services. "Because many donors are busy with holiday activities, they sometimes forget to allow time for donating blood."

Ralph Rundell coordinated the drive sponsored by the Lions and Lioness clubs which assisted with recruiting donors, publicity, providing refreshments and registering donors. Individuals who assisted were Roy Nordby, Hazel Aune, Loren Lusignan, Deloris Saul, Eunice Stavenes, Lottie Sistad, Lynette Jelle and Mildred Klamar.

Donations will help meet the blood needs of many patients in 46 area hospitals served by United Blood Services.

Corporal Davis serves in Haiti

Marine Corporal Joel Davis, son of George and Janice Davis of Thief River Falls, is scheduled to spend the holidays deployed to Haiti with the 2nd Battalion, 8th Marines.

Corporal Davis is one of more than 65,000 marines, sailors and coast guardsmen who are serving our country separated from their families during the holiday period. He is part of the nation's forward defense forces and his unit provides the U.S. Support Group Haiti with a security and quick reaction force.

The 1992 graduate of Lincoln high school joined the Marine Corps in December of 1994.

MDA accepts applications for grant program

New livestock and dairy cooperatives interested in developing value-added products from their raw commodities can now turn to the Minnesota Department of Agriculture for funding.

The 1997 State Legislature allocated $200,000 to the MDA for grants to help start-up livestock and dairy cooperatives develop value-added products. The Department has already given more than $100,000 of that allocation to cooperatives for market analysis and product development. Cooperatives receiving grants may also use the money for feasibility studies, business plan development and preliminary design of facilities.

In addition to the state money, the MDA has also been awarded $75,000 from the U.S. Department of Agriculture to extend this promising program to other types of cooperatives beyond dairy and livestock organizations.

For years, MDA Commissioner Gene Hugoson has encouraged farmers around the state to add value to their commodities because he believes it is a great way to strengthen the farm economy. He praises this value-added grant program as an important tool for improving the economic outlook of rural Minnesota.

"Adding value to raw commodities is one of the best things we can do to enhance the economic future of rural Minnesota," Commissioner Hugoson said. "Market research and product development are two of the most challenging aspects of starting a value-added cooperative. This program helps cooperatives in both those areas."

The MDA will continue to accept applications as long as funds are available, but the initial application period for the USDA funding closes February 1, 1998. For additional information or for grant applications contact MDA's Terry Dalbec at 612-215-0368, or Paul Hugunin at 612-297-5510.

Dad and Husband
God's golden gates did open,
3 years ago today.
With farewells left unspoken,
you quietly slipped away.
You suffered much in silence,
as we watched with great despair.
But now God has you up above,
in his tender, loving care.
We cannot bring the old days back,
your hand we cannot touch.
But we'll always have the memories, of the one we loved so much.
Our hearts still ache with sadness,
and silent tears still flow.
For what it meant to lose you, Dad
no one will ever know.
So you who have a Father,
cherish and love him with care.
For you'll never know the heartache, till he is no longer there.

"We Care That You Hear"

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCourciere

With New Year's Eve parties all around, let's have some quick and easy snack food recipes today.

Here's a simple canapé spread that can be made ahead:

CARAWAY CHEESE SPREAD

1 (12 ounce) package processed cheese spread
2 teaspoons instant minced onion
1 1/2 teaspoons caraway seed
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
Crackers

Bring cheese to room temperature. Mix in onion, caraway, Worcestershire and seasoned salt. Cover and chill 2 or more hours.

Serve on crackers or thinly-sliced specialty breads or toasts.

Here's another spread for crackers or breads:

BAKED SHRIMP DIP

1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, softened
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 (4 1/2 ounce) can tiny shrimp, drained
1 teaspoon onion powder
1/2 teaspoon dill weed
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1/8 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Mix all ingredients together and bake at 300 degrees, covered, for 45 minutes. Serve with crackers or breads

This hors d'oeuvre would be great with ham or other types of roast, too, and it's so simple:

HOT TURKEY SNACKS

1 (8 ounce) can refrigerated crescent rolls
1/4 cup butter, melted
1 teaspoon garlic salt
32 strips cooked turkey (about 1 1/2 inches)
32 stuffed green olives
Sesame seed or grated Parmesan cheese

Separate crescent dough into 8 triangles. Cut each into 4 small triangles.

Combine butter and garlic salt. Dip each turkey strip into butter mixture and place at wide end of triangle. Roll up, starting at short side. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and brush with remaining butter. Sprinkle with sesame seeds or Parmesan. Bake at 375 degrees for 10-12 minutes.

Place olives on toothpicks and stick in each for serving.

How about this for a quick and easy snack:

OYSTER CRACKER SNACKERS

3/4 cup salad oil
1 (1.0 ounce) package Hidden Valley Ranch Milk Salad Dressing Mix
1/2 teaspoon dill weed
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1/4 teaspoon lemon pepper
12 to 16 ounces of plain oyster crackers

Whisk together first five ingredients. Pour over crackers, stirring to coat.

Place on baking sheets and bake at 275 degrees for 15-20 minutes.

Serve this dip on a tray surrounded with plenty of dipping chips:

TACO DIP

2 (8 ounce) packages cream cheese
1/3 cup taco sauce
Finely cut lettuce
Finely chopped onion
Grated cheddar cheese
Finely chopped tomato
Diced green pepper
Slice black olives

Mix cream cheese and taco sauce and spread on serving tray. Top with remaining ingredients in attractive pattern. Serve with plenty of dipping chips.

Just in case you'd like a traditional New Year's Eve dish, here's one for you:

OYSTER STEW

24 fresh oysters
2 cups light cream
2 cups milk
1/4 teaspoon ground pepper
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash of hot pepper sauce
4 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 tablespoons flour

In saucepan, combine milk and cream and scald.

Blend flour, salt, celery salt, pepper, hot pepper sauce, paprika and 2 tablespoons cold water. Blend to a smooth paste. Stir into oysters and liquid. Add butter or margarine and heat until edges of oysters curl. Add mixture to scalded milk and cream.

And here's a tasty bread to serve with that oyster stew:

CHEESE BREAD

1 stick butter (1/2 cup)
1 small onion, chopped
2 tablespoons poppy seeds
1 package Swiss cheese
1 loaf French bread

Melt butter. Add onion and poppy seeds.

Ladle half of mixture over bread and cut bread into thick slices, but not all the way through. Place Swiss cheese between slices and ladle remaining butter mixture over.

Wrap in foil and bake at 350 degrees for about 20 minutes until cheese melts.

Despite the name, this dish, cut into small pieces, would make a great hors d'oeuvre to serve to a bunch of hungry guests:

BRUNCH BAKE

1 pound ground pork sausage, crumbled
1 (4 ounce) jar diced pimentos, drained
1 (10 ounce) package frozen chopped spinach, thawed and drained
1 cup flour
1/4 cup Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 1/2 teaspoons Italian seasoning
1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
8 eggs
2 cups milk
1 cup shredded provolone, mozzarella or cheddar cheese

Cook sausage and drain well. Place in bottom of greased 9x13 inch pan.

Top with spinach and half of the pimentos.

Combine flour, Parmesan and seasonings. Beat eggs and milk and add flour mixture, beating well. Pour over spinach layer.

Bake at 425 degrees for 20-25 minutes or until set. Top with remaining pimentos and cheese and bake for 2-3 minutes until cheese melts.

Area towns receive grants for programs

School Districts in the region have been awarded state grants to expand programs designed to help new parents learn ways to stimulate the brain development of a newborn, according to Rep. Jim Tunheim.

Receiving grants from the Minnesota Department of Children, Families, and Learning are: Greenbush-Middle River for $5,000; Stephen/Argyle Central, Marshall County Central, Warren/Alvarado/Oslo for $15,000; and Warroad for $13,000.

The grants come from a $2 million fund set up by the Minnesota Legislature for programs to support families with newborn infants. During the 1997 Legislative Session, lawmakers heard dramatic testimony about the importance of mental development in the first 12 months of life. The brain of a baby who receives appropriate stimulation develops quickly and stays strong.

"Lawmakers are concerned about parents and their young children, and we want to see babies get off to the best start possible," said Rep. Tunheim. "I hope every parent of a newborn can take advantage of these new efforts. This grant program is an important part of the Legislature's commitment to Minnesota families."

Welfare reform program moves families to work

Starting January 1, families with children applying for welfare in Minnesota will be part of the new statewide Minnesota Family Investment Program (MFIP), aimed at moving them quickly into jobs and out of poverty. Families already receiving welfare will have their cases shifted to MFIP over the next three months.

"With MFIP, we are transforming the state's welfare system to one where work is the key to family income and better lives for our children," said Governor Arne H. Carlson.

"Parents are now required to go to work and MFIP will support their efforts to succeed," said Human Services Commissioner David Doth. Along with health and child care help, parents will get assistance from job counselors with quick job placement. Working families will receive earning supplements, leaving MFIP when their income is approximately 20 percent above the poverty level, or $1,311 a month for a family of three. Rules of the former program, Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) that MFIP replaces, often discouraged parents from going to work.

Under MFIP, which was part of the state's 1997 welfare reform law, two-parent families will be required to work immediately. Single parents must work within six months, or sooner at county option. Parents who fail to work or follow through with other activities to support their families will have their assistance reduced by 10 and then 30 percent.

MFIP eventually will affect an estimated 50,000 Minnesota families in 1998. Families receiving AFDC have been sent a series of notices explaining the new program. In January, the second phase of a statewide radio campaign will begin broadcasting information about MFIP. Parents also will be attending MFIP and employment services orientation sessions.

MFIP is modeled on the nationally recognized pilot program begun in 1994. Independent evaluation results released in August show that 52 percent of long-term urban MFIP recipients were working, almost 40 percent more compared to a control group. Poverty among these families was reduced by 16 percent.

Governor Carlson noted, "MFIP is unique among state welfare reform efforts, because its goal is not only to reduce welfare dependency, but to lift children and their families out of poverty."

The state will continue to monitor both the pilot program, which continues until June 30 in eight counties, and the new statewide MFIP. "We realize welfare reform is an on-going, long-term effort," said Assistant Human Services Commissioner Deborah Huskins. "Evaluation is critical to make changes as we gain experience with what works to help low-income families succeed."

Electric Suppliers Say Deregulation Is Coming

There has been a saying going around for years that "If you thought taxation without representation was bad, you should see it with representation." Perhaps the same thought could be applied to the electric industry: "If you thought regulation was bad, you should see what happens with deregulation."

Several representatives of electric power suppliers from this area discussed their views of deregulation of the electric industry at a meeting of the Northwest chapter of the Minnesota Senior Federation Monday at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls. The only disappointment about the meeting was the small number in attendance. This is a topic that the public—that's you and me—need to know more about.

The fact of the matter is, according to the officials from Otter Tail Power Company, Minnkota Power Cooperative and the Northern Municipal Power Agency speaking at the meeting, that deregulation is coming and that planning and preparation are in order. In other words, deregulation isn't an "if" issue, it's a "when" issue. Minnkota is basing its plans and preparations on a projected date of 2003..

If deregulation of the telephone system and the airlines can be used as legitimate examples, deregulation of the electrical industry is something to be concerned about. For those of us in this area, who have access to economical electric power and are served by suppliers who have exceptional dedication to reliability, service and lowest possible rates, have little to gain and probably a lot to lose from national deregulation.

The power companies refer to the coming changes as *re*regulation, an indication that under deregulation there would still need to be some controls to provide a degree of protection and equity for both the power suppliers and the consumers. In fact, as envisioned and discussed Monday, there may be more regulation under deregulation than there is now.

If you thought being constantly pestered by solicitors seeking your telephone business was a nuisance, consider what it will be like with power companies in similar competition. And if you think airline service and safety have declined along with some fares, consider the potential affect on power companies.

In electricity as in telephones and airplanes, the power is in the numbers. Quantity and volume of the large users get the attention and the price breaks at the expense of the small users and the individual. Large industrial users in California, Florida and the New England states are the main proponents for deregulation since they stand to gain from competition among power suppliers.

A booklet prepared by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers points out some of the potential pitfalls as follows:

"Advocates of rapid, radical deregulation neglect to address numerous issues, such as the risks involved, who will actually benefit and who will end up paying. Similar deregulation in other industries has resulted in a tremendous increase in customer complaints, harassing and sometimes misleading telemarketing schemes, cost shifting and cost-cutting measures that threaten safety and quality. The irony of unbridled competition has been the evolution of a few dominant, mammoth corporations through mergers and takeovers, thereby eliminating competition and the benefits it was supposed to create....

"Consumer groups, as well as energy conservation and environmental groups, fear that completely opening access to all electric power companies will simply bring about a reallocation of costs that will benefit large industrial users to the detriment of smaller commercial and residential customers....

"As electricity consumers, we need to remind ourselves of the fundamental reason for industry regulation: to ensure that a fair balance exists between customers and the companies that provide the service...."

As our area electrical providers are well aware, there are many unanswered questions about the potential effects of deregulation and a number of areas of concern. The suggestion by Dave Loer of Minnkota Power Cooperative that Minnesota and surrounding states go slow and gain the benefit of the experience of others is a prudent one, and should be seriously considered by legislative committees already at work on deregulation legislation.

Among a number of issues which must be considered, as pointed out by the IBEW, include the following:

- Reliability—To compete for market, power companies may find their systems so stretched they may not be able to operate effectively in times of peak demand or during storms.
- Cost to Consumers—Electric rates may increase due to profiteering, temporary shortages and the shifting of costs from large industrial users to small commercial and residential energy users.
- Societal Impacts—Community-based programs funded by power companies, such as lighting of playgrounds and athletic fields, holiday lighting, lifeline energy assistance and wildlife preservation may be drastically reduced or eliminated.
- Universal Access—Companies may not be obligated or motivated to serve customers in remote areas or in regions suffering economic trouble.
- Tax Revenues—Revenue sources may dry up as power companies outside the area serve local customers but pay taxes elsewhere.
- Stranded Costs—Some companies may not be able to recover the costs of investments made to meet projected electrical demand if that demand is filled by competitors.
- Mergers and Market Dominance—Electric suppliers may merge and consolidate to manipulate energy markets and maximize profits at the expense of consumers.
- Environment— Voluntary conservation and environmental programs could be dropped by power companies in cost-cutting measures.
- Safety and Employment—Cost-cutting measures and work force reductions could stress systems to a point that threatens worker and public safety.

Consumers should be involved in being sure their interests are protected in any deregulation effort. We don't need higher electric prices and we don't need more telemarketing calls. Let your elected officials know your concerns. The time to start is now.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I was saddened to hear of the death of N. Quentin Jones. I am sure many of us have a host of memories associated with this "giant" of a man. He was a mentor to so many students even before that word was part of the popular vocabulary.

I remember "Jonesy" opened the "big gym" on winter Saturday mornings in the 1940s for shooting and pick-up basketball games. Jonesy provided leadership all summer at Tindolph Park for swimmers, lifesaving and just hanging out. Jonesy worked with the Boy Scouts.

Jonesy developed a gymnastics program well before it was popular in most high schools. (I think it was called tumbling back then.) Jonesy helped out with athletic injuries, using both knowledge and his sympathetic ear.

But most of all Jonesy was northwestern Minnesota's dean of track coaches. The sport of track and field was big at Thief River Falls during his tenure. His winning record is there, but equally important is the number of participants Jonesy attracted to the sport.

What a life; what an inspiration; what a man!

Sincerely,
Bruce Williamson

Important information from U S WEST®

U S WEST Communications has petitioned the Minnesota Public Utilities Commission for approval of a new method for raising and lowering the prices of its services. Under this new method, authorized by the Minnesota Legislature, prices and rates would no longer require approval by the Minnesota Public Utilities Commission in all cases. Instead, U S WEST would have the ability to raise and lower prices with less Commission oversight.

For a period of three years, or until the year 2001, U S WEST would not be allowed to raise the price of local telephone service and other price regulated services, such as 9-1-1 emergency services. U S WEST would, however, be allowed to raise or lower the price of optional local services, such as caller identification (Caller ID), Call Waiting and Call Forwarding, consistent with the plan.

The Minnesota Public Utilities Commission would continue to have the authority to monitor service quality issues and investigate service complaints from consumers.

The Public Utilities Commission will hold a series of public hearings to provide more details of the plan and to seek your input regarding this new pricing method.

Replacing Christmas Lighting in Thief River Falls has been subject of a three-year program. Monday night, Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President Bob Bergen (center), presented the City of Thief River Falls, represented by Mayor Robert Reeve (left), and Frank Hamerlinck (right), a check for $2,000. The money was part of the chamber's commitment to the program.

NCTC Foundation works for betterment of college

Northland Community and Technical College Foundation is a non-profit organization concerned with the future growth and needs of NCTC and northwestern Minnesota, according to Gayle Gram, director of the foundation.

"The foundation strives to attract area students by providing scholarships and supporting educational and cultural programs," Gram said. "It works to maintain a positive feeling among the college, business and community."

Although the college and foundation work closely together, the foundation is fiscally and organizationally separate from the college, she emphasized.

Providing scholarships for students is a major activity for the foundation. Scholarships can't be funded with public money, so the foundation raises funds from private sources. Generating funds for scholarships is an ongoing activity that involves Thief River Falls and surrounding communities.

Most common choice for giving is cash or a check, Gram said. The contributions range from $5 to $5,000 and they are all welcome and appreciated.

"Whether you are a student, alumnus, faculty member, community individual, business or organization, once you have contributed you are a part of the Northland Community and Technical College Foundation," she said.

Contributions can be made in the form of real or personal property, securities, provision of a will, gifts of insurance policies or the establishment of memorial scholarships or endowments.

An endowment is a contribution of $10,000 or more that is invested to insure an ongoing contribution. Currently the foundation has four endowments. Lowell and Marge Swenson have contributed over a million dollars to various educational entities in Thief River Falls, including NCTC. Other endowments are from Romal Burtness and his mother, Stella; Olive Kroke; and Norman and Grace Holen.

"The foundation is grateful for and appreciative of the support indicated by these endowments," Gram said. "Endowments and memorial funds are carefully drafted to assure that the wishes of the donor are met."

The foundation also works to keep Thief River Falls and the surrounding communities aware of the impact the college has on this area. Because there is a post high school educational institution in this area, young people and others have opportunities to further their education in a setting close to home; often within daily-driving distance. They frequently find employment and make this area their home, contributing to the economic base of the area.

Northland has a major financial impact on the area, Gram said. According to the 1996-97 NCTC Fact Sheet, the college employs approximately 200 full-time and part-time faculty and other staff members with an annual payroll of $5.1 million. These dollars turn over several times in the communities where staff members reside.

In addition, $3.2 million is spent on non-personnel expenses with approximately two-thirds of that amount expended locally on utilities, supplies, maintenance and other costs.

NCTC students also impact the economy. Each of the approximately 1,070 full-time students spends an average of $4,500 on non-college expenses including housing, food, transportation, clothing, entertainment and other items. Students are also a part of the local labor force.

Another foundation activity is the establishment of an active alumni organization. The foundation recognizes that alumni have a lot to offer the college and the foundation, Gram said. Former students can be excellent role models, contacts and support representatives for students.

"Alumni can enhance NCTC by spreading positive vibrations about their educational experiences to prospective students and employers," she added. "The foundation is working other ways to utilize the resources of alumni and are interested in any ideas from alumni."

Board of directors which conducts the business of the foundation is made up of people from Thief River Falls and northwestern Minnesota who have the interest and desire to use their expertise on behalf of the college through the foundation.

Currently the board includes Gordon Peterson, president; Kurt Marben, vice president; John P. Mattson, treasurer; Romal Burtness, Ila Flesche, Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, Dick Sjoberg, Rep. Tim Finseth, Dr. Tyrone Birkeland, Delmar Nesland, Allen Bertilrud, Jean Heinrichs, Arnold Narverud, Milt Reierson, Frank Hamerlinck, Diane Freeman, Dr. Jim Langland, Regan Rohl, Dr. Orley Gunderson and Kay Wedul Steiger.

"For the foundation to continue to be successful we need the interest and support of the entire public," Gram said. "We extend an invitation to all to become part of the foundation. Contributions can be sent to Northland Community and Technical College Foundation, 1101 Highway 1 East, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

For more information call Gram at 681-0718 or stop in and visit with her in the Faculty C office suite at NCTC. Board members are also willing to answer questions regarding the foundation and its programs.

HHH Job Corps in St. Paul has some openings

Young people who qualify can take advantage of a limited number of openings in health occupations, culinary arts and business courses at the Hubert H. Humphrey Job Corps Center in St. Paul.

Each year hundreds of economically disadvantaged youth from throughout Minnesota attend the center to complete the education and training that result in employment in a number of professions. Job Corps trains students ages 16 to 24 at their own pace and provides students with room, board and allowance while they learn.

"We teach our students the skills to succeed in the real world," says Dave MacKenzie, center director. "We currently are looking for motivated young women and men from across the state to fill our few remaining openings."

Hubert H. Humphrey Job Corps Center is located on a college-like campus in a suburb of St. Paul. Its 300 students have a choice of training in vocations including accounting, building and apartment maintenance, business and computer skills, culinary arts and health occupations. Students may also enroll in programs at local community and technical colleges through the Job Corps Advance Career Training program.

For more information about attending, call the St. Paul office at 1-800-934-5627, the Duluth office at 1-800-335-3305 or the Rochester office at 1-800-895-0153.

Career program set January 9 at NW Tech—EGF

"Find a Greater You" is the title for a career open house planned from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, January 9, at Northwest Technical College in East Grand Forks.

Geared toward career changers and college-bound and undecided high school students, the event will include panel discussions that involve business and industry leaders, as well as presentations and demonstrations by faculty.

Tours before and after the open house will be conducted by East Grand Forks campus counselors.

Thief River Falls Mayor Bob Reeve (left), gets a laugh from a plaque presented to him by Bob Bergan (right), executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce in Thief River Falls. The plaque was the "we're not here to ask for money" plaque. It was presented to him when the Chamber presented the city with a check for $2,000 to help cover expenses related to Christmas lights in the community.

Artists who lost supplies in flood to get assistance

To assist artists who lost items in the spring flood of 1997, the arts council of the Northwest Regional Development Commission and North Valley Arts council in Grand Forks, ND, are forming a financial partnership.

Adult artists who had flood water in their homes or studios and lost supplies or artwork may apply for up to $3,000 for purchases to replace items that were lost.

Program application deadline is Jan. 15, 1998. To be eligible, artists must live within 30 miles of Greater Grand Forks or in the Minnesota counties of Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Roseau or Red Lake.

The program includes musicians who lost music or instruments, literary artists who lost word processors or writing supplies and others of all arts disciplines in addition to visual artists and crafters. Artists are invited to call and discuss their projects with Mara Lunde, director of the NWRDC arts council, at 218-745-6733. They may also receive eligibility information and request application materials.

MPCA urges recycling used oil and antifreeze

Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) reminds residents of the state who perform their own vehicle maintenance to properly dispose of automotive wastes.

Since 1988 it has been illegal to dispose of used oil in a landfill or to dump it on the ground or down a sewer. Used oil should be poured into a leakproof container (a plastic milk jug with cap works well) and dropped off at the nearest used motor oil collection center.

Power steering, brake and transmission fluids can be recycled along with used motor oil, but gasoline, antifreeze or solvents should never be mixed with oil since they make the oil impossible to recycle.

Used oil filters should be drained and placed in leakproof containers such as coffee cans with lids or resealable plastic bags. Many businesses that recycle used oil also accept used oil filters.

All businesses that sell motor oil in Minnesota must either collect used oil or post a sign indicating the nearest place that does. Some communities and counties also provide collection tanks for used oil and oil filters. Many full-service stations also accept used motor oil, sometimes for a nominal fee.

Drop off used oil and filters during normal business hours and check with an attendant for assistance. Some household hazardous waste collection facilities also accept used oil and filters.

Used antifreeze can also be recycled. Some service stations and auto maintenance shops operate recycling systems and may be willing to accept waste antifreeze from the public. Do not mix antifreeze with motor oil or other chemicals. Some household hazardous waste collection facilities also accept used antifreeze.

And if your vehicle's lead-acid battery is scheduled for replacement this winter, be sure to recycle the old one. Take used batteries to any retailer that sells them. Under state law, all locations that sell lead-acid batteries are required to accept up to five used batteries per customer free of charge, whether a purchase is made or not.

Persons who have questions about disposing of other household wastes, or need a listing of businesses that accept used oil and filters for recycling, call the MPCA's Northwest Regional Office in Detroit Lakes at 218-847-1519.

Prowlers looking for times to drop on regular basis

Directing a young, inexperience team, Thief River Falls boys high school swim coach Brian Olson figures to be up-dating the Prowlers' season-best times throughout the 1997-98 season as the newcomers gain strength, confidence and varsity meet experience.

"Things are going extremely well," said Olson. "The nice thing about working with kids who don't have a lot of experience is that you get to see results of practice right away. You will see significant time drops for first-year kids. But it doesn't happy automatically. You have to work at it. And these kids are all working extremely hard. They're gaining more confidence all the time."

The Prowlers' small core of proven performers, although they're experimenting with different events, are also swimming well in early-season meets, noted Olson. "Zach Olson, Colin Browning, Sam Kezar and Rory Hoven are the leaders," he said. "They're working well together."

Latest Thief River Falls outing was the Prowler Relays Saturday (Dec. 20). Bemidji edged Fergus Falls 136-134 for team honors, followed by Park Rapids Area with 90 points, Detroit Lakes 82, Thief River Falls 52, Crookston 44, and Perham 28.

In the junior varsity portion of the meet, Crookston collected 68 points, Fergus Falls 60, Bemidji 50 and Park Rapids Area 28.

Physical edge lifts Ponies by Nordics

Marshall County Central shot just 27 percent from the field and got out-rebounded 33-19 Tuesday, and as a result, lost a 52-41 boys high school basketball game against Warren-Alvarado-Oslo. The contest, moved up from an original Jan. 2 date, was played at Newfolden.

"They (Ponies) are a good, solid, physical team," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "They're so much more physical and bigger than we are. It was hard for us to generate any offense. We couldn't get open for any shots."

The Nordics were just 11-for-41 from the field. A lot of their offense came at the free throw line, where they were 17-for-24.

Warren-Alvarado-Oslo, meanwhile, turned in a 46 percent 21-for-46 shooting performance and made 6 of 10 free throws. The Ponies' advantage on the boards included 18 offensive rebounds. Turnovers were even at 15-apiece.

Tyler Solberg scored 16 points and Evan Williams had 10 for the Ponies, who led at the quarter stops 14-8, 32-22 and 42-30. Matt Nelson turned in a 17-point performance and David Wilcox had 11 for the Nordics, who fell to 4-2 with the loss.

MR Women of Today start new year with Game Day

They are required to clean regularly, look for work and prepare for independant living. Volunteers assist with child care and activities.

Mary's Place has been full since it opened, housing 200 children and their parents. When families arrive, it is often at the bleakest time in their lives. Staff members bring smiles to the faces of the children when they take them to the toy room and have them select one new toy—something of their very own. While toys are needed for all ages, they are especially needed for children ages four to ten. Dolls, games and action figures are very popular.

When a family is ready to leave Mary's Place to set up housekeeping on their own, they are given a set of towels for each member of the family.

This is the second time the Minnesota Women of Today have sponsored a state-wide program to benefit Mary's Place. In 1994 the group sponsored "Tucked In With Care," supplying the center with sheets and blankets. The Middle River Women of Today participated in that project also.

The state-wide goal of "Towels and Toys—Warmth and Joy" is 800 sets of towels and 500 new toys to be donated to Mary's Place at the winter state convention.

The volunteers of Sharing and Caring Hands generously provide daily meals, clothing, showers, hope and human compassion to those living on the streets. Because the paperwork would require too many valuable volunteer resources, Sharing and Caring Hands receives no government or United Way assistance. Its services are funded solely by donations from businesses, churches, individuals and organizations.

Undoubtedly, Middle River's spirited group will do its part to help the Minnesota Women of Today reach their goal. Receiving state and national recognition for its past successes, the group has WOT members from other areas scratching their heads and asking "Where's Middle River?"

For the second quarter of 1997, four Middle River Women of Today members were named outstanding program managers in Minnesota. Included were Joanne Anderson, public relations; Jovenia "Jo" Walton, civic awareness; Brianna Geer, March of Dimes and people with developmental challenges; and Wendy Walton, kidney disease. The group also received recognition from state WOT president Deb Johnson for membership retention and chapter growth. Wendy Walton placed first in the impromptu speaking competition. Tunna Engen received a charm for helping with the new Fertile Women of Today extension, and finally, Jo Walton was awarded the presidential pin for her dedication and commitment to the Women of Today. The state president awards only 150 pins per year. There are approximately 2,500 Women of Today members in Minnesota.

Middle River's Women of Today group now includes 22 members—women dedicated to their community and the organization. Much of their success is their ability to have fun while raising funds.

"Game Day" on January 1 is the brain child of Jo Walton and is sure to be a hit—starting the new year out with a day of fun for folks in the Middle River area while bringing "Towels and Toys—Warmth and Joy" to those in need.

New public art program has funds available

Applications are now being accepted by the Arts Council of the Northwest Regional Development Commission for a new public art program.

This program is available for a city, school or non-profit organization to hire a artist to create a piece of permanent public art for the community. Grants of up to $7,000 will be awarded each year to two communities.

Deadline for applications is February 13 and only cities that are located in Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau counties are eligible.

Entities interested in the program may call Mara Lunde, arts council director, at 218-745-6733 for application materials and eligibility information.

Tax credit for parents of college students

Quick action by parents of many college students can bring a federal income tax savings of up to $1,500 when 1998 returns are filed. The new HOPE tax credit can provide this savings for those who qualify, says Claire Althoff, extension educator in Wilkin County with the University of Minnesota Extension Service. But parents with dependents who are college freshmen or sophomores may need to act soon to take advantage of the credit.

Althoff says the HOPE tax credit eligibility starts on January 1, 1998, and will impact 1998 federal tax returns. The non-refundable credit will reduce the taxes paid by parents of certain post-high school students. The credit is 100 percent of the first $1,000 of qualified tuition and fees and 50 percent of the next $1,000 of qualified tuition and fees. Thus, the maximum credit is $1,500 in 1998, but will be indexed for inflation in the following years.

The credit can be claimed by a taxpayer for expenses incurred on behalf of the taxpayer, the taxpayer's spouse, or a dependent claimed on the tax return.

To be eligible for a HOPE credit, the students must be enrolled in a degree, certificate, or other program leading to a recognized educational credential. The student must be at least half-time or more and never have been convicted of a felony. The student must be in the first two years of study to be eligible; third and fourth year college students do not qualify.

The HOPE credit is available in the taxable year expenses are paid. Tuition and expenses paid before January 1, 1998, are not eligible. The credit is phased out for taxpayers with modified adjusted gross incomes between $40,000 and $50,000 ($80,000 and $100,000 for joint tax returns).

"For parents who have a dependent child who is currently a sophomore in college, 1998 will be the only time the HOPE tax credit is available for that child,: says Althoff. "In order to take advantage of this opportunity, parents need to pay the tuition that comes due after the first of the year."

She says many parents who have dependent children who are college freshmen and sophomores need to tune into the tax credit right away. If these children have tuition due shortly after the first of the year, the name of apparent needs to be on the check paying that bill.

"Parents who have been providing their dependent child with a monthly allowance may want to pay the tuition and fees instead," notes Althoff. "This way the parent will be able to recover up to $1,500 back through the credit."

GF Weather Service wins award for river forecasting

U S Department of Commerce has awarded its Silver Medal to the Grand Forks, ND, National Weather Service forecast office and the North Central River Forecast Center in Chanhassen for outstanding work in river forecasting during last spring's Red River of the North flood.

Meteorologist in Charge Lee Anderson of Grand Forks and Hydrologist in Charge Dean Braatz of the River Forecast Center were presented with the awards by Commerce Secretary William Daley at a ceremony in Washington, DC.

The two offices were commended for "showing competence and courage and exceeding NWS expectations in the mission of protecting life and property during the Red River flood of 1997."

The Secretary grants the Silver Medal—the department's second highest honorary award—to employees and offices that have made contributions of exceptional value in support of overall department goals that serve the nation.

"That scientific abilities were overcome by the forces of nature in Grand Forks during last spring's historic flood doesn't lessen the effort and sacrifice put forth by Weather Service employees at both offices," Weather Service Central Region Director Richard P. Augulis said of the awards. "Our forecasters worked incredible hours under constant stress to provide information on numerous locations in the Red River Valley."

"Lee Anderson and a skeleton crew kept the Grand Forks office functioning under emergency power when there was no running water or working sewer and their own homes were being threatened by flood waters. Other employees put aside concerns about their own homes to assist the forecasting effort at surrounding offices out of the flood zone. The fact that there were no lives lost in this flood of historic proportions speaks to the effectiveness of everyone involved. I cannot compliment our people enough for their dedication," Augulis said.

The National Weather Service is part of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) which operates under the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Dairy herd demise extends to research herds

Within the past couple of decades, dairymen have been able to stay viable by concentrated efforts to increase average production in their herds. They have maintained individual records, culled low producers immediately and improved genetics through use of proven sires in artificial insemination programs. Management know-how and intensity has increased several-fold.

While much of this knowledge is gained from experience, much is also provided as a result of research conducted by public entities. One of these research herds is at the University of Minnesota experiment station at Crookston where Dr. George Marx is the dairy scientist in charge. But all is not well in this area of the dairy industry.

"Along with dairy farmer herds, state institutional herds are fast disappearing," Dr. Marx said. "In the time of my approximately 30-year tenure at Crookston, I have watched these herds—some quite famous and historically important to the industry—fall by the wayside one by one.

"Many of these state-run herds have contributed important genetics to the dairy breeds and research findings over the years. Many have provided jobs for different types of people including such diverse groups as prison inmates, special state hospital patients and experiment station workers."

The state's two prison herds at Stillwater State Prison and St. Cloud State Reformatory are gone. So are all seven of the state hospital herds which had been located at Moose Lake, Red Wing, Rochester, Fergus Falls, St. Peter, Willmar and Faribault.

"These all provided work to primarily repatriate persons and get them back into the working society," Dr. Marx said. "This type of work ethic philosophy has also fallen by the wayside and been replaced by modern social training sessions with none of the physical work principles. It is strongly debated by our society as to which is the best way to handle prisoners and people with mental handicaps."

Dr. Marx said he has conducted several cooperative dairy research projects utilizing state hospital and prison herds and, under proper supervision, they have contributed much to our society in general as well as providing productive work for the patients, now called residents. "I hated to see these herd operations close and the herds go out of existence," he said.

In addition, the University of Minnesota experiment station herds at Duluth, Grand Rapids and Rosemount have been discontinued, with the Grand Rapids and Rosemount herds being dispersed quite recently. There is discussion of terminating the herd at the Southern Experiment Station at Waseca, and Dr. Marx can't help but wonder in his own mind if the long-standing herd at the Northwest Experiment Station in Crookston might be next.

This idea has been supported by some of the university's senior administrators, Dr. Marx said. The experiment station at Crookston has already lost its sheep flock—which was phased out over a three-year period from 1994 to 1996—and over the years has also lost its swine herd, beef cow/calf herd, poultry flock and turkey flock.

"One of the innovative moves we have made at the Northwest Experiment Station in an effort to preserve our dairy herd is to link with North Dakota State University in Fargo and the University of Manitoba's Glen Lea Station to create a regional force," Dr. Marx said.

"We are beginning the initial planning now to collaborate with joint efforts in dairy research, teaching and outreach/extension. This partnering relationship will give us more 'bang for the buck' with all units bringing their strengths to the table, thereby increasing the efficiency of our efforts and increasing our potential for survival.

"Some folks think we no longer need production research. They say we have an abundance of food, too much milk on the market and a surplus of dairy products already. But the day will come when we will be glad to have research findings to continue our supply of sufficient low-cost food to the consumer.

"So far, we don't have to stand in long lines to buy what little food is available as people in third world nations are now doing. They live in countries that have little or no research structure in place for improving their food supply, especially dairy production."

Dr. Marx points out that 20 percent of everything we eat in the United States comes from the dairy cow, and that milk and milk products provide important nutritional needs. "It makes good health and economic sense," he says, "to keep our dairy herds and dairy industry strong for the future."

'98 legislature to revamp MN criminal code

by Sen. LeRoy Stumpf

The Legislature is scheduled to begin its "short session" next year on January 20, and as expected, the consideration of state building projects and the projected $1.3 billion state surplus will get the greatest attention by lawmakers and the press. But there is another issue that I believe is very important since it will impact the administration of justice throughout our state: The reorganization of our state's criminal statutes.

There are several good reasons that these statutes should be restructured. Our current criminal statutes were last reorganized in 1963, and covered 32 pages. Since that time, the Legislature has added many new crimes and increased penalties on existing crimes, resulting in criminal statutes that are now 160 pages long.

Similar offenses are scattered throughout several chapters, making it difficult for attorneys and judges — not to mention average people — to find information about violations of the law and the required penalty. Policymakers have a difficult time collecting and evaluating data about which crimes are committed, as the same crime might be charged in different ways.

The 1995 Legislature recognized these problems and asked the Non-felony Enforcement Advisory Council (NEAC) to examine the criminal code and report to the Legislature on how we might improve criminal statutes. The committee is comprised of judges, prosecuting and defending attorneys, cops and sheriffs, corrections officials, Legislators and members of the public. They completed their report and made their recommendations to the 1997 Legislature. The changes were introduced as Senate File 409, a bill that is over 600 pages long and about three inches thick. Because of its length, it was decided that the bill would be heard by a Legislative subcommittee during the 1997 interim, and then be considered in the 1998 session.

The NEAC committee recommended that the existing criminal code and several other provisions relating to victim's rights, drug crimes, weapons crimes and others be consolidated into a single chapter, MN Statutes Chapter 609. Chapter 609 is further broken down into nine areas, in order of seriousness of the crime committed.

An interesting feature of the recommendations is that all traffic-related violations are broken out into their own chapter, MN Statutes Chapter 169. The creation of a specific "vehicle code" in Chapter 169 recognizes just how serious the public and Legislature views Driving Under the Influence (DUI) and other criminal acts committed in or with a motor vehicle.

Another feature of the NEAC report and SF 409 is that they move our non-felony penalty levels from a three-tier system — Petty Misdemeanor, Misdemeanor and Gross Misdemeanor — to a five-tier system, with three separate degrees under the heading "misdemeanor." According to the NEAC report, DUI, domestic assault, driving without a license, and entering the State Fairgrounds without paying admission are all classified as misdemeanors under current statute. If SF 409 passes, these crimes would be charged more appropriately according to the seriousness of the offense.

Overall, I agree with the direction of the NEAC report and the bill. Certainly 34 years is too long to wait to clean up such important statutes. I hope that the Legislature will also look to increase penalties for some of the more serious crimes and reduce penalties on less serious crimes to make room in our jails for the more serious offenders. As long as we are updating the organization of criminal statutes, we should take the opportunity to update penalty levels, too.

As always, I appreciate any input or insight on this topic that the people who live in our district might have for me. Please don't hesitate to contact me if you have any opinions on these issues. It's an honor to represent you in the Minnesota Senate.

Maintain quality of stored wheat and barley

If you have wheat or barley in storage this winter, make sure the grain is dry and cool enough to maintain quality. It's also important to check the grain on a regular basis, says Curtis Nyegaard, extension educator in Kittson County with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

"Limiting fines during harvest and while filling the bin is a key factor in stored grain quality," Nyegaard points out. "During harvest the combine should be set for minimum grain damage and maximum cleaning. Grain augers should run slowly and full of grain to reduce kernel breakage. The grain can also be cleaned before storage to remove fines."

Nyegaard says fines usually congregate in pockets and restrict airflow, making them more susceptible to attacks by molds and insects. He suggests using a grain spreader while filling the bin to uniformly distribute fines throughout the binds, or else periodically removing fines during filling.

Storing grain at the proper moisture is a key quality factor. "To store wheat for nine months, it should be at 14 percent moisture or less," says Nyegaard. "For longer storage, it should be 13 percent or less. Barley should be about half a percent drier than wheat."

Keeping grain cool reduces mold and insect activity. "A 60 degrees Fahrenheit grain temperature significantly slows mold and insects," says Nygaard. "The recommended winter grain storage temperature is 25 degrees Fahrenheit in northern Minnesota. The amount of time required to cool a bin of grain depends on the airflow per bushel provided by aeration fans. The minimum rate is 0.1 cubic feet of air per minute per bushel of grain in the bin. Check the temperature of the air exhausting from the grain, or the grain itself, to determine whether cooling is complete."

Nyegaard recommends checking grain in bins once a month during cold weather. If the temperature warms up, check every two weeks. Probe the grain to check for mold and insects and record the temperature at several locations. The fans should also be started briefly on cool, dry days so you can check the smell of the exhaust air for musty or sour odors.

For more information on good grain storage, contact your county office of the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

NW Minnesota Dairy Days set for Jan. 13-14

The first of two Dairy Days will be held in Roseau on Tuesday, January 13, at the Roseau courthouse meeting room. The second Dairy Day will be held at Crookston, Wednesday, January 14 at the Northwest Experiment Station in the Youngquist Auditorium (formerly Ag Research Center auditorium).

Registration and refreshments will begin at 10 a.m. and the educational program will follow at 10:15 a.m. The program will be completed by 12:15 p.m. The Crookston location will have a tour of the dairy facilities after lunch at 1 p.m. for those wishing to see the research and teaching herd.

Programs at each location will feature new dairy calf research, new feeds for dairy rations, work with dairy diagnostics (recent grant from Minnesota Department of Agriculture) organized dairy discussions, groups and other new research with practical ideas for dairy producers.

Featured speakers will be Dr. George Marx, dairy scientist; Joel Erickson, dairyman from Badger; Troy Salzes, extension educator; and Vince Crary, extension livestock specialist, who will also serve as emcee.

All producers and everyone associated with the dairy industry are welcome to attend this special annual Dairy Day.

GF Weather Service wins award for river forecasting

U.S. Department of Commerce has awarded its Silver Medal to the Grand Forks, ND, National Weather Service forecast office and the North Central River Forecast Center in Chanhassen for outstanding work in river forecasting during last spring's Red River of the North flood.

Meteorologist in Charge Lee Anderson of Grand Forks and Hydrologist in Charge Dean Braatz of the River Forecast Center were presented with the awards by Commerce Secretary William Daley at a ceremony in Washington, DC.

The two offices were commended for "showing competence and courage and exceeding NWS expectations in the mission of protecting life and property during the Red River flood of 1997."

The Secretary grants the Silver Medal—the department's second highest honorary award—to employees and offices that have made contributions of exceptional value in support of overall department goals that serve the nation.

"That scientific abilities were overcome by the forces of nature in Grand Forks during last spring's historic flood doesn't lessen the effort and sacrifice put forth by Weather Service employees at both offices," Weather Service Central Region Director Richard P. Augulis said of the awards. "Our forecasters worked incredible hours under constant stress to provide information on numerous locations in the Red River Valley."

"Lee Anderson and a skeleton crew kept the Grand Forks office functioning under emergency power when there was no running water or working sewer and their own homes were being threatened by flood waters. Other employees put aside concerns about their own homes to assist the forecasting effort at surrounding offices out of the flood zone. The fact that there were no lives lost in this flood of historic proportions speaks to the effectiveness of everyone involved. I cannot compliment our people enough for their dedication," Augulis said.

The National Weather Service is part of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) which operates under the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Dairy herd demise extends to research herds

Within the past couple of decades, dairymen have been able to stay viable by concentrated efforts to increase average production in their herds. They have maintained individual records, culled low producers immediately and improved genetics through use of proven sires in artificial insemination programs. Management know-how and intensity has increased several-fold.

While much of this knowledge is gained from experience, much is also provided as a result of research conducted by public entities. One of these research herds is at the University of Minnesota experiment station at Crookston where Dr George Marx is the dairy scientist in charge. But all is not well in this area of the dairy industry.

"Along with dairy farmer herds, state institutional herds are fast disappearing," Dr Marx said. "In the time of my approximately 30-year tenure at Crookston, I have watched these herds—some quite famous and historically important to the industry—fall by the wayside one by one.

"Many of these state-run herds have contributed important genetics to the dairy breeds and research findings over the years. Many have provided jobs for different types of people including such diverse groups as prison inmates, special state hospital patients and experiment station workers."

The state's two prison herds at Stillwater State Prison and St. Cloud State Reformatory are gone. So are all seven of the state hospital herds which had been located at Moose Lake, Red Wing, Rochester, Fergus Falls, St Peter, Willmar and Faribault.

"These all provided work to primarily repatriate persons and get them back into the working society," Dr Marx said. "This type of work ethic philosophy has also fallen by the wayside and been replaced by modern social training sessions with none of the physical work principles. It is strongly debated by our society as to which is the best way to handle prisoners and people with mental handicaps."

Dr. Marx said he has conducted several cooperative dairy research projects utilizing state hospital and prison herds and, under proper supervision, they have contributed much to our society in general as well as providing productive work for the patients, now called residents. "I hated to see these herd operations close and the herds go out of existence," he said.

In addition, the University of Minnesota experiment station herds at Duluth, Grand Rapids and Rosemount have been discontinued, with the Grand Rapids and Rosemount herds being dispersed quite recently. There is discussion of terminating the herd at the Southern Experiment Station at Waseca, and Dr Marx can't help but wonder in his own mind if the long-standing herd at the Northwest Experiment Station in Crookston might be next.

This idea has been supported by some of the university's senior administrators, Dr Marx said. The experiment station at Crookston has already lost its sheep flock—which was phased out over a three-year period from 1994 to 1996—and over the years has also lost its swine herd, beef cow/calf herd, poultry flock and turkey flock.

"One of the innovative moves we have made at the Northwest Experiment Station in an effort to preserve our dairy herd is to link with North Dakota State University in Fargo and the University of Manitoba's Glen Lea Station to create a regional force," Dr. Marx said.

"We are beginning the initial planning now to collaborate with joint efforts in dairy research, teaching and outreach/extension. This partnering relationship will give us more 'hang for the buck' with all units bringing their strengths to the table, thereby increasing the efficiency of our efforts and increasing our potential for survival.

"Some folks think we no longer need production research. They say we have an abundance of food, too much milk on the market and a surplus of dairy products already. But the day will come when we will be glad to have research findings to continue our supply of sufficient low-cost food to the consumer.

"So far, we don't have to stand in long lines to buy what little food is available as people in third world nations are now doing. They live in countries that have little or no research structure in place for improving their food supply, especially dairy production."

Dr. Marx points out that 20 percent of everything we eat in the United States comes from the dairy cow, and that milk and milk products provide important nutritional needs. "It makes good health and economic sense," he says, "to keep our dairy herds and dairy industry strong for the future."

'98 legislature to revamp MN criminal code

by Sen. LeRoy Stumpf

The Legislature is scheduled to begin its "short session" next year on January 20, and as expected, the consideration of state building projects and the projected $1.3 billion state surplus will get the greatest attention by lawmakers and the press. But there is another issue that I believe is very important since it will impact the administration of justice throughout our state: The reorganization of our state's criminal statutes.

There are several good reasons that these statutes should be restructured. Our current criminal statutes were last reorganized in 1963, and covered 32 pages. Since that time, the Legislature has added many new crimes and increased penalties on existing crimes, resulting in criminal statutes that are now 160 pages long.

Similar offenses are scattered throughout several chapters, making it difficult for attorneys and judges — not to mention average people — to find information about violations of the law and the required penalty. Policymakers have a difficult time collecting and evaluating data about which crimes are committed, as the same crime might be charged in different ways.

The 1995 Legislature recognized these problems and asked the Non-felony Enforcement Advisory Council (NEAC) to examine the criminal code and report to the Legislature on how we might improve criminal statutes. The committee is comprised of judges, prosecuting and defending attorneys, cops and sheriffs, corrections officials, Legislators and members of the public. They completed their report and made their recommendations to the 1997 Legislature. The changes were introduced as Senate File 409, a bill that is over 600 pages long and about three inches thick. Because of its length, it was decided that the bill would be heard by a Legislative subcommittee during the 1997 interim, and then be considered in the 1998 session.

The NEAC committee recommended that the existing criminal code and several other provisions relating to victim's rights, drug crimes, weapons crimes and others be consolidated into a single chapter, MN Statutes Chapter 609. Chapter 609 is further broken down into nine areas, in order of seriousness of the crime committed.

An interesting feature of the recommendations is that all traffic-related violations are broken out into their own chapter, MN Statutes Chapter 169. The creation of a specific "vehicle code" in Chapter 169 recognizes just how serious the public and Legislature views Driving Under the Influence (DUI) and other criminal acts committed in or with a motor vehicle.

Another feature of the NEAC report and SF 409 is that they move our non-felony penalty levels from a three-tier system — Petty Misdemeanor, Misdemeanor and Gross Misdemeanor — to a five-tier system, with three separate degrees under the heading "misdemeanor." According to the NEAC report, DUI, domestic assault, driving without a license, and entering the State Fairgrounds without paying admission are all classified as misdemeanors under current statute. If SF 409 passes, these crimes would be charged more appropriately according to the seriousness of the offense.

Overall, I agree with the direction of the NEAC report and the bill. Certainly 34 years is too long to wait to clean up such important statutes. I hope that the Legislature will also look to increase penalties for some of the more serious crimes and reduce penalties on less serious crimes to make room in our jails for the more serious offenders. As long as we are updating the organization of criminal statutes, we should take the opportunity to update penalty levels, too.

As always, I appreciate any input or insight on this topic that the people who live in our district might have for me. Please don't hesitate to contact me if you have any opinions on these issues. It's an honor to represent you in the Minnesota Senate.

Maintain quality of stored wheat and barley

If you have whest or barley in storage this winter, make sure the grain is dry and cool enough to maintain quality. It's also important to check the grain on a regular basis, says Curtis Nyegaard, extension educator in Kittson County with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

"Limiting fines during harvest and while filling the bin is a key factor in stored grain quality," Nyegaard points out. "During harvest the combine should be set for minimum grain damage and maximum cleaning. Grain augers should run slowly and full of grain to reduce kernel breakage. The grain esn also be cleaned before storage to remove fines."

Nyegaard says fines usually congregate in pockets and restrict airflow, making them more susceptible to attacks by molds and insects. He suggests using a grain spreader while filling the bin to uniformly distribute fines throughout the binds, or else periodically removing fines during filling.

Storing grain at the proper moisture is a key quality factor. "To store wheat for nine months, it should be at 14 percent moisture or less," says Nyegaard. "For longer storage, it should be 13 percent or less. Barley should be about half a percent drier than wheat."

Keeping grain cool reduces mold and insect activity. "A 60 degrees Fahrenheit grain temperature significantly slows mold and insects," says Nygaard. "The recommended winter grain storage temperature is 25 degrees Fahrenheit in northern Minnesota. The amount of time required to cool a bin of grain depends on the airflow per bushel provided by aeration fans. The minimum rate is 0.1 cubic feet of air per minute per bushel of grain in the bin. Check the temperature of the air exhausting from the grain, or the grain itself, to determine whether cooling is complete."

Nyegaard recommends checking grain in bins once a month during cold weather. If the temperature warms up, check every two weeks. Probe the grain to check for mold and insects and record the temperature at several locations. The fans should also be started briefly on cool, dry days so you can check the smell of the exhaust air for musty or sour odors.

For more information on good grain storage, contact your county office of the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

NW Minnesota Dairy Days set for Jan. 13-14

The first of two Dairy Days will be held in Roseau on Tuesday, January 13, at the Roseau courthouse meeting room. The second Dairy Day will be held at Crookston, Wednesday, January 14 at the Northwest Experiment Station in the Youngquist Auditorium (formerly Ag Research Center auditorium).

Registration and refreshments will begin at 10 a.m. and the educational program will follow at 10:15 a.m. The program will be completed by 12:15 p.m. The Crookston location will have a tour of the dairy facilities after lunch at 1 p.m. for those wishing to see the research and teaching herd.

Programs at each location will feature new dairy calf research, new feeds for dairy rations, work with dairy diagnostics (recent grant from Minnesota Department of Agriculture) organized dairy discussions, groups and other new research with practical ideas for dairy producers.

Featured speakers will be Dr. George Marx, dairy scientist; Joel Erickson, dairyman from Badger; Troy Salzer, extension educator; and Vince Crary, extension livestock specialist, who will also serve as emcee.

All producers and everyone associated with the dairy industry are welcome to attend this special annual Dairy Day.
